

Thursday Morning

I am at home again, say dearest Emma, and only wish to see you once more to be perfectly contented.
Can you not come down and stay all night with me, for I have a thousand things to tell you. I have had a most delightful journey, and I would have gone up to see you yesterday but was too much fatigued to go out.
Mary Rhinelanders we left in New Haven she sent her best love to you & your mother and all, and so her love I add mine. I will not write for I cannot say all I wish to; you do not hesitate about coming down, but put your tooth brush in your bag and come as soon as possible expecting to stay. Your affectionate friend Eliza Howell
