

6-Million Dollars Daily For Drinks

Americans Spent Over 8-Billion For Intoxicants Since Repeal; Small
Taxes To Government.

Citizens of the United States are spending $6,708,000 a day for intoxicating drink and beer according to an article printed in The Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal Friday. The facts given are authentic and were accumulated by The American Business Men's Research Foundation. According to the news story, Americans have spent over eight billion dollars on drink since repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment three years ago. Of this amount the liquor industry paid in taxes one-eighth of the amount or $1,387,481,432. Out of every dollar of the eight billion dollars the drink trade has spent the United States government got less than five cents. The Business Men's Foundation balances this small tax amount against the mounting costs of relief, accidents and disorder caused by the liquor traffic.

The American taxpayer will balance the loss of legitimate business through regular trade channels to the liquor industry. He may wonder if he likes the idea, especially with traffic accidents, murders and drunken brawls becoming a daily occurrence, and he may finally decide to vote the liquor business out again. Regardless of his decision, Mr. Taxpayer is doing some tall thinking. Her figures such as the above which are now released.

Perryville Battlefield

The following was written by Will Kaitenbacher in Sunday's Courier-Journal about the Perryville Battlefield and will be of special interest, as efforts are now being made by the Perryville Commercial Club to improve the famous battle grounds:

It is announced that an inspection will be made of the Perryville Battlefield, in Boyle County, looking to needed improvements and better care of the noted reservation. The battlefield, which was the scene of a bloody engagement between Union and Confederate armies, combines a national cemetery with a State reservation.

Numerous Union and Confederate memorials have been erected on the battlefield site by survivors of both armies that took part in the historic engagement, during which the casualties were exceedingly heavy, the dead being buried where they fell. Thousands visit the battlefield annually, and it is the purpose to make the park and surroundings more attractive.

Some years ago the State undertook some improvements at the Perryville Battlefield, among them the building of a road to make the memorial more accessible. Later a plot of ground within the park was ceded to the Federal Government as the site of a national monument. The reservation is adjacent to several through-tourist routes and increasing numbers of travelers from every section of the country visit the scene that still bears the physical scars of the desperate conflict waged during the War Between the States.

Federal W. P. A. funds have been allocated for certain improvements including the construction of a caretaker's lodge in the reservation. Some vandalism has been committed by relic hunters in the past, and it is proposed that efforts be directed to taking better care of the property which is regarded throughout the country as an outstanding Union and Confederate shrine and one of the few joint memorials of the War Between the States. Until the surviving veterans on both sides reached prohibitive ages, there were frequent pilgrimages to the famous battlefield. —Danville Messenger.

Indian Language a Puzzle

During the World war the Germans often tapped the underground telephone systems of the allies and secured valuable information, says a writer in Collier's Weekly. But one day new and strange sounds began to come over the wires, baffling the code experts and linguists up to the time of the Armistice. It was the language of a group of American Indians who had been taught to send and receive the messages.

Keeneland Scene Of Much Brilliancy

Fleet Horses, Beautiful Women And Well Groomed Men
Open Track.

Keeneland, new race course, five miles from Lexington on the Versailles pike has been pronounced "the most beautiful race track in America" by many of the thousands who attended the inauguration of racing.

"We hope to have the support of all the public," President Hal Price Headley said yesterday in explaining the policy of the non-profit association in reducing admission prices to $1.00 for men and 50 cents for ladies. "The purpose of Keeneland," he added, "is to give an example and model in the home of the horse breeding industry of what racing ought to be."

Many innovations have been introduced at the Keeneland meeting. One of the most attractive has been the saddling of the thoroughbreds in the open walking ring back of the grandstand where those present can see the horses saddled and the colorful mounting of the jockeys before each race and weighing in and presentation of trophies after each race.

Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson, representing the state officially opening day in the absence of Gov. Chandler whose box has been occupied by Mrs. Chandler and an official party. Warren Wright, master of Calumet Farm, Thomas Platt, president of the Thoroughbred Club of America, and others have made the formal presentation of trophies.

Every inch of the mile and a sixteenth track can be seen from all parts of the grand stand and from the highest point in it, as far as the eye can see, are Blue Grass horse farms, making this a natural setting for racing.

Myrtlewood, owned by Brownell Combs and known as "queen of the Western turf," won the first big feature at Keeneland.

In addition to racing many visitors enjoyed viewing the beautiful avenue of pin oaks and the setting adjoining the old Keene homestead where Lafayette visited.

Nearly all the races have some striking feature and all are named. On the closing day, Saturday, October 24, there will be a run-off of The Experimental Handicap in which every horse is to carry the same weight and race under the same conditions he raced on the previous Monday. The Lexington Stakes and Sagamore Handicap are other features of this day. Friday's program features longer distance races.

Marriage Ceremonial's Aim

According to anthropologists, much of the marriage ceremonial among primitive peoples is aimed at removing the possible evil influences of taking a stranger into the family.

Words Few but Effective

Washington seldom spoke in public and when he did, it was but a few pointed remarks. In the convention that framed the Constitution he made but two speeches, of a few words each, yet the convention acknowledged the master spirit and it is said that but for the 30 words of his first speech the Constitution would have been rejected by the people.

Coach for the Holy Ghost

For centuries in monarchical Spain, even to the day it became a republic in 1931, every royal procession included an empty coach, the coche de respeto. This beautiful carriage, writes Rachael L. Woodhouse, Madison, Wis., in Collier's Weekly which preceded that of the king in both rank and order, was reserved exclusively for the Holy Ghost.

MRS. W. E. GABHART

AT AUCTION Excellent 270 Acre Farm

Of the Late David B. Jones
On the Premises at 10 A. M.

Thursday, October 29, 1936

This farm is located 8 miles Southwest of Versailles on the Soards Ferry (Scotts Ferry) pike. Improvements consist of eight room dwelling with four porches and cellar. Splendid well at door and lots of shade trees.

Three tobacco barns, two tenant houses, metal lined corn crib, two car garage and other necessary outbuildings. This is very productive land. We know of no farm that produces a better colony type of tobacco. The '36 crop now in the barn will clearly prove this statement. An ideal farm for handling live stock as it is well watered by large pond, springs and the Kentucky river. Also well fenced. Large fish pond stocked with new lights and bass. The beautiful surroundings of this home cannot but make one happy and should give added years to your life. Just recently 200 tons of lime have been distributed on a portion of this farm. There has been a large percentage of this land kept in grass for the past 25 years, with only 30 acres in cultivation this year which is sown to Rye. To the Home Seeker or the one who wants an ideal investment that will really earn you a nice revenue, do not overlook this buy. Remember Woodford County has the lowest tax rate of any county in the state. You must look to fully appreciate this farm. Be there day of sale. Own your home and business. On school bus route.

Immediately after farm sale will sell the following: 4 Mules, Milk Cow, 225 bales Hay, 50 barrels Corn, lot baled Rye and all necessary Farm Implements and Shop Tools. Household Effects, practically new Kerosene Automatic Refrigerator, Ice Refrigerator, Roll Top Desk and other Household Goods.

TERMS MADE KNOWN ON DAY OF SALE

Anyone can be shown farm before sale date. Call Mrs. Jones, Versailles 902-M or Jas. P. Donnellan, 595-R or Lexington Mrs. J. F. Grimes 7395 or C. Spilman Jones 2154.
