

Misplanned Nicholas

Dear Anne

I have not time to come and say good bye. I am going to Sicily, and shall stay there till Aunt comes out.
Mother will write to me and let me know if I am to return, or go to New York with Aunt. I do not know what the result will be. I hope that I shall be back in a week. If I should be gone all summer, do write to me often. I feel so foolish that I do not know what to do, at the idea of leaving you this summer, but I shall look on the bright side.
Give my best love to Mother.

next M. Ogden, and all my dear friends if I have any here dont forget all about me if I should not come back, good bye,

Yours in black,

I hope you will have a pleasant-walk this evening, & not let any living mortal see this splendid epistle. bid all do people good bye for me.
