

Van: "A.D. Dirkzwager" <diatirot@me.com>
Onderwerp: Doorst.: YOUR MAIL OF 11 MARCH
Datum: 21 maart 2019 om 15:03:43 CET
Aan: Gualth rie van Weezel Hans <h.gualtherie@gmail.com>

Cook's reactie op mijn mail van 11 maart j.l. grt. Aadje

Stuart blijft de EU blameren. I prefer not to dwell too much on matters concerning the tedious developments on Brexit and prior years' history. Hij ontwijkt dat de oorzaak van Brexit 'Bad Government' is.

It is a great pity that the EC has chosen to defy the outcome of the Referendum, (the blame-game)

De EU heeft slechts gereageerd op het verzoek van May voor een 'modus operandi van een orderly retreat of the UK quote: One has to assume that the (unelected) senior EC officials in Brussels etc. ,echter Mevrouw May 'is unelected as well.'

Van: Stuart Cook <jwstuartcook@gmail.com>
Onderwerp: YOUR MAIL OF 11 MARCH
Datum: 20 maart 2019 om 11:46:02 CET
Aan: Adriaan Dirkzwager <diatirot@me.com>

Good Morning, Adriaan

I prefer not to dwell too much on matters concerning the tedious developments on Brexit and prior years' history. Our politicians are in deep disarray not helped by having an incompetent Prime Minister who should never have been appointed in the first place. The sooner she is replaced the better though by whom one has to wonder. My personal wish has, as you well know, been for the UK to leave the EU and long term I still believe this to be the best course of action and it is a great pity that the EC has chosen to defy the outcome of the Referendum, albeit the very close final count. One has to assume that the (unelected) senior EC officials in Brussels, in their response to Britain's choice of withdrawal, have to be mindful of the impact on the future of the Union resulting from the withdrawal of one of its leading members, but a more mature/grown-up attitude on their part – and admittedly a far more business-like and better prepared performance by the British government – could surely have resulted some time ago in a sensible parting of the ways. I can only imagine how much Mr Putin is enjoying the situation. Let us hope that this charade completes sooner rather than later....and so far as this country is concerned with a new Prime Minister and a properly functioning government.....

Keep fit, Adriaan, and all the best, Stuart

Verbazingwekkend schetst the cartoonist de politieke situatie m.b.t. de uittreding van het Verenigd Koninkrijk (the UK is a federation) uit de EU. De Brit vindt dat hij/zij te veel soevereiniteit moet afstaan aan de EU in haar streven naar een federatie.

De BREXIT-uitkomst van de stemming van het 2016 referendum was deels een tegenstem tegen de conservatieve partij. Hoe dan ook er werd gestemd op emotionele gronden zonder de weloverwogen 'pro and the con's' afwegingen van het EU lidmaatschap. 'The man in the street' heeft niet de dossier kennis om geconfronteerd te worden met deze vraagstelling in het 2016 referendum.

Van: A D Dirkzwager <djatirot@me.com>

Onderwerp: NYTimes: Three Choices on Brexit, None Good

Datum: 15 december 2018 om 16:18:57 CET

Aan: "Adriaan D. Dirkzwager" <djatirot@me.com>

Here's a story from The New York Times that I thought you'd find interesting:

Pity poor Theresa May and her faltering plan for Britain to exit the European Union. Whatever it is, her critics are against it.