

My dear Sarah

I reached home safely with my case, honey; it opens beautifully and ~~and~~ Made Wash. and all are greatly pleased with it. I presume the cars made a favorable impression upon you though you saw but little more than a hasty look through them - They are certainly very comfortable, and get up in handsome style.

I was truly gratified by your infor-mation that you had ~~not~~ only invited Harline to take up his quarters in Chelsea cottage while sojourn^{ing} on shore, but ~~had~~ had passed the invitation - had I been aware of it I should have joined in urging him to avail himself of it.

Upon noticing the first report in the papers of the purchase of the Tennessee by Messrs Howland & Aspinwall, I suggested to Willie that if the Steam ships and the Lithuanians mail road were not one, but two concerns, it would be well for him to ascertain who is the active principal, a manager of the ship company and urge his application in person; I believe both Pierre and Edgar know Mr. Edgar Howland and an introduction can thus be had - or one might be obtained through Mr. H. Ginnell. I have some acquaintance with the brothers G. & S. S. Howland and that may be used if a better or more convenient mode do not offer - Mr. Gendine G. S. however Might not have anything to do a say in the matter being a special partner. I believe, and indeed but sure that with a good introduction, a direct application, would have more promise of success than an indirect mode. Should Willie and Harriet succeed in getting into the employ of that house I think that prospects would be really flattering.

David M.I. came up this morning, and returns tomorrow morning by the cars. taking his Helen with him - she has quite recovered her appearance and her face no longer shows the effects of the severe bruise it received when she was thrown from the wagon.

I enclose the money for the honey and with love to Willie and the little ones ever may dear David thine affectionately
