Genealogy of the House of Irvine

The Original of the Family of Irvines or Erivines Written by Christopher Irvine M. D. State Physician and Historygrapher to His Majesty King Charles the Second in Scotland and sent to his Brother Sir Gerard Irvine Bart of Castle Irvine in the Kingdom of Ireland in the year 1660–

Doctor Christopher Irvine of Edinburgh Letter to his Brother Sir Gerard Irvine with the following Original

" The following Short Account of the Family of the Irvines I have extracted from ancient Histories and publick Records which I, as Historygrapher to His Majesty King Charles the Second and now engaged in writing a History of Scotland from the earliest to the present times had the full Perusal of, and from divers Authentic Manuscripts communicated to me (many of which are still in my Hands, by Persons of Honour both of that Family & others so that the Vouchers are as authentic as can be expected in a Work of this Nature.

I have only given an Epitome of the most remarkable passages and Persons of that family, tho' a much larger account might be expected from me, were I at leisure from my other Occupations to procure it. But the following Sketch may serve to let you Know the Family from whence you are descended. But, if you would be further satisfied I must refer you to the Writings and Genealogies now in the Hands of the several Branches of that family where you may meet with full satisfaction for which Reason I have ran up our Genealogy of the House of Irvine of Bonshaw no higher than to Christopher of Bonshaw slain at the Battle of Flodden Field. The Genealogy of that House (from their first settling in the Borders being still extant an attested Copy of which I have now by me"

Section the first

The Etymology and true Pronunciation of the Name of Irvine.

The Name Erivine or contracted Irvine cometh from the ancient Celto Scythick word Erin viene or Erin: feine which signifieth a true or brave West-land-Man, for Erin both in the old Galick Welch and Old Galick Language signifieth the West (and therefore Ireland is at this day called Erin, both by its antient Inhabitants of Albion because its Situation is West of Albion, Veine or Feine signifieth himself which by way of Excellency is as much as to say, is a Resolute or a Worthy Man &ca.

The Earls (or Counts) Family in Hungary write themselves Erin or Errin, a Brother thereof who was a Monk was very kind to my Son Dr Christopher Irvine at Rome and acknowledged his Descent from the Irvines of Scotland who warred against the Romans in Hungary under the Command of the valiant Fergusius afterwards King Fergus the 2 about the year 400.

The Borderers wrote themselves of old Eirvine corruptly and those settled in England still write themselves Irwin or Erwine and Urwin according to the different Shires; but we now all write Irvine as coming nearest to the true Original Pronunciation, some of the foolish write themselves Irving, more to Countenance the British or Danish Dialect which add the Syllable ing by way of Excellency, as the English instead of the van (or v) put in the w to soften the sound, but the true Way is Erivine Erinveine, or contracted Irvine.

Section the Second

The original Settlements of the family in Erin and Albion and their Possession there.

When the Clans of the Galick Nations came from the West Coast of Spain and settled themselves in the East Coast of Erin (now Ireland) and in the West Hills and Isles of Albion from the Sabin to the Promontorium Oreas now Fara Head which is the utmost Point of Strath-Navern and Most North Promontory of Scotland then the Erinveines or Erinfeines being of both Clans came to both those Islands.

The Silures of South Wales were of those Colonies as Tacitus affirmeth and the Brigantes both of Albion and Erin were of the same as all men acknowledge and as the near affinity of their Language still testifieth.

The Brigantes of Erin (or Ireland) had their Seats in the East Coast thereoff and the Erinveines a great

Family of them possessed and gave Name to a great Barony which from them was called Erin Ourin.

The Erinveines continued Possessed of this Country till the Conquest of Ireland by Strong Barr about the Year of God 1172 And in the Reign of Henry the 2d of England when it was given, (as I read) to the Warlike Family of Carraray and is now in the Family of the Butlers being taken from the Ancient Inhabitants as most of the Lands then planted by the English were.

The Brigantes of Albion did possess the North-Parts of Wales and all the Countries of (now) England and Scotland from Wales to Clyde ad Glotter Ostuarium. The family of Erivines amongst them had their Seat in that Part of Albion that is now called Cunningham; they gave their Name to the River and to their chief habitation which are still called the River and Town of Irvine they remained possessed thereof untill the banishment of the Albin Scotts by the Romans after killing of their King Eugenius the 1st about the Year of God 373

Section the Third

The Expulsion of the Erivines out of Albion and their Return with Fergus the 2d who restored them to their old Possessions.

Eugenius the 1st King of the Albin Scotts being killed in Battle with most of the Scottish Nobles by the joint Forces of the Romans, Picts and Britaines. Maximus the Roman General seized the Scottish Territories, and at the instigation of the the Picts drove out the ancient Inhabitants from the Continent many of whom went to Erin and many shelterd themselves in the West Isles of Albion, who afterwards joining together made several Attempts to recover their lost Liberty and ancient Possessions assisted the Irish (or Scots of Ireland or Erin) but being at length totally subdued the Irish were obliged to return home and all Hopes of recovering their Native Country lost. Ethodius Brother to the late King with Ethos his Son and young Fergus his Nephew attended by divers of the Chief Clans amongst whom were the Erivines, sailed for Scandia where they were kindly received by the King and remained in Exile several Years At this time the Northern Nations making divers inroads into the Roman Provinces (whose Power was now in the decay) fell upon Gaul and Hungary, and did the Romans great Damage. Fergus now grown to Mans Estate lead a Body of the exiled Scotts to these Wars and warred against the Romans in both these Provinces. The Erivines a Considerable Clan attended him and in Hungary left that Noble Family which to this day are Earls (or Counts of the Empire) and carry the Name of Erin or Erwin and own their original Descent to the Irvines of Scotland. There is likewise a Noble Family in Spain of the Name of Erin and who call themselves and are believed to be the original Stock of the Family.

The Picts and Scotts groaning under the Tyranny of the Romans at length unanimously joined in calling Home the valiant Fergus whose Heroic

Actions

* Kincoussie is the adjoining estate to that of Drum on the River Dee, 6 or 7 miles from Aberdeen.

Actions in the aforesaid wars had gained him great Reputation in Albion in hopes by his Conduct to restore their lost Liberties and recover their ancient Possessions he accepted the Invitation & returning to Albion (with the other Exiles) was made King of the Albion Scotts by the Name of Fergus the 2d with him the Erivines also returned and were restored to their ancient Possessions — Anno Domini 404.

Fergus having restored the Scottish Affairs was Slain together with the King of the Picts in Battle by the Romans and Britons in 420 and left the Crown to Eugenius the 2d his Son.

Besides the Lands the Irvines possessed on the South Side of Clyde on the North side in Grange-Barge they had the lands of Dale & their Chief Habitation was in the Castle of Garth. These Lands lye on the North Side of the River Tay from the Rise thereof untill it joins with the Timmel it is commonly called Strath Tay and was in possession of the Irvines for many Centuries who were accounted one of the principal Families in Scotland, — and had the Title of Abthane or Chief Thane (the Highest Title of Honour then in Scotland) Conferred on many of their Chiefs.

Section the Fourth

Of Crine Erevine Abthane of Dule and Founder of a Royal Line in Scotland and of the Kings of the Name of Irvine.

For we read in Our histories that Crine or Crinus Erivine

Erivine to whom the aforesaid Possessions belonged was Abthane of Dule and Senescall, and Collector of all the Kings Rents in the West Isles, and a Man of great Authority in those days (and to this day the Church of the Weime founded by his Ancestors and where he lyeth interred is called after him Apthip-dule corruptly for Abthane Dule) this Crine Irvine Anno Domini 1004 did marry Beatrix eldest daur & heiress of Malcolm the 2d King of Scotland (as Joannes Major or John Maire a Doctor of the Sorbon and Our first Printed History of Scotland relateth in the 41st leaf and 2d page thereof) on her he begot Duncan the 1st King of Scotland who mounted the Throne after the Mother of his Grandfather King Malcolm (who left no Male Issue) 1034 from him are descended all the Kings of Scotland to this day in Male Line of the Irvines until Jno. Baliol (except McBeth the Usurper) Son of Malcolm the 2d Daughter and by the same right till now. The Genealogical Tree of this Family beginning with Beatrix Daughter of Malcolm and Wife to the aforesaid Irvine Abthane Dule is hanging up now in the Palace of Holyrood House Edinburgh.

Duncan the 1st being treacherously slain by Macbeth in 1040 that Usurper Reigned untill he was slain by Malcolm the 3d surnamed Kenmore Son of King Duncan who in Macbeth's Reign fled to England for safety and was honourably Received and assisted to recover his Crown by Edward the Confessor King of England at the Instigation of McDuff Thane of Fife who had fled from Scotland upon a dispute and hatred to the Usurper the Scotts joining him upon his entering the Kingdom McBeth was slain and Malcolm

* Kincoussie is the adjoining estate to that of Drum on the River Dee, 6 or 7 miles from Aberdeen

Malcolm mounted the Throne in the Year 1057 and after a glorious and pious Reign of 30 Years was Killed in besieging a Castle in Northumberland that was surprized by the English. Donald Bane his Brother assisted by the Norweigians usurped the Throne was but in 1093 dispossessed by Duncan, a Bastard Son of Malcolm's who was sent for by the Nobles from England but not treating them as they deserved his Subjects went over to Donald who again resumed the government and had Duncan Killed in Monbeith, but he loosing the affections of his Subjects was in 1097 cast into Prison by Edgar (Son of Malcolm & Margaret Sister to Edgar Athling) whom they sent for from England and placed him on the Throne, he reigned with great Justice till 1107 & was Succeeded by his Brother Alexander the 1st called the Fierce who dying likewise without Issue was in 1124 succeeded by his Brother David the 1st a most pious and just Prince who by marrying a Relation of the King of England had Huntingdon and Northumberland in Dowry with her.

Malcolm the 4th his Grandson (his Son Prince Henry being dead) was his Successor in 1159 He was a great Builder of Churches and an Encourager of the Monks, he had a War with England & parting with Northumberland died without Issue in 1165 & was Succeeded by William the Lyon his Brother he had Wars with Henry the 2d King of England in which he was taken Prisoner & sent to Normandy where he was afterwards ransomed upon dishonourable terms to the Scottish Monarchy which was afterwards given up by Richard the 2d upon his going to the Holy Wars in Return thereof, William sent his Brother David Earl of Huntingdon (Ancestor to John Balliol & David Bruce) to assist him in Palestine but his Fleet being destroyed by a Tempest he was taken Prisoner by the Egyptians and afterwards ransomed by the Venetians.

William dying 1214 was succeeded by Alexander the 2d his Son who assisted the Dauphin of France to dethrone King John of England & greatly annoyed the English till at length a peace was concluded between him & Henry the 3d He suppressed his Rebellious Subjects & died in 1249 Alexander the 3d his Son & Successor being a Minor the Kingdom was ruled by the Cummins with great Oppression to the Subjects till the death of Walter their Chief 1263.

Acho King of Norway landed a great Army in Scotland (laying Claim to the Western Isles) but was defeated by Alexander Stewart the Kings General with a great Slaughter of his Men which obliged him to quit Claim forever to those Isles & a match was concluded between his Son & Margaret daur to Alexander. — Alexander also assisted King Henry his Father-in-law against his Rebellious Subjects but his Forces with Cumming their General were mostly cut to pieces, he leaving no Sons, and his daughter Margaret of Norway dying left only a daur of her own Name who was heiress apparent to the Crown of Scotland, but she after the death of her Grand father Alexander in 1285 being sent for from Norway to ascend the Throne died in her Passage so that all the Issue of Alexander being extinct the Crown was claimed by John Ballicol and Robert Bruce both descended from Daughters of David Earl of Huntingdon Brother to William King of Scotland. This great Contest is too well known to be here insisted upon as also the injustice of Edward Longshanks King of England to whom it was referred for want of impartial Arbitrators in Scotland he advanced the Crown to John Ballicol & what intolerable Slavery & Misery the Kingdom groaned under, untill that Prince Robert the Bruce broke the Chains & restored the Monarchy to its former Splendour.

By this it appears that the Male Issue of Crine Irvine & Beatrix daughter to Malcolm the 2 possessed the Throne of Scotland from the said Malcolm to John Ballicol 251 Years.

All the Kings that reigned in that space of time being Irvines & the succeeding Kings to this day reign in right of the Females of that Family.

House of Irvine of Bonshaw

Crine Irvine being dead & his Patrimony falling to King Duncan his Son who resided there, the Country was called Cunningham (or in the old Pictish Language Barle & Koning-hame) the Kings Habitation & was by his Successors given to several different Families.

Section the 5th

In the Reign of Fergus the 2d the several Families of the Albions sent the most stout & able Men of their Clanns to the Borders adjoining Britain to defend them against the Romans & Britons afterwards to defend them against the Saxons now called English.

Amongst the rest were the Irvines, Brothers to Crine Irvine Abthane-dule they took up their first Habitation on the Banks of the River Eske between the Black and the White Eske there they built their Mansion House, which to this day is called Castle Irvine & Irvine Hall it is now in Ruins below the Langham the Brook & the Oak Wood do still carry the Name of Irvine Burn & Irvine Wood from the Family, where in their parts, they were a very warlike Family and did great Service in defending the Borders from the Romans and Saxons from time the eldest of the Family got by a Marriage the Lands of Bonshaw & many other lands there & have continued in repute ever since (tho' of late Years the Family have suffered much by the Wastfullness of one of the Chiefs) they have ever married into the First Families in Scotland. Of the Irvines of Bonshaw are the most part of English Welch & Irish Irvines descended especially Sir Gerard Irvine's Family, his Father being Christopher Irvine, who was bred to the Bar, in the Temple at London & was the first of the Family that settled in Ireland upon a Grant of some Lands given him by King James the 6th of Scotland soon after his ascending the Throne

Throne of England in the North West part of Ulster (near the great Lough called Lough Erin) There he built Castle Irvine for his Mansion house which being destroyed by the Irish in the great Rebellion of 1641 (when the Family were ousted of their possession first by the Irish & again by the Forces under Oliver Cromwell for their steady adherence to King Charles the first & his Son King Charles the Second our present King) It is since rebuilt by Sir Gerard Irvine his Son whose mother was Blanch Irvine eldest daughter to Edward Irvine Laird of Stapleton descended from Bonshaw being the Grandson to Christopher Irvine of Bonshaw who commanded the Light horse Men at the Field of Solway Solon-Mors Anno Dom 1542. Sir Gerard Irvines Grand-father was John Irving who married a daughter of the Chief of the Johnstones since created Earls of Annandale for their good Services to the Kingdom of Scotland by securing the Nation from the Depredations of the Montgomerys as were also other Clanns. John died young his Father was Christopher Irvine commonly called Black Christy of Robb-Gill and Annan which Lands belonged to him, he was a Man of great Valour & Reputation in those days - Christopher was Father to Sir Gerard Irvine Doc^r Christopher & William a Lieutenant in the Army - William was Father to Colonel Christopher, Captain John & Lieutenant Alexander; John was Father to Major Christopher who was Father to John & Gerard the same Gerard Irvine Esq^r is the Father of Seven Children, Arthur Henry a Cornet in the 8^th Dragoons (in 1777 he has since quitted that Regiment & distinguished himself so much that the Duke of York gave him a Corps of Hussars in 1796, he went with his Regiment to S^t Domingo fell a Victim to the Yellow Fever, regretted by all who knew him.) Andrew an Ensign in 57^th Foot (1777) William, Hamilton, John, Thomas, Gledstanes and Sylvia all young.

The Irish part of this Genealogy was sent in 1779 to the R^t Hon^ble General Sir John Irvine Commander in Chief of His Majestys Forces in Ireland by the chief of the Family, to shew him they were all descended from the same Original Stock, at the same time offering to raise a Regiment for His Majestys Service composed of their own Clan to which Gen^l Irvine was to be Colonel in Chief which would have taken place had Sir John Irvine continued in Office. M^r Irvine of Bonshaw Advocate is the lineal Descendant from the first settled at Bonshaw.

House of Irvine of Drum

About 1296 King Robert the Bruce fled from Edward Longshanks, came to Bonshaw where he was concealed with the utmost Secrecy for a considerable length of time he took from thence the eldest Son of the Family, William whom he Knighted and appointed his Squire and Armour Bearer & for his Affection & remarkable Fidelity to him in all his Adversities when he came to the Crown

Crown 1306. This King gave him the Lands of the Forest of Drum & he himself having carried a private Badge of Coat of Arms (whilst he was concealed under the Name of Earl of Carrick) he likewise gave him that with permission for him & his Descendants forever to bear it as their Armorial Bearing with the Motto "Sub Sole, subumbra Virens" alluding to the Family's great Fidelity to him in his Troubles. The Badge or Bearing consists of three Holley Leaves banded Gules on a Shield Argent. Sir George Mackenzie in his Heraldry testifies their Having been given by Robert de Bruce to Irvine (afterwards designed of Drum) an ancient and principal family of Scotland (he designs the Arms thus) Argent three small Sheafs or Bundles of Holley 2 & 1 Vert, Banded Gules Crest a Sheaf of Arrows, so painted in the house of Fallahall 1604. Motto as above, Supporters Two Savages wreathed about the Head and Loins with Hollies, bearing Batons crowned with Murailles Crowns. This is likewise Vouched by the Charters of the × Family.

Sir William Irvine of Drum married the Daughter of Sir Robert Keith Knight Lord Marshall of Scotland and of Margaret Hay daughter of Gilbert Hay Lord Hay first Constable of that Family. Marshall was killed in the Battle of Durham 1346 notwithstanding this Match there was great Animosity between the two Families which frequently led to pitched Battles between the two Clans the People of Aberdeenshire shew you to this day stones in the River

Hector Boethius speaking of him says — he was A principium Robus conspicuus. When Sir Alexander was expiring he sent for his Brother John & his Priest on the Field of Battle & made confession to them that he had married Mary Keith purely in Obedience to the King and that she was Still a Vestal for him, that he did sore repent his neglect of her as she was an excellent worthy Woman, that if he lived he determined to make her happy, if not, he

Reverend and Dear Sir

Among the original deeds preserved in this repository of the Public Records of Scotland, is one which shows that Irvings had settled in Orkney at least as early as the beginning of the fifteenth century.

This is a writ of parchment by which the persons following, 'Wilelmus filius Thurgys legifer Orkadie, 'Nicholaus de Mu..., Laurencius de Torray presbiteri canonici 'ecclesie Sancti Magni in dicta Orkadia, Johannes filius Magni, 'Wylelmus de Erwyne, Petrus de Paplay, Walterus Andree 'burgenses de Kyrkwaw,' attest that 'Jacobus de Cragy 'dominus de Hupe lator presencium est vir legitimus Domini Seven tags of parchment are still attached to the deed, but the seals which they suspended have unfortunately perished.

In the unsettled orthography which obtained in Scotland until after the beginning of the last century, the name which is now written 'Irving' and 'Irvine' was more frequently written 'Irwine', 'Irwing', 'Irwyne', 'Erwyne', 'Erwine', 'Erwing' etc. etc. The common pronunciation of the name in Aberdeenshire, among old people in my young days, was

'Erwyne'

'Erwyne', exactly as it is written in the Orkney parchment of 1422.

The Christian name of 'William' borne by Irwyne of Kirkwall in 1422, was one of the ruling Christian names of the Irvines of Drum in the previous century.

The 'Wylelmus de Erwyne' of 1422 is, doubtless, the same as the 'Wilhelmum Ytving' mentioned in a transaction of 1423 in Torfaeus's Rerum Orcadensium Historiae, p. 180. Havniae 1715. That work is inaccurate in its spelling of names, and I have no doubt that for 'Ytving' we should read 'Irving'.

In 1640, certain commissioners were appointed for the several parishes of Orkney, by act of the Sheriff Court held at Kirkwall. Among them were 'Gilbert Irving for Dearnes', 'Magnus Irving for Sandwick', 'William Irving of Garstae' and 'James Irving' for Shapinshay. (Miscellany of the Maitland Club, vol. ii. pp. 210-212.)

Reverend and My dear Sir

Since I had the pleasure of seeing you here, I have recovered a notice of the Irvings in Orkney as early as the middle of the fourteenth century.

In an indenture, dated at Kirkwall on the 25th of May 1369, between William bishop of Orkney and Shetland, on the one part, and Hakon Jonson, on the other, is the following enumeration of inhabitants of Orkney:

" Sira Willialmr af Bucchan erkidiakin j Orkneyum. Sira Valter
" af Bucchan kanugr j samastad. Sira Jon Proktur. Sira Richard
" af Rollisey. Sira Cristen af Eyn. Sira Cristen af Sanday. Sira

The deed containing this list is printed, from the original parchment, in the Diplomatarium Norvegicum, vol. i. pp. 308, 309. Christiania, 1847.

Of the names which it records, others beside Irving are names of families seated in Aberdeenshire and the neighbouring counties on the north-east coast of Scotland. The Buchans, for instance, are peculiarly an Aberdeenshire family, taking their name, indeed, from the maritime division of that county. The Calders, again, had their seats in Banffshire, Murrayshire, and Aberdeenshire. The Woods were early settled in Murrayshire. The names of Christian of Tain and Fergus of Ross sufficiently proclaim their Ross-shire origin. All this tends to show that early intercourse between the Orkneys and the north-east of Scotland, of which our records supply many scattered intimations.

As the Irvings of Drum did not settle in Aberdeenshire until 1312, they must have very early thrown out that root which we find flourishing in Orkney in the person of William Irvin in 1369. I believe I mentioned to you that William was one of the two prevailing Christian names of the Drum family in the fourteenth century.

I may perhaps find other notices of the Irvings of Orkney when I proceed to the arrangement of the Orkney papers deposited here by the Earl of Morton. I will not fail to advise you of any mention of your family which may present itself to me there or elsewhere. Meanwhile, I remain

1. The family have always claimed to belong to the house of the Irvines of Drum.

2. Playfair in his "British Family Antiquities vol 7." Astor Library of N.Y. States that the Irvines of the Orkneys are cadets of Drum.

3. The same stated by J Robertson Esq Sheriff Sub. of Orkneys in letter to P.M.I.

4. But it suffices to know that the seals of the Irvines of the Orkneys attached to Records of the 15 & 16 & 17 century, now extant, bear the same armorial bearings as the house of Drum - which in an age when ~~to~~ ~~at~~ a man's seal was of more moment than his signature & the false assumption of arms was equivalent to forgery & a civil offence, is proof positive.

[Copy] I, George Petrie, Clerk of Supply of the County of Orkney & corresponding member of the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland, hereby certify that I have prepared the above Table from authentic sources (chiefly from Original Title Deeds & other old manuscripts discovered by me in the County Archives) and that I have been enabled to do so with great accuracy from a peculiarity in the ancient "Udal" laws of Orkney which required that lands should descend to the "nearest of kin" male & female all the children drawing a share and therefore leading to the practice of stating in Title Deeds the relationship of the parties mentioned in them.

Kirkwall 30 Dec 1856. (Signed) Geo: Petrie.

Original. I hereby certify that the foregoing is an exact & faithful copy of a Document addressed to my Uncle Washington Irving, received this day by me from Mr Geo. Petrie of Kirkwall, enclosed with a letter of details to me. Pierre P. Irving

c. Hendrick & Jacobus Kip were the two Patentees of Rhinebeck. Their deed on parchment, dated July 28, 1668, is still in possession of the family. It is signed by 3 Indian chiefs & subsequently confirmed as a Royal Grant by Gov. Dongan. It is for four miles along the river where Rhinebeck now is, & extends several miles into the interior. A portion of this is still owned by one of the family. $\frac{1}{5}$ was subsequently sold to Col. Henry Beekman, whose grand daughter was mother of Chancellor Livingston & thus formed the part of the Livingston property, as well as that of Garretsons, Tillotsons &c - d. Jacobus Kip was founder of the Kip's Bay family, & built the house there. For his father in law Montaigne, see O'Callaghan's Histy of New Netherland, vol. 1.
