

CALLED AT LAST.

Death of a Prominent Citizen of Strongsville.

Special Correspondence of the LEADER.

STRONGSVILLE, January 8.

Died, in Strongsville, after a lingering illness, Mr. Walter A. Ogilvy, aged 57. The deceased was a native of Montrose, Scotland. He came to this country in 1843, purchased a farm in this town, erected a dwelling house, returned to M. in 1844, married Miss Katherine G. Henderson, and came back the same year with his wife, and they settled down in their new home, where they have lived happily together now for thirty-four years. His funeral was attended last Sabbath, at his late residence, by a very large concourse of people. Mr. Ogilvy was a gentleman of "the old school" in his manners—polite, respectful and generous. Social in his nature, a general reader, intelligent, well-informed, he was always good company, was highly esteemed and will be seriously missed, not only in his own household, but by a large circle of friends. He showed his early Scotch training by his love for the Bible, his reverence for the sanctuary, and his earnest attention to the preaching of the Word. He remarked very emphatically to his pastor that when he attended church he went to worship God.
