William Miller

I have been coming home every day since New Year, which is the reason I have not written. One day we had every thing packed up and the horses harnessed to get off when it began to snow. The next day it rained & after that the loads were up. We then expected snow every day and now ^{as soon} as there is flying we shall embrace it & take a ride home. Master Courtlandt continues to be very low spirited although I think her better than when I arrived here and a long ride might of service to her to divert her mind — Gurre is very well —

I believe I forgot to mention to you about the Tax to Mr Sands it is about $104 — I wish you to speak to your uncle John McCoy whether he cannot advance it — Ward B. Howard owes me $50 — for rent of the Saw mill place, if I do not come down soon I will send you an Order upon him. I suppose it is now as good a time as will be to sell the stone. I therefore should advise to grind one hundred bushels or Ward Hunter at the Landing would purchase it, he told me he would give the highest price going — I wrote on the memorandum I left for you to get some flax for the Gun to spin, I suppose you have done it, there was an the Garret also to spin — I wish you to speak to

Other about Gekskill before you order the flour grown - so that you may know where to get a market - There has not been the least flaying whatsoever here -
