Dear Mr Irving

I send you herewith a very shabby volume that you will probably value because it has Goldys play under its first title of "Mistaken of a Night".

You may like perhaps to compare it with the later copies, although I doubt if Goldsmith had any time for revision at the period of life when he wrote this play.

The other volume contains the letter to the "Pecuniary Poet" and is I imagine the first appearance of it in any volume - The letter 1853

Wm. M. Spring

of Crabbe to Burke is not printed in the edition of his works edited by his son - It appears to be a sequel to the first letter to Burke a letter which I think the most touching of any in the English language - It almost chose me to read even now that the memory of Charles Lee is interesting - - I am dear Mr Spring
very faithfully yours
Wm. M. Spring
