The Injustice of American Justice

By WILLIAM DUBY

BERKELEY - The Rodney King verdict stunned the American People. Thousands of anguished and hostile citizens took to the streets in the city of Los Angeles. The tormented mobsters vented their hostility by setting ablaze the community, destroying property, looting the stores, crippling the people and killing without conscience. It was a grim day for mankind, but I must say, it was a great day for the Almighty who works in mysterious ways.

A learning lesson regarding "man's inhumanity unto man" is before the American People. A public choice in direction is facing mankind. Are we going to rise above what we saw and possibly participated in; or, are we going to continue to set each other up only to let each other down?

Thousands in the city of Los Angeles and elsewhere have made their choice, choosing the spirit of darkness rather than the spirit of light. The gates of hell broke open with a vengeance and the spirit of Hades found its way into the hearts and minds of the angry people. An angry crowd became an uncivilized gang. Virtue turned to vice. Individuals became beastly and gladly overstepped the bounds of common decency. As they did, the concern for life, limb and property ceased to be a moral or legal consideration. If I didn't know better I would have sworn that Adolph Hitler had returned from the grave and mesmerized the people of America as he did the people of Germany.

Pandemonium had broken loose and people of every color, every creed, every gender and every age were affected, transforming Los Angeles into a war zone overnight. Chaos hit the streets. The lives of law abiding citizens were unsafe. The police hurried to the rescue. Their efforts were futile. They might as well not have been there for all practical purposes. Their badge of authority meant nothing. The peace officers couldn't keep the peace. Out numbered and out smarted, there was little they could do save protect the lives of the firemen dodging bullets while fighting fires that kept buildings aflame. The conscience of mankind had died and the unthinkable happened before the eyes of the great People of America. Warnings of Armageddon had placed its trademark in the land of milk and honey.

The mask of evil fell and the ugly face of hell appeared. It was in plain sight for all to see, for all to witness, for all to behold, aghast with horror. An aura of death permeated the atmosphere. The soul of man is in crisis, the birth pang of choosing spiritual death or life has happened. Fifty-eight people died, 4,000 fires, and 1,000 or more people injured in one city. God forbid I make further note of the toll in other cities.

The twelve (12) jurors, whether they realize it or not, made their mark in human history. Their verdict of acquittal may seem unjust upon first sight. The ignorant will feel that an injustice has taken place. In a way they will appear to be right. The way they went about righting what they felt was wrong, however, was evil at its best because the worst befell the innocent. Those in the wise do realize that the judgment made by the jurors had to come down as it did. Second sight will reveal that the hand of the Almighty was in control of the learning lesson; never to fall asleep to the evil lurking in the background. It was the will of God that we see first hand what we are doing to each other in putting more value on the external levels of race, color, creed, national origin and sexual gender than the sacred principles of eternal life that keeps the spirit of darkness sealed in the abyss.

Obviously the problem lies deeper than a nearly all white jury acquitting white policemen. Inequity is the problem. Inequity occurs when the elite of every race, color, creed, national origin and sexual gender plays god on some level or another. Inequity breeds contempt and contempt is the beginning of injustice.

Evil always rears its ugly head within the heart of the wicked man.

Evil doesn't care whether it rules the heart (will and understanding) of the black, red, yellow, brown or white man.

Evil is color blind.

Evil is mindless.

Evil lives when freedom allows stupidity to block pure reason.

Evil is wickedness that begets the violence of self hatred taken out upon others trying their best

The Killer State

EDITORIAL

Moral codes have suffered from the exaggerated claims made for them. The dogmatic fallacy has here done its worst. Each such code has been put out by a God on a mountain top, or by a Saint in a cave, or by a divine Despot on a throne, or, at the lowest, by ancestors with a wisdom beyond latter question. In any case, each code is incapable of improvement; unfortunately in details they fail to agree either with each other or with our existing moral institutions. The result is that the world is shocked, or amused, by the sight of saintly old people hindering in the name of morality the removal of obvious brutalities from a legal system. Some Acta Sanctorum (Holy Acts) go ill with civilization.

—Alfred North Whitehead, British Mathematician and Philosopher 1861-1947

The State (officials) decided to kill for me! They thought they were doing me a service. Isn't it wonderful that the State thought it well to kill Robert Alton Harris to protect my life? I don't need the protections of the Almighty - I have the State willing to replace the God of my heart. I am so fortunate! How could I live without the State? I need them to do my thinking and acting for me. It is obvious I am not capable of making my own realizations. By now the reader should realize I am being facetious on purpose. How can I tell the State not to kill for me?

The audacity of the public officials who participated in executing Harris amuses me. They haven't the power to give life but are more than willing to take life, can't save their own life but are willing to take a life that has need of being saved. Justifying their thoughts, action and deeds by legalizing insane rationalizations. Whatever the means does justify their ends. You can't change a wicked heart anymore than you can make a silk purse out of a sow's ear. All you can do is have a change of heart. It begins with you when you end with trying to change others as the sick way to please yourself in self righteousness. Realize — a stone heart becomes hard while a heart of flesh becomes the soft composition of the Spirit of the Almighty.

While refusing to live the lifestyle of God why enter insanity by trying to play god? Legal is often unlawful when it doesn't meet the moral standards of the Higher Power that brought all life into being. I don't need any bureaucrat telling me that the Supreme Being has empowered him (her) to take the life of another human being. Anyone who believes it is the upright thing to do is self righteous to the core. If you cannot give life then you have no right taking the life of another or yours. All rationalizations that say otherwise are insane!

It is increasingly clear that the way others and I see America today is not the America taught about in schools and church. The public officials foolishly think they are sending out a message that will deter crime and violence. Such thinking is
