LEGION HALL IS OFFERED SCHOOLS FOR BANQUET USE

Douglas Laws Post Votes To Allow Mercer County Schools Use Of Hall For Banquets.

TALK DURING PROGRAM ON AMERICANISM OR RELIGION

Prizes Offered Legionnaires During Membership Drive By Commander Bryan Board.

Schools in Mercer County desiring to hold dinner meetings and other similar gatherings who have no building or room in which to do so may use the new American Legion quarters, according to an announcement by Commander Bryan Board, of Douglas Laws Post.

The Legion voted to offer use of their new quarters as a dining hall to schools at their last meeting, Mr. Board said. The only provision is that during such meetings, the Legion asks one present to make a short talk on Americanism or religion or both, since these are two of the Legion's objectives.

Commander Board also announced that he was offering a prize to be donated by himself to Legion members in the membership drive which is under way and lasts for the next two months. To the member who brings in the most new members in that period, Mr. Board offers prizes as follows:

First prize—A New American Legion cap.

Second prize—American Legion tie clasp with insignia.

Third prize—American Legion necktie with insignia.

The Post also desires to express their appreciation to the following musicians who were heard at the recent dinner meeting held marking opening of the new hall: Harvey D. Leonard, violin; Charlie Leonard, guitar; Ernest Wilham, mandolin and Frank Ketchersid, piano.

SCHOOL CHILDREN RECEIVE CLOTHES

Needy Young And Old Supplied With Garments Made at WPA Work Centers.

For the past month the women employed in the WPA Work Training Center project have turned their time to making hundreds of yards of cloth into clothes for school children, which should be an adequate supply for the needy in all the Mercer county schools. Due to the drought prevailing throughout the county and the inability of parents to secure work there has been an increasing demand for clothes of all description for both adults and children.

With the advent of fall and winter the need grows for more clothes. Beginning this week the five Work Training Centers in Mercer county will begin to fashion the supply of new material into clothing for those who need it. With the cooperation of Judge Charles T. Corn, sponsor for the women's Work Training Project; Mrs. Fay Davenport, the County Certifying Agent, and Thaniel Howard, Commodity Clerk, the clothing is distributed among the families who actually need it throughout the county and in the schools. Emergency orders for the sick the past month have exceeded all other months. These sick supplies include night dresses, night shirts, etc.

Each group of women in the Training Work Centers is displaying much interest in the instruction given in sewing, and Mrs. Lillian Edger, the County Supervisor, states that she is glad to report a great improvement both in the construction of garments, and the neatness of the sewing. Much emphasis is placed on good workmanship in the training.

Six women in the Training Centers have been put to work recently, four of them being through L. H. Jones, Rural Resettlement Agent, who is in charge of the Mercer county drought sufferers.

38th TANK UNIT

TO RECEIVE NEW FIGHTING MODEL

Assigned One Of Latest Design In War Craft In Tank Model M11K-2, It Is Announced.

MUST BE OPERATED, CARED FOR BY EXPERIENCED MAN

Capt. Bacon Moore Names Staff Sgt. James Parsons For Training At Fort Benning, Ga.

The 38th Tank Unit, National Guards, Harrodsburg, has been assigned a new tank, Model M11K-2, one of the latest fighting tanks, according to First Lieut. Truman Mayes. The tank will be received here between December 15, 1936, and December 15, 1937.

Capt. Bacon R. Moore was authorized to select one of his men to go to Fort Benning, Ga., for special training in the care of a tank model and has named Staff Sgt. James Parsons, of McAfee, for the post. An experienced person is necessary to take proper care of the tank and to operate it. The 38th Tank Unit has openings for five more recruits, Lieut. Mayes announced.

The tank now in possession of the 38th Unit, is obsolete, being a 1917 model, and it has not been used for a year in practice. It is stored in the Unit's quarters on the Harvey Van-Diver place. An army inspector will be here soon, Lieut. Mayes said, and may order the old tank to be broken up and the pieces sold for scrap iron. There is at least $7 or $8 worth of scrap iron in the parts. The money so derived goes to government.

WAREHOUSES TO RECEIVE TOBACCO, NOVEMBER 15

The Geary Tobacco Company found out the value of advertising last week when The Herald printed a news item of seven lines about the opening of the tobacco market, quoting one of the Geary men, Jesse Ransdell. Inadvertently this paper gave the opening date to receive tobacco as "October 15" when it should have been November 15. The error got by in the rush of press day work.

That seven-line item caught the eye of many a tobacco grower and for several days after the paper came out the Geary officials had a number of applications for space, one grower coming from Anderson county. They have had a busy time telling tobacco men that the correct date is November 15 when the company will accept tobacco.

The Herald regrets the error and hopes all the fellows who read and acted so promptly on the little news item of seven lines, will give the same effective consideration to the real ads of the tobacco market.

HOSPITAL BOARD AND FISCAL COURT REACH TERMS

Handsome New Stone Structure Will Be Erected By Aid Of Works Progress Administration.

A $60,000 BUILDING MODERN IN EVERY SENSE

Fiscal Court Sponsors Project; Hospital Board To Furnish $15,000 To Match Federal Funds.

Work on the construction of a new hospital building will begin in a few weeks, it was announced today following the second meeting this week of the board of directors of the A. D. Price Memorial Hospital. At these sessions every phase of the proposed plan to deed the present hospital and grounds to the Mercer Fiscal Court, which will act as sponsor for the erection of the new building in cooperation with the Works Progress Administration, was discussed, and the tentative plans prepared by Churchill and Gilling, Lexington architects, examined. Full approval resulted and the board voted to immediately deed the hospital property to the fiscal court, which after the work is completed may return the property to the board at its discretion.

L. C. Riker, member of the board, explained the plan of financing the erection of handsome stone structure with facilities for 34 patients including 21 private rooms. There will be waiting room, diet kitchen, operating rooms and other necessary rooms, with quarters for the nurses so that they may sleep in the building instead of taking rooms out as at present. The new hospital will be modern throughout.

The fiscal court as sponsor of the project will be required to furnish $15,000 of the approximately $60,000 necessary to erect the new hospital. This amount of cash will be turned over to the court by the hospital board. All that the court will furnish is rock from the county quarry and some of the implements. The money in the hands of the board for building has been acquired by donations for that purpose a few years ago, the McCray bequest and several other contributions. As these do not quite complete the necessary $15,000 the hospital board will raise the balance in the near future.

The present hospital will be left intact and used at the discretion of the board, which may be until the new building is completed. The front entrance to the stone structure will be on the vacant lot at the south of the present building, and the building extended back in an L shape around the hospital as it now stands to West Poplar street. In the course of time the present structure on the corner will be torn down and the space landscaped into a yard.

The plans will be sent to the Work Progress Administration at Washington and as soon as they are approved the work will begin.

AID FOR FARMERS HIT BY DROUGHT

Many Apply For Emergency Help Through L. H. Jones, County Rehabilitation Supervisor.

Applications are being taken from drought-stricken and destitute farmers in Mercer county for emergency aid for subsistence at the Rural Rehabilitation office on the second floor of the Post Office Building. Need and eligibility for aid will be determined by the Rehabilitation worker after investigation.

L. H. Jones, Rural Rehabilitation Supervisor, stated that his office is not taking applications for WPA employment, but that it is only receiving applications for aid from drought-stricken farmers who have exhausted sources of credit from which to secure subsistence. After need for aid and eligibility is determined, the family will be referred to the proper agency for assistance.

Farmers without adequate credit elsewhere may also make applications for emergency seed loans and for feed loans to maintain a limited number of work stock and subsistence animals or to maintain purebred or high-grade breeding animals.
