

HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

THE HERO
of NEW ORLEANSANDREW
JACKSON

Jackson was a poor frontier boy, with little education. At the age of 13 he went to war for the Colonies, but was soon captured by the British. He was a spirited lad and for refusing to black an officer's boots he received a severe cut which disfigured him for life.

Jackson became famous through his brilliant defense of New Orleans in the war of 1812. Peace had already been declared when the battle was being fought, but news of it did not reach Jackson until days later.

FORMER HARRODSBURG BOY
SAYS TIMES ARE BETTER

Steve K. Vaught, whose father some years ago had charge of the Methodist church in Harrodsburg has the following to say in the Richmond Register concerning the Conference attendants in that city last week: "Another evidence of better times is the well dressed appearance of the Methodist ministers attending the Kentucky conference here. Indications they all had a new suit to wear to conference. Remember that was a serious domestic question in the Methodist parsonage where I spent my childhood—could father afford a new suit for the annual conference session?"
