LIBRARY NOTES

The Harrodsburg library is full of books that make delightful summer reading. If you must be a stay-at-home, enjoy a refreshing mental vacation through one of those entertaining books about where you would like to go.

The city council of Franklin, Ky., this week voted a special tax of 10 cents on each $100 of property valuation to help defray expenses of operating the Ella H. Goodnight Public Library. The library was established through a bequest of the woman for whom it was named.

PIONEER MEMORIAL DAY

By Nancy Lewis Greene

For the Sunday session of the Onward Kentucky Exposition in Frankfort, a unique and carefully considered program was provided. Only after the morning religious services in the churches were over was the exposition to be opened to the public on June 7.

Then, in the afternoon, at Daniel Boone's grave in the famous little Frankfort cemetery, was celebrated Pioneer Remembrance Day, that poetic and beautiful tribute to our pioneer dead which was inaugurated at the "Mother Town" of Harrodsburg, the historic and thoroughly alive little city which President Roosevelt said could boast more "First Things" to remember than any other town in America. He did not then know that through one of its "first" citizens Harrodsburg might come to be known as the place where the first practical plan to focus all industrial and humanitarian developments originated.

Quietly and steadily over the state the Onward Kentucky movement has been growing and expanding at a time when a multiple number of projects have claimed the attention of the public.

The reasons for this are many, chief of which is a real need for it. A second reason is the character and prominence of the men and women backing it. A third, is the utter lack of commercial gain sought by its promoters.

The need for such a movement touches a fundamental lack in America of adequate distribution of production, industrial, agricultural, commercial and artistic. Once solve the problem of enabling each county, in each state, to find a market near at hand, in a central outlet, for what its people can produce, and the problem of unemployment would be solved.

The Onward Kentucky movement may be the leaven which will lighten the whole loaf of lack and unhappiness for people who are able and willing to work.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO LEXINGTON!

Lexington was 161 years old last week, although there is some dispute as to the exact day of the first week in June of 1775 the party lead by John Maxwell and Levi Todd heard the news of the Battle of Lexington, while camping near the site of the present L & N yards.

According to Charles R. Staples, Lexington historian, the diary of John Nourse records that a runner from the East brought word of the battle to the group, proceeding westward with the news. Maxwell and Todd were among the leaders of the group which returned four years later in 1779, and laid out the city and built the blockhouse on the site of the present southward corner of Main and Mill streets.

The above from the Lexington Herald is of interest here because Lexington was founded by men from Fort Harrod.

ADVICE TO HUSBANDS

From Shanghai, China, comes the report of the case of a poor farmer who was facing starvation and suddenly became a millionaire. His wife, while cutting down a tree for firewood to cook their last bowl of rice, discovered a hidden treasure of $1,000,000 in gold.

Attention to the above item is called to the members of our Trifling Husbands Club. If he hadn't put the old lady to work, probably the tree would never have been cut—Mayfield Messenger.

Rue-Reed Wedding

Miss Lois Lancaster Rue and Mr. Hugh Reed were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by the bride's pastor, Rev. T. Hassell Bowen, at his home on Beaumont avenue. The ceremony was solemnized in the presence of the bride's mother, Mrs. I. W. Rue, her grandmother, Mrs. Anna M. Forbes, of Louisville, and the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reed, and Mrs. Bowen. The bride was lovely in a gold colored knitted suit, leghorn hat and a corsage of tallman roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Reed is a daughter of Mrs. Rue and the late Insko W. Rue, and is an unusually attractive and charming girl who has won a host of friends by her sweet personality and sterling qualities. Mr. Reed, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Reed, has been for some years a most valued member of the mechanical department of the Herald-Democrat office. He is not only popular, but stands high as one of the splendid and highly esteemed young business men of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed left immediately after the ceremony for Cincinnati, from which place they returned Tuesday night and are now housekeeping in an apartment at the home of Mrs. Bettie Redwitz, East Poplar street.

THREE LOCAL GIRLS MAKE GOOD AT BETHEL COLLEGE

Three Harrodsburg students at Bethel College, Hopkinsville, have just returned home with splendid records made at the school. Miss Loulie Ruth Vivion received the Associate in Arts diploma at her graduation. During her college years she has been active in campus life and was a member of the Sigma Kappa science club; of the Kappa Upsilon literary sorority, and of the Delta Psi Omega, dramatics sorority. She was presented in several plays and took the part of Sir Walter Raleigh in the senior production of "Elizabeth, the Queen."

Miss Mary Fennell, Beaumont avenue, completed her junior year at Bethel, specializing in Home Economics and helped to make the costumes for the May pageant "Springtime." She also devoted much time to vocal music.

Miss Hattie Frances Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Black, also completed her junior year. She is a member of the Sigma Science Club and the Home Economics Club. She also assisted in making the costumes for the May pageant, in which all three of the Harrodsburg students took part.

Think Silk Unclean

Silk is considered unclean by the Mohammedans because it is the product of a worm.

SMALL-TOWN SYMPATHY

I cannot hope that Sorrow's feet forever and a day
Will pass my little House of Love where latticed sunbeams stray
But when she lays her hand at last upon the swinging latch,
And steps where happy years have smiled beneath our spring-sweet thatch,
Grant me, ah God, this heartfelt prayer, that somewhere it may be
Where little, small-town sympathy may fold and comfort me.

Thy cities, God, are builded high with carved stone on stone,
But hearts may ache and lives may droop unheeded and alone;
And souls may dwell unknown, unloved, a single wall between—
Not so the quiet home-sweet lives that fringe the village green.
Let others reap their splendors, Lord, but give instead to me
The homely round of living blent with small-town sympathy.

The little, small-town sympathy that steals on neighbor feet
From tiny lamp-lit houses down a maple-shaded street,
That lends its strength on tear-dimmed ways its own bruised feet have trod,
The little, small town sympathy—the very soul of God.

Esquima Delicacy

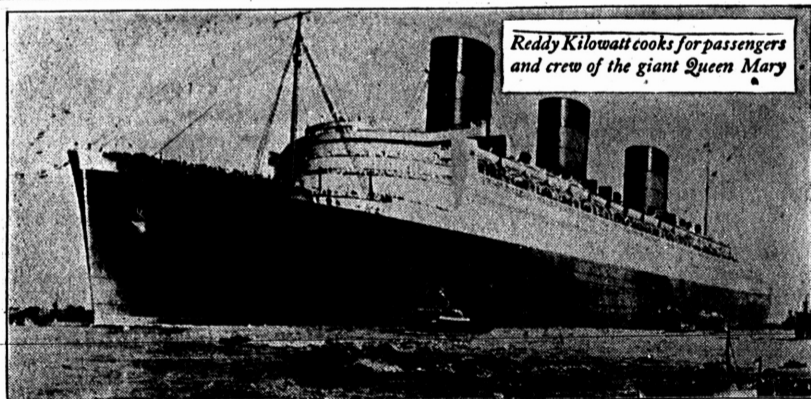

The natives of Greenland regard raw bird meat, especially the little dovekie, a great delicacy. They eat the breast and throw the rest away, but the skins make warm shirts.

Reddy Kilowatt cooks for passengers and crew of the giant Queen Mary

The QUEEN MARY... greatest ship in the world... gives her 3,200 passengers and crew ELECTRIC COOKERY

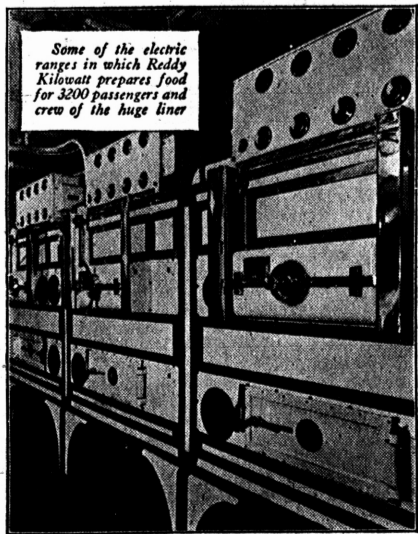

FOLKS, I have a wonderful new job . . . the very biggest of its kind. I do all the cooking for the 2,000 passengers and crew of 1,200 of the Queen Mary, the world's newest, largest and finest ship, which arrived in New York harbor on her maiden voyage on the first of June.

The Queen Mary's designers chose me for the work strictly on merit . . . because I am more satisfactory in every way than any competitor they ever heard of.

My job on the Queen Mary is equal to the work I do in 300 ordinary household kitchens. But I can be quite as clean, safe, efficient and economical in your kitchen. Why don't you arrange with our local manager immediately to hire me as your cook? You'll never regret it.
