A VERY BUSY HOG!

Royal Lady, a Poland China sow owned by the Lillard stock farm at Arlington, Texas, set some kind of a record at the Texas Centennial All-American swine show Monday. She presented her owners with 13 baby pigs, three first prizes, and $40 in cash.

Between noon and 2 p. m. she had 11 piglets. Then she went to the show ring to win the senior yearling blue ribbon and a $20 prize. Back in her pen, she had another baby at 2:45, but re-entered the show ring 15 minutes later to win the senior championship and $10 more. Then she went back to have piggy No. 13 but got out to the ring again in time to win the grand championship and another $10.

The grand championship for Poland China boar pigs went to a grunter named Walter Winchell.

Public Sale Of Farm

In order to liquidate the estate of Jacob Durr, deceased, I will on

Wednesday Nov. 4, 1936
at 10 A. M.

sell at public auction, on the premises, at Deep Creek church, six miles from Rose Hill on Deep Creek pike, in Mercer county, Ky.

93 ACRE FARM

Said farm consists of two tracts and will be sold in separate, tracts then as a whole, the highest bid or bids being accepted.

This farm is well improved, having on it a dwelling house and all necessary outbuildings, and has very good fencing. The same consists of rolling Chaplin river land, and is adapted to tobacco, blue grass and alfalfa. It has been owned by the decedent, Jacob Durr, for 40 years and longer. This is an opportunity of a lifetime to purchase this land. The same will be sold without reserve.

TERMS: 10% on day of sale, and 40% on the 1st day of January when possession will be given. Remainder 1 and 2 years. Privilege to sow small grain will be given for this fall. Be present and purchase a comfortable home.

PUBLIC SALE

VALUABLE CITY REAL ESTATE

Living in another county renders me unable to look after property in Harrodsburg, therefore I have placed in the hands of the VanArsdale Realty Company to sell on at 2 P. M.

on the premises, my real estate holdings in this city, located on South side of Mackville street which is one of the Main highways leading into town.

The residence is bungalow type in architecture and contains six rooms, large bath room and hall, extra size front porch on North and East side of house with concrete rear porch on South side, electric lights; lots of other conveniences justify this nice home being classed with the best. This property is in especially good condition being recently painted and never neglected as to its needs. The outbuildings consist of large barn and sheds, garage, poultry and meat house, cellar. Fine cistern and city water in yard. Concrete walks both in rear and front to house. Lots of shade and shrubbery adorn the front lawn which is elevated in keeping with good landscaping. In fact, an ideal home away from the noise.

The lot has a frontage of approximately 115 feet and is nearly 200 feet in depth. At the same time and place will sell, seven nice building lots with a frontage of between 50 and 55 feet each and about 200 feet in depth. These lots are strictly classy for modest homes, being just above the street for proper drainage and level enough, the entire length and breadth to avoid expensive filling by the builders, and remember, too, they are on the South side of a mighty good street in a fast growing town recognized for its good homes. Now ask yourself how many good building lots in Harrodsburg?

This sale is final. Please do not forget the date, Friday afternoon, October 30th; the place on Mackville street; the time 2 o'clock sharp.

Terms very reasonable. Possession at once. An inspection before day of sale will be appreciated. See Buford VanArsdale.

They're Choosing 1936 Star Farmer

WASHINGTON... Above are members of the executive committee of the Future Farmers of America, at work on the task of selecting from all high school students taking vocational agriculture courses throughout the U. S., the one that shall be named "The Star Farmer of 1936." The committee comprises (left to right), Wm. H. Johns, National Advertising Executive, New York; Owen D. Young, General Electric Co., and R. H. Cabell, President of Armour and Co., Chicago.

USE GOOD SENSE

IN FEEDING COWS

In the use of high-priced feeds, no rule can take the place of common sense, remarks Prof. Fordyce Ely, head of the dairy department of the University of Kentucky, College of Agriculture in a circular called "Feeding Dairy Cows."

A half-grain ration, that is a pound of grain to 5 or 6 pounds of milk, may be the practical solution of a problem of high-priced feed, he says. Full-feeding of grain calls for a pound to 2 1/2 to 4 pounds of milk.

The grain, of course, is controlled by the amount of pasture and hay available. Dairy farmers with an abundance of pasture and good legume hay sometimes get along with practically no grain. A 1,000-pound cow may be expected to eat 20 to 30 pounds of good alfalfa or other legume hay daily. The more hay she eats the less grain she needs.

Pasture and hay are the principal feeds in milk making. As a rule, the size of the herd should be suited to the farm. Unless butterfat or milk brings relatively high prices, the dairy herd should be limited by the pasture and legume hay the farm can produce.

NEIGHBORS GO TO AID OF DISTRESSED FARMER

Charles Koepke, of Granite Falls, Minn., wiped away a grateful tear with a horny hand and "allowed as how his neighbors in Stony Run township were mighty strong friends."

Not long ago the company that sold Koepke his two tractors and plows took them back because he couldn't make payments. That left the farmer with no means of doing his fall plowing.

Koepke's neighbors "got wind" of his trouble and 150 strong they marched to his farm—17 tractors and 41 plows in tow. All told they turned under 127 acres in "Koepke's plowing bee."

ENGLISH GIRL

STUDIES FARMING

Coming from England to study scientific farming as its done in America, Miss Clavia Goodman has entered the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. She is one of three girls registered this year not for home economics, but rather for straight agriculture.

Part-owner with her father and mother of farms in Bourbon county, Kentucky, Miss Goodman expects to assume management of the land as soon as her studies are completed. "In England I had heard of Kentucky stock and tobacco, said to be among the finest in the world. I was interested in diversified farming, the way Americans have beef and dairy cattle, sheep and hogs, as well as tobacco and corn. I want to make a profit from farming, of course, but I also want to conserve and build up the land."

The young English girl believes that women who own land miss a great opportunity if they fail to take personal charge of it. While it takes many years to build to good fertility, a few years of careless management may do almost irreparable damage, she pointed out.

Miss Goodman has registered for work in crops, genetics, farm management, entomology, soil management, and market classes and grades. Her mother is the former Sue Clay, of Paris, Ky., and her grandfather was Cassius M. Clay.

NOT GOOD FOR FARMING

A mountain man, who rarely, if ever, visited a town of any size, came to a city with his son, traveling in a rattletrap car.

Climbing out on one of the main streets, the old man appeared fascinated by the pavement. He scraped his feet on the hard surface, and turning to his son, remarked:

"Well, I don't blame 'em for building a town here. The ground is too darn hard to plough, anyhow."
