COMMENCEMENT WEEK IS HERE!

ATTRACTIVE PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK

SIX SENIORS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The successful school year of 1921-1922 will close Saturday, June 3. The fore part of the week is used for exams and the winding up of the studies for the year.

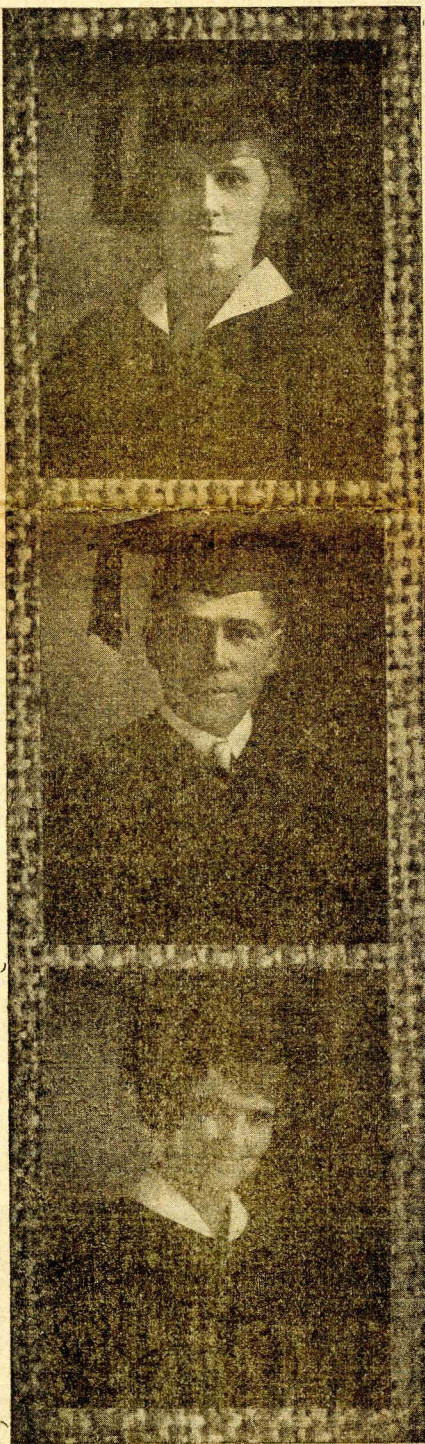

The Baccalaureate Sermon for the graduates was given at the church Sunday evening, May 28, at 8:00 o'clock. Pres. I. V. Funderburgh delivered the address, using the theme, "A Commencement Covenant."

The graduates of the Music Department will render their annual concert Thursday evening. A splendid program is anticipated.

Friday will be Class Day. The Academy Department will give their program in the morning at 10:00 a. m. and the College Seniors will occupy the evening hour at 8:00 p. m.

The Commencement program will be held Saturday morning. As an opening number Miss Mildred Seymour will play a piano solo, "Chromatic Waltz." Mrs. Haugh will sing, "Remember Thy Creator." Dr. J. Z. Gilbert, of Los Angeles, will deliver the commencement address on the subject of, "Freedom, the Condition of Progress." This will be followed by the presentation of diplomas and conferring of degrees by Pres. Funderburgh.

HAZEL

Fair as the Easter lily, and sweet as she is fair,
But enjoys as much as anyone to be free from any care.

ERNEST

A fellow of fun but earnest in work,
And never was known his duty to shirk.

BEULAH

A smile eternal, like the sunshine ray,
But the picture's in front—what need I to say.

The leader, our President, who's worked hard at the game,
But now is awarded a degree for his name.

ELVA

The last one is worthless except to rhyme,
And that she is doing half the time.

RALPH

A Senior of worth, a Senior of style,
A Senior who meets you with a smile.

Junior-Senior Class Set New Precedent

The College Junior-Senior classes again showed their initiative and loyalty to the College, when in joint session they decided to start the precedent of using the entire proceeds from the class play in purchasing a gift to be presented to the College.

In the future it is hoped that all classes will follow this custom, and consider it very selfish to use this money for personal or class expenses. This move on the part of these classes is heartily approved of and sanctioned by the College Administration.

Mr. Tom Mackey, who is conducting evangelistic meetings at the Advent Christian Church, spoke in chapel last Thursday. The story of his conversion and early evangelistic work was indeed interesting.

NEW COMMISSION IS ELECTED

INSTALLED BY PRESIDENT FUNDERBURGH

The election of the new Commission for the coming year was characterized by more enthusiasm and interest than has ever yet been manifested during the campaign and election. Many artistic posters, showing striking originality, were displayed in the halls at the first part of the week.

Wednesday morning during the chapel period the campaign speeches were given, evidencing much spirit and "pep."

Royal Ott, the chairman of the recent Commission had charge of the proceedings. The valuable accounts of each candidates' virtues, qualifications and present successes as given by the managers were greeted with great applause. After the burst of oratory from each campaign manager, the candidate in a few simple words, pledged his loyalty to his school, whether he was elected or not. The eulogies of the managers brought some very interesting and instructive facts to light. The candidates and their managers were as follows:

Publications: Manager Martha Brubaker.....Maurine Miller
Student Welfare: John Price.....Frank Gillett
Howard Beckner.....Pauline Shirk
Viola Neher.....Howard Beckner
Finance: Phil Smith.....Cathryn Byerly
Guy Jordan.....Vera Hoover
Athletics: Wayne Bohn.....Dwight Welch
Byrl Harper.....John Price

Debating:

Paul Throne.....Ruth Barnhizer
Walter Gilbert.....Harvey Emley

At 4:00 p. m. the voting began. Anyone who doubted the fact that the entire student body was interested should recall that mob which surrounded the table when the ballots were issued. To the sweet strains of Hawaiian medley from the boys Victrola, the votes were sweetly and harmoniously cast in the boys parlor. Even though Frank absolutely ignored all rules against electioneering within twenty feet of the polls, and suspicion was rife that Martha voted for herself, everything went smoothly.

Credit should be given to Frank Gillett for the enthusiastic part he took in the entire campaign. It is gratifying to see the younger students take part, for their interest manifested now, means success in the future, for the student activities when the older leaders are gone.

A general good feeling is manifested over the results of the election and the brief but impressing installation service was conducted by our President Funderburgh in Student Assembly Friday morning. Loud and prolonged applause testified that the student body is back of:

Martha Brubaker, Commissioner of Publications
Viola Neher, Commissioner of Student Welfare
Phil Smith, Commissioner of Finance
Wayne Bohn, Commissioner of Athletics
Paul Throne, Commissioner of Debating.

A Large Audience Hears "Prodigal Son"

That the people of La Verne are interested in classical music was certainly proved by the large crowd that came out to the new gymnasium Friday evening, May 19, to hear the Oratorio, "The Prodigal Son."

This was given as the last number of the Music and Lecture Course of the College, and was one of the most difficult numbers ever undertaken by the music department here. That it was such a splendid success is largely due to the leadership of Professor B. S. Haugh, under whose direction the oratorio was given.

The solo parts were taken by Miss Lucile Beckner, soprano; Mrs. B. S. Haugh, contralto; Mr. J. C. Stickle, tenor; and Mr. J. C. Poole, baritone. The soprano and contralto solos were especially fine. The chorus, composed of seventy-five members from Pomona San Dimas, and La Verne, gave several long and difficult numbers, of which the first and the last were the best. All were rendered accurately, but these two were given with more spirit and enthusiasm. The oratorio was well accompanied at the pianos by Miss Bernice Gible and Miss Dorothea Dyck.

The working up and rendering of this oratorio has done much to foster the interest and love for good music in the community, and we hope for another such program next year.

SPEAKS IN CHAPEL

A very instructive talk was given the students Wednesday, May 17, by J. Raymond Schmidt, representing the Prohibition Party. Mr. Schmidt explained the Wright Law-Enforcement Act, which is to be put to the California voters next fall. In brief, the act, if passed, would require the legislators and other state officials to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution and check bootlegging and "blind-pig" conditions in California. Voters should see that this is passed.

This is the last issue of the Campus Times for this school year. We, as members of the Editorial Staff, hope that you have gained as much in reading it as we have in publishing it. If you have enjoyed our school paper, you will have a chance to support it again next year.

Last week there was considerable excitement aroused over the annual Student Body election of Commissioners. Every student in La Verne College turned politician. But now the reign of excitement is over, and the newly elected Commissioners have been duly installed for the coming school year, 1922-1923. They are, with your help, ready to begin their tasks. They have very responsible positions and need the hearty and loyal support of each one of you. Don't let personal opinion prejudice you and withhold your support because the one elected was not your candidate. Each nominee pledged his support whether elected or not, and you should do the same. You, the Student Body, have placed the Commissioners in their respective positions. Back them up.

The school year of 1921 and 1922 has almost ended, and one more year recorded by Father Time. We have all had successes as well as failures, but variety is the spice of life. Our year's records are complete and forever set down in black and white. We are no longer green, backward Freshies, but all-wise Sophs. We are no longer just Juniors, but dignified Seniors. We are glad vacation is here, because we won't have to study any more for three months. But we'll be just more than glad to say to the ticket agent next September, "Ticket to La Verne, please."

This is the last year in La Verne College for some of the students, especially the College Seniors. Many of them leave with regret and wish their College days were not over, while others are constantly looking forward to the time when they will become College Seniors.

Each student who is leaving our College this year, holds it dear to his heart. Upon being questioned as to what La Verne College has meant to him, he will in all probability be unable to answer. It has meant more than book knowledge. There is an indefinable "something" which makes him ever a faithful and true lover of his Alma Mater. And we will remember him and realize that he has made some contribution to the school.

We, the Student Body, wish you, the College Seniors, the greatest success in your life work, and hope that you may continue to rise and attain.

A GLIMPSE OF ARMENIAN SUFFERING

"ALICE IN HUNGERLAND" PRESENTED BY MISS TROSTLE

"Eyes that see and ears that hear" were present in the gymnasium auditorium, Tuesday evening, April 23, when "Alice in Hungerland" was presented by Miss Evelyn Trostle, a niece of Mrs. F. P. Dettler, of La Verne. Miss Trostle was Professor of English in McPherson College for several years prior to 1919, when she answered the call for Relief and Reconstruction workers for the Near East. She went to Armenia in company with Dr. A. A. Culler, who was appointed to supervise the distribution of funds for the Church of the Brethren. Following a serious illness, Miss Trostle was sent home a year ago last Christmas. Now ready and eager to return to her work, she is detained in this country on account of present political conditions in Turkey. She must remain here this year, but she is one of the busiest of busy people, raising money and collecting clothing for suffering and starving Armenian orphans.

The film, "Alice in Hungerland" does not present the awful, gruesome conditions existing among the starving children, but shows the brighter aspects of reconstruction work. Enough of the heart-sickening facts inevitably creep in to emphasize the contrast between Armenian orphans and the happy, fortunate children in our American homes. They showed the wonders accomplished for 128,000 boys and girls in the orphanages established and maintained by the N. E. R.

The Turkish government has now given 180,000 acres of ground to grow food for orphans, but there is need of food and clothing to keep them alive now. The orphanages cannot take care of them all, for lack of room and means. One of the terrible things the workers have to experience is turning away children who apply for admission to the orphanage—for it means starvation and death. One of the daily sad sights is the "dead wagon" that goes around each morning to pick up those who have died of starvation over night.

These children are the orphans of parents who were killed by Mohammedans because they were Christian and would not renounce Christianity. Boys were given their choice between becoming Mohammedans and having their heads cut off. Miss Trostle spoke of sixteen girls who were stripped and nailed to rough wooden crosses because they would not become Mohammedan and give up their Christ. Most of the adults were killed and there would be no children left but for the Near East Relief.

The message of Armenian orphans to the workers who came home was: "Go back to America and thank the boys and girls for what they have done for us."

Hundreds and thousands of people in Southern California do not care whether children and people starve in Armenia. The farther from the war, the harder to raise money, is the conclusion of workers who are striving to help people keep alive and active a really sympathetic interest in "Others"—to keep sweet the "milk of human kindness" in the hearts of fortunate Americans.

Those Armenian orphans never taste pie or cake or candy. Many, many of them have appeased their hunger with weeds and grasses, and have even gnawed bones they have picked up on the ground. Bread, with out butter or jam—just plain dry bread, is what they get and there is not enough of that.

Are we glad and happy that we were born in America? Will we stand by those little children a little longer—will we commute the death sentence and allow them to remain on earth, to build a Christian nation in that land where 400,000,000 Mohammedans (ten Mohammedans to one Christian) are a great and terrible menace?

Miss Trostle appealed not only for money and clothing, but pleaded for assistance in teaching those poor children to play. Send toys, pictures, bright ribbons. Help to put brightness and joy into their lives.

"Aren't you afraid of catching cold such a night as this, my boy?" "No, sir. Selling papers keeps up the circulation."

IZZY NEWSY

Dear Sam:—

The time is nigh at hand. We are nearing the close. However, I am writing you a few closing remarks, Sam, to inform you that I am still surviving the pale nations of the dead and expect to arrive home on the train that goes by the morning after the night before school's out.

I'm happy now, but will be happier when all my mental deficiency examinations are accomplished that the teachers give us to remember them by.

Now, Sam, just a hint, if you should fail to organize me when I arrive. I'll be at least ten pounds lighter in weight, and my face two feet longer in length. My mouth will be bent to somewhat more of an obtuse triangle than of yore. All this will be as a consequence of the final examinations. But in spite of my disfigurements, I believe you will immediately know me by my intellectual expression, because I've learned so much this year. "Bright things always show up."

Sam, did you ever hear of a "Senior Free Day?" It is free from all studying, worrying, working, and troubling. It has in the place of these swimming, eating, fishing, putting sand down people's backs, and enjoying life. It is something for us to look forward to and the Seniors to look backward to. I'll be glad when I'm a Senior. Teachers don't quiz them.

Lately I've been rushed to death and my head is dizzy from thinking about my future quizzes. I think I could sign my name in truth when I write, good by, with a Kissy to Lizzy, from IZZY BUSY DIZZY QUIZY.

IF YOU HAVE A BLAME A-COMING

If you have a blame a coming,
Bear it well.
Dont blame the other fellow,
For time will tell.
If you have a criticism,
And you know that it is true,
Take this criticism—it will be
A help to you.
If you have shirked your duty
And not done what should be done,
Recognize your failing, be glad for your railing—
Do your neglected duty, tho' it weigh a ton.
Then when friends gently remind you
That you aren't up to par,
Appreciate their kindness,
Buckle down and show them what you are.
It really is quite natural
To say that you are right,
And we somehow can't help squirming
When we hear our little sermon
And it makes us want to fight.
But if you have a blame a coming
Do not try to share it,
For if the shoe is rightly fitted,
Put it on and wear it. —E. G.

D. V. B. S. CLASS
Much interest is being manifested in a class for D. V. B. S. workers, which meets every Monday evening. J. B. Emmert has the work at heart, and under his able teaching, those who intend to engage in Vacation work this summer are receiving valuable information concerning the purpose, organization, grading, daily program and expressional work for the different departments of the Vacation schools. It is the intention of the class to teach in the various churches of California and Oregon.

SOCIETY

ENTERTAINED

It pays to be a Senior in more ways than one. The jolly bunch of six, with their class teacher, Prof. and Mrs. Haugh, were royally entertained at the home of the "Dean" on Saturday night, May 20th.

The house was artistically decorated in gold and white, which, of course, appealed to the Seniors, because these are their class colors.

About eight o'clock everyone was ushered into the dining room, and lo and behold! the table was also beautifully decorated in these colors.

Each person had pinned on him a flower, and he found his place by the same kind of a flower in a tiny paper pot on the table. The lovely four-course dinner was served by Miss Vera Hoover.

When each one had eaten to the limit of his capacity, each Senior read to the crowd his fortune, which was written on a paper daisy, this being the class flower. Of course each one found out just what he will be doing in a few years.

Before leaving each one expressed himself as having a most wonderful time.

The invited guests were Prof. and Mrs. Haugh, Misses Beulah Noll, Elva Gillett, Hazel Brubaker, Messrs. Herman Landis, Ernest Root, Ralph Netzley and Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy Hoover.

BULLDOGS GATHER ROUND THE BONE PILE

The La Verne Bulldogs, otherwise called the Juniors, were invited to the Arnett kennel for a feast; and they were told to "Grab, Root, and Growl." Very little urging was needed, especially by the more vicious ones, as Ray Root, who looked more like a bird dog than a bull pup as he tackled his squab.

The squab was not the only delicacy on the scrumptious bill of fare, which was served in many courses by Mrs. Larimer, who very realistically impersonated "Bridget. To all calls of the bell, she responded nobly with more eats, till the well-fed Bulldogs looked several pounds heavier.

No one could mistake the occasion, for there was every where in evidence the Junior flower—the mustard, and the colors, "mustard" yellow and "wienie" brown. If this was not enough, the little bull dogs which were tied to the place cards would proclaim it—a treat to the Juniors. These tiny bull pups were very much admired by the rest of the student body the next day, as they snapped at the necks of the girls, and clung to the lapels of the boys.

The Juniors are very thankful for the "bones" furnished by their class teacher and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arnett.

"BIRTHDAYS AGAIN"

The customary J. L. Miller hospitality was again shown to some of the college students Saturday night, May 20, when "Reedley-ites" and "Live Oakers" (and two other guests) were entertained with a chicken dinner and a jolly good time. One of the important features of the affair was the birthday cake with eighteen candles in honor of the birthday of Miss Alice Davis, Miss Ruth Emley, and Miss Esther Renkel, of Pasadena. Whether eighteen was the proper number for all concerned is yet an unsettled question.

Who says boys cannot wash dishes? —Ernie, Zip, Royal, and Diamond might have been seen in kitchen aprons, industriously washing and wiping dishes, pots, and pans, and meanwhile entertaining the rest of the guests with many classical vocal selections. Those who enjoyed this informal gathering were Esther Renkel, Alice Davis, Helen Winslow, Ruth Emley, Kathryn Harshbarger, Dorothea Dyck, Zafon Hartman, Ernest Landis, Diamond Hartman, and Royal Ott.

ANOTHER SURPRISE

Hearing that the De Ment family and Erma Marshburn were planning an evening luncheon in the canyon May 18, a bunch of girls decided that it was a good chance to pay Erma back for the surprise she gave them recently. About 4 o'clock several machines started for Palmer canyon.

After reaching the canyon, all the girls hid themselves to await the arrival of Erma. Soon a machine was seen coming and when it stopped, a bevy of girls rushed forth from behind trees and bushes to greet her. As she had no suspicion of the plan, she was completely surprised.

After a few minutes of chatter and laughter, all took part in a game until two girls carrying umbrellas announced a coming "shower." Immediately the bride-to-be was seated and commanded to open the parcels, which consisted of Pyrex, aluminum ware, luncheon set, etc. The conclusion of the plot was a delicious supper, to which each did justice.

Those who enjoyed the evening were: Misses Erma and Eva Marshburn, Mrs. Marshburn and grandson Lowell, Mrs. De Ment and daughters Theresa and Lila, Mrs. Price and daughters Rhoda, Ruth and Margaret, Misses Ethel and Helen Winslow, Alice Davis, Ruth Van Dyke, Susan Stoner, Wilma Lett, Olive Pobst, Ruth Barnhizer and Merle Fike. Ernest Root was the only boy present, but he seemed to enjoy himself and made a good chauffeur.

"FRIENDSHIP GIRLS" SPEND
ZIMMERMAN'S

By Lola Shirk

The "Friendship Girls" Sunday School class, which is composed of Academy Junior and Senior girls, spent the week end at the home of Pastor and Mrs. J. S. Zimmerman, at Long Beach.

We met at the home of Beulah Smith, with eats galore, and bedding, too. About 2 p. m. all was in readiness for the long journey by auto. The time going was spent in singing, talking and keeping an eye on the suitcases that were strapped on the fenders. We arrived about 4 p. m., happier than we were when we started "Mother" Zimmerman was ready and waiting to invite us into her charming little bungalow.

When the cars were unloaded, we walked down to the beach and up to the pike, where everyone took two or three (?) thrilling rides on the "Jack abbit Racer." Oh, yes, and some of us had to ride on the "Merry go Round."

After a few more exciting adventures, we walked back down the beach, where the eats committee had built a

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ikenberry for dinner Sunday were Mary Gockley, Elva Gillett, Ethel and Helen Winslow, Ernest Root and Royal Ott.

Esther Renkle, of Pasadena, was the guest of Dorothea Dyck and Kathryn Harshbarger over the week end of May 20.

One of the Junior bull dogs has strayed. Anyone seeing any young Freshman upstart wearing same will please report to Junior Class. All College Juniors are hereby warned that any Junior allowing his dog to stray from his immediate vicinity into that of lowerclassmen will hence forward and forever be an outcast from the Class of '23.

Miss Lied, a missionary from the Near East, gave a very helpful talk to the Volunteers Sunday, May 21.

The thirst for knowledge remains unquenched, the midnight oil burns late, and many young books are being copied with pen and ink for inconsiderate teachers. Even the frivolous College frosh are on their "ears" so to speak and midst a great turning of leaves, their youthful minds are refreshed. The Seniors are so busy, and the judgment day approaches nigh. "So ends my tale," said the monkey as he backed into the lawnmower.

Naomi Harshbarger, of Lindsay, a last year's graduate, motored down with Elder and Mrs. J. E. Steinhour on Monday, May 22d. She is staying at the dorm with her sister Kathryn, and will remain over commencement.

large fire for our evening meal. When all the "Hot Dogs" had disappeared, "we sat around the fire and had the mostest fun, a listenin' to the witch tales that Mary told about." But the goblins didn't get us, 'cause we did watch out.

We then returned to the Zimmerman home for a good night's rest (?). Of course you know we certainly had it. Beds were made on the parlor floor, and the crowd divided according to its kind. Apples were passed around for the midnight lunch.

The noise quieted down in the wee hours of the morning, and as we were quite tired, we could not help but drop off to sleep. Some of the girls arose early to enjoy an early morning swim.

Breakfast consisted of waffles, and oh, you never ate such good ones. Then all got ready for church, and the girls had the honor of singing their class song at this place.

Then came the luscious dinner, served in the basement of the church, and really, we couldn't begin to tell you all that we had. Dishes were washed and dried, then all prepared for the long-wished-for swim. The stay in the water was not long, but it certainly was enjoyed.

About four o'clock the crowd gathered up all belongings and started for home. We hated to leave, but were afraid that La Verne would feel rather lonesome without this happy crowd, and then, too, Velma V. had a date, and wanted to be sure and be at home.

We arrived about 6:15, and I am sure that none of the girls know of a better place to have a good time. Zimmermans; Rah! Rah! Rah! Zimmerman's.

SENIORS CELEBRATE

There comes a time in life when you can enjoy joy more, you can appreciate fun more, you can revel in merriment to a greater degree, and this time is in the College Senior year.

Wednesday, May 24, the class of '22 took advantage of the College tradition of having a "free day," and enjoyed a perfect day at Long Beach. They departed silently at five-thirty o'clock in the morning and returned at eight-thirty in the evening. It really takes Seniors to enjoy life.

The party arrived at Long Beach in ample time to begin the day right. The forenoon was taken up by deciding to fish, then undecided, then swimming took up the rest of the time. It certainly takes knack to be able to undergo all of the big breakers, but some of us did it. Nearly all of us found out how ocean water tastes.

At noon we all had an appetite equal to that of harvest hands, and did justice to the delicious lunch.

What we did in the afternoon was exciting and interesting, but if it all were told, everyone would know as much as the Seniors.

Friday night most of the young people of the College and Academy attempted to chivari Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Neher. After practicing on various means of creating a disturbance for several hours, the crowd finally found the bride and groom at home and gave them the usual serenade. Virgil and Ollie are immensely happy and married life seems to agree with them.

Dr. Miller and family entertained at dinner Saturday evening Ruth Barnhizer, D. Welty Lefever, Archie Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Brubaker, and George King.

Snatches from "The Pod Family's" Outing

It all came about this way. Saturday night, May 20, was the set time for the annual Bethany Girls outing, but after all plans fell through there were yet four energetic maidens who could not give up the long anticipated pleasures of a mountain camping trip. These were Dorothy Arnold, Olive Deardorff, Pauline Shirk and Cathryn Byerly, all of whom united to draw up great plans for the trip to Cathryn's home Saturday afternoon. They surely put things across in a jiffy, and by eight o'clock they were all enjoying the mountains and all that goes with them, to the limit. The crowd was composed of the aforesaid four girls, with Mrs. R. J. Shirk as chaperone, and Howard Beckner and Russell Grossnickle as chauffeurs.

Paul Throne's lonely camp fire was about a quarter of a mile from theirs, so they took their supper over to his blazing, roaring campfire, and paid

ATHLETICS

OXY FROSH WIN, 10 - 1

In the last home game of the season the Oxy outfit swamped the locals in what should have been a close game. The Frosh, however, have a real ball team, that has been beaten but once this year. Welch on the mound for L. V. C. was somewhat wild, but at that struck out 18 men and allowed five hits. He hit three men and walked one, which is a record performance. Fulton, of Oxy, struck out 10 men and allowed only four hits.

The first and the sixth innings were virtually track meets, Oxy scored 7 runs in these two innings. J. Brooks ripped his hand in the eighth inning and Bohn took his place.

him a lengthy visit. Oh! how the hot dogs slipped away—away down, with dill pickles and lettuce. Olive and Cathryn broke all rules of etiquette and were duly punished during the remainder of the night hours, "too many hot dogs in one little space is too much."

After much singing around the camp fire, the guests returned to their own camp and left Paul, to his great delight. Then they retired and slept as they had never slept before, with the sky for their roof and Mother Earth for their bed.

Dot was the first up, and succeeded in pulling out the rest very well. Such a breakfast! Pancakes, fried eggs, and coffee.

Then came the christening of the little family. A stray sack of green peas was found in Russell's car, and they proceeded to shell them for dinner. Some one of the bright bunch stuck a pod on his nose, after taking out the peas, whereupon all followed. Oh, what queer specimens! All decided that from now on and hence ever more their name would be "The Pod Family," composed of little Pods, big Pods, middle sized Pods, and all other kinds of Pods.

At 10:00 o'clock a. m. everyone took active part in discussing the interesting Sunday School lesson, taught by Mrs. Shirk.

Dinner was a huge success. Everything, peas and all, were just scrumptious. During the afternoon all lay around lazily, chatting and playing. After a walk to the head of the lake, all packed up for home. It was with a refreshed heart that each member of the ol' "Pod Family" left their cozy nook, way up in God's big out-of-doors.

POMONA-L.V.C. GAME IS CANCELLED

The base ball game scheduled between L. V. C. and the Pomona Varsity could not be played as scheduled on account of rain. The two teams will not meet this year. The game last year was a close one and many are disappointed that the two teams do not mix again this season. The Pomona boys, at present are tied for the leadership of the conference, and threaten to repeat the performance of last year.

APPOLLO CLUB'S RECEPTION

Mrs. B. S. Haugh was hostess at a happy reception of the Apollo Club at her home on East Fourth street, Friday night. The entertainment of the evening was entirely musical, including contests and renditions. Mrs. Olive Thomas received as a prize a real tin horn, which, by the way, was tuned to the key of C. It was suggested that she might use it as a pitch pipe.

With the aid of the Victrola the guests were entertained by some of the world's most famous musicians, at which time even Apollo Club members felt a little insignificant and unnecessary.

Music led the guests to plates of dainty refreshments, which were doubly appreciated and enjoyed because of the struggle to get them. It was heart rending to have the music suddenly stop when one's finger tips were nearly touching a plate of dainties.

The reception was made a huge success by the hostess and her husband, so successful that the most serious minded were able to forget their trials and tribulations.

The evening also served as a time of initiation of new members. Those having the honor of displaying their capabilities and receiving membership into the club were: Miss Gladdys Muir and Mrs. B. S. Haugh, as active members; and the Misses Mildred Seymour and Dorothea Dyck as associates.

The most unique feature of the initiation was an improvised selection played by Miss Muir, which very cleverly typified the feelings of a frightened musician, particularly the shaking knees. The Apollo Club extends a very hearty welcome to its new members.

CUPID CLAIMS VIRGIL AND OLLIE

Once again Cupid has claimed his victims. On Thursday afternoon Virgil Neher and Ollie Stayer were united in marriage. The wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Stayer, the ceremony being performed by Pastor R. H. Miller. Miss Vera Hoover played Lohengrin's Wedding March.

The home was attractively decorated in white roses and fern. Ollie was a beautiful bride, wearing a white georgette dress, and carrying a bridal bouquet of white carnations.

After the ceremony a delightful three-course supper was served. The bride and groom left immediately for Los Angeles.

Both Virgil and Ollie have many friends in the College who extend to them best wishes and heartiest congratulations. They will be at home to their friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neher, on the corner of Fifth and E streets.

Star Gazers Visit Mt. Wilson

A small party of astronomers and friends left La Verne Friday afternoon for a brief visit to the Carnegie Observatory on Mount Wilson. The trip was made by a Ford and a Dodge, but there was more dodging than fording.

The road was good, except for the ten per cent grade, which caused considerable perspiration on the part of the smaller car. However, by frequent periods of rest and refreshing by water borrowed from other travelers, the top was finally reached.

But this would not have been possible except for the ingenuity of one of the party when the car balked about a mile from the summit. Perhaps no one will ever know what caused the trouble, but it was attributed to a low supply of gas. So the car was quietly faced about and unconsciously made to continue its ascent, doubtless thinking it was going down.

It is useless to mention all the details as to the variety, and quantity of eats which were provided for the picnic supper. Everybody knows how good such things taste when one is in the mountains. The women of the party, Mrs. Culley, Mrs. Ikenberry, Miss Lute, Miss Gible, Miss Stoner, and Miss Noll, were doubtless convinced of the excellent quality of the food they had provided, by the way Mr. Ikenberry, Mr. Netzley, Prof. Bowman, and Mr. Sell disposed of the eats.

The planets which were observed thru the sixty-inch telescope were Jupiter and Saturn. Each has nine satellites similar to our moon. The dark markings on Jupiter were clearly seen, and the rings of Saturn were very beautiful, even though the atmospheric conditions were very poor.

A star cluster was also observed, showing about 20,000 stars in an arc of space no larger than that occupied by the moon. The distance of these stars was such as to require 40,000 years for their light to come to us. This is an immense distance in comparison to the sun, from which light comes in eight minutes. There is not sufficient space to tell of all the wonderful things that can be seen on such a trip.

DEBATING CLUB
BANQUET

Thursday evening, May 25 the Academy Debating Club enjoyed a sumptuous banquet at the home of Ruth Price. With the enthusiastic president, Wilbur Hoke, as toastmaster, interesting and instructive toasts were given to the Academy, the President, the coach, and next year's A. W. S.

The main attraction of the evening, however, was the delicious seven course dinner, which was skillfully served by Zafon Hartman and Harvey Emley. The closing number was the singing of "Guide of La Verne," and all felt the evening had been worth while.

This is the first debating banquet ever held in La Verne College, and shows that debating has gained an added interest. Already plans are being made for a lively club next year. The success of the club is due to all the members, but especially to the president and to the coach, Mrs. B. S. Haugh.
