He was at the home of his brother-in-law, Mr. Scott Covert, on the Harrodsburg-Burgin road, and was stricken so seriously that he never regained consciousness. He was the son of the late George W. VanArsdall and Elizabeth Adams VanArsdall and the last one of a large family of children. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Pearl Bogie VanArsdall, and a daughter, Mrs. L. F. Rue, Lexington.

His funeral will be today at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. Covert, conducted by Rev. Leland Goodman, of Lexington, who is pastor of the Christian church at Burgin. Burial will be in Spring Hill Cemetery, this city.

TERHUNE

Fred Terhune, 68 years old, a prominent and popular citizen of Salvisa, died at his home on the Louisville road about one o'clock Wednesday, April 29, 1936, after only a week's illness with pneumonia. Mr. Terhune was a native of Mercer county, the son of the late H. C. Terhune and Lottie Fennell Terhune, members of fine old pioneer families. He was a well known land owner in the North section of Mercer county. A man of high personal integrity, he was esteemed by everyone. He was an Elder in the Presbyterian church at Salvisa and a member of the Masonic lodge of that place. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mamie Wilson Terhune, a son, Earl Terhune, of Salvisa; two sisters, Mrs. Lee Coleman, Harrodsburg and Mrs. E. V. Wilson, of Danville.

The funeral will be held at the residence at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. W. A. Stevenson, pastor of the Salvisa Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. John W. Carpenter, of the United Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Spring Hill cemetery, this city.

MCGARVEY

The funeral of Mrs. Sallie Sellers McGarvey will be at 10 o'clock today at St. Andrew's Catholic church, conducted by Rev. Clarence Meyers. Burial will follow in Spring Hill cemetery beside her husband, the late Frank McGarvey, who died about seven years ago.

Mrs. McGarvey was a native of this place. She was the daughter of the late Mrs. Creth Robinson, her own father having died when she was a baby. She was an only child and leaves no immediate relatives. Mrs. McGarvey left here some years ago when her husband entered business in New York. They returned before his death, and afterward she made her home in Louisville, being for the last several years with Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Smith. She was stricken in her room several weeks ago and moved to St. Anthony's hospital where she died Wednesday, April 29, 1936. Services were held for her Thursday morning by her former priest and personal friend, Rev. Father Kneue, at his church in Louisville before the remains were brought to Harrodsburg to the Bruner and Sims chapel.

While living in Harrodsburg Mrs. McGarvey was active in community work, and was a member of the Civic department of the Woman's Club and was also valued for her services on the board of the A. D. Price Memorial Hospital for many years.

The Egyptian Lady's Bath

The services of four handmaidens were required to make the bath of an Egyptian lady of quality all that a bath was supposed to be. She sat upon a mat, while one maid held a fragrant flower to her nose and supported her with her hand. Another maiden poured water over her from an urn of rare beauty while a third and a fourth were required to massage her arms and hold her ornaments.

Tint's Name Crater

Sunset crater, which gives its name to a national monument in Arizona, is so called because no matter what the angle of light, it always presents the colors of the setting sun. Dark at the base, it grows rose red, fading in turn to yellow at the crater.

STRANGE and INTERESTING FACTS

"In God We Trust" appears on all gold and silver coins that are large enough to bear the inscription. James Pollack (Governor of Pennsylvania in 1854) suggested it. Congress approved, passed a law making it legal and it was first used in 1866. People used to cut and scrape the edges of the gold and silver coins. When they had acquired quite a bit, they sold it. In order to stop this petty thieving the U. S. mint, adopted the expedient of milling or making grooves around the coins.

Colors of Honey

The various colors of honey result from the nectar extracted from various flowers. For instance, that from the yellow star thistle is a yellowish green, while the honey from the white buckwheat is a very dark color. Tulip trees produce a rich wine red, and from purple blossoms comes a light honey.

Lead to Conversation

A common interest in dogs has provided the groundwork for many a charming greeting and friendly conversation.

Sea Covers Much Land

The sea spreads over about 139 million square miles.

Women of Nigeria

The work of missionaries among the women and girls of Nigeria is more difficult than among the men and boys. This is probably due to the fact that the boys are more ambitious. The women seem satisfied to follow their husbands, which is not to be wondered at when for generations they have been the property of the men.

First to Commercialize Writing

The first woman in the United States to make writing a profession was Hannah Adams (1755-1831), whose "Dictionary of Religions" passed through four editions. Her "Summary History of New England" was a pioneer history of the region and was abridged for use as a textbook.
