MICHIGAN MASONS LAUNCH AMERICANIZATION PROGRAM

Every Masonic Lodge in the state of Michigan held a "Constitution Night" meeting recently at the instance of the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge, Mr. Harvey A. Sherman. The purpose of the meetings, which were well attended, was to launch an Americanization program in schools, colleges and universities of Michigan to counteract the communistic propaganda in these institutions. The Grand Master stated that the Americanization program proposed the establishment of a curriculum in the various schools, which would afford a more thorough study of the Constitution and its relation to liberty and freedom in working out in an orderly manner processes of government, as opposed to revolution and disobedience to the laws of the country in exciting mob violence.

In addition to holding a "Constitution Night" in the Masonic Lodges of Michigan, a series of mass meetings was sponsored throughout the state by the Fraternity. These meetings were addressed by speakers of national reputation on the topic of "Communism, a pernicious, revolutionary movement against constitutional government and the prevailing social order."

In his address the Grand Master of Michigan stressed the need to carry the fight against Communism into the field of the workshop and other places of employment where citizens gather.

KIPLING IN AMERICA

The cables report that Rudyard Kipling, who died the other day at the age of 70, left an estate estimated at nearly $4,000,000. Every dollar of it he earned by his writing, and the greater part of it came from the American readers of his poems, stories and novels. And that is as it should be, because Kipling had a love and admiration for this country such as no other British writer has ever expressed. His "American Notes," written back to his newspaper in India when he was a young man looking for a newspaper job in this country, breathe a spirit of understanding of this country in every line.

"Oh, be good to an American wherever you meet him," he advised his readers back in India. He married an American girl, built himself a home in the Vermont hills and would have become an American citizen but for an unfortunate lawsuit begun by his brother-in-law over the title to a few acres of land, which disgusted him with that particular kind of Americanism.

Everybody is more or less familiar with Kipling's poem "If," but few realize that the ideal man who inspired it was George Washington.

No writer of modern times has written so much quotable stuff as did Kipling. One hundred years from now the lovers of stirring poetry and penetrating prose will be reading Kipling.

GAME AND FISH

BILL APPROVED

Bills organizing the state game and fish commission and providing for probation of persons convicted of crimes in circuit courts have been approved by Gov. A. B. Chandler.

The game and fish commission act was one of the proposals in the governor's 13-point legislative program. It provides for appointment of five commissioners from geographical regions, with the provision that not more than three of them may belong to the same political party.

The commissioners will receive no salary but will be paid expenses. They will appoint a director to administer the affairs of the commission.

The probation act established a new unit of government to work with the circuit courts under the direction of the state welfare board. Probation and parole officers will be appointed in each circuit court district.

WHAT NEAL BOWMAN SAID

Neal Bowman, recently executed for the murder of Corner Franklin, previous to execution was confined in the state reformatory at Frankfort. A few days before he was transferred to death row at Eddyville, Bowman said: "I would crack this can and get away if it was not for Elmer Deatherage. I can not make up my mind to do something which would reflect on him. He is the only person I have known in years who has treated me like a human being." Deatherage as superintendent of the reformatory was Bowman's keeper.—Richmond Register.
