CO. AGENT GIVES POULTRY ADVICE

Suggests Methods For Flock Owners To Adopt To Produce More Winter Eggs.

County Agent C. F. Park in an interview today stated that he would like to call to the attention of Mercer county poultry flock owners a few pertinent facts in regard to practices and methods to be followed this fall and winter if profit is to be realized from their operations.

The percentage of eggs laid during the months of November, December, January, February and March will largely determine poultry profits for the year. There are four factors which largely determine the winter egg production. These are:

(1) Healthy stock: Only healthy stock should be carried through the winter. When pullets are taken from the range and placed in winter quarters, it is important to cull out small, immature birds and stock that is not thrifty and of good size and weight.

To assure good health the winter-quarters should be clean and sanitary. Additionally, a deep litter should cover the floor throughout the winter. This litter should be kept clean and dry by frequent cleaning.

(2) Warm, comfortable houses: For warmth and comfort, the house must be free from drafts, have a dry floor and a tight roof. The south side should be so constructed as to have ample sunlight and ventilation at all times.

The poultry house should be large and roomy, providing approximately four square feet of floor space for each layer. Overcrowding is a menace to good production. It is better to sell surplus pullets, if to retain them means over-crowding.

(3) Feeding: Through the winter one hundred birds should be fed at the rate of twelve to fourteen pounds of scratch feed; six pounds in the morning and eight pounds in the evening. Feed a good laying mash, either a commercial mash or a home-mixed one, which should be before the layers at all times. It is best to use open hoppers with plenty of space. Water is one of the most essential feeds for poultry and should be accessible to the birds at all times, and should be clean and fresh. Grit and oyster shells should always be before the birds.

(4) Management: Cleanliness is of the greatest importance. Dropping boards should be frequently cleaned and the litter changed as often as necessary. Successful poultrymen clean their dropping boards in laying houses at least three times a week. The litter is changed at least once a month. Among other factors in maintaining good health is this, the removal of any birds which show lack of thriftiness.

Bulletins on housing, feeding and care of pullets may be obtained free at the County Agent's office.

DILLSBORO FOX HUNT

Final arrangements for the Third Annual Dillsboro Fox Hunt and Muzzle Loading Rifle Matches, the week of September 20th-26th, were completed late this week and Dillsboro, Indiana is now ready for the thousands of visitors and hundreds of hounds and hunters who will attend the meet, the local committee headed by Robert E. Fleming and E. F. Gerkepott announced.

"Wood, water and electricity will be furnished to those who join the tent and trailer town at the Association's camping grounds to the south of Dillsboro," Mr. Fleming said. "For those who do not wish to rough it adequate accommodations may be found in the homes of the townspeople and at the Dillsboro Hotel and Health Resort, one of the sponsors of the hunt and headquarters for the association."

In addition to the colorful field events including fox chases, coon dog trails and beagle races, to be held daily, muzzle loading rifle matches and an elaborate program of entertainment are planned by the local committee. Some of the high spots include an open-air church service, speeches, movies of past hunts, a parade, amateur night, old fiddlers' contest, singing, a bench show, band concerts, dances and a barbecue.

The entire public and hounds and hunters from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky are invited to attend. Dillsboro is located on U. S. Route 50 between Aurora and Versailles, Indiana. 5000 visitors and 300 hounds are expected in Dillsboro the week of September 20th-26th.

HEAD OF DOCTOR WILLED TO DOCTORS

Dr. Mayo Tolman, of Greenville, South Carolina, has willed his head to the Harvard School of Medicine.

He explained that several years ago he was the victim of an unusual skull fracture from which he was not expected to recover. The fracture, he said, was an open one, running seventeen inches.

Dr. Tolman's subsequent recovery aroused interest in medical circles, and therefore he felt medical science might be furthered by a study of his skull.

Threshing Time in Grain Fields

HERE IS a typical scene as grain crops throughout the northern states are harvested. A bundle-pitcher on one of Henry Ford's farms near Dearborn, Mich., is tossing sheaves from a Ford V-8 truck into a separator. One of the substantial expenses of harvesting is in moving grain from the field to the threshing outfit. By using trucks a steady movement of sheaves to separator is maintained, a single truck taking the place of several teams and wagons.

NEPHEW OF R. T. SMITH DIES IN LEXINGTON

Walter Shelton, 48, a nephew of R. T. Smith, Route 5, died in Lexington last Monday. Mr. Shelton was widely known in Harrodsburg as he frequently visited his uncle's family and for 28 years had spent his vacation in the fall hunting in Mercer county. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sallie Shelton, and his mother, Mrs. Drusilla Shelton.

Attending the funeral from here were R. T. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Smith and daughter, Doris, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Teater, Mrs. Balm Teater, Mrs. Rebecca Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Royalty.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS AT DANVILLE ON FRIDAY

Football will be formally ushered in at Danville Friday night when Rice Mountjoy's Admirals meet Stanford High on the Danville high field. The Admirals, who have ranked with the state's best the past several years, have a light green team this year but are favored over the Lincoln Countians. Centre's Praying Colonels open their season on September 26th, meeting Pop Warner's Temple Owls at Philadelphia.

2 UNDER $500 BONDS EACH FOR CHICKEN STEALING

Bill Lee Lunsford and Fairbanks Devine were held under $500 bonds each at their examining trials in county court Monday before Judge Charles T. Corn. They were charged with stealing chickens. George Lunsford, held on the same charge, was dismissed.

After Brack Hurst, of Braxton, reported to officers the loss of his chickens Sheriff Oscar Sanders and Jailer Goebel Deane, with a search warrant, combed the premises of Bill Lee Lunsford, on the Cornish Mill road, and found 25 chickens hidden under a porch. He claimed to have gotten them from Fairbanks Devine.

Naming Venezuela

The name Venezuela means Little Venice and was given to the country by the early Spaniards because they found some water-dwelling Indians, reminding them of Venice.

Children Have Best Hearing

MAMMOTH CAVE HAS BIGGEST DAY IN PARK'S HISTORY

All attendance records were broken at Mammoth Cave National Park over the Labor Day week-end, it was announced. Five thousand persons made trips through Mammoth Cave, 2,700 on Sunday alone. The increase in attendance is approximately 12 per cent greater than last year.

On the Sunday which preceded the holiday, 220 persons took the all-day De Luxe Tour of Mammoth Cave—the longest cave trip in the world. On this trip tourists are served a hot meal, at noon or at night, in the famous Snowball Dining Room, 267 feet underground. Radios and a long distance telephone have been installed in this underground dining hall.

Sunday was the biggest single day in the history of Mammoth Cave, according to W. W. Thompson, General Manager of the Mammoth Cave Properties. Tourist business so far this year has been 20 per cent above 1935.

DAVINCI DRAWING ON BIT OF PAPER BRINGS $21,300

A tiny bit of paper, three inches wide and five and half inches long, was worth $21,300 in London this week. Bearing a drawing of a rearing horse by Leonardo Da Vinci, famous Italian Renaissance artist, the paper sold for that amount at a sale of the Oppenheimer collection of old masters in Christy's auction rooms. The total sale realized $150,000.

NEGRO IS HELD ON $1 FORGERY CHARGE

David, Curd, 25, colored, of Hill Street, was held over to the grand jury at Monday morning Police Court under $250 bond on a charge of forgery. Curd allegedly passed a forged check for $1.00 on Clall Coleman at Priest's Grocery on Lexington Avenue. He was arrested Friday and was remanded to jail in default of bond.

SKELETON MARKET

Guy Rouilly, of London, boasts that he has more skeletons in his cupboards than any other living person. Rouilly has a "corner" in England's skeleton trade. Ninety-five per cent of the skeletons sold in England pass through his hands.

SCHOOL BOYS BAKE CAKES

Long before most school boys take up domestic science, if they do, several eighth-grade boys of Webster school at Toledo, O., have had five months' training in baking cake, which they enjoy even more than biscuit making.

LOCAL HORSE SHOW GETS PUBLICITY

National Horseman, Noted Turf Magazine, Gives Page Of Current Issue To Harrodsburg Fair.

A page in the current issue of The National Horseman is devoted to the recent horse show here. In part it said: "One of the largest first night crowds in the history of the Harrodsburg Fair Association was on hand to see the ribbons tied in the 33rd annual exhibition. The size and quality of the crowd, as well as the enthusiastic interest, and the superb type of animals present were reaching new high marks in state-wide popularity and importance, even surpassing those historically famous fixtures of old."

"A pretty weanling owned by J. D. Baxter, Sr., won first premium offered by Ralf Goddard, Pasadena, Calif., in memory of his father, W. W. Goddard, promoter of purebred horses and stock. This class was for saddle bred colts, 1936, Mercer County entries only. A. B. Alexander was second and David C. Walter third."

"Space was at a premium Thursday night and rightly so, for it has been many a year since Harrodsburg witnessed such a fine array of horse flesh and such a splendid, fine going exhibition. Lockwood's great mare was in there; Murphy's last year's fine performer was going fine; Mrs. Gould's new Night Rider was circling the ring with just as mincing a slow gait as Night Flower ever performed; J. V. Spaulding's mount was putting up the best show he had ever made but there was Dennis King! This hot blooded, high spirited animal did not stand out from the crowd of stiff competition at first, did not make a perfect performance, but as Night Rider broke, as the Rolling Meadows mare lost her shoe and left the ring, never to return, the King seemed to settle down, to show from whence he came and from whence came his name. It was evident that young but serious rider, Rogers, had found the key to the situation, for the great gelding flashed by entry after entry burning up the ring in an enormous burst of speed at both rack and trot, ears smartly to the fore, eyes sparkling and handsome, the Williams colors from Cincinnati, flying to a great victory!"

"Dennis King opened an immense field of championship ribbons, carved a new place for himself by that show at Harrodsburg and as for Harrodsburg, it remains stronger than ever, the show where new and great champions first meet the public eye!"
