HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

THE DEFENDER
OF THE UNION!

DANIEL WEBSTER

He was a poor farmer's son. A weak lad, his parents made great sacrifices to give him an education. He became the greatest orator of his time!

Webster earned large fees as a lawyer, but loved luxury. When he died he was $40,000 in debt. He was both Senator and Secretary of State. His ambition was to become President of the United States. Over forty years he tried, but in vain. He once made a speech four hours long, defending the Union and ending with the stirring words: "Liberty and union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

"To advance in any line of life's endeavors, it is necessary both to study and to think. Achievement is possible to those who have the initiative and determination to equip themselves with knowledge. Real joy and satisfaction are to be found in the realization that one is accomplishing something worth while and in the knowledge that its value is the direct result of one's personal efforts."—E. A. "Think before you speak," said Uncle Eben, "but be sure you're thinkin' stid o' simply waitin' yoh turn to holler."

Early Lyceums

An organized plan of instruction of adults was inaugurated under the name lyceum in Millbury, Mass., in 1828. By 1830 more than 3,000 town lyceums were in existence. Later the practice grew of having paid lecturers address the lyceums. A national organization was formed in 1831 and held conventions until 1839.
