

approached by a narrow pass.
 Washington determined soon to attack them. General Poor with two brigades was ordered to move round upon their right and ~~the~~ ~~advancing to~~ General Woodford with his brigade upon their left while the artillery should fall upon in front. Before these orders could be completely carried into effect ~~the~~ it was night. The troops were ~~so~~ exhausted by ~~long~~ ~~the~~ fatigue and the heat of the weather which was to ~~be~~ intense that many of the soldiers of both armies had sunk under it. The troops ^{thus ordered} ~~were~~ ~~ordered~~ ~~ordered~~ to lie on their arms upon the ground they occupied so as to be ready for action along the ~~Washington himself passed the~~ ~~night among his soldiers lying in~~ ~~her cloak at the foot of a tree.~~ The army also, continued to their arms on the field of action to support them and Washington passed the night among his soldiers wrapped in his cloak at the foot of a tree.

At an early hour the drums beat the reveille, but and the troops found themselves in action but not an enemy was to be seen.

In the morning there were merely given his weary troops a few hours repose and at ten o'clock at night had pushed forward by moonlight to regain the division under Knyphausen on the left with the baggage, Chasse was far on the road to Mifflintown.

 He must have been the belief that always unheard by, General Potts present was very near them. They four officers and about thirty privates, too severely wounded to permit their removal were left behind.

The extreme heat of the weather and the sufferings the men had already experience in a march through a dark sandy country almost entirely destitute of water during almost half of the march ^{Forrest's memorandum} 9th Washington General Knyphausen, deterred from attempting to overtake the enemy who were almost a night's march on ahead. On their way to Mifflintown

Four officers & 245 privates were found SHR ~~on the field, & were cured by~~ the army. The number of the enemy known as near 800 - of whom 245 privates, 34 were ~~found~~ on the field of battle and buried by the army of one of the officers was the then at Mifflintown of the General the wounded were 10 officers & 154 privates. The Americans lost 8 officers & 51 privates and had about 100 wounded among the Main were sent to Bremer of Pinnerhouse and Major Dick son of Virginia. both much regretted.

The unit made upward of 100 pri soners.

~~On the 30th of June Washington~~ Detaching Maxwells brigade and Morgans corps who engaged the rear of the enemy Washington on the 30th of June left Eagleblown and directed his march with the Main army toward the Hudson In June the loyal army arrived on 30 June on the West bank of Sandy Hook. with great loss by the enemy - particularly Hessians