Chateau Mont Ena
Tresserve
Aix-les-Bains

as valiant as ever.

(May 15th.)

The 14,th May 1923

A splendid day and the place looks charmingly.

My dear Duer

I suppose you got the note I sent about your friends call

We are leaving the hotel de l'Europe for at our Cannes villa ? And my reply that never found him !

Mont Ena in a few minutes, after ten days here.

I have regretted it much.

We have been up daily, but we are delighted to get in.
We hope soon to hear that you are coming over.

We have rough weather of late, and today the storm comes

We both send our love

in severe gusts ; nevertheless your cousin Ena is busy and I am ever your affectionate with her aids planting roses against the columns of the cousin

veranda. But my letter is intended to ask news of you and Catherine, as it is time we were assured of your coming ! Aix is unusually full for this time of the year, and everyone says this is to be a very gay season.

I am glad to say that I have wonderfully improved, and can walk pretty well, and feel very well otherwise.

Already friends are showing up at the big hotels, and your cousin Ena has had to give up her retired life and begin being sociable again : thus today she accepted a déjeuner at the Splendid which I hope may be followed by more, for her health's sake, after the cares she has had.
We are anxious to hear about Catherine's health ?

Our place never looked so well : you will, I feel sure, admire the new roof and the new pergola !

But I must close this before I weary you.

Lady Anglesey is at her place, Le Moulin, near Paris, and is as valliant as ever.

I am glad to say that I have wonderfully improved, and can walk pretty well, and feel very well otherwise. Already friends are showing up at the big hotels, and your cousin Emma has had to give up her retired life and begin being sociable again : thus today she accepted a déjeuner at the Splendid which I hope may be followed by more, for her health is safe, after the care she has had. We are anxious to hear about Catherine's health ? Our place never looked so well : you will feel sure, admire the new roof and the new pergola !
