Freshmen find a whole new world of studies and friends as they begin their four year stay at the Elms. High school life shows its diversity in courses ranging from Christian Family and the problems of running a home, to Algebra I and the complexities of mathematics. The basics of English and history give depth to their new experiences.

Amid these different class experiences, freshmen also learn singing techniques during chorus each week and make new acquaintances at planned activities such as the Freshman Mixer.

UPPER LEFT: Assembling Oscar in Health Class gives Mary Thome, Cherylann Landoll, and Carol Zordrow a better understanding of the human body.

Open As Freshmen Arrive

In class and out — it's living

Gradually the freshman world slows to the pace of the average high school student. The rush of activities with fellow class members and "big" sisters have filled their lives and made them feel that they are a part of the Elms, and that it is truly their school.

FIRST ROW: M. Scuderi, E. Shannon, C. Curtis, L. Ciriello, D. Tedeschi, R. Cuneo, C. Dye, C. Zadrow, P. DiNuoscio, D. Shannon, L. Sain. SECOND ROW: A. Beaven, R. Clemente, M. Walsh, A. Titus, P. LEFT: Sandy Borisuk, Pat DiNuoscio, and Pam Zimmerman display their Christian Family projects, miniature furnished rooms. The unit was part of a study in Interior Decorating.

RIGHT: Rosemary Vielhaber, Chris Curtis, Lynn Heckman, and Gretchen Schrantz increase their knowledge of math by studying an algebraic crossword puzzle.

Sophomores

The sophomore's task, if one can judge from the word, is the acquiring of "wisdom." Barbara Lucas typifies the second-year student in her more studious moments. She forgets for a time the score of last night's game and her new dress and sets her sights on a goal. She now can use all her ability and her year's experience to achieve that goal.

FIRST ROW: S. Durbin, L. Fox, M. Curry, S. Emery, P. Greene, G. Bader, J. Hansburg, V. Giaramita, R. Heckman. SECOND ROW: M. Guldán, M. Farris, K. Kane, K. Conley, J. Hoffman, R. Hamad, C. Haas, M. ## take on togas and books

Delving into nature's mysteries is the work of the biology class. Here, Martha Curry, Peggy Riccardi, Sandy and Susie Parker check their notes on plants with the aid of new lab equipment.

Sophs don't get quite so tired running down the hockey field, and now play volleyball with a net and ball. They have a fighting chance in the tournaments, and give them all they've got. Cheer rallies wouldn't be the same without them.

Extracurricular activities are varied for second-year students. Besides being the only ones who really know the lyrics to all pop songs, the sophomores find more time for new fields of interest like art, music, bowling, ice-skating, or horseback riding.

Sophomores are given first experiences in leadership and service.

Heading the JCL, sophs learn parliamentary procedure, responsibility, and principles of cooperation while working on group projects like Initiation and the Toga Hop.

After benefiting from new experiences, resolving doubts and uncertainties, and accepting the duties of work, study, and diligence, the sophomore is prepared to meet the challenging responsibilities of her junior year.

For juniors, memorie

Juniors have begun their first year as upperclassmen and the leaders of the school. Not only did they supervise the annual magazine drive, but they also upheld the tradition of securing first place. The juniors' most memorable event occurred in December when they received their class rings. At Eastertime school work was halted and the fun began as the juniors took off for Washington. Graduation climaxed the year as they left St. Bernard Church telling themselves, "Now we are finally the Senior Class."

LEFT: As one of their Industrial Arts projects, Martha Kemper and Ginna Bragg help make Advent wreaths to be sold to the student body.

The comparative quiet of a study hall is a welcome break in any busy student's day. Above, girls use the time to prepare for tomorrow's work. The daily attack on books has some of its rewards made visible at the end of the year. At right, Karen Patterson receives congratulations from Mother Rosalia and Sister Monica on Awards Day.

are many-splendored

FIRST ROW: L. Zumpano, M. Lynch, B. Siegfert, P. Spencer, R. Montana, S. Welsh, F. Werner, K. Patterson, M. Spallino, D. Yoshikawa. SECOND ROW: C. Martin, J. Matvey, M. Schmitz, K. Quinn, K. Urbanic, B. List, M. Whitman, S. Yahner, B. McElroy. THIRD ROW: S. Richards, M. Reidy, N. Traub, C. Prince, C. Ruhaak, M. Vashbinder, M. Sullivan, M. Shedlosky. FOURTH ROW: M. Maxwell, C. Wagner, J. Reeves, K. Zodrow, C. May, S. Magyary, D. Schwarz, S. Summerville.

Many subjects are offered to the juniors. French, Algebra II, chemistry, and physics add interest and augment the required subjects of religion, English, and American history.

Students are quick to realize that history's value lies in its effect upon the present. This year students not only studied past events, but personally experienced national tragedy in the November 22 assassination of John F. Kennedy.

The school flag at half-mast for thirty days fixed a memory—deep.

*For a new
the torch*

By class projects, bulletin board displays, current event discussions, and outside work, the student learns the story of his country.

RIGHT: Juniors Pat Bascetta, Sally Welsh, and Adrienne Duzy work on an American history bulletin board, whose theme has been made more meaningful by recent events.

. . . enrich our living

ABOVE: Will the wonders of baking never cease? It's hardly possible with expert Homemakers Nancy LaMancusa, Pam Riccardi, and Patricia Traub.

BELOW: Freshman Elmites and Hoban boys take a break from their studies to attend the annual Student Council sponsored Mixer.

Added to the scholarly atmosphere, outside activities bring pleasure and enjoyment. Beginning the social year, the Student Council sponsored a Freshie Mixer with Hoban. Christmas brought the alumnae together for tea, talks, and trumps, an annual gathering organized by the Iota Delta Alpha Sorority. Choral choir added to the gay spirit with carols at the annual Christmas concert. Music also brought cultural rewards to the students when the "Music Master" was presented by the Detroit Opera Company. On hand at most occasions were Home Ec students offering tasty treats. Cooperation, work, fun—all are part of life and learning at the Elms.

RIGHT: Lynn Ivers and Sandy Hausfeld show the true meaning of good sportsmanship—"If at first you don't hit the bull's eye, shoot some more arrows."

LOWER LEFT: Newly added to the physical education curriculum is gymnastics. It is hoped that before long there will be a more extensive program to further skills in the sport. Here Kathy Griebel and Georgeanne Van Nostran demonstrate grace and agility.

Sports whirl with calendar

Throughout the year Elmites show their spirit in all activities, but in none so much as the quarterly sports tournaments. In the early fall it is not unusual to hear the familiar sounds of hockey sticks against the balls and the opponents' shins, or the enthusiastic cheers of the bystanders. Then as the season changes so does the sport; and the girls are playing volleyball. It seems that the seniors are naturally invincible. As Easter approaches the girls are put through various coordination skills to find the champion basketball team. As the year draws to a close, everyone is ready for summer sports.

BELOW: Upperclassmen put more bounce into tournaments by cheering for their classmates.

the grapes of your vineyards
for the winepress,
say in your heart,
I too am a vineyard,
and my fruit shall be gathered*

*for the winepress,
And like new wine
I shall be kept in eternal vessels."*
