

Saturday Evening

I was very sorry my dear Emma that I could not accept your welcome, very welcome, invitation for to day: but as I only received the note in the afternoon it was impossible for me to prepare & as it went sadly against my conscience to come in town on Sunday laden with all my baggage, I resolved to put it off until Tuesday, when I shall be with you bright & early in the morning with all my goods & chattels, to stay with you until you are tired of me.

My best love to grandpa & my best best to your Mother, take a large share of it yourself & believe me your aff. C.
