Four Types of Insulation For Homes Are in General Use in This Country Today.

Four types of insulation for homes are in general use throughout the country today.

Rigid or board form of insulation, blanket or flexible form, metallic foil, and the so-called "fill" type of insulation became more generally used in recent years, as the public learned the fuel-saving as well as comfort-inducing qualities of such modernization projects.

Multiple uses of insulation materials, according to good authority, often contribute savings in construction costs that should be credited when studying the economic value of insulating materials. Some rigid insulating boards have sufficient structural strength to be used as sheathing. Used in the requisite thickness to give the required reduction in heat transfer, material savings can be effected in materials and labor. Most rigid insulations are offered in forms suitable for use as plaster bases. They also may be used to eliminate plaster and sometimes even painting coats.

Fill type insulating materials have proven their value in stopping fires in walls. Many types have greater or less value as sound insulation, according to the way they are installed. Insulation used as interior finishes may contribute materially to acoustical properties.

Funds with which to finance such insulating projects may be obtained from private lending institutions operating under the terms of the Federal Housing Administration's Modernization Credit plan.

MRS. ROOSEVELT BUYS TWO SPRING DRESSES

Selecting her spring wardrobe this year Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is encountering textile design students in New York City high schools.

Gowned in airy chiffon, printed in grays and bright blues, she explained that the material had been chosen a winner in the contest sponsored by silk manufacturers and the American Federation of Arts to stimulate interest among young artists in creative designing of textiles. Plans have been made to display 200 of the best designs submitted in 12 leading eastern cities.

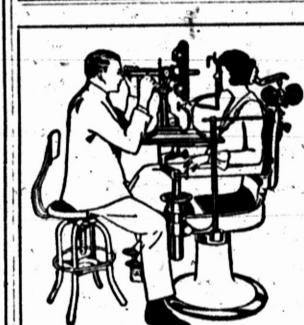

A second gown of silk selected in the contest and a suit fashioned of blue homespun recently presented to her will comprise the President's wife's spring wardrobe.

"FLOWER FAD" HELPS CZECH MANUFACTURERS

Exports of artificial flowers from Czechoslovakia registered marked improvement in 1935, according to a report to the Louisville District Office of the Commerce Department. Shipments abroad of textile and paper flowers during the past year showed an increase of more than 50 per cent. The "flower fad" which developed in Paris last year and is being intensified in the 1936 summer models is spreading to both the United States and to Great Britain.

GIRL, 15 SEEKS HEART BALM

Romance began at 14 for Rosie Perago, of Los Angeles, and ended at 15. She filed suit recently against Joe Danna, asking $30,000 heart balm. She charged Danna, 19, married another girl.

PARIS—The first straw hats of the season are blossoming along the Bois and many of them are unusually fresh and Spring-like with decorations of fruit made of plastic materials in all the smart colors. Talbot disposes a little motif of fruit on the veil of the toque shown at the top of the illustration, the ornament in plastic and the hat itself, in silk cellulose film. Below, the tulle toque by Agnes shows a bunch of blackberries in cellulose material. The little bouquet, featured alone, is made of strawberry flowers in cellulose material with small plastic beads in the center, to be used for hat or boutonniere. A bunch of grapes in silver colored cellulose film decorates the black taffeta hat at the bottom of the picture.

Walker-Noe

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Ann Witherpoon Walker and Mr. Roger Noe which took place in Jeffersonville, Indiana, on Feb. 15, 1936. The families of the young people were apprised of the wedding at the time, but agreed to their wishes to keep it secret until June, after the close of school as Mr. Noe will be graduated and Mrs. Noe is a member of the junior class. However, they decided to announce the event and continue their studies.

The bride is the pretty and attractive daughter of Mr. Martin E. Walker, but after the passing of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Witherspoon Walker, when she was a small child, she was reared as a daughter by her aunt, Mrs. John I. VanArsdale, and Judge VanArsdale, who have been as devoted as parents.

Mr. Noe is a son of Mrs. F. J. Noe and the late Dr. Noe. He is a splendid young man who, while attending school, has been in business with his older brother, Mr. Ansel Noe, for several years, giving his attention to his work out of school hours and during vacation. He is popular and much esteemed.

Mr. and Mrs. Noe will make their home for the present with the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. F. J. Noe, North Main Street.

Covington
Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. John Priest, of Covington, spent the weekend in Harrodsburg and visited his brother, J. W. Priest, and niece, Mrs. Charles Renfro. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brown, also of Covington. Mr. Priest is a former Harrodsburg man and renewed many acquaintances during his visit here.

Returned From Tennessee

Mrs. John I. VanArsdale has returned from visit with her sons, Mr. J. F. Cogn and Mr. W. T. Corn and their families at Cleveland, Tenn.

To California
Through Blizzards

Mr. and Mrs. Sam E. Cooke, motoring to California, wrote from Flagstaff, Arizona, to friends here that they had encountered two blizzards on the way, and had intended to go through the Grand Canyon, but were advised not to try it as snow was five feet deep there.

Guests From Cincinnati

Mr. and Mrs. Harold VanArsdale, of Cincinnati, were guests Sunday of Mr. VanArsdale's mother, Mrs. J. F. VanArsdale, and sister, Mrs. L. M. Smith, at Hotel Harrod. Mrs. VanArsdale, who has been ill, remains at the same.

Mrs. R. A. Robards, who has been ill at her apartment on North Main street, is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Hustonville, were guests Saturday of their son, Mr. Frank Adams, who returned home with them for the week-end.

Mrs. Sam McDowell, of Danville, was the guest through the week-end of Miss Margaret Polk and Mrs. H. A. Evans, Lexington street.

QUEER MARRIAGE LAWS, CUSTOMS

In certain Hindu communities a man is supposed to marry his sister's daughter. In Africa, blacksmiths never intermarry with the rest of the population, taking only smiths' daughters as their wives. In some parts of Australia it is customary for the young men to marry old women. The young girls are wed to the elders of the community. An old Chinese law provided a severe penalty where persons of the same name married; the marriage was declared illegal. In England prior to 1907 a man could not wed his deceased wife's sister. In modern civilized countries brothers do not marry sisters, but the Pharaohs and Ptolemies of Egypt married the daughters of their own fathers and mothers in order to exalt them to the position of queens.

MRS. ROOSEVELT BACKS LIBRARY FOR BLIND MOVE

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke recently in behalf of the National Library for the Blind with each word she said tapped into the hand of Miss Helen Keller, sitting on the platform. With Miss Keller was Miss Tolly Thompson, acting as her eyes and ears.

Mrs. Roosevelt said: "I sometimes think those who labor with handicaps have a reward in that when they conquer their handicaps they are so much richer in what they have to give to the world."

PARALYSIS IS CURED BY BOLT OF LIGHTNING

Stunned by a bolt of lightning, Miss Adeline Slover, 40 years old, of Keyport, N. J. received "cure from the heavens" and was able to walk for the first time in 15 years.

So completely paralyzed that she was unable to move her arms, Miss Slover had been treated by a number of specialists and had lost all hope of recovery.

WOMAN'S SUMMER OUTFIT HOVERS NEAR A POUND

Weatherweight clothes are all the rage, and it is estimated that the total weight of a smart summer outfit this year will be just over a pound. It is made up as follows: Coat and skirt, twelve ounces; blouse, four ounces; hat, two ounces; total one pound two ounces.

STATE W. M. U. CONVENTION AT WINCHESTER IN APRIL

The Central Baptist church of Winchester, Ky., will be host to the annual Woman's Missionary Union State convention which will be held April 8 and 9.

The Rev. Paul Montgomery, pastor of the church, and Mrs. Joe S. Lindsay, president of the W. M. U. of the church, together with each and every member of the church extend a cordial invitation to the Baptist women of the state to attend this convention. All other churches of Winchester join in the invitation. Winchester, located in the Blue Grass section of Kentucky, is conveniently situated and transportation from all parts of the state is available by train or bus.

Delegates expecting to attend are asked to communicate with Mrs. Maurice Smith, chairman of the registration committee, informing her as to when and how they will arrive.

CARE SHOULD BE TAKEN IN EMPTYING VACUUM CLEANERS

Now that spring cleaning is about to begin many housewives will be emptying their vacuum cleaner bags and should take precautions not to scatter germs in this way. If we would remember that the vacuum cleaner bags are probably the greatest collector of germs we have about the house—more of us would empty it into cartons and burn the cartons and contents instead of emptying them into the wind to be blown about the community and be potential sources of disease.

SCIENTISTS WARNED OF PLAGUE BY LOCUSTS

The periodical cicada—frequently miscalled the seventeen-year locust—will sing his love song through the land this spring.

Agriculture Department scientists Saturday warned of his approach. There are thirty known broods and two will come out of the ground this spring. One has been thirteen years in breeding and the other the full seventeen.

JUDGE CORN WEDS COUPLE

County Judge Charles T. Corn performed the marriage ceremony which united a Lincoln county couple in his office in the court house Saturday afternoon. The couple gave their names as Virgil Young and Ruth Keeton. They were accompanied by Robert and Gertrude Adams, also of Lincoln county.

A WOMAN SINGS

A home upon a gentle slope of hill, With open windows where crisp curtains blow; A trellised porch where yellow roses grow Above a cushioned swing and sway, and spill Their petals down the floor; where children fill The air with joyous sound, and sunset's glow Is red on fluffy hens, like flame on snow— My acre of content, where Time stands still!

The world sweeps past my paradise of peace And I am tranquil while it hurries by To search the city's noisy, restless mart For wealth. My cup is full! I have no surcease From worry, like homely tasks, and high White calm—a lighted taper—in my heart!

Dorothy Callaway.
