English Wear Smart Clothes

But Only Half Of Well-Dressed Men And Women At Ascot Race Own Their Clothes.

Smartly dressed ladies and immaculate gentlemen parade in the finest of clothes at the opening of the Royal Ascot race meeting in London, England, each June—but only 50 per cent of them own the clothes.

London tailors admit that half the persons who attend the four-day meeting wear rented clothes.

British men, reputedly the best dressed in the world, prefer hiring Ascot costumes rather than buying them because the traditional gray topper and swanky coats can be worn only during the Ascot meeting.

Seven thousand top hats, mostly gray, are to be seen during the meeting but five thousand of them will be returned to clothes lenders' shelves.

Half the women are professional mannequins showing off dressmakers

MENU PLANNING

In planning the company menu, remember that a few dishes, well prepared, make a much greater appeal than many dishes of less high quality.

Dinner might consist in an appetizer of fruit cup, tomato or fruit-juice cocktail, or a soup; meat; one starchy vegetable; one succulent vegetable; a crisp salad; rolls; hot drink and a dessert. Celery, pickles, jellies, nuts and candies may be added.

Luncheon meat are lighter than dinner meats and the first course or the salad is omitted. A simple luncheon or a supper offers a meat dish, a starchy vegetable and a salad.

Contrasts in texture and colors increase the attractiveness of a meal. In serving company meals, baked meats have the advantage of staying hot a long time and so affording opportunity for last minute preparations.

RATS TEACH CHILDREN ILL EFFECT OF TOO MUCH CANDY

White rats used for experimental purposes have forcefully proved to children in the University of Kentucky elementary school at Lexington, that excessive use of candies and sweets is harmful to the human constitution.

Those enrolled in the sixth grade during the past year have had the services of a number of white rats on which to conduct their experiments. At the first of the year the animals weighed approximately the same. To some of the rats a balanced diet was allowed and those animals thrived. Others got only sweets. Much to the amazement of the pupils, these animals promptly started to lose weight, became anemic, and were in a precarious condition, when a balanced diet, starting largely with milk, was given the rats, and the animals quickly regained their normal condition.

SHOULD WOMEN PROPOSE?

It is always interesting to get the varied reactions of men and women to the question, "Should women propose?" It is something of a surprise, however, to learn the results from The Progressive Farmer's recent prize offer for letters on the subject. As the editors report:

"It was evidently all a woman's idea to begin with—that man must do the proposing. We say so because a great proportion of the hundreds of letters from women said 'No' to our question of whether a woman shall propose. The men, on the other hand, were practically unanimous in saying, 'Yes, let her!' On about a dozen men in all held out for their rights."

MERCHANT LIKES WPA PRIZE DRESS, ONWARD EXPOSITION

A dress, made by Mrs. Clyde Slinker, under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Mudd, which was taken to the Onward Kentucky Exhibition at Frankfort won a capital city prize for unusual design and workmanship. This dress attracted much attention during the exhibit. Two representatives from the Farmers' Store in Frankfort stated that they could give orders for dozens of dresses of this type. The dress was taken with a number of articles to WPA headquarters in Danville and from there was chosen for the exhibit.—Greensburg Record-Herald.

SACRIFICED MOTHERS

In all the civilized world, only in Scotland is the death rate from maternity higher than in our enlightened United States, says Helen Welshimer in Good Housekeeping. We lose approximately 100,000 lives a year—mothers and newborn infants—in the gentle and beautiful adventure of motherhood! This constitutes one of the most pitiful sacrifices tolerated by the modern world. For two-thirds of these lost mothers can be saved!

WEARING SHORTS COSTLY PRIVILEGE IN MAYSVILLE

The privilege of wearing shorts in Maysville is going to prove pretty expensive to women thereabouts if Police Judge H. C. Curran has his way.

Judge Curran fined Mrs. Mary Olive Thomas $23.90, including costs, for appearing on the streets of Maysville in shorts. Mrs. Thomas was held into court on a warrant sworn to by Mrs. Mary Helphenstine of East Front street.

The complaining witness said that the defendant "paraded past her home clad only in shorts." The warrant charged the defendant with "exposing her person in public."

I MEANT TO DO MY WORK

I meant to do my work today—But a brown bird sang in the apple-tree

And a butterfly flitted across the field,

And all the leaves were calling me.

And the wind went sighing over the land,

Tossing the grasses to and fro,

And a rainbow held out its shining hand—

So what could I do but laugh and go?

—Richard Le Gallienne.
