PIONEER PARK NOTES

(H. C. Wood, Curator)
Don't let the sunshine fool you. Winter has not reached its goal. Keep on your heavy underwear. And order extra coal.

Miss M. M. Elliott, principal of the colored school at Harrodsburg brought her visitors to the Park. Mrs. Theda VanLowe, Principal of Douglas school at Lexington, and her daughter, and Mrs. Lucy H. Smith, principal of Booker T. Washington school at Lexington.

Sunday, with its suggestion of Spring in its atmosphere, brought quite a number of visitors to the Park, to enjoy both the day and the attractions of Fort and Mansion.

Quite a number of tourists on their way to Florida stop and take in the Park on their southward journey. Several of these have come from Michigan, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Ohio always furnishes the larger portion of them. Those who fail to stop going South do so on their return journey northward.

Among recent visitors to the Park was William Conn Bell, of Frankfort, who spent his birthday with his aunt, Mrs. Goddard, at Beaumont Inn.
