MAN SHOOTS CHICKEN BULLET KILLS SON

Justice Moore, a farmer, was shot and killed accidentally at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, at the home of his father, Walker Moore, 60, on the Scott's Station road, five miles northwest of Shelbyville, when a rifle bullet with which the father had killed a chicken ricochetted off a stone went thru a barn and into the heart of his son, who was on a wagon hauling water. Young Moore was accompanied by a brother. The shooting was pronounced accidental by Coroner F. L. Lapsley.

SAYS LAWNS NEED RESEEDING THIS FALL

While much bluegrass in lawns has been destroyed by drought, N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, believes most of the old sod will renew itself when rains come.

If the grass does not come back satisfactorily, he says it may be necessary to loosen the top two or three inches of the soil, fertilize and reseed to bluegrass in September. In any event, many lawns will have spots which will need this treatment.

Fertilizer should be applied about 10 days before seeding and thoroughly raked into the soil. A good high-grade fertilizer should be used at the rate of 10 to 12 pounds per 1,000 square feet of lawn. If the lawn renews itself so that reseeding need not be done then the fertilizer should not be applied until October.

Prof. Elliott suggests that now is a good time to dig or pull weeds from lawns. This prevents their maturing seed and lessens the number next year. If there is crabgrass, rake out as much as possible, remove and burn to prevent seed maturing.

Plan now to seed the lawn about Sept. 15. Experiments indicate that about the middle of September is the best time of year to sow bluegrass in lawns.

GOUGING NEWSPAPERS

It is often amusing and sometimes disgusting to observe the apparent earnestness with which some men suggest, and even insist on a newspaper giving a free helping hand to some project in which the said individual is interested and yet in which he would lose all interest if his salary or other financial interests were removed. The average newspaper gives more freely of its space, which is the only commodity it has for sale, in order to boost projects, which are, more or less of a public nature, and for which the newspaper gets very little if any credit. Just remove the money incentive from some of those boosters and see how their community pride and public spiritedness responds. In fact, some of such fellows are selfish to the core and poor boosters at best.—Danville Advocate.

Your Family Coat-of-Arms

MIDDLETON

William a grandson of Arthur Middleton, Governor of South Carolina, was created a baronet in 1804 and bore the above coat of arms. This Baronetcy became extinct in 1860 upon the death of William's only son Sir Middleton Fowle, the second Baronet, and the representation of the family passed to the descendants of his uncle Thomas of North Carolina.

Of the descendants of Governor Arthur Middleton his oldest son, William, was apparently the only one to return to England and settle there. The other children and their descendants remained in America.

Description of Arms: Black diagonal stripes on a silver shield—in the left hand corner an animal's head on a gold and black background.

Crest: A shock of grain between two wings.

Motto: Respect my right.

Mercer Insurance Agent Is Honored

GOODLOE MAYES

Goodloe Mayes, special agent of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, Pa., sold more insurance than any of the other 2,000 agents working for the company throughout the United States, during the month of July, and as a result was given a special feature article in The Scoreboard, company publication. Mr. Mayes' picture, as reproduced in this article, appeared in the publication.

Mr. Mayes, who is a resident of Mercer County, has been in the insurance business for nine years. Prior to two years ago he ran a general merchandise store at Mayo, but lately has been devoting his entire time to the insurance business.

As special agent for the company, Mr. Mayes has a territory including 60 counties, embracing the entire eastern half of Kentucky.

In an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this week's Herald, Mr. Mayes thanks his friends for their cooperation in securing this coveted honor.

RACE HORSES AND SHEEP IN THE BLUEGRASS

(Elizabethtown News)

The bluegrass of Central Kentucky seems to furnish something to the race horses that gives them speed and endurance. Most of the great horses are either bred in old Kentucky, or else they are kept there during the racing season and between seasons because of the superiority of the bluegrass.

We doubt seriously, however, if Kentucky as a State realizes very much profit from race horses, but there is another animal that feeds on the bluegrass, the sheep. Every year there are more and more sheep raised in Central Kentucky. Kentucky lambs bring the top price on the market everywhere. They come early and are very fine. If a man has 40 ewes he will probably have 60 lambs. He will get from these 60 lambs much more money than his 40 ewes cost him, and he will have the wool in addition. The sheep industry probably means more money to the farmers in Central Kentucky than the race horses.

Spencer county farmers are having samples of soil tested and are showing renewed interest in the soil improvement program.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN THE PENITENTIARIES

Religious instruction has always been given in the penitentiaries. Both the Frankfort Reformatory and the Eddyville Penitentiary have chaplains, but recently in Eddyville there has been a contest for Sunday school attendance, and on the rally day at that institution there were 314 men present. The Sunday school attendance was not obligatory, but voluntary. Inmates could read newspapers, write letters or loaf during the Sunday morning hour.

Probably this is a greater ratio of attendance upon Sunday school than can be found in most of the churches in the state. The Eddyville despatch did not give the percentage of those who were present, but it evidently was very large. A great many people in every community who should be in Sunday school spend the hour in bed, at the breakfast table, reading, playing golf or doing many other things, and the Sunday school only takes an hour of time! Many professed Christians who have no interest and do not attend Sunday school might learn a lesson of value from the way the convicts at Eddyville attend.—Elizabethtown News.

The Woman's Angle

By Nancy Hart

The hair is such an important accessory to beauty and attractiveness that it well repays all the care and attention we can give to preserve it and keep the scalp in good condition, and health. Here are a few reminders from a noted beauty expert which every woman should heed: Brush your hair, massage the scalp, comb and set it . . . then leave it alone. Don't fuss over the scalp or finger the hair unnecessarily. Avoid scratching the scalp with the nails. You may cause abrasions which open the door to infection. In addition, rough usage scratching, too frequent wetting and fussing are contributing causes to excessive dandruff. Most of our scratching and fussing with the hair and scalp is simply due to nervous habit. If the scalp itches even slightly, it is a sign of trouble that should not be neglected. A mild shampoo will usually stop it, but should this not prove effective a specialist should be consulted.

It is a common belief that singeing the hair with fire will benefit it by counteracting dry, brittle or breaking ends. This is a mistaken idea and not only useless but even dangerous, particularly for dry hair which may be highly inflammable. Another notion is that pulling and tugging at the hair will stimulate circulation in the scalp. Doctors who have made laboratory studies of hair growth condemn this practice. Many are of the opinion that hair so strained will soon shed because the pulling injures the follicles and prevents proper nourishment at the roots. For this same reason, they advise that when the hair is curled, by permanent or marcel iron, the curlers should not be applied too close to the scalp, or at such an angle as to pull the hair.

Cottage, or pot cheese, is probably the earliest known type of cheese and was discovered before man lived in a house or had cooking utensils. While it may be made of sweet or sour milk, most of the cottage cheese marketed today is made from sweet milk with the curd solidified by means of rennin. Cottage cheese combines well with fruit, stewed or canned, and is particularly good with berries. Russian pancakes with cottage cheese filling are a favorite dish with many families. The pancake is rolled around the cottage cheese and served with strawberry or raspberry jam.

Another step in the drive to produce an absolutely "stickless" waffle iron is seen in a new model just introduced in Chicago's Merchandise Mart in which the baking grids are of gleaming, chromium-plated steel, instead of the customary die-cast aluminum.

Something new are the soft rubber hair curlers that may be worn by even light sleepers without discomfort. There is no pull or weight on the hair and they are excellent for giving a freshening-up treatment to the coiffure. The annoying little wisps at the nape of the neck which grow out so soon after a permanent, and that little patch of hair around the ears, are curled up in a jiffy.

To make the effect of your bath lasting and to assure freshness and daintiness through long days of activity, the new flower-scented Colognes are a welcome offering. The cool, astringent liquid seems to penetrate the pores and take the heat and fatigue out of the body, leaving the skin refreshed.

Octagon heels are the latest variation in popular shoe styles. Already on view in Paris, some fashion authorities believe they will hit a new style high on this side of the ocean.

Household Hint: Left-over muffins and biscuits may be refreshed by heating them in the top part of the double boiler.

Three year old Billy wanted to become acquainted with the new boy who came to cut the grass. After watching for a time, he inquired, "You married?" "No," answered the boy. "Me neither," Billy offered.

DAVE THOMAS DIES FROM WRECK AT CHENAULT BRIDGE

Dave Thomas, Garrard county farmer, who was injured in an automobile accident near Chenault Bridge, over Herrington Lake, Saturday near the Jake Robinson farm, died Sunday morning. He is survived by a ten-year-old son, four brothers and four sisters. His funeral was in Lancaster Tuesday afternoon conducted by Rev. Horace Kingsbury.

Lecturer Foresaw Future Of City

Stranger 21 Years Ago Told Citizens What Was Needed To Make Harrodsburg Noteworthy.

(From Files Of The Herald 21 Years Ago)

Dr. Ernest J. Powell, one of the noted lecturers on the program of the Chautauqua now in session, gave a local twist to his lecture Sunday afternoon by telling his audience a stranger's impression of their town. He said while stopping here he had gone over the town as he always liked to become acquainted with places to which he was assigned by the Chautauqua board. He had found so much to interest him, he said he would depart from his usual lecture and tell his audience what he thought the citizens could do to develop the place.

He said he didn't know whether or not there was a commercial club, but if there was one it should get busy, for Harrodsburg had more things to work on to bring it fame, than any other place of similar size that he had ever visited. He recommended that the patriotic citizenry get together and work on the following points:

Memorialize Harrodsburg's historic associations and give them prominence in a way to arrest the public's attention. The town should become world famous.

Make Graham Springs a health resort. As such it should draw patrons from ocean to ocean.

Get a high class postoffice building.

The place where the postoffice is located would not wring admiration from a stranger. He advised the men to get together and give their Congressmen no rest until an appropriation was granted for a suitable post office building.

Get property owners to tear down a lot of useless and unsightly outbuildings and to keep their yards neater.

Improve the grounds and buildings of the high and graded schools on North Main street. He advised taking away an old rock fence and unsightly outbuildings.

MAY TAKE TWO YEARS TO FORGET DROUGHT

Official predictions that two, perhaps three, years would be required for recovery from the drought devastation of the past two months faced federal agencies designing relief for sun-scorched regions.

Economists at the Agricultural Department made this forecast as they surveyed a shortage of feed for live stock and predicted abnormal marketing of hogs and cattle.

They said drought and other conditions would greatly reduce the live supplies of meat and dairy animals.
