

CALTECH GIVES LEOPARD SUPPORTERS BIG SCARE

Leopards Lead LaVerne Five 16-12 at Half Time in Hot Contest

First String Pulls Game out of Fire for 34-25 Win

Coach Lee Eisan started his second-string casaba tossers Saturday night against the Caltech leopards and it almost caused a case of prostrate nerves in the LaVerne rooting section. It took the first string five a long time to make up the slight deficit the second string had incurred and the leopards were badly worried and no doubt Eisan had a few qualms of his own.

The second string, which consisted of Shirk and Welty at forward; Hays at center, and Deal and Egan at the guard berths, started the game and played for the first five minutes. Although this outplayed a good defensive game, they were unable to make any baskets in their own behalf and it was hard to win ball games if you can't shoot baskets. At the end of the twelve minute session the leopards were ahead 8-3, Welty making a field goal and James a lay throw to account for LaVerne's score.

Eisan injected Stutzman, Snell, Hays, Weybright and Hubbell into the game, but they had a hard time getting started. Caltech man-

PSYCHOLOGY OF THINKING SUBJECT OF CHAPEL ADDRESS

Sarafian Analyzes Thought Processes

Dr. Sarafian continued his lecture in Thursday's chapel period. This lecture dealt with the psychology of thinking, however. The first question for consideration was, What is thinking? Thinking is general activity involving ideas from reverie to reasoning. The highest type of thinking is reflective or creative thinking.

The main difference between reflective and creative thinking is of degree, not of kind. Reflective thinking usually involves solution of a problem. Even morons can think, but they are incapable of reflective thinking. Do animals think? Yes, in a very elementary and simple manner, but there is no evidence of reflective thinking even in the cleverest animals which they perform. These acts are merely a reaction to stimuli, formed not by careful reflective thinking, but by the trial and error method.

Human beings also use the trial and error method at first. After the first trial, however, a process of reasoning eliminates the errors. Steps in reflective thinking:

1. Presenting of difficulty or problem.

Chapel Address by Professor Sarafian

Fallacies in Educational Theory His Theme

Something quite different was given in chapel last Tuesday when Dr. Sarafian read some interesting statistics concerning various fallacies in the fields of psychology and education.

One article which he read was taken from a bulletin put out by the Thirty-third Degree Supreme Council of Scottish Rite Free Masonry. The other was an excerpt from a lecture which the speaker made over the radio.

According to the former source, there are 15,000,000 people in America who cannot follow written directions of employers. Undoubtedly this situation is deplorable, but the writer maintains that unskilled labor can be trained.

Providing time and places for such training would inevitably bring about many changes in the industrial world, however. Nevertheless, teachers would not be a serious problem, for if all of the unemployed trained teachers were used, everyone would have access to supervised training. Furthermore, the laboring men and women could train themselves if given sufficient time.

In the excerpt from Dr. Sarafian's lecture, the assertion was made that adult training is a necessity. The proverbial saying, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks," is truly a fallacy in thinking. This misconception is a result of keeping certain attitudes which have been set in youth and which are not easily changed.

Is age really a psychological factor in efficiency of learning? Following is a summary of the findings in answer to the above question. Growth of neurones and neural connections goes on from infancy to 20 and 25 years of age. In persons 45 years old the maximum efficiency begins to decline. Changes in ability to learn are influenced by:

1. Amount of inborn capacity.
2. Inner growth.
3. Degenerative process.
4. Specific habits formed.
5. General habits formed.
6. Misuse of knowledge already acquired.
7. Interests and motives in learning.

The practical conclusion to be drawn from these facts is: "Do not cease learning because of age, but keep on acquiring knowledge. This will not only keep you young but will perpetuate the ability to learn."

College Orchestra Still Unnamed

La Verne Musicians Take Active Interest in New Organization

The college orchestra still has no name. Students with suggestions for names should send them to the Saxophone Studio, LaVerne, or hand in on paper to Mr. Greene. The first meeting was attended by many enthusiastic boosters.

Several orchestrations were played, among which was "Hail, Hail, Pep March." It is suggested that some one write good college words to be sung with the march.

Plans are being made to orchestrate Mr. Davis's song which he presented to the school.

A few had other engagements that kept them from the organization meeting. It is hoped that all may cooperate as much as possible and keep a clean attendance record sheet. It is desired to have members who can be quite regular in attendance at practices. These will be arranged weekly to suit the orchestra.

The next meeting will be at 8:00 o'clock in the auditorium, Tuesday night. Very soon an official list will be booked and submitted to the school office that a correct record may be available at all times there.

Asilomar Reports Continued in Y. M. C. A.

Calvert Recommends Books on Marriage Problems

Glenn Harmon and Everett Calvert finished the Asilomar reports at the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Monday, Feb. 9.

Calvert had a number of books which he recommended to the group. "So That Youth May Know," "The Sex Life of Youth," "Men, Women and God," "Home, Church, and Sex," and "What Is Right with Marriage," were the most important ones. He reviewed the contents of the books and gave some other valuable information.

Glenn Harmon gave an interesting account of Dr. Page's address on "How to Make Asilomar Live on the Campus," and sources of spiritual power.

Some sources of spiritual power are: Throwing yourself into a great cause; putting yourself last and your job first; taking time to be silent; finding a place where you can think your problems out; after you have a solution, carrying it out.

He also said that Dr. Page stressed the fact that we should live by great personalities of the age.

Glenn also gave some points of national security. "War comes by surprise; men will not fight unless hatred is raised by propaganda, and fear." All these points of interest were revealed by Glenn and much appreciated.

President Weybright announced that a speaker from Hawaii would be present next week.

S. V.'s Hold Meeting Wednesday Night

Dr. Allison Honors Local Organization with Visit

The first meeting of the Student Volunteers for the new semester was held Wednesday, Feb. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Butterbaugh, on East Third street. The group was especially favored by a visit from Dr. and Mrs. Allison of Eagle Rock, a professor at Occidental.

The meeting was conducted by the vice-president, Martha Baer, and announcements were made regarding Mexican prayer meeting for Monday and the alumni banquet of the Student Volunteers which is to be held Friday, Feb. 20, at Whittier College.

Some of the first results of the missionary letter project of the band were presented in the form of a newsy letter from Zula Hollinger from the E. L. Ikenberry family in China. Everyone who had not written to his missionary was urged to do so.

Dr. Allison prefaced his talk with an invitation to the LaVerne young people to go to his cabins in Ice-house Canyon for a retreat in the near future. Dr. Allison has entertained many groups in this manner and it is highly appreciated. Several members of LaVerne have been among his guests.

The speaker came to the group with wide experience, beginning his ministerial work in "Little Hell," Chicago, and his work finally carrying him to Guatemala, Central America. He has found that "man everywhere is hungry for the gospel," from the toughest and oldest, to the youngest.

The main principle to keep in mind in all work is the King's business, and make contact with people remembering this: if one keeps in contact with God, one will never fail in one's contact with others.

As a devotional thought, Dr. Allison presented the story of Peter healing the lame man, Acts 3, and the text, "Such as I have, that give I unto thee." "When man is linked up with God (as Peter was) he can work wonders for others."

Dr. Allison's main talk was based on Hebrews 1:1-3, the three main points of which were: (1) The relation of the Son to God (2) The relation of the Son to us; (3) God's kingdom, His will and plan for us in eternity. This latter is revealed to us by the Holy Spirit. The speaker quoted as being of especial benefit to him three points from the late Dr. Francis: "All that is known of God is in the Father; all that is seen of God is in the Christ, and all that is felt of Him is in the Holy Spirit."

Dr. Allison concluded with the thought and admonition to the worker with the spirit of Christ revealed in His last words on the cross. One must have the forgiving attitude, commend one's spirit to God, and pray, "Our Father." Painting the picture of the small child clinging to his father who was carrying him, Dr. Allison concluded with the thought that we cling to God by faith. He bears us

Pres. Studebaker Receives Attractive Gift from Class of '31

LaVerne Loses Second Conf. Debate

LEOPARD TONGUE-TWISTERS OUTDONE BY SMOOTH, BARKING BULLDOGS

Redlands Affirmative Takes 2 to 1 Decision

"Tis so!" "Tain't so!" etc.! Blah! blah! blah! With a little dignified language, perhaps, and a few more exciting variations, the debate teams of Redlands and LaVerne met in mortal combat at LaVerne last Tuesday, Feb. 10. The subject for the big disagreement was that bone of contention common among colleges debaters this year, "free trade." Redlands, representing the affirmative side of the question, seemed to be in favor of free trade and all the LaVerne men could plead for was protection. [Seemed to me it was the audience that needed the protection.] At any rate, Messrs. Oswald and King, with pertinent, telling thrusts forced the Leopard howlers, Ed Cunningham and Orlin Vaniman, to resort to argumentative method to meet the attack.

Good arguments rose and fell on both sides and the slaughter of beautiful theories and foggy delusions was something terrible. No one could predict the outcome of the whole affair until, rising above the din and smoke of the battle the chairman, Mr. Calvert, called for the judges' ballots and read a 2 to 1 decision in favor of Redlands. Once more the Bulldogs had treed the Leopards, the former time being last week when Faw and Calvert met a similar fate at Redlands.

Say what you may, however, the contest was close and hard-fought. Without a doubt two of the conference.

Executive Board Reorganized

Plans for Year Discussed at Trustee Meeting

The executive board of LaVerne College has been reorganized since the annual trustees' meeting that was held January 29. The board meeting Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 11. The aim was to reorganize and lay out plans for business of the new year.

The personnel of the committee is: L. M. Davenport, chairman; J. B. Emmert, vice-chairman; Edgar Rothrock, secretary, the new member this year; C. M. Heckman, E. R. Blickenstaff, Ellis M. Studebaker, I. D. Yoder and Harrison Frantz.

Mascot to be Called "Leo"

LaVerne has always felt the need of a mascot. Last Saturday night between halves of the LaVerne-Caltech game, the Senior class presented to LaVerne College a stuffed Leopard in a lifelike and characteristic pose.

Isaac Funk, in the absence of the class president, Orville Thompson, presented the mascot. He stated that the trophy was to be named Leo, a combination of Leopard and Lion. This combination is unique in that both of its namesakes are fighting personalities and of the never-say-die type.

President Studebaker accepted Leo on behalf of LaVerne College.

This trophy will fill a vacant spot in the life of the school and is certain to be a boon to the social life of the student body. I am certain that I am not out of place when I again extend the thanks of the student body to the Senior class.

Varsity Club Banquet Goes Over Big

Food and Fun Enjoyed by LaVerne Lettermen

From all appearances, the banquet was a success. If you disagree, ask the men who attended. The dinner was par excellence, as usual, and the program not too long.

The guests were given a word of welcome by Wayne W. Bohn, president of the Varsity Club, and incidentally (according to custom) he told a joke on Dwight (Hop) Welch, the toastmaster of the evening. Of course, Hop came back at him (and so far on into the banquet)!

President Studebaker, who is doing all he can to get the right kind of athletes at L. V. C., gave a short talk on the advantages of coming to LaVerne.

(By the way, the waitresses knew what to do and the eats never ceased.)

In order to have some idea where the guests were, each member introduced his guest.

John Price gave a few reasons why he was glad he went to LaVerne College, and don't forget his record at Bonita — just a few championship teams in football — that's all.

Dale Glick lectured for just a moment and hurried over to the gym to care for his baby Leopards. Lee Eisan, as you might guess, expounded a few words that had more truth in them than poetry. But listen; to cap off the very successful evening, President Studebaker consoled the incoming students by the fact that Coach Lee Eisan had signed a five year contract.

CAMPUS TIMES PLATFORM

1. The abolition of the present grade system and a system of satisfactory and unsatisfactory put in its place.
2. The substitution of honesty, the honor spirit, and later an honor system for present unfair grade-seeking tactics.

THE EDUCATED MAN

Is one who is trained to use the tools of human intercourse with readiness, precision and accuracy. We mean, especially, language (particularly the mother tongue, both in speech and writing) and the rudiments of numbers. Our age is adding to the tools of intercourse statistical symbols, such as tables and graphs.

Must be able to study and to think without guidance from others. He must have command of the method of the mind, and he must be—to some extent—a thinker, not a mere imitator. He may or may not have more opinions than other persons, but he has more opinions to which he has a right.

Must have sufficient knowledge of nature to understand the main processes upon which human life and happiness depend. He must likewise possess general intelligence as to the method of science and as to the main achievements of the sciences.

Knows enough of history to enable him to understand the main achievements of man. He is able to put each type of society, and each change of society, into a general perspective.

Is acquainted with the major resources for intellectual and aesthetic enjoyment. He knows nature, literature, music, and the other arts sufficiently to choose superior to inferior enjoyments.

Is marked by his interests as well as by his trained abilities. His attention is habitually attracted by significant rather than trivial objects, events, pursuits, and enjoyments. He lives in a larger and more finely discriminated world than the uneducated man.

Must have not only this general culture but also training in a specific occupation.

Must have toward his fellows the habitual attitudes that are commonly called ethical—such attitudes as honor and honesty, helpfulness and good-will, and cooperation.

Must have loyalties to at least some of the important organizations and institutions of society, such as one's family, one's country, one's church. Edward Everett Hale's "Man without a Country" was internally developed, a victim of spiritual deprivation, before the woes of his external plight began.

If there is an inclusive meaning in life, an inclusive purpose in all our good purposes, then the sort of education that we have been outlining should include some apprehension of, and feeling for, the divine; the ideally educated man will reverence God, and know how to worship.—George A. Coe.

Important Staff Meeting Held

Campus Times to Come Out On Time

Wednesday at the 10:25 period, the entire Campus Times staff held an important meeting. The object of the meeting was to discuss what could be done to create and strengthen a feeling of unity and pride in the members of the staff. The importance of this was to better the type of the paper and facilitate its prompt edition each week.

Other important matters were discussed, such as the right of the two publication staffs, clubs, or classes to at least one of the Wednesday 10:25 periods instead of allowing the Choral Union to monopolize every Wednesday 10:25, as it has been doing. The meeting was an apparent success and it is hoped the entire staff will commence to function as a unit and the Times will advance in quality and promptness.

MEN'S AFFIRMATIVE TO MEET S. C. HERE

TWO DEBATES SCHEDULED FOR TUESDAY

Entering the third week of their conference schedule, the varsity debaters are faced with a heavy program. Tuesday evening will witness two mighty struggles. Ed Cunningham and Orlin Vaniman, LaVerne's negative team, will meet Caltech in a conference word-struggle at Pasadena, while the affirmative debaters, Chalmer Faw and Everett Calvert, will uphold their side of the question against U. S. C. in a non-decision contest here in LaVerne. The Caltech debate will be LaVerne's fourth conference conflict and, unless the "dope" is fatally upset, the Leopard growlers stand a good chance of chewing up the Engineers.

However, as in athletics, no prophecy is infallible and the safest way is to wait until after the contest. The U. S. C. debate will be the first appearance of LaVerne's affirmative team at home. For pure matching of wits and clear-cut friendly argumentation,

ATTENTION! SENIORS ON PARADE

Everett Calvert is another dignified Senior and he hails from McFarland, Calif. "Cal" is a real fellow, a true leader, and has a great deal of executive ability. He is editor of the Campus Times and has assumed the full responsibility as an editor. We owe the success of the paper to Cal's creative ability and initiative. Good work, Cal.

He also has participated in many school activities. He served as president of the Press Club, and as treasurer of the Junior class last year.

Be careful what you are thinking. Cal is not a "sissy." He played on our football team and is a member of our tennis team. Outside of this Cal has nothing at all to do. We wonder how he occupies his leisure time. Who is she?

What a shame we must say the same thing about Cal as we do the rest of the Seniors. He is going to be a "school teacher." We wish you luck!

Isaac Funk is a nice fellow, even if he does live in Charter Oak and spend most of his time in Pomona. "Ikke" has a certain way about him and is liked by all.

I understand he has been quite successful as Senior class treasurer. Every time that diligent group assembles, Ikke informs them that their bank account is low. (Tip.—Somebody better check up on him.)

Isaac is a member of the Varsity Club, captain of the tennis tennis team, and played guard on our football squad.

While interviewing "Ikke," he informed me that he may get married, and along with other ambitions, become governor of Arizona. He says he has political prestige there. The best man wins. Watch your step, "Ikke."

the U. S. C. debaters are always among the most attractive from the standpoint of the audience.

Thursday evening of this week, Feb. 19, the affirmative team, Faw and Calvert, makes another appearance on the home "floor" in LaVerne's fifth conference debate, this time with Cal-Christian. This will give the debate audiences their first chance to see the affirmative team in a conference struggle and much competition and good debating are expected.

The forensic department still wishes to urge the need of a hearty support of the student body in the intercollegiate contests, for they are really as much a varsity activity as football or basket ball. Let's get behind the teams and give them encouragement!

Cy Nical Comments

Our so-called date book, in which the dates of all meetings should be entered, is about as efficient as King Tut's safety razor. The book is meant to prevent conflicts but we either don't enter the date of some important meeting or pay no attention to it, and then holler because we aren't twins so we can be two places at once.

Hey! Why can't we pull together and get a schedule for the meetings of the important organizations in our school. As it is, the Campus Times can't meet because of something else. If it does, the Choral Union can't. We co-operate like two blind men running a typewriter.

The 10:25 period on Wednesday was given to the students for a period of organization meetings. I am wondering how Prof. Haugh or the faculty figure that it benefits the school if every organization is crippled to the advantage of one. I think the Choral Union is O.K., but I do not believe it should be allowed to usurp every Wednesday 10:25. Give some of the others a chance to live.

A while back I had a few miniature fits over the monagement and equipment of our stage. As far as I can see all I accomplished was to have the curtains closed at chapel time. Does the constituency think the stage unimportant I tell you, the entire mess is a disgrace to our school. I think the constituency pays more attention to minor matters and makes mountains out of mole hills. For instance, conduct.

Well, there goes another one. I almost believe it is contagious. Esther Dickey is wearing a heart melter that would dazzle the lights on Cullen's Hudson. Luck go with you, Esther, I can't.

Have you noticed Shorty Howeli limping around like an old warhorse? I asked him what was the whyfore, and he said there had been a scrap and he had been licked in the rumpus.

ONE MILLION VOLTS

Ebersole Experiments with Electricity

Did you know that we had a high frequency laboratory in our school? Yes, indeed; we have two men who can rival nature's phenomena of lightning. Elbert Ebersole and Carl Eshelman have conducted a high frequency apparatus which develops electrical discharges running around one million volts. Their artificial lightning flashes are nearly three and one-half feet long and present a very spectacular appearance. These discharges may be taken into the body without harm and many interesting and spectacular stunts may be accomplished. Prof. Elbert Ebersole says he expects to give a demonstration when the apparatus is perfected. The present apparatus promises some great potential possibilities. We are expecting a very interesting demonstration soon.

Sophomores Celebrate at Glen Ivey

Swimming and Eating Chief Events

The Sophomore class party at Glen Ivey last Monday evening, Feb. 9, was a great success. A larger majority of the class was present at that party than any other party the class ever had.

On arriving at Glen Ivey there were several objections to the color of the sulphur water, but they didn't last long because it soon was noticed. The entire number, with the exception of four or five, indulged in being "all wet" for at least once in their lives. Even Prof. Travis was "all wet" for once. Some played tag, while others made attempts at spectacular dives. Most of these attempts, however, were flops except Francis Nix's back dives.

After the swim the class played a fast couple-out until too hungry to stay that any longer. Then some one made a motion that they go to the picnic tables where the evening nourishment was being prepared. This motion quickly was carried unanimously.

On arriving at the tables, they found that the needed calories were ready for consumption. We may get consumption at that, because the delicious food was none other than chop suey. The meal so satisfied every one that the "eats committee" was given several comments and cheers. The class was then too full to play games, so the members decided to cart home and enjoy their satisfied feeling.

Y. W. C. A. CABINET HAS MEETING

Various Items and Plans Discussed

The Y. W. C. A. cabinet held the regular weekly meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3:45. Esther Dickey read a letter requesting the cabinet to send a delegate to the committee for planning the spring cabinet retreat which includes all the student Y. W. C. A.'s in four-year colleges of Southern California. Lorraine Putnam was chosen to represent LaVerne at the meeting. Plans for the Kitchen Cabinet orchestra were discussed and it was decided to let it slide for the time being.

Nominations of officers for next year was the next subject for consideration. A committee had been appointed by the president to carry on the business of nominations, but some suggestions were given by the cabinet.

Y' Girls Celebrate in Customary Manner

APPRECIATION NOTES REPLACE VALENTINES

Following the custom of several years standing, appreciation notes were again written this year by the girls, to other girls of the organization. These were given out Monday morning during "Y." period. These letters are given instead of regular valentines, as the girls feel that it means more to receive a little written note of appreciation rather than a printed valentine just like everyone else is getting. A little word of appreciation from the various girls helps when one is blue and discouraged.

STUDENT SOCIAL LIFE

LUMNI NOOS

Miriam Shirk Betts took up the role of teacher of first grade in the Lincoln school in LaVerne Monday morning to take the place of Edna Boly Wheeler, who has resigned. Mrs. Betts has been supply teacher in the LaVerne city schools for a couple of years.

Glenn Vaniman of Kingsburg attended the Varsity Club banquet Saturday evening and spent the week-end with Southern California friends.

Chester Shirk of Lompoc spent the week-end in Southern California.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Emmert of Ojai spent the week-end with his father, Dr. J. B. Emmert. They were accompanied on this trip by Mrs. Emmert's sister and brother, Ruth and Jay Eisenbise of Atascadero. Jay attended the Varsity Club banquet Saturday evening.

Members of the LaVerne College alumni who attended the California chapter of the McPherson College Reunion in Pasadena Friday evening included Beulah and Harvey Brubaker, Mary Blickenstaff Brubaker, Grace Hileman Miller, Elva Shirk Brooks and Otis Brooks.

All were glad to hear Mina Throne's voice in a solo in the LaVerne church Sunday morning.

Rhoda Price Roynon and Margaret Price Roynon assisted their scoutmaster husbands, Marion Roynon and Harry Blickenstaff with the banquet which the Scout boys put on for their parents Monday evening of last week at the church.

Senior Class Holds Monthly Business Meeting

Gift To School Discussed

The Senior class held their bi-monthly class meeting in the Women's "Y" room Thursday, Feb. 12, at 3:45.

The meeting was called to order with the selection of graduation announcements, with directions as to ordering, and at what time. All Seniors are urged to know definitely in two weeks as to the number of announcements they wish to order, so the printers can get the orders out as promptly as possible.

The class gift was next discussed and dues collected to finance the proposition. The hope was expressed that the gift might be ready for presentation to student body some time in the very near future.

The business meeting then adjourned.

BETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

Beulah Eikenberry to Wed this Summer

Miss Beulah Eikenberry, a freshman from Wenatchee, Washington, announced her engagement to Mr. Charles Jordan, also from Wenatchee, Washington, at the Frosh-Soph Sunday School class retreat, Friday night, Feb. 13. They are to be married some time during the summer of 1931 in Wenatchee.

Miss Eikenberry has been in LaVerne College for two semesters now and is very well liked. Mr. Jordan is a business man in Wenatchee, and visited in LaVerne only a short time ago.

We congratulate them and wish them all the happiness the world holds.

NEWSETTES

JUNIOR CLASS MEETS IN Y. M. C. A. ROOM

Indulge in Jokes, Storytelling, and Confessions

The Junior class met in the Y. M. C. A. room Tuesday evening, in their regular monthly class meeting. Quite an extensive business meeting was held during which various and sundry matters were discussed.

A re-giving of the Junior Class play, "The Worm," was considered. The class decided to have a party in the near future, and owing to the fact that the group had such a good time on its last skating party, it was decided to journey once more to the Rollerdrome in Culver City.

The business meeting was followed by a joke and story-telling "bee." Some of the jokes were jokes, and some of the stories were jokes, but the "true" stories and "personal confessions" were great.

The eats were furnished by Marie Pobst, Hazel Gilson and Jean Bland. The evening was voted an entire success by all but the dish-washing committee, the personnel of which consisted of Bob Welty, Hobbs Adams and Bert Jones.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS ESTHER DICKEY IS ANNOUNCED

BETROTHAL REVEALED AT VALENTINE PARTY

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Esther Mae Dickey, of Hemet, California, to Mr. Glenn Gibson Vaniman, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Vaniman of Long Beach, California, was made last Thursday night at a valentine party at the LaVerne residence of the bride-elect's parents.

The secret was divulged in the first prize received by Viola Smith. Valentine favors and place cards, and bouquets of red sweet peas were chosen as decorations. Refreshments and card tallies also emphasized the valentine theme.

Miss Dickey will be graduated from LaVerne College in May.

Washington and Lincoln

In that long line of illustrious men whose names grace the pages of American history, no two are more securely enshrined in the hearts of youth than George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. During this month we observe the birthdays of both of them, and what an inspiration this dual celebration should be.

Though they lived in different periods of our country's history, both were active in times when the future of America trembled in the balance and only the weight of their dominant personalities, thrown whole-heartedly into the struggle, served to bring about complete victory.

In Washington we see exemplified dignity, strength of character and an unwavering faith in the American ideal. It was these virtues that served to elevate him to the position of First President and to earn for him the title of Father of His Country. Lincoln's life carries for us the lesson of foresight, determination and kindness. It was his foresight that prompted him to say, "I will study and prepare and perhaps my chance will come," his determination that prevented the fatal rending of the Republic, and his kindness that has ence's strongest teams had clashed in this battle of wits and the decision was such that the victors need not feel over-confident nor the losers disgraced.

College Orchestra

It is fortunate that so many of the men of the orchestra are quartet members or those singing in Prof. Haugh's classes and Frosh glee club. The ladies, too, are musical, not only instrumentally but also singers. Many of the members play more than one instrument—as many as four—and a great variety of music will be played by the group. They are anxious to get before the school so everyone will be a real booster of the LaVerne College orchestra. Mr. Green is offering lessons to any student at ten for $10, five of which will be used to purchase new music.

It is estimated that the orchestra has at least $100 worth of music. About $11.50 is needed to complete all parts.

A group of six—Heckman, Berg, Lehman, Greene, Boly and Stover—worked all Tuesday afternoon arranging music. Wednesday Frances Berg and Frances Bishop also worked on music.

Plans for a program are being made and a bright outlook is what Mr. Green and the orchestra see for the future.

The solution of life problems requires reflective thinking. Some people cannot solve life problems successfully. Why? 1. Lack of raining. 2. Necessity of general knowledge. Two common fallacies in connection with this item are: (1) People trained efficiently in one line are often considered as experts in every line, and (2) the usual concept of originality discourages research. 3. Negative habits and attitudes resulting from minds with logic-tight compartments.

4. Methods of improvement in reflective thinking are: (1) Scientific study, and (2) encouraging the instinct of children to want to know.

LAVERNE RATED ON PAR WITH SAN DIEGO HOOPSTERS

EYES CENTERED ON THIS CONFERENCE TUSSLE AT SAN DIEGO

Conference Eyes Centered on This Contest

This Saturday LaVerne varsity travels to San Diego, where they will battle the Aztecs. The outcome of this game will be interesting because it may mean the conference championship for San Diego. If they upset LaVerne they have a good chance at Redlands and Whittier.

According to dope, San Diego is given a slight edge, but there are several things that cut this edge down. The Aztecs get this edge by virtue of their victory over Pomona 44-24. Pomona lost to Caltech by two points the week before, then Caltech lost to LaVerne by 10 points. But LaVerne used their second string the greater part of the first half and the first five failed to find their stride until late in the second period.

Another thing that counts for LaVerne: it seems that this Aztec team is built pretty well around one man, thus San Diego is putting a lot of faith in one man. The LaVerne outfit has fourteen men on its squad and a victory for the Leopards depends on every one of the fourteen. It is not a question of fourteen to one, but this asset will outweigh any of the dope in the opposite balance.

Leopards Beat Caltech

aged to hold a slight lead, thru the sharpshooting of Pratt and Crawford. Two field baskets by Snell and one by Weybright kept the score fairly even and the half ended in Caltech's favor 16-12.

At the beginning of the second half Caltech ran up a seven-point lead with the score at 21-14. Then the defense of the Leopards began to function and the boys started making their shots good and the Five Horsemen ran up fifteen points while holding Caltech scoreless, making the score 29-21 in LaVerne's favor.

From then on the LaVerne bunch were not to be headed and they gave the prep stars, who were present as guests of the Varsity Club an idea of how the game should be played.

SPORTLIGHTS

Evidently the Redlands Bulldogs are not the only team that can furnish a breath taker for LaVerne fans. The Caltech Engineers threw a little scare into us Saturday night and things looked bad for a few minutes. This is just a little more evidence that we don't find college teams that can be classed as weak sisters. They are all good enough to win any game if you don't watch them.

The Poets surely did upset the dope and it seems the Bulldog pulled his teeth back in his mouth. Both of these teams are plenty good and it is no disgrace to be beaten by either one of them. The Bulldogs proved just as strong as usual on their home court, but the Poets stepped on them in the Whittier gym. Home courts mean a lot in this basket ball game.

Are we ready for San Diego? Let's remember: San Diego now holds the undisputed lead in the conference and—we have to meet these conference leaders next Saturday. It will take a lot of fight and not a small amount of ability to trip them, but we are just the ones to do it. Let's go, Leopards!

LEOPARD BABES TAKE BEAVERS

Add Conference Victory to Their Record

The LaVerne Freshmen barely nosed out the Caltech yearlings in an old-fashioned thriller that ended 26-25.

Caltech Frosh started out by taking a lead and holding it up till the first half was nearly over. Two minutes before half-time the score was 12-7 in favor of Caltech, but a foul shot by Swihart and field goals by Brooks and Calvert tied the ball game all up at half-time at 12-12.

At the start of the second half, Montgomery, Calvert and Weybright each sank a basket to give the Leopard Kittens a comfortable lead. Caltech was never headed, although they put on a determined rally in the closing minutes to bring them within one point at the end of the game. Score:

Frosh Take Short End of Bonita Hi Game

Calvert and Brooks Play Good Game

The Frosh traveled to Bonita last Monday afternoon and returned with the short end of a 29-24 score. The game was featured by the smooth passing attack of the preppers.

Bell, Bonita forward, was high scorer of the game with 10 points. He was closely followed by McCullough, Bonita center, and Calvert, LaVerne center, who totaled eight digits apiece.

Calvert and Brooks played a good brand of ball for the Frosh and Elder and McCullough turned in a good game for the visitors.

SCORE 16-14 IN KITTEN'S FAVOR

The LaVerne Frosh won a listless game from Pomona Hi last Tuesday afternoon by the low score of 16-14.

Pomona Hi was leading 8-5 at half time, but the Frosh rallied in the second half to score 11 points and nose out their prep rivals from the neighboring city. Score:
