Qwsley Stanley's Hat Is In the Ring

In this week's issue of The Herald we are carrying the formal announcement of Hon. A. O. Stanley for United States Senator. Hon. M. M. Logan's term is to expire and it is his place to which Mr. Stanley is seeking to succeed.

Several Kentucky towns may claim him as their son. For some years he was a resident of Harrodsburg when his father was pastor of the Christian church. He has always had many warm personal friends here who have loyally supported him in his political aspirations and will give him their support in his coming race.

While we greatly admire the ex-governor and ex-senator for his well-known loyalty to his friends, his courage in the past to champion those measures he thought right; his strong mind and matchless oratory, we feel it too early to determine where our support is to be placed, if placed at all. Other men are to be heard from for what they stand.

It is most certain there will be others in the seeking. It is rumored that the Hon. John Young Brown, with much strength in Mercer county, will be a candidate. At present we would doubt the wisdom of his seeking the nomination. However, matters over the state may develop in his favor.

Mr. Logan, the present incumbent, with his attitude on nation issues is known to all who follow the capitol news. He is a "New Dealer" and is found supporting the President. Mercer county is an overwhelming dry county. Mr. Logan in sentiment and practice is dry. These two features recommend him to Mercer county voters.

Mr. Stanley has not declared himself on these or any other issues which will determine his winning or losing Mercer's vote. The aspirant for Mercer's vote must bear in mind that there will be two dominating elements at the polls in August. One, the farmer, who is from henceforth, going to vote in principal for his own interest regardless of the name or order of the politician. The other is the dry proponent who will be uncompromising.

One thing may be positively stated in Mr. Stanley's behalf is that whatever platform he builds out of his legislative ideals he will believe in them and will strive for their accomplishment.

The Governor Is Industrious At Task Of Re-organizing the State Government

Every one realized on December 10th that Governor Chandler had a big job before him reorganizing the state government under the restrictions of constitutional limitations and the further and uglier wall of resistance of office holders and office seekers. Some believed in him while others like the Herald-Post and the Bi-partisan Combine, made jest and joke of his plans.

Slowly, but surely, day by day comes evidence of the governor's sincerity and ability to make good his campaign pledges. He realizes that efficiency in government administration depends, as Grover Cleveland said when he urged civil service law, "Upon the personnel of those appointed to office to have ability and purpose to administer a department as the rules of the office require its efficiency."

Too often men have occupied high positions at Frankfort and could not do without added expensive help to do their job. Mr. Chandler is approaching his job of selecting help from a different angle ever taken by others. He is picking the men for the job and not allowing the individual to pick off his own job.

As we understand it now all of the appointments the governor has made are temporary. One conclusion we must come to, is that he genuinely desires to surround himself with those fitted, to intelligently serve the state.

The selection of former Governor Beckham as Chairman of the Public Service Commission; the appointment of Hon. Frederick A. Wallis as Chairman of the Department of Public Welfare; the naming of Hon. Bailey F. Wootton as Director of State Parks, proved his ability to pick men of capacity for the positions of large responsibility.

The appointment of Hon. Ben Johnson to the Highway Commission and Dan Talbot to the Insurance Commission, may bring back to the capital two of the old guard; but they are experienced men for their respective positions and are no longer connected with, but on the other hand helping to make war on the forces that brought the state to its present plight. Whether these two continue after the temporary period is over or not, the fact remains they are efficient and valued public servants.

Perhaps the most significant appointment was that which placed Prof. Martin, nationally recognized economist and tax expert, of the University, at head of the Tax Commission. These appointments previously referred to may be said to have reflected some political consideration. But certainly there was no thought of politics in the selection of Dr. Martin.

The Governor sincerely desired to choose the best qualified man available for this important place. The man he chose is one of the foremost authorities on taxation on this continent. It is gratifying that the Tax Commission is superbly qualified to administer this important duty. The fact that Dr. Martin sought and obtained a leave of absence for two years from the University of Kentucky indicated that his is not a temporary appointment, that the Governor anticipates that he will remain in state service at least two years.

There should be general satisfaction over the Martin appointment because it exemplifies the idealistic theory of the theoretical person that superior fitness of the individual should be the determining factor as men are chosen to perform a highly specialized task such as chairman of the Tax Commission.

Senate Bill No. 182 and House Bill No. 301

There are brand-new local option bills in the legislative hopper. A hurried reading of the concurrent bills which are identical gives us the impression that, when enacted, the bills will be a good and just local option law save one feature. It provides, as we feared it would, for pre-cinct options. The county as a unit would have made the law absolutely final. However, the law is very strict and perhaps the very clearest and best draft of such a law ever made in the state.

In a short time after the enactment of this law the temperance forces will call an election and abolish the alleged legal sale of liquor here.

FORMER DAUGHTERS COLLEGE STUDENT DIES IN PARIS

Miss Alice Newton Ford, 77, died at her home in Paris at 5 p.m. Wednesday, February 5, 1936, following a long illness. A daughter of James Edward and of Harriet Simpson Ford, she was born and reared in Bourbon county, where she took a prominent part in the musical interests of the community and conducted a piano class for many years. She was educated at the Old Daughters College in Harrodsburg.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Mary A. Ford and Miss Susan P. Ford, Paris, and a brother, James Edward Ford, of Washington, D. C.

Funeral services are held at the residence at 2 p.m. today. The Rev. C. H. Greer, pastor of the Millersburg Methodist church, assisted by the Rev. A. G. Gilliam, pastor of the Paris Methodist church, will officiate. Burial in Paris Cemetery.

NEGRO HELD ON THEFT CHARGE

Officers Sifting Other Robberies After Loot Found in Home Identified by Owners.

Held to the grand jury on three charges under bonds of $500 each, Will Thompson, Negro youth, is in jail to await action of that body because of inability to furnish a total of $1,500 bond. He appeared, before County Judge Charles T. Corn Friday afternoon.

Thompson, who is 20 years old and a senior in the West Side Negro high school, was taken by officers Friday after a quantity of corn was missed by Joe Vaught, dairyman, from a crib at his City View dairy farm, at the North city limits in Spilman addition. Mr. Vaught trailed the tracks of a sled in the snow from his barn to the Thompson place in the same section, and presuming that the corn had been carried off that way, he secured a search warrant. The house was searched by Chief of Police S. K. Daugherty, Deputy Sheriff Robert Hull and Jailer Goebel Deane. Thompson's father, Sam Thompson, had been employed for sometime by Mr. Vaught.

The officers found not only the corn, but a typewriter identified by Principal J. K. Powell as one taken some time ago from his office at the graded school, North Main street. Several automobile batteries, a 22 rifle and other articles the ownership of which the officers investigated. Dave Hungate, who had also secured a search warrant for the Thompson house, was the owner of one of the batteries. Officers are continuing the investigations as clues lead to the belief that several other robberies may be solved.

The charges on which the youth are held are: Stealing corn from Mr. Vaught; stealing a battery from Dave Hungate and breaking into the graded school. Archie Woods, proprietor of the Big Store examined the rifle, but could not positively identify it as having been part of the loot taken when his place of business was robbed several weeks ago.

JURY SUSTAINS McCRAY WILL IN LENGTHY TRIAL

the court last Saturday on re-adjournment after several days vacation (owing to the extremely cold weather, a d snow and ice making roads difficult for jurors to travel, as well as for Judge Kindrick Alcorn to come here from his home in Stanford.

The grand jury met last Monday and returned five indictments—four for grand larceny and one for knowingly uttering a forged check. It was slated to meet again Monday at which time it will take up the unlicensed dog conditions in the county.

Sheriff Oscar Sanders has, at the request of the foreman of the grand jury, furnished that body with a list of all dogs licensed so far this year and also a list of dogs, reported in the tax assessor's reports, which have not been licensed. The grand jury is acting under Judge Alcorn's instructions to press the prevailing condition of a large number of unlicensed dogs in the county.

ISENBERG TELLS PLANS FOR WORK

County Industrial Foundations To Co-Ordinate With Shakerstown Industries Urged.

The "Onward Kentucky" movement was outlined at a meeting of the Kentucky Commercial Executives' Association at Frankfort Friday by Col. James L. Isenberg, Harrodsburg. Describing it as a plan to create county industrial foundations in various counties, Mr. Isenberg said the foundations are to be co-ordinated with the Shakerstown county-side industries.

Those present included Forrest Alvin, Covington, president of the association; Dr. J. E. Becker, Covington, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; W. E. Morrow, Louisville Board of Trade; Henry C. Pepper, secretary of the Paducah Chamber of Commerce; J. D. Edwards, secretary of the Harrodsburg Chamber of Commerce; Robert A. Blair, secretary of the Corbin Chamber of Commerce; and Wade H. Chandler, Corbin.

The Shakerstown industries will provide for all the other counties, business administration, group buying of material and collective selling of products, the manufacture of which will be under one uniform recipe and design, and sold under one nationally advertised brand, Mr. Isenberg said.

"Our ultimate object," he declared, "is to industrialize Kentucky with small industries in the various counties so as to give employment to local people and to manufacture products at their source."

Money for the foundations will be raised by methods similar to those employed in raising Community Chest funds, he said, adding that, while direct funds were spent within the year for direct charity, the Industrial Chest would set up industries which would provide work continuously.

"In my opinion," Mr. Isenberg continued, "it is the duty of the State to take care of paupers but it is the duty of the community to provide work to end pauperism."

Those investing their money in the county industries would receive a dividend up to 6 per cent annually, he asserted.

He urged that before the industrial foundations are established, an exposition be held in Frankfort some time in May on a date to be set by the Governor. The purpose of the exposition would be to show articles that bring out the ingenuity and talent of Kentucky people with the idea of discovering distinctive things that might interest tourists and that could be sold in other markets in the United States. One hundred prizes would be awarded for the most ingenious articles at the exposition.

This plan as explained by Mr. Isenberg was unanimously endorsed by members of the organization.

Mr. Alvin named a committee to co-operate with the executive committee of the "Onward Kentucky" movement. This committee will perfect plans for the exposition, which will be shown as the Kentucky Progress Exposition.

Men on the committee include Mr. Morrow, Mr. Pepper, Mr. Becker, Mr. Edwards, Ed Wilder and Howard Douglas.

The "Onward Kentucky" movement was organized last summer in Danville with twenty-two counties represented at the meeting. Dr. Chas. J. Turck president of Centre College, was named president of the movement.

KEENON REGISTERS AS A LOBBYIST

R. W. Keenon, attorney of Lexington, formerly of Harrodsburg, registered at Frankfort this week as a lobbyist for the Consolidated Coach Corporation and its associate companies. Mr. Keenon practiced law in Harrodsburg for a number of years, and often returns here to the bar.

BURGIN MINISTER IS ROTARY GUEST SPEAKER

The parallel of Christian ideals and the ideals of Rotary was the theme of a very splendid talk by Rev. J. O. Carter, pastor of the Baptist church at Burgin, to the Harrodsburg Rotary club at its luncheon meeting at Hotel Harrod last Wednesday.

ENJOYED ACQUAINTANCE WITH ENGLAND'S ROYALTY

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wood have received a letter from their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Brent Arnold, who have a beautiful home in Mocking Bird Valley, near Louisville, telling of their delightful stay in England, from which they recently returned. While there they were guests of their intimate friends, Ambassador and Mrs. Ralph Bingham, of Louisville, and through them met the members of the Royal Family of England. An especial friendship developed between the Arnolds and King Edward VIII, who was then Prince of Wales, and they enjoyed many games of cards together.

Mr. Arnold is a son of the late Col. Brent Arnold, formerly of Harrodsburg, who lived at Doricham, on College street, now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riker.

BUILDING, LOAN ELECTS LEADERS

Officers Re-Named With W. C. Rue Acting Secretary; Leon Morgan Added To Directors Board.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Harrodsburg Building and Saving Association last Tuesday the following directors were elected for the ensuing year:

William Gregory, Jr., Willard Gahhart, T. C. Dedman, George W. Edwards, Dr. A. D. Armstrong, B. G. Alderson, Judge Ben C. Allin, Leon Morgan and W. C. Rue.

Leon Morgan is the new director in place of T. S. McCrosky, who resigned last spring when he went to reside in Covington. Mr. Morgan is one of the city's active and progressive business men, and has always been much interested in the Building and Loan work and especially in the one in which he now becomes a director. The other directors of the Association have shown their ability in the past years of their service by the record of this Association.

After the adjournment of the stockholders the directors met and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: William Gregory, Jr., president; Willard Gahhart, vice president; W. C. Rue, secretary and treasurer.

MR. AND MRS. LOCKNANE MOVE TO SHELBY COUNTY

The following from the Maysville Independent is of interest to friends here:

A source of regret among the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Locknane is that they have gone to Shelby county to make their home. Together with their young sons, Guy Brown, Paul and Sammy, they left yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Locknane were residents of Maysville for some sixteen years, coming here from Carlisle in Shelby county they will occupy an interesting old farm home at Simpsonville, which is approximately twenty-two miles from Louisville and eight miles from Shelbyville. The address will be Shelbyville rural route.

Interesting sidelights about Mr. and Mrs. Locknane's new home is that it is just across the Frankfort-Louisville highway from the famous Ye Old Stone Inn, and that Mrs. Myra Purdy, with whom they will reside, is the widow of Dr. M. A. Purdy, pioneer veterinarian. Dr. Purdy, among other things, introduced the tuberculin test for cattle into Kentucky.

Mrs. Locknane's mother, Mrs. Sam Brown, is with Mrs. Ryan at Maysville for the present.

PIONEERS BOW TO BURGIN 43-12

Bulldogs Administer Second Defeat Of Current Season; Pioneers Train For Winchester Tilt.

With heads bloody but unbowed the Pioneers returned to Harrodsburg Tuesday night to recuperate from a drastic 43-12 defeat at the hands of the Burgin Bulldogs on the home floor of the victors. This was the second victory for the Bulldogs over the Pioneers this season, the Harrodsburg squad having put up a hard fight only to lose by 25-12 in a tilt on the Pioneer floor two weeks ago.

The Bulldogs were out to win from the initial whistle of the game Tuesday night and at the end of the first quarter had piled up a lead of 11-4. In the second period the Bulldogs annexed 13 points while the Pioneers were able to account for 3, bringing the score 24-7. The third quarter gave the Bulldogs another 13 points and the Pioneers were held to 2; the score standing at 37-9. With a team of reserves on the floor Burgin tallied 6 points in the final period and held the Pioneers to 3, the game ending 43-12.

Burgin substituted freely in the second half of the game, F. Gaskin was high point man for the Bulldogs with 12 tallies while Reed, lanky Pioneer center, took honors for the losing squad with 5 points.

In a preliminary game the Burgin Independents defeated the Harrodsburg Independents in a closer fought contest which ended with a score of 26-21.

The Pioneers are practicing daily this week and will try to improve their record here Saturday night in a conference game with Winchester high school. A double header program has been slated for Saturday night. Fairview will compete with the Harrodsburg Reserves in the preliminary contest which will begin at 7:30. The games will be played in the Harrodsburg high school gymnasium.
