

Ms Page called here this Morning,
My dear Lady, & asked me to go up & take tea this Evening. she said she called on you, & if she had seen you she should have asked you to go there, but as she did not she did not like to leave an invitation as it was merely to take a cup of tea with her & My Lady's ship. she requested me if I should see you to ask you to go up with me just so. what say you? If you are disposed to take a walk this fine afternoon & to stop here, I am at your service. I intended to write when Fanny went for Emma, & propose to you to walk & stay the way with me. but Mr Robinson came in & prevented me, & she forgot the message I gave her - Yours Sincerely

Anne W.
