My Dear and affectionate Child

The state of your health continues to alarm me, I dare not that expectation which indicates that all is not well about the region of the breast, may my apprehensions be Groundless—

Sally's misfortune I impute to her present condition, It threatens me no more pain than that which I suffer when a Child of mine is indisposed—

Your Sister Catherine is indisposed with a remittent fever such as the afternoon last summer but left evidently and with symptoms that do not give us much alarm as then—

Should any incident change my mind of health, or otherwise dispose me of the happiness of seeing you speedily—send my Shelah up with it send when he comes to attend the Legislature I am anxious that he child should profit from the present instructions which we have here

My disorder is apparently stationary, but generally with less pain—

Your Brother Sister Charles

and your sweet Eliza, are in perfect health, it is all the family at present need, and all join me in love to You Sally and the Children, God bless you all

I am my Dear Child ever affectionately Yours
