

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

A friend tells us that she devotes one afternoon a year to card-shopping. She's one of those thoughtful people who realize that friends like to be remembered on special occasions. Her list of "dates to remember" is very comprehensive, including every variety of anniversary. On the chosen day she makes the rounds of several favorite card shops, checking her dates as she makes her purchases. She buys a dozen "convalescent" cards to be sent as the need arises, and a supply of "friendship" ones that can be used on any day with a little penning note. One of these, for instance, she sends on St. Swithin's Day, for reasons known only to herself and the recipient. She dates the cards—in the corner where the stamp goes—and sorts them, with the first one to go on the top. This may seem like a lacking-in-sentiment method of remembering one's friends. But the point is, they are remembered. A small expenditure of time and money—and several dozen people are cheered for a moment, during the course of the year.

Girl Of Local Ancestry Weds Earl Of Eggescliffe

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Clay Rogers Magoffin, of St. Paul, Minn., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McAfee Magoffin, to Captain William Petre Garnett, Earl of Eggescliffe, of Green Park Castle, Meath county, Ireland, has been received here. The ceremony took place August 24, 1936, in New York City.

On her maternal side, the Countess Garnett is descended from Thomas Dudley, first governor of Massachusetts; Luke Barber, first governor of Maryland and Roger Williams, first governor of Rhode Island, and on her paternal side from Isaac Shelby, first governor of Kentucky, and Beriah Magoffin, Harrodsburg, Ky., Civil war governor of Kentucky. She also is a great niece of Henry Clay and of General George Rogers Clark.

The bride, while taking an active part in social and philanthropic affairs in St. Paul, also found time to devote her interest to Little Theater work and was a leading exponent in the movement here.

Captain Garnett was born in Green Park Castle and was the eldest son of Henry and Marie de la Roche Garnett, Earl and Countess of Eggescliffe of Eggescliffe Castle, Durham, England. He was educated in Sandhurst college, England; Trinity College, Ireland, and Heidelberg University, Germany. He is a captain of the Second Royal Dublin Fusiliers (retired), having served under Lord Roberts in the Pans, Burmese, and Afghanistan wars, and under his cousin, General Sir Garnett Wolseley, in the Egyptian war. For his military services he received the Victoria cross and the Military cross, the highest awards of the British empire. In 1882, with King Leopold of Belgium, the Earl of Fingal, and Colonel North, Captain Garnett opened the famous Coolgardie gold mines in Australia. He is a world traveler and big game hunter. Captain and Mrs. Garnett will leave shortly for Ireland. They will live in when making your beverage. The convenient little individual bags or "tea balls" may contain sizing which spoils the flavor, experts say. Make your own bags—it's much cheaper—out of washed cheesecloth. Don't forget your guests' preferences—serve cream as well as sugar and lemon.

Flavored butter for sandwich fillings are different and delightful. Here are two that are especially tasty:

1/2 cup softened butter
1/2 cup minced parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons onion juice
1 cup chili sauce

Tailored suits just never do go out of style. But their accessories change. Westkits (which father used to call "waistcoats") as a substitute for blouses are becoming increasingly popular. They offer a great variety of colors and material as blouses do, and worn with a taffeta scarf tucked in the neckline are chic and distinctive. A white faille is always a good choice; yellow flannel with a black stripe is attractive with gray; green felt is made for hunter's brown. Brother may make a few choice comments, but your sisters on the street will give you a second glance.

It's easier to make a cup of tea than it is to make a cup of coffee, but it's far easier to ruin it, too. Keep your tea tightly boxed, and be sure you use fresh boiling water.
