

Connie Mack at 73

PHILADELPHIA—Connie Mack, "baseball's grand old man," spent his 73d birthday at his desk here actively mapping plans for leading his beloved Philadelphia "Athletics" into the 1936 major league baseball season.

SECRET OF DRESDEN CHINA DISCOVERED BY ALCHEMIST

Meissen, Germany owes its great porcelain works, the home of Dresden china, to a young man, Johann Bottger, who started out early in the eighteenth century to convert base metals to gold and discovered instead the secret of making porcelain.

Imprisoned by August the Strong, king of Saxony, and told to produce gold by alchemy, Bottger went out over the countryside digging mysterious holes in the ground and keeping samples of the earth he dug up. Then after experiments with these he succeeded in making a red earthenware and later a white porcelain, wares that had hitherto been obtainable only in China.

Today travelers are allowed to go through the porcelain works in Meissen and view at leisure the various processes, but in Bottger's time the secret was so valuable that August the Strong kept him and his workmen virtually prisoners. A century after the discovery for instance, when Napoleon wanted to know the process, the director of the works had to ask the Saxon Elector before he could reveal it.

One of the finest collections of Dresden china is, appropriately enough, in Dresden, only seventeen miles from Meissen. It contains an example of nearly every piece ever turned out by the factory, and in addition has thousands of specimens of the finest Chinese, Japanese and European porcelains.

HORN HONKERS

The driver who honks his horn unnecessarily isn't exactly a menace, but he is one of the greatest nuisances our civilization has developed. Exterminating him would probably be too severe punishment but if it is possible to civilize him, no effort should be spared to do so.

The horn on an auto should be for emergency use only and the fellow who uses it permissively is abusing the purpose for which it is intended as well as making himself a sort of public enemy.

Many of the larger cities are campaigning against unnecessary noises and the excessive use of auto horns is getting due attention. In New York and other large centers, several arrests and fines have been meted out to those who disturb the peace with auto horns.

It has been estimated that the average driver uses the horn about five times as much as it should be used legitimately. The fine suggestion made on the subject that the use of brakes should replace the use of the horns is of real merit and such practice would automatically eliminate the horn honker and the nuisance that he creates.

A MERE DOLLAR

An exchange has this to say about a dollar: "A dollar is something the average business man enjoys more in anticipation than in realization. It is the price of a drink for others. It is what the good wife frequently needs, but seldom has. It is the power that makes or upmakes men. It is the hardest thing to get and the easiest thing to get rid of known to mankind. It is a blessing in a small measure and a curse in many instances. No man ever had more than he wanted and no man ever will. A dollar is a delusion, and all of us are chasing the delusion."

Benefits of Booze

(Interior Journal, Stanford)

Lincoln county had the past week another illustration of the benefits to a community from the sale of booze within its borders. A man ordinarily harmless and kindly, we are told, certainly not a man of homicidal tendencies when at himself, beat his wife of his bosom, the mother of his children, to death, her poor head and face being almost an unrecognizable mass of blood and bruises.

The life of one mother is worth more than all the hell-raising, murder-provoking booze that ever was manufactured from the dawn of history to this day. One crime after another is being laid to its door. This Lincoln county family is not the only one in which Christmas found a tragedy brooding by the fireside.

The man who committed this crime "does not remember anything about it." And we imagine the poor man is telling the truth. But what business had he to fill his belly with the thing that steals away his brains, to start on a drunken holiday with the money his wife and children probably needed for Christmas or for every-day needs for that matter?

"Who hath woe? Who hath sorrow? Who hath redness of eyes? They that tarry long at the wine. They that go to drink mixed wine, for at the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder." And that's as true as the gospel from which it is taken.

U.S. SELLING MORE AUTO TIRES TO CUBA

That United States tire manufacturers are obtaining an increasingly larger share of the Cuban market is shown in a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department. During the first eleven months of 1935 the United States obtained 87 per cent of the total Cuban tire trade compared with 81 per cent in the corresponding period of 1934 and 75 per cent in the January-November period of 1933.
