

Man Must Salute Flag Every Day

Wipes Greasy Hands On Old Glory And Gets Thirty-Day Saluting Sentence.

Dan Keller, 24, of Battle Creek, Mich., who said he didn't know he was doing wrong when he wiped grease from his hands on an American flag, prepared to atone for his unintentional insult with another salute to the flag.

Three salutes each morning for 30 days, were ordered by Justice of the Peace, Will Cady, at the suggestion of Prosecutor Horace Mechem, after a policeman had noticed Keeler's act. There were complications on the first two mornings. Saturday the flag hadn't been raised at police headquarters when Keeler appeared but he directed his salute at the flag on a nearby postoffice.

The second, he did not appear but the flag on the post office is not raised on Sunday so he could not have done his salute anyway. Police said they would be ready for the ceremony every day in the future.

Keeler, a truck driver, said he found the flag beneath a seat of an automobile he had just bought, and used it to cleanse his hands after making minor repairs on the motor car.

HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

A MONK WHO EXPLORED THE
NEW WORLD/
LOUIS HENNEPIN

Father Hennepin was a Belgian missionary. Inspired by narratives of sea captains who had been to America, he joined La Salle, who later became his bitter enemy, on an expedition to Canada. His travels carried him through New York State, westward to Illinois and down the Mississippi River. After being held captive by the Sioux Indians for a year he was rescued by Count Du Lhut, and returned to France.

At home Hennepin published an account of his discoveries, in which he described Niagara Falls and claimed to have reached the mouth of the Mississippi. His later books were so unreliable that all his writings were soon looked upon with suspicion. By refusing to return to America, he made many enemies among his fellow monks, and his last years were spent in obscurity and disgrace.

RECIPROCAL TRADE AGREEMENT MADE

"Kentucky-grown tobacco will benefit very substantially by conclusion of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement between the United States and France," said Shelton M. Sautley, Louisville District Manager of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce who has just received complete text of the agreement and analysis of its general provisions and concessions. "In fact," he said, "the agreement provides for a 10 per cent increase in France's purchase of tobacco from this country, and as most of its requirements are supplied by Louisville dealers in Kentucky-grown tobacco, the evident benefits can be well appreciated. The agreement cites that tobacco to be bought from this country shall be not less than 20,500,000 pounds in weight and $3,200,000 in value, during the coming year."

MODEL HUSBAND

When a man bites a dog it's news and when a husband picks a bouquet of wild flowers for his wife, without being told to stop the machine and get out and get them, that's sensational news. So we extend congratulations to E. J. Whiteker, of Boyd, for being the most thoughtful husband of the week.—Cynthiana Democrat.

PROPER FOOD CURES DISEASE

What you eat and the quantity thereof probably measures the length of your life.

The importance of diet in the well-being of individuals has been increasingly recognized in recent decades, although one easily wonders why, for so many years, no one seems to have undertaken a real study of the fuel content of the human body.

There are wise people who believe that, given a proper diet, the individual would avoid disease. Of course, proper diet, spread over several generations would be necessary because of physical weaknesses that are transmitted.

Doctors have learned that lack of certain substances in food is responsible for some of our ills and now comes the word from the Mayo clinic that Addison's disease, once fatal, can be successfully treated by diet alone. The same discovery may be made about other scourges that inflict suffering and death upon human beings.

Dogs Guard At Federal Prison

Trained in Prison Work In Switzerland 8 Dogs Are Terror To Fleeing Prisoners.

The federal industrial reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, slows down to a walk at 4:30 p. m. each day. Pietro and Darius start their guard tours at that hour.

The two pioneer guard dogs of the federal service, who went there as an experiment two years ago, have convinced guards and inmates alike it is not safe to run across the wide prison yard while they're on duty.

Trained in Switzerland to bring down a running man and to disarm a man carrying gun or club, Pietro and Darius patrol the fields of the reformatory reservation at the heels of their guards each night.

So successful have they been that eight other dogs have joined the federal prison guard staffs at institutions where large tracts of outside territory must be patrolled. No man ever has slipped past them.

If the guard sees a prowler, a word speeds the dog after him, if the man stops dead in his tracks, the dog will not attack. If he brandishes a weapon, the dog will grab his wrist.

To guards and others at rest, the big, muscular police dogs are friendly and affectionate. But a man on the run is their enemy.

Guards there tell the story of a doubter who scoffed at Pietro and Darius when they first arrived.

"You can't tell me those dogs will attack a running man," he said. Guards who had trained with the dogs in the east offered to let him experiment.

The doubter set off for a garage a short distance away. Giving him a head-start, the guard loosed his charge. The man slammed the door behind him just as the dog leaped at his leg. He didn't scoff after that.

Another time, an inmate chasing a long fly on the baseball field during the late afternoon "rest" period, ran directly into the path of one of the dogs. Guards had cautioned inmates repeatedly to stop when the dog gave chase. The inmate-fielder was intent on the ball, however and the dog was after the man before the guard could stop him. A sharp command from the guard stopped the attack just in time.

The two guards are quick to obey the slightest command. A slight motion of the guard's hand, and the dog will sit down, arise, heel, move forward or backward.

Unlike the old time prison bloodhound, the police dogs are best known, not for tracking a lost prisoner, but for stopping a man before he can make his escape.

Approximately 60,000 applications for State jobs have been received and are on file in Dr. Manning's office. This number is one-forty-fourth of the State's population of approximately 2,600,000.

After September 1, the reorganization act provides that all appointments, with specified exceptions, shall be made after the applicants are given ability tests conducted by the personnel division.
