Most Famous Quilt Owned By Alabama

Made By Confederate Women During Civil War It Brought Funds To Build Battleship.

In the Alabama department of archives and history in Montgomery is one of the most famous quilts in the world, which finds there its permanent resting place after many wanderings.

It is the quilt made by Confederates women during the Civil War to be auctioned for the benefit of the fund for the building of the warship Alabama, which caused the Federals a lot of trouble before she was finally sunk on June 19, 1864, by the Kearsage, off Cherbourg, France.

After the quilt was made it was put up at auction, and time and again the lucky bidder would donate it back to be auctioned again. Thus it passed through many hands, and from it was realized much of the money for the purchase of the ship. It finally came into the possession of the family of Mrs. Mary Hutchinson Owens, who presented it to the state as a memento of the Lost Cause.

The Alabama was commanded by the intrepid Rafael Semmes, and during her eventful career of two years captured one Federal steamer and no less than 67 sailing vessels, besides causing the transfer of 348 Federal ships to the British flag. Her destruction by the Kearsage, commended by Captain Winslow, was a great relief to the Federals.

The Alabama went to the bottom of the sea, the Kearsage was destroyed long after by being wrecked on a Caribbean reef in 1894, but the Alabama's quilt, wrought by loving hands in what they considered a sacred cause, is preserved for posterity in the cradle of the Confederacy.

RICH "WORKING GIRLS"

Daughters of wealth seem to be in a rather unfortunate position. If they keep to the accepted round of cock tail hours, golf, and night clubs, they are apt to be referred to contemptuously by less fortunate people as idle rich. And yet, if they decide to go to work, there is very likely to arise a tempest of objections.

Hollywood extra girls, according to a news item, are indignant because debts are obtaining roles which they believe should go to them. "Why should rich girls who do not need the money take the bread out of our mouths?" asked one of their spokesmen.

A similar storm of criticism has greeted wealthy girls who have gone in for modeling.

There is, of course, something to be said for both sides in the controversy. There is no reason why society girls cannot abandon a parasitical way of living and take a fling at self-dependence—and yet it does not seem entirely fair to the "poor working girl."

All in all, it appears to be a difficult problem.

FOR MAMMA AND DADDY

The Lexington Herald says: On October 12 a letter came to this column from a reader who wanted to know why parents, standing from two to three and a half feet higher than their children, insist that the little tots should be able to hear their every word while walking thru the noise and clatter of downtown traffic. The letter started a little observation.

And it was discovered that there is some reason for the question. There are parents who can't seem to understand why their children are unable to hear them well when the little tots are closer to mamma's scraping heel than to her mouth.

COLLEGE DETERMINES WALLFLOWERS MUST GO

The student body of the University of California at Berkeley, Calif., has organized two "flying squadrons," one of 25 men and the other of 25 co-eds, to abolish male and female wallflowers at dances. No one will be allowed an excuse for not dancing.

NOW IS THE TIME TO FIGHT CLOTHING MOTH

Moths are numerous in the house during the fall months, and may fly about and lay eggs most of the winter. Woolen coats and blankets, therefore, should be brushed, beaten, and sunned frequently to dislodge eggs that may have been laid in them.

SMART AND PRACTICAL FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

New York-Paris Fashions

HERE is one of the newest designs for fall and winter, very appropriate for any afternoon occasion. It is made of practical crush-resistant rayon velvet, trimmed at the throat with lace. The sleeves, full at the top, give the effect of shoulder width, and the velvet draped in soft folds from the belted-in waistline.

Wedding Of Interest Here

The wedding of Mrs. Isabel Lewis Ramsey and Mr. Walter Bayne McMakin took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at "Lakeview," the ceremony being performed by Dr. Madison A. Hart in the presence of Mrs. James Campbell Lewis, mother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Peyton McMakin, parents of the groom, and thirty members of the immediate families.

After the guests assembled, Mrs. Hughes Jackson, sister of Mrs. Ramsey, sang "Because." The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James Campbell Lewis, of New York. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. McMakin left by motor that afternoon for New Orleans and upon their return will make their home at Lakeview Farm.

Wedding Invitations

The following invitations have been issued to a number of friends in Harrodsburg and other cities: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curry Dedman request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter,

Anne
to
Mr. Ralph Walter Cherry on Saturday evening, November the fourteenth at half after eight o'clock Beaumont Inn Harrodsburg

"Rainbow Shower" For Miss Dedman

Miss Anne Dedman, bride-elect, was the honor guest at a lovely and enjoyable "Rainbow Shower," given by Miss Mary Handy Ensminger, one of her bridesmaids-to-be, at Forest Pillars, the Ensminger home on College street, Tuesday afternoon. After the guests had assembled the portieres at the folding doors to the dining room were drawn aside revealing a charming tableau. Little Jean Nee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Nee, was seated beneath a large lawn umbrella decorated in rainbow shades from which was suspended many packages in rainbow hued wrappings. Other gifts in bright colors were heaped at the base of the umbrella. Yellow tapers in silver holders cast a mellow glow through the room.

The wee bride stepped from her rainbow decorated chair to present a miniature bride's bouquet to the honor guest, who then opened the packages revealing, amid much merriment, useful and amusing articles for the kitchen.

In the hall and living room deep red dahlias and chrysanthemums were used in effective decorations. At the lace covered table in the dining room Mrs. Glave Goddard, grandmother of Miss Dedman, presided at the silver coffee urn. At the opposite end of the table Mrs. Clara Owsley poured tea with an old fashioned service. The centerpiece was a large low bowl of lavender and yellow pompon chrysanthemums and the table was lighted with yellow candles in lavender candlesticks. About forty guests from Harrodsburg, Danville, Lexington and other places enjoyed the occasion.

Miss Nell Duerson, of Lexington, will give a luncheon honoring Miss Dedman on the same date as Miss Chick's shower.

To Entertain Miss Dedman

Miss Mary Chick, of Lexington, will entertain with a tea and shower Saturday afternoon, November 7, at her home in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Anne Dedman, of Harrodsburg.

TO A TOWN SQUIRREL

Complacent little fellow in your overcoat of brown, Were you happy when transplanted from the country into town? Do you prefer your present life of indolence and ease To gamboling in care-free play among the forest trees? Although you have a compact house and scores of food-stuff, too, I often watch, and wonder if these things appeal to you. Have you a mind and heart, my dear? O, do you sometimes grieve For some place of remembered charm that you were loath to leave? It really seems a dreadful crime, a cruel thing to bear— Enclosing active squirrels in a dusty city square!

—Katherine Woodley.

Long, Mr. and Mrs. Abner Foster and daughter, Opal, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Derring and daughter, Mayola, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Corn, Mrs. George Young and grandson, Maurice Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Ruel Hayes and daughter, Fostina, and Mr. Floyd E. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Young and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Trower and children, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Jones and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Loman Long. A bountiful dinner was served and a very enjoyable day was spent and everyone left wishing him many more happy birthdays.

Miss Carrie VanArsdale is the guest of her sister, Mrs. M. D. Averill, Frankfort.

Miss Elise Derikson spent the week end in Cincinnati.
