107 Women Have Paid Employment

Mercer WPA Work-Training Centers Give Gainful Help While Teaching Better Living Methods.

Gratifying results are more and more evident in the Women's Work of the Works Progress Administration.

The Training Work Centers and other projects in the Danville District of which this community is a part, give congenial worth-while employment to over 1900 women. In Mercer County, alone 107 women are gainfully employed.

The effectiveness and practical training of the work are every day becoming more noticeable. The most outstanding effect of the work is the changed mental attitude of the women workers. To realize that they are not on "relief" but are actually earning the money they are receiving, while at the same time getting practical training that will enable them to pass their knowledge on to their children as well as to use it advantageously for themselves is a source of such supreme satisfaction that it is reflected in their attitude in the work rooms. The useful character of their work in producing much-needed garments for the under-privileged is also a source of pride to them.

Many requests have been made by the Sponsors for finished garments. One County Judge in our District recently advised that 200 dresses were needed in his County. Another wrote of several of his residents who were in hospitals without any sort of sleeping garments, other homes had burned which necessitated an immediate supply of clothing. These and other requests too numerous to mention, they were able to comply with at once, bringing comfort to the recipient as well as to the worker who feels that she did her bit in contributing to the wants and needs of these who through prevailing circumstances are not financially able to purchase all the necessities of life.

Another angle in the morale-building influence is that of the circulation of the money that the women are earning. The merchants and professional men of the counties are coming in for their share of the turn-over of the dollar. There is no phase of business life that is not being affected by having some of this money coming into it, for the worker's needs are so numerous and varied that in the spending every citizen gets a share.

A large share of the credit for the success of the work is due to the Sponsors and other interested persons who have arranged for work rooms, light, heat and other incidentals.

The Women's work under the Works Progress Administration is a business proposition with no foolish sentimentalism and no waste of energy. Levels of employment for any type of woman are provided.

In addition to the Training Work Centers in Mercer County, there is an Adult Education project employing 4 women and 3 women employed on the Nursery School project. Other counties Cross Index and Public Health projects employ those who are qualified to do office work. The work done is valuable in that statistics are compiled upon which future work is based. This work would not ordinarily be done if these women were not employed for this purpose.

Mrs. Lillian Edger, County Supervisor of Training Work Centers works in close cooperation with Judge Chas. T. Corn, sponsor of the project in order to more effectively fill the needs of Mercer County.

Should Plan A Double Career

Girls Should Be Prepared To Earn Satisfying Livelihood; Also Be Trained in Housekeeping.

Every girl should be prepared for two careers: One by which she can earn a satisfying livelihood and make a worthy contribution to humanity, and one in woman's own sphere, homemaking. Every year about 20 girls who are seniors in the home economics department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture spend six weeks in a home management house, where intensive practice is given in keeping a home in as nearly normal a family atmosphere as possible. Five girls stay in the house at a time, supervised by a staff member.

One of the chief duties is to learn to be an efficient consumer. It is estimated that woman spend the larger part of the family income. To do it wisely, it is essential to know marketing, foods, clothes, household equipment, allocation of income, and the value of savings, including investments and insurance. Appreciation of an efficiently managed home is a contributing factor to the welfare of the family. Girls are taught to have a convenient place for everything, and use of a house-hold schedule to plan and dispatch work; the ability to be hospitable with poise and dignity; to be able to use leisure time properly, and to realize the value of well-planned, cooked and served meals.

Understanding of parenthood and of the fundamental rights of children, are stressed. Especially is pre-school care taught, as influencing the child's happiness and contribution in life. When a 10-year survey was made of Phi Upsilon Omicron and Omicron Nu, national home economics organizations, it was found that there had been only two divorces.

NICKING FLOWER SEEDS AIDS GROWTH

The gardener can hasten and increase the percentage of germination of many of his flower seeds by cutting a nick in the tough seed coat. Many seed coats are so tough that they hinder penetration of moisture to the interior of the seed, thus delaying germination. It is for this reason that scarification of the seed coat is recommended.

Seeds of the following flowers will be aided by this treatment: Canna lily, all types of morning glory, perennial and annual sweet peas, lupin and moon flower. Another advised treatment for these same seeds is an overnight soaking in warm water.

In the case of the castor bean, it is recommended that the entire seed coat be removed. In scarification, or chipping of the seed coat, gardeners must be careful to cut only the outer covering, for an injury to the interior portion may completely destroy the seed.

CLOSET SHELF

A shelf across the back of the coat closet—just above the base board is a convenient place for the rubbers and galoshes that usually clutter up the floor. The shelf should slope to the wall and be set about an inch or an inch and a half from the wall so that dirt and mud can drop thru to the floor, where it can be cleaned up more easily.

CUPBOARDS

In building a chimney there is usually some unused space left at the side above the line of the fireplace. More often than not this space is just boxed in and plastered over and lost. Our ancestors, more frugal folk than we, put cupboards in these spaces and used them for storing any number of things. Sometimes we do the same now, but there is many a chimney breast that hides a potential bookcase or storage cupboard, and the home owner is ignorant of his loss.

If the room, or even just the chimney breast, is paneled, a secret cupboard can be installed with a panel that opens at a definite push. While it would not be advisable to hide the family jewels in such a case, there are things of less intrinsic value that one might trust to its keeping. And there is something about a secret cupboard that appeals to all of us.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN OF FICER IN TEXAS "KY. CLUB"

Mrs. Douglas Collins, formerly Miss Anna Polk, of Harrodsburg, is parliamentarian of the Kentucky Club, at Dallas, Texas, a recently state chartered organization which will on June 30 celebrate "Kentucky Day," at the Texas Centennial Exposition. Mrs. Collins, who left here a number of years ago as a young girl, has become prominent in Texas women's club activities. The Kentucky Club of Dallas is one of the oldest of the clubs of that state. It boasts 300 members. It has been unincorporated, but the necessity for incorporation recently arose in handling funds for a scholarship at Pine Mountain Settlement School, in Kentucky.

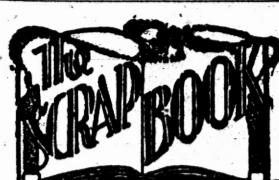

FIRST LADY'S EARNINGS

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt makes almost as much money each year as does her husband. The President's salary is $75,000 per year. Last year the first lady's radio talks, magazine and newspaper articles, books and other enterprises brought her $72,000. But all of her earnings go to charity, and without deducting even the expenses she incurs from her own personal funds for the income tax upon them.

To increase her earnings for charity Mrs. Roosevelt recently arranged to write a daily column entitled "My Day" for a group of newspapers. This column reports some of the first lady's interesting experiences.

HOME

We built the big house on the hill, But O, I love the little one still; The little one gray with the wind and rain.

Small of door and window pane, Yet never too small for joy to share, And never a room for sorrow there.

The friendly trees leaned down to talk, Close to the flower-bordered walk, The sagging gate where moonlight dreamed.

While far in the shadows its silver stream.

A path of light that ran before, And found its way in the old house door.

We built the big house on the hill, But O, I love the little one still; The little one shabby and gray with the years,

Filled with memories of joys and tears;

I pass it by with lonely pain,

And my heart and I live there again.
