

Hyde Park, February 13th 1825.

Dear Uncle,

As this is the first time that I have written to you, however I hope you will not be displeased to receive a few lines from me; The weather is very pleasant here now, it is almost like Spring - the steam boats go to Albany daily - they pass here every day. My Father is very well - I had a letter from him last Thursday - Give my love to Aunt Van Wyck, and all the family. Dr and Mrs Allen send their respects to you. I have no more to write at present.

I remain your affectionate Nephew

Pierre Van Cortlandt.
