Many from this community will attend the unveiling of the memorial to Rev. W. D. Moore, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, May 10, at the Sand Spring church, in Anderson county near Lawrenceburg. He was widely known throughout Mercer county and much loved and esteemed by everyone. Many years of his ministry were spent in Mercer county, and up to the time of his tragic death from injuries suffered when a recklessly driven automobile crashed into the one in which he was a passenger, "Brother Moore," as he loved to be called, was almost constantly being summoned to conduct funerals and weddings in Mercer county.

The large memorial stone is erected in front of Sand Spring church, of which he was a pastor at the time of his death. It is not at his grave, which is in Sand Spring cemetery. The inscription is as follows:

"Erected to the memory of W. D. Moore, 1856-1935, by the Baptist Association and friends.

"He was pastor of the following churches: Goshen 33 years; Shawnee Run, 30 years; shorter pastorates, Bethel, Salvisa, Sand Spring, Camden, Friendship, Mt. Pleasant, Hopewell, Fellowship, Bruner's Chapel, Salt River church.

"A civic leader, consecrated Christian, devoted pastor, loving father and husband.

"For whether we live, we live up to the Lord, and whether we die, we die unto the Lord; whether we live, therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." Romans 14-8.

The quotation from Romans was his favorite verse in the Bible.

The speakers on the program at the unveiling service are to be Rev. J. E. Darter, Glendale; Rev. Clarence Walker, Lexington; Rev. T. Hassell Bowen, Harrodsburg; Mr. J. M. B. Birdwhistell, Lawrenceburg; Rev. E. W. Summers, Georgetown; Rev. E. N. Perry, Lawrenceburg.

Around 30 Cts. Expected For Clip; Wool Weighs Light Owing To Severe Winter On Sheep.

Wool from Mercer county sheep weighs light this season, according to Sheriff Oscar Sanders, who makes buying wool a side line with his official duties. Sheep are thin as a result of the hard winter and also for the same reason the animals dropped a good bit of wool before shearing started. A number of sheep men began clipping this week. It looks like around 30 cents will be paid by buyers, the sheriff stated.

Sheep men calculate around five pounds of wool slip from each sheep and from 160,000 to 200,000 is produced in Mercer county annually. The assessment made last year by County Tax Commissioner Ed Currens, shows 32,024 sheep listed in Mercer county.

The days of the old South were recalled at the Mother and Daughter banquet Tuesday night at Beaumont Inn when the senior group of the Girl Reserves of the high school entertained. The guests were greeted at the door by "Mammy Dinah," impersonated by Miss Mary Nell May.

The dining room was decorated in Southern style with Dinahs made of wooden clothes-pins adorning the table and small nosegays as favors at the plate of each "Mother." Spring flowers formed the center decoration. Several on the program were old fashioned dresses and a delightful Southern menu was served. The black programs were adorned with silhouettes of a Southern beau and belle.

The opportunities and temptations facing the daughters of today which were not faced by their mothers, was the theme of the principal speaker, Mrs. P. K. Holmes, Dean of Women at the University of Kentucky. CIRCUIT COURT OPENS WITH A LIGHT DOCKET

Judge Alcorn Charges Jury To Look Into Drunken Driving, Chicken Thefts And Overloaded Trucks.

COURT RECESSED AT NOON MONDAY UNTIL WEDNESDAY

Equity Cases Come Before Court This Week, And Grand Jury Begins Its Sessions.

The Mercer County Circuit Court, Judge Kendrick S. Alcorn of Stanford presiding, opened its May session Monday morning at 9 o'clock with thirty-three new cases to be considered. Nine of these were criminal and the rest were on the civil docket, according to P. B. Smalley, Circuit Clerk. There were also some old cases to come up.

When the list of jurymen were called only two were excused. Those empaneled were: Grand jurors, T. W. Latta, foreman, Andrew Alexander, Goodloe Robinson, Walter Crews, J. D. Smith, Albert Hatchell, Hugh Ison, Jack Davenport, Howard Terhune, W. A. Caudill, Joe King, Eli Davenport.

Petit jurors, W. V. Daugherty, Walter Cole, W. L. Alford, R. H. Lyons, Paul Sheemaker, James King, W. B. Keightley, George C. Hall, Byford Sanders, Walter Denny, Will Covert, Frank White, Arthur Marksberry, Henry Harvey, Dailey McKay, Raymond Hawkins, Russell Burton, John Hart, Louis Fitzgerald, Frank Black, Charles Millon, Isaac Wilham, C. T. Bohon, Abe Adams.

Relentless punishment of chicken thieves, of motor truck law violators, and of reckless and drunken drivers was forcefully advocated by Judge Alcorn in his charge to the grand jury. Judge Alcorn remarked about the enormous increase in the number of chicken thefts in this section. He blamed this increase on the use of automobiles by the thieves and said that they could be dealt with much more effectively if all thefts were reported promptly.

Judge Alcorn said that something should be done about the numerous violations of the motor truck law which limits the size and weight of trucks. He said that there are many trucks which exceed the lawful measure and that these are playing havoc with our roads which are already in bad condition after this spring's thaws.

There was not much that the grand jury could do about catching violators of the truck law, Judge Alcorn admitted, but he just wanted to take that opportunity to impress upon the public officials the need for enforcement. Any city, county or state officer may stop a truck which they suspect is overloaded and may arrest the driver if he is carrying an unlawful load.

Judge Alcorn also told of the need for firm judgment in cases of reckless and drunken driving. "We must stop this business of driving while intoxicated," he said.

Attorneys R. Rutherford and A. K. Blackberry, of Louisville; C. C. Bagby, Edward Newlin and Nelson D. Rodes, of Danville, attended the court Monday.

Cases disposed of by Judge Alcorn are as follows: Maurice Peavler, charged with maliciously damaging the tire of a car owned by the city's police department, plead guilty and was given a fine of $50 and costs.

Judge Alcorn adjourned the court Monday at noon. The grand jury reconvened Wednesday morning and Judge Alcorn began hearing equity cases. The petit jury has been adjourned until next Monday.

Judge Alcorn devoted Wednesday to motions and demurrers. The cases of Mrs. Elizabeth Mendahl, administratrix, against Leavell McCampbell and others, and of Amos G. McCampbell, Jr., against James L. Peters etc., were quashed as Judge Alcorn ruled that the Mercer circuit court had no jurisdiction over the cases.

At the close of the session Wednesday Judge Alcorn adjourned court until Monday morning, May 11.
