Gentlemen:-

You have been shipping us a lot of stuff when we distinctly telegraphed you not to do so. What is your idea? I haven't selected the style Krell piano promised, nor have your agents obtained the other firms necessary to validate the contract. We may not start the contest until Spring and if times remain as in the last few months it would be useless. We have no desire to get into a disagreement, but do not propose to be forced into something that would not increase our business over last year's and cost us both time and money. I fail utterly to see why you persist in shipping your stuff here when there is no place to store it nor any prospect of starting a contest until the financial outlook through the country has improved.

Yours,

T.S.Orr, Mgr.
