FIFTY-TWO GRADUATES TO RECEIVE DEGREES FROM CLASS OF '31 DESERVES MUCH PRAISE FOR SPLENDID RECORD

PRES. ELLIS M. STUDEBAKER GIVES BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

Largest Attendance at Annual Event in the History of the College

"Be of Service to Mankind" Is Theme of Message

The Baccalaureate service for the LaVerne College Seniors of 1931 was well attended Sunday evening, May 24, at the Church of the Brethren. President Studebaker presided, and delivered the address.

The sermon centered around the challenging text of Joshua 1:1-9. President Studebaker compared the graduation to the crossing of the Jordan, as it brings one into a new situation, where new decisions must be made. Sometimes it is a bit hard to adjust one's self to these new situations; but only in so doing may one be of the greatest service to mankind.

Most of the college graduates will be leaders—but what kind of leaders will they be? "Don't lead too fast, so that the other people can't even see your dust," Dr. Studebaker pointed out. It takes folks a long time to become accustomed to advanced ideas, so the leader should show humbleness and patience with others.

On the other hand, one who would achieve, must "be strong and of good courage"—not afraid of criticisms and failures which may come. Be sure that you're on the right side, and then stick to it. Any leader, who is successful to the greatest extent, must be led of God. Prayer and daily meditation on God's Word are necessary for those who wish to make a successful life.

In closing, President Studebaker recommended four lines of development which should continue all during life. First, the physical welfare of an individual should not be neglected. Second, one's mental development should not come to a standstill after graduation; but it is important to keep up with modern progress and be in touch with the great thinkers of the day.

Third, spiritually one should continue to grow, show more interest in spiritual things, and take an active part in religious occasions.

Fourth, social growth is important if one would be a truly successful leader.

President Studebaker urged the students to never neglect any of these phases of development, but take an active part in improving conditions in the community in the community in which they are located.

Preceding the address, Reverend Lynn read the scripture of the evening, and Reverend S. J. Rogers prayed the opening prayer. The Sunshine Quartet sang one number, "Lift Thine Eyes," and the Choral Union rendered "Te Deum."

S. V.'s Meeting Featured by Installation of Officers

PURPOSES OUTLINED BY DR. EMMERT

More "fun and inspiration!"

The Student Volunteers had a jolly good time at the Ovid Barklow home on Sierra Way, Monday evening, May 11.

The crowd gathered at 7 o'clock in the well-lighted garden with its romantic nooks and bowers—and a fish pond which proved the dismay, and almost the ruin of several of the band.

Games were played and prizes awarded to the winning sides. The game of forfeits proved very entertaining, and "wink 'em" was participated in with zest. Guessing games and races further tested individual and collective merit and ability. Jelly beans and gum-drops were awarded to the winners and eaten by opposing factions.

At nine o'clock chairs were assembled on the end of the lawn and the program of installation of the new cabinet was conducted by Miss Martha Baer, retiring vice-president of the organization.

The Freshman male quartet sang a group of secular songs. Miss Baer conducted the devotions, after which the quartet sang several sacred selections. Dr. J. B. Emmert then addressed the group and conducted the installation of the cabinet officers.

He took as his theme Phil. 3:13: "Forgetting that which is behind, I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." One has to forget the failures and successes alike in order to go forward to things which are before with the zest that is within one.

Developing his theme on this line, Dr. Emmert pointed out important points to be observed by the Volunteer:

1. The material with which he is to work is high. It is work with people. Man is so great that Christ came to the world to save him.

2. The influence of the individual is high. Special responsibility rests with the Christian. Revelations have been made to him. He is sent as an ambassador from God.

3. The power available to the Christian is high. The Holy Spirit is present to help at all times.

Deardorff to Edit Annual
Next Year

The 1931 Lambda, the L. V. C. annual, has been published and distributed. It is the decision of the students as well as the college friends and boosters that it is the best that has ever been published in LaVerne College.

The editor, "Chuck" Manning, and his staff certainly should be highly commended for their earnest and untiring efforts and work.

"Kenny" Deardorff has been chosen editor for next year and has chosen some of his staff already. He intends to make a better book next year and we know that Kenny is capable of smoothing out the many imperfections and will edit the best book yet.

If you haven't seen the Lambda or bought yours yet, you'd better hurry before they are all gone. I am sure your $3.00 will be wisely invested.

"Chuck" Manning Edits 1931 - 1932 Weekly

To be Better and Larger
Next Year

"You think the Campus Times can't be improved, huh? Well, it can! An', what's more, the man who is editor-in-chief next year is going to do it!"

"Who is he?"

"Why, 'Chuck' Manning, of course! And you're caught there because he can't be beat! No, sir, just look at the Lambda this year and notice what a success it is. Then just ask some of the alumni! Boy, we're sure hitting it on high for next year!"

"Oh, yeah; he and who else?"

"Gee, you're sure behind time! Why, Harry Thomas is the business manager and he can't be beat! Yeah, he's had plenty experience, too! And then the best part of this year's staff is to remain on duty—and they are good, too! Look how well they have done this year."

"Okay. I and the rest of the staff bet a good paper next year—that 'Chuck,' Harry and the rest put out a better paper. All on?"

Campus Times Staff Members De- serve Praise for Year's Work

Reporters and Others Receive Special Mention by Editor

Several members of the present Campus Times Staff deserve special mention and praise for the regularity and quality of their work throughout the year.

Edith Roberts, editor of Campus Chuckles, has done especially good work. Not once all year was she late with copy for her column, and usually she was a week or two ahead. But not only has she been regular, for every reader, it is believed has chuckled numerous times each week as a result of the quality of her work. Give her a hand!

"Chuck" Maning, alias Cy Nical, has already been praised for his work; but he can hardly be given too much approval for the way he handled a column of comments which, to say the least, is a ticklish proposition. The fact that he will be the editor-in-chief next year speaks for itself.

Florence Snider, news editor, has done regular work, has served as a reporter of merit on the side, and has done much to secure the regular work of other staff members. She has another year in which she will, no doubt, do more good work on the paper.

The circulation department under the leadership of May Pickel has taken care of the folding, addressing and mailing of our papers better than any such staff in several years. This is a department of just plain work, and its members deserve credit for their reliable attention to it. Steps are now being taken to organize this department under a sophomore head who will be given part tuition to direct a group of freshmen in this work. Then the following year, one of the former frosh group will be given the position.

Wilma Baldwin, copy reader, has been very regular and efficient in her work, there being very few Friday afternoons which she has not spent in the Campus Times office.

Many students have reported for the paper throughout the year, but none have been as good and willing in their work as the following: Evelyn Deardorff, Ed Cunningham, Lucile Forney and Verna Minor. There are others who have done very good work irregularly, but the above, as nearly as the editor can figure it out, have done the best. They are very important, too, for after all a paper hinges around the reporter as the fundamental unit in an editorial staff.

The hope is that there will be more reporters worthy of this mention at the end of the next school year.

Aeolian Quartet Sings in Final Chapel

Pres. Studebaker Gives his Farewell Message

As a fitting close to the year's chapel programs, President Studebaker addressed the students on Thursday, May 21, taking as his theme, "What are we going to do with our knowledge?"

He compared the Scripture story of the foolish man who stored up riches for himself, with the educated person who stores up knowledge merely for his own personal enjoyment. "No man's life belongs to himself, no matter how well educated he may be," was one of the main facts emphasized. There may be a thrill in learning for one's own enjoyment, but the greatest thrill comes from the contacts which we make in society in a way that we wouldn't have made them, had we not been educated. Using knowledge for the good of others brings the greatest joy.

In closing, President Studebaker urged the students to try to be of service to the community in which they are located—this summer and all through life.

Since the revivalist who was to be the chapel speaker could not be present, the Aeolian Quartet willingly gave an impromptu program which was greatly enjoyed. The following numbers were sung: "Trust in the Lord" ("Largo" from Xerxes), Rio Grande, "Under the Cotton Moon," "Hallelujah Chorus," and "Goin' Home."

Alton Kurtz Receives Stanford Fellowship

Alton Kurtz, a graduate of the class of '29, at LaVerne with Magna Cum Laude honors, has recently accepted a Teaching Fellowship in Bio-chemistry at Stanford University next year.

He was also offered a $300 scholarship at Penn State; but this was turned down to accept the Stanford offer with a stipend of $600.

Kurtz is now working out a Fellowship at Pomona College and will receive his Master's Degree next month.

LaVerne College, through the Campus Times, extends its hearty congratulations and best wishes to Mr. Kurtz, a successful LaVerne College alumnus, in his work.

art of writing headlines and making an attractive paper as shown by his work in the edition last week. He had no assistance in putting out that issue.

A. A. Milne Production Well Received

Class of '31 Play is Fitting Climax of Year

"The Ivory Door," staged Tuesday night, was a huge success. This play is different from any production ever given at LaVerne College. The senior class is to be commended for the lighting, staging and costuming. The beautiful velvet curtains were a loan from Padua Hills Theater.

King Perivale is played very capably by Doyle Montz. In spite of the protests of the chancellors and the king's body servant, played by Ed Cunningham and Kenny Deardorff respectively, the king walks boldly through the door, on summer morning, the morning of his marriage to Princess Lilia. He finds nothing but a long and dusty road—no danger, nothing. He walks to the great gate and knocks, to find the captain drum and making sport with a mummy fellow instead of awaiting a bride in a proper manner. In spite of all Perivale can do to prove that he is the king, the court will not believe him. (Continued on Page Four)

Alumni Entertains the Senior Class

Dr. Lefever Is Main Speaker
as Class of '21 Is Honored

The Alumni Association of LaVerne College entertained the Senior class of this year by a banquet in Fellowship Hall at the Church of the Brethren, Saturday, May 23, at 6:30 p. m.

A record crowd attended, and a jolly, friendly spirit prevailed. Benjamin Jamieson, as toastmaster, allowed everyone to enjoy a delicious meal before diverting their attention to jokes.

Since the banquet this year honored the tenth anniversary of the Academy class of 1921, several members of that illustrious group gave short speeches. Among them were Dwight Welch, Prof. Holmboe, and Mineva Neher, who has been a missionary in China several years.

Miss Gladys Ikenberry favored the group with two Spanish songs, the Apollo-Aeolian Quartet entertained with a group of songs, and Geneva Suttle and Virginia Stern sang "Ramona" in Spanish. Decorations were on the Spanish order, as also was the program.

The main address of the evening was given by Dr. D. Welty Lefever, stressing the social situation met with by graduates. Following his talk, the Alumni joined in singing the Alma Mater.

THE AIM OF THE CAMPUS TIMES HAS BEEN

to increase support of, and centralize our loyalties on the five leading activities of The Associated Students of LaVerne College, which are:

1. Feeling a sense of unity as one of The Associated Students.
2. Athletic activities (inter-collegiate and inter-class).
3. The Lambda and the Campus Times, our publications.
4. Forensic activities (mainly inter-collegiate).
5. Associated Student Socials and individual class life.

The aim of the Campus Times for the preceding year is stated in the box above. To achieve this aim, an effort to represent the Associated Students' activities according to their importance, regardless of personal attitudes and prejudices has been made by the staff of this weekly. In addition, other educational material thought to be of cultural value has been printed from time to time to help form the best student attitudes, with optimism and reasoning as the keynotes.

Many compliments have been received for the splendid work of the Editorial Staff and it is hoped that the paper has merited these bouquets. However, although the staff has done its best under the prevailing conditions, next year's paper will no doubt be much better.

The editor-in-chief for next year, "Chuck" Manning, has had much experience in journalistic work and also has the pep and life to get things done. He will lead the best Editorial Staff the Campus Times has ever had, for the majority of this year's experienced staff has already offered their services; and many other students are becoming interested in work on the Campus Times.

With a staff of this quality, the editor will be able to direct his attention to the improvement of the paper and not work in just "getting it out."

A better Campus Times for 1931-32!

E. Calvert, Editor-in-Chief.

Looking Forward---Ever Forward

The school year of 1930-31 is now all over but the shouting and with it the end of fifty-two careers at LaVerne College. A few are disposed to reminisce about their four years of college achievements, good times, and other experiences; but the writer believes that all are concerned more with the future than with the past. And this is as it should be; for after all, a college education is not an end but a means. It is not the goal at which students should aim as a final one but only a means to more efficient service to society, to better and more intelligent living, and for many, a means to further educational achievements.

So the class of '31 bids farewell to LaVerne College; and although fond memories of our Alma Mater will always remain with us, the class is looking forward to even greater achievements and service to society.

E. Calvert, Editor-in-Chief.

The biggest joke this week, Bert Jones says, is his picture in the annual. Judge for yourself, folks.

Mr. Ferree: "What do you expect to be when you get out of college?"

"Buck": "An old man."

"Bob" Welty: "I wish I could be like a river."

Maurice Shirk: "In what way?"

"Bob" Welty: "Stay in bed and yet follow my course."

Ronald Bessey: "You've owed me this bill all year. I'll meet you half way. I'm ready to forget half what you owe me."

Jerry Deal: "Fine, I'll meet you.
I'll forget the other half."

Frances Bishop: "My sister could have married anyone she pleased."

Beth Masterson: "Then why is she still single?"

Frances: "She never pleased anybody."

Russell Frantz: "I dreamed of you last night."

"Frankie" Sandblom (coldly):
"Really!"

Russell F.: "Yeah, then I woke up, shut the window, and put an extra blanket on the bed."

Miriam Dickey: "Dad, you're a lucky man."

Mr. Dickey: "Why?"

Miriam D.: "You won't have to buy me any school books next year.
I'm taking this year's work over again."

STUDENT SOCIAL LIFE

President Studebaker Entertains Seniors

Reception Attended and Enjoyed by Class of '31 en Masse

Friday evening at 8 o'clock nearly fifty seniors enjoyed the annual reception of President Studebaker which was held at the J. M. Frantz residence.

The guests were received by President and Mrs. Studebaker, and after all had met, and a brief talk given by the president, "examination" was administered by Mrs. Studebaker in the form of several completion tests. They demonstrated the seniors' knowledge of a car, and of trees.

Many "silly questions and foolish answers" were entertaining as well as the paper edited by the group. "Tommy" felt impelled to conceal his tie after the items of "lost, strayed or stolen" were read. Delicious refreshments of ice cream and angel food cake were served.

The party broke up early enough to allow the cast of the "Ivory Door" several hours practice before morning.

President and Mrs. Studebaker were assisted in the entertainment by their daughter, Mrs. Russell J. Frantz and Miss Florence Long.

Prexy Talks to Y. W. in Monday Meeting

Dr. E. M. Studebaker addressed the Y girls Monday morning, this being the first time he addressed the girls at one of the Y meetings since he came here as president eight years ago.

"Ideal womanhood is the best thing for a campus," according to President Studebaker. They must be cultured women, however.

Co-educational is the only kind of education President Studebaker would advocate. He told us just what a cultured girl should be like.

Prof. Cullen: "Bert, tell me all you know about the Caucasian race."

Bert Jones: "I don't know. I wasn't there, because I had to run in the Oxy meet."

Owing to the fact the chapel speaker did not arrive Tuesday, the session lasted only a few minutes. Professor Brubaker announced that the Frosh debating team had won the conference cup, by virtue of five wins out of six debates during the season.

The remainder of the time was given over to the Sunshine Quartet, who sang the following numbers: "Little Blue Bird of My Heart," "Smiling Trough," "Little Liza Loves You," "Women," and "Out of the Dusk to You."

Changes to be Made In Adm. Bldg.

Will Be Improvements Over Present Arrangements

Several changes are to be made in building arrangements for next year.

The present student lobby will be divided up into waiting room and regular office for the permanent secretary. This will be the key office to the other offices, with telephone connections to each.

The present kitchen in Miller Hall is to be equipped for cafeteria service; and three meals will be served daily, open to all students.

There are also several tentative arrangements not yet passed on. They are the dividing up of Prof. Travis's room into a combined Student Store, Commission Room, and Graduate Manager's office. The present Student Store, it is planned, will be turned into a Lambda office and the present Commission Room will become Prof. Travis's music room.

These arrangements are heartily approved by the students and will be fine improvements over the present ones.

MANY ATHLETES LOST TO LA- VERNE BY GRADUATION

Five Horsemen Stand Out as Leading Athletic Contribution of Class of '31

Ranks are Thinned in Every Sport

Graduation this year will reap a greater harvest of LaVerne athletes than any previous graduation ever has. Great gaps will be left in the athletic ranks of the school. Perhaps other years have seen as many athletes as members of the Senior class, but for quality as well as quantity in athletes, the present class of 1931 has far greater wealth of those who have fought for the Orange and Green on the field of play.

Felows who have closed their college football careers and are graduating this year are: Capt. Fred Hubbel, quarterback and one of the fastest, shiftest little backs in the conference for three years. "Bennie" didn't weigh over 150 pounds, but his speed and aggressiveness more than made up for his lack of size and weight. He was a real leader. "Red" Weybright, fullback and signal caller last year, also rounded out his third year on the varsity. "Tommy" Thomason earned football letters in his sophomore and junior years, but injuries kept him calling signals on the second team this year. Tommy had the scrap. Maurice Smith and E. Calvert both earned letters in the backfield last year. "Smitty" was the hardest hitting back on the team. Out of the line will be lost: "Nick" Nicolas, the guard who was mentioned for all-conference honors last season; Ike Funk, guard, played the most minutes. Doyle Montz, center, all of whom were two-year lettermen. Joe Roynon, another guard, made his letter a year ago, but injures this season kept him from repeating. And last but not least, "little" Ony Leonard who played center and tackle on the team for three years. Ony was quite conspicuous when standing in the line beside Joe. Ony was the only lineman to make his letter three years. Ain't that somethin'?

Another senior that worked plenty for L. V. C. during the football season, though he didn't play on the team, was Ralph Fesler, senior football manager for two years. Ralph was a real manager and his work was appreciated by all the fellows.

Everyone will remember the "Five Horsemen" (all of whom are seniors) that composed the second best basket ball team in the conference for two years. This team was probably the best ever to represent LaVerne on the court. Captain Dale Stutzman and "Red" Weybright, captain and all-conference forward in '30, forwards; Orville Thomason, center, and Fred Hubbell and Al Nicolas, guards, made up the team known as the "Five Horsemen." Weybright and Tommy were basket ball lettermen three years, while the others were two year lettermen. It is easy to see the hole that will be left in the basket ball ranks by the graduation of these seniors of '31. They were all outstanding players on the court and the best team for their size in the conference. Their fight balanced up for their lack of height and weight. Joe Roynon was basket ball manager in 1930.

The seniors were represented in baseball by only three of their members, but what a three. Thomason pitched for the team three years, "Red" Weybright caught for Tommy, and Fred Hubbell covered lots of ground in the outfield, also for three years. Hubbell was captain of the baseball team this past season. All three were above the average as baseball players, each

Mallides Gets Scholarship at Columbia

Closely following word of Alton Kurtz's Fellowship at Stanford comes news to the effect that Alexander Mallides, Greek student of the class of '31, has received a $300 scholarship from Columbia University, where he will take up work next year.

This scholarship is in Teachers College proper, and Mallides' work will be in Education.

one being one of the leading hitters, with "Red" leading the entire team this year.

Several of the senior class of '31 represented L. V. C. on the tennis court. Ike Funk bore the brunt of the Leopard attack the last two years as first singles, and also as one of the first doubles team. Calvert played second singles and doubles two years while "Red" Weybright earned his letter one year. Paul Funk played singles and doubles the last two years.

Taken as a whole, this graduating class earned twenty varsity letters this year out of a total of forty-two varsity letters awarded. This shows to some degree the quality of its athletes when almost half of the letters of a single year are given to its members.

These athletes have represented LaVerne College during the last three years, some of which were not entirely successful from a scoring standpoint, but they have been the turning point in Leopard sports. The school athletics are now on the upgrade, due in large part to the efforts of these fellows who this year are leaving behind them their college athletic careers. They are the foundation upon which is being built a greater L. V. C. athletics. Their work will not be forgotten in future years LaVerne tries to uphold the standards set forth by them.

Seniors, LaVerne salutes you!

believe him. Brand, the faithful, alone recognizes him, but dares not reveal his thoughts into words for the people might only kill him, thinking he too was in the "plot." The court thinks more of their traditions, their legends, than anything else.

There are many humorous portions in the play. "Tommy" does nobly as the mummer, and keeps the audience in an uproar. Titus and Carlo, two thick-headed soldiers played by Dwight DuBois and George Berg, also form much of the comedy relief. Bruno, the captain, played by Everett Calvert, is a riot. Willie Long is beautiful as the Princess Lilia. She too wishes to know the truth and discovers it for herself.

If you have not already seen this production, come tonight. Seats are on reserve at the LaVerne drug store. Come, see what happens to Perivale and Lilia. Are they hanged, stoned, or burned at the stake?

STUDENT VOLUNTEER MEETING

Fred Brunk, Marie Pobst and Harry Thomas take the place of Ed Cunningham, Martha Baer, Lucile Forney, Harry Thomas, Pearl Niswander and Dortha Gans, who were the officers for the past year.

Following the program, the hostess, Evelyn Deardorff, announced refreshments. Chairs formed a circle about the lawn again and the crowd filed past the kitchen window to be served homemade ice cream and wafers. Punch was passed around and Vera Hoover caused much excitement when she discovered the pictures of two people at the bottom of her glass.

The pictures were identified as Pearl Niswander and Dwight DuBois, with the note, "futuristically speaking," written upon them. The couple were the center of attention for the rest of the evening except when Harry secured a little of it to make an announcement.

Coach Lee Eisan: "What did your son learn at college?"

Mr. Hubbell: "He can ask for money in such a way that it seems like an honor to give it to him."

What Would You Do?

(A Problem in Behaviorism)

Supposing you were overcome by an irresistible urge to encase the carcass in a snappy new set of scenery. You wanted a new suit—and it had to have "that certain set" to the shoulders—it had to be well tailored and the right color. Maybe it's a sky piece you had in mind—or a pair of sport oxfords—or anything that a young man might want to wear. Would you drop into the Campus Room? If the answer is "yes" you will get your reward in finding exactly what you want.
