COOLING PLANT COMBINED WITH HEATING SYSTEM

Engineers are working to perfect a process whereby the same furnace and radiators which heat a building in the winter can be used to cool it in the summer. This can already be done, but the job of reducing the cost remains. Strange as it seems, steam is used to do the actual cooling. It is sent from nozzles at a speed twice that of a rifle bullet. The apparatus is so arranged that the rapidly moving steam creates a vacuum in a chamber. From there the process becomes more familiar. Sudden expansion of water vapor and steam in the vacuum serves to lower its temperature, and it is then not difficult to cool water and circulate it through radiators to cool the building.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—see that you get what you want.

EARLY HATCHED CHICKS PAY BIGGER DIVIDENDS

Some years ago, the poultry scientists of the United States department of agriculture made an experiment to compare 100 pullets hatched in March with 100 pullets hatched in June.

A. R. Lee, of the department, says the early-hatched pullets—the pullets hatched in March—began to lay in September and October. The pullets hatched out in June didn't begin to lay until the following February. The pullets from the March hatch laid during October, November, and December, the season when egg prices are highest. Not only that, the early pullets also laid an average of 160 eggs apiece during the year while the late pullets averaged only 110 eggs. That is, the early pullets laid about four dozen more eggs than the late pullets.

At present, the poultry scientists hatch all of their chicks, for egg production, not later than April. Lee says the early-hatched chicks not only lay early, during the season of high egg prices, and lay more eggs than the late pullets, but they also have two more advantages:

First, the cockerels from the early hatches usually bring good prices because the poultryman can sell them before the big run of chickens reaches the market.

Second, the early chicks grow faster and suffer less loss from parasites and diseases.

TOTAL VALUES UP ON KENTUCKY LIVESTOCK

Although the number of animals on Kentucky farms the first of this year showed only a slight increase for the year, the value was estimated at $29,975,000 more.

H. F. Bryant, statistician in charge of the Department of Agriculture office at Louisville, said this was due largely to the increased value of the stock:

The report showed 3,858,600 head, valued at $104,180,000, compared with 3,177,000 at $74,205,000 a year ago.

The number of hogs, 1,035,000 was unchanged, but the value jumped from $5,714,000 to $9,749,000.

U. S. ALLOTS KENTUCKY $48,690 HEALTH FUND

Allocation of $3,333,000 to States by the Surgeon General to aid in establishing and maintaining adequate public health services was approved this week by the Treasury.

The allocations, intended to cover the remainder of the fiscal year, were made under provisions of the Social Security Act. Determined on the basis of population, special health problems and the States' financial needs, they included Indiana, $81,196 and Kentucky $48,690.

PLANES DROP FOOD FOR MONTANA BIRDS

Forced "on relief" by snows which covered their feeding grounds, deer, and wild fowl in parts of the Rocky Mountains near Denver, were being fed by state fish and game officials and sportsmen's organizations.

Nearly 1000 pounds of barley, packed in bags which broke readily, have been dropped from an airplane to game birds in western Montana by members of the Great Falls Izaak Walton League.

There Are Other Worlds

A man who has made some money without work, and therefore thinks he knows everything, was recently delivering himself on the subject of religion. He dismissed the idea of immortality as mere superstition, the yearning of children afraid of the dark. "Of course, there is no other world," he said.

To which a friend responded quietly: "You yourself have already been a resident of another and very different world. The world in which we now have our existence is a world of alternating periods of sunlight and dark; it is a world where human beings draw air into their lungs and expel it, eat and drink through their mouths, and walk around on their own legs. For nine months you lived inside your mother's body, in a world where there was no light, no air, where no nourishment reached you through your mouth and you were moved about on other legs than your own. Suppose an embryo were endowed with intelligence and imagination. How could it ever form any notion of this outside world? Wouldn't any description of it seem absurd? Wouldn't the embryo say, as you have just said, 'There can be no other world?'"

The smart man is still thinking up his answer.

Just before I left the house this morning I held a conversation with a member of my family in the presence of our dog. As we talked, his little head swung back and forth, his round eyes looking first at one of us and then the other, trying so hard to understand. He dwells in the same house, eats the same food, breathes the same air that we do. But what we say and do and think and hope is utterly beyond his comprehension. He and we are citizens of two different worlds.

I have friends who live in worlds which I never have been able to enter. They see values in pictures my eyes cannot see; music speaks to them in a language I do not un-

SIX LAMBS BORN TO BOYLE EWES

Probably a world's record was broken Monday night when a ewe belonging to O. J. Hendren, well known farmer and sheep breeder, four miles from Danville on the Lancaster road, gave birth to six lambs. Ewes usually have one and two lambs, and some times three, but six are twice as many as former records. If anyone can beat this let us hear about it.

HOW TO CATCH CROWS

This is H. H. Clay's recipe for catching crows. Break the wing of one, fasten him to the ground on his back, leaving his feet and head free. The crow immediately sends out a distress call. Other crows come to his rescue, and he seizes them, claws and tears them to pieces as fast as they come. He says he knew of a farmer who "set" six wounded crows and in no time caught about 100.—Mayfield Messenger.

PRESIDENT "NEGOTIATING" FOR 450-ACRE FARM

From Hyde Park came the announcement that Peter C. Rohan and father were negotiating with representatives of Franklin Roosevelt, to sell him a 450-acre farm east of his mother's estate. From the White House came word that the President was "considering."

FREAK PORKER

A freak pig, farrowed on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Murphy, Salem road, during the recent cold spell, has attracted considerable attention. Although there is only one head, there are two well-formed bodies of normal size. There were seven other pigs in the litter.—Cynthiana Democrat.

A FRANK MOTORIST

On the hood of a car, abandoned near Moberly, Mo., after it had left the road, and skidded into a ditch, was the frank statement, written in chalk, "Whisky and me don't mix."

derstand; they have spiritual experiences which never have come to me. When I am in the presence of the best of them I have no difficulty in believing that there are possibilities of human life far and above our highest imaginings. Even beyond and above the mystery called Death.

The Show is a Flop

When the tension between England, France and Italy was at its highest point recently, the French veterans sent an appeal to their Premier not to make war on Italy. They said that armed conflict with the soldiers who had been their brave allies was unthinkable.

Now this is a very interesting development in history. In times past the veteran used to sit around the tavern, relating his deeds of courage and urging the young men to prepare themselves for the days when they too would fight.

The veterans of the World War went back to their respective countries with no impulse to boast; memories were graven on their hearts that never can be erased, modest, quiet, tight-lipped, they have kept their war stories to themselves. In almost every country they are now leaders in the cause of honorable peace.

The young people who come to my house tell me that in all colleges and schools the anti-war sentiment is very strong. Does this mean that modern youth is less courageous than their forebears? Not at all. It means that the whole world is coming to realize that war as it is used to be and war as it is at present are entirely different things. There may have been glory in hand-to-hand conflict; there is no glory in long-distance slaughter.

The age-old road-show called War has lost its following. Today the scenery is worn and tattered and spotted; martial music has lost its magic, the costumes and the well-worn lines of the principals seem to belong to the years of Nellie the Beautiful Cloak Model. The show is a flop.

Korean Lespedeza Is Orchard's Friend

A writer in The County Gentleman has discovered a truth which the Kentucky Horticultural Society's secretary, Ben Niles, of Henderson, has been preaching to orchardists for several years. Clean cultivation he writes, is not always best for orchards because of erosion, while most cover crops often rob the soil of the moisture the trees demand. Korean lespedeza he has found to be ideal.

Korean's principal virtue in orchards, says Roy Beard, an Indiana farmer and nut grower, is its habit of requiring very little moisture until after peaches are gone and winter apples almost ready to pick. Moreover, it can be sown without deep plowing—a light disking will do—and needs no attention after clipping off the high weeds when the lespedeza is six inches high. Thereafter the Korean will take care of the weeds itself. Naturally, it prevents erosion in those hillside orchards which would be denuded of their top soil without a cover crop.—Courier-Journal.

MORE STEAKS ON THE WAY, BUT FEWER THAN AVERAGE

More good beef will go to market in the first 4 months of 1936 than in the same months of 1935, as cattle feeders carry out their first-of-year plans, says the Bureau of Agriculture Economics.

But cattle in the feed lot at the first of this year in the 11 Corn Belt States numbered 25 to 30 per cent less than the 5-year average, although 41 per cent greater than last year, the largest increase in the 14 years that reports have been made. Last year, the decrease in fattening cattle from January 1, 1935, was the greatest ever recorded.

Feed-lot operations increased about 48 per cent in the western Corn Belt as compared to about 29 per cent in the eastern Corn Belt. Greatest percentage increases were: South Dakota, 220; Nebraska, 195; Missouri, 160; and Kansas, 150.

Cattle on feed in the 11 Western States, Texas and Oklahoma on January 1 numbered 78 per cent more than those on feed a year ago and nearly one-third larger than the average for the 5 years, 1930 to 1934.

GOOD YIELD EXPECTED FROM MAPLE TREES

An exceptionally good yield is expected this season from Pennsylvania's maple trees as time for "tree-sapping" nears.

Extreme cold, deep snows and sudden thaws combine to make a first-grade product, forest observers point out.

During the brief season of gathering sap from the "sugar bushes," which usually begins late in February or early March, the sap is boiled down into maple sugar and syrup.

SEED FOR ERODED LANDS

The Soil Conservation Service has collected approximately 2,300,000 pounds of tree and shrub seed and 700,000 pounds of grass seed. The grass seed, together with acorns, wanuts, and hickory nuts, will be planted on demonstration areas. Most of the tree seed will be used for nursery planting. Restoration of vegetation to acres damaged by erosion is one of the surest ways to check further soil losses.

GARRARD COUNTY SHEEP CLAIMS $4,500 IN ARREARS

The Garrard county livestock fund is at present a little over $4,500 in arrears against claims filed by county sheepmen for losses caused to their flocks by marauding dogs over a period of the past three years, according to Sheriff Virgil Conn. No flocks have been raided in the county with the past few weeks.

NOT ALL SENATORS TALK

A Washington correspondent says the idea that all United States Senators talk a lot is wrong. He says that of the 96 Senators there are 25 who never speak on the floor of the Senate; another 25 seldom talk, and 30 who talk occasionally. The remaining 16 do most of the talking—in other words, act like Senators are supposed to act.
