New Era Banquet Loyally Supported

The "New Era" banquet, held by LaVerne College on Tuesday evening, secured the loyal support of a large number of friends, besides the officials and students of the college.

The receipts amounted to a total of $3,562, to be used for library purposes. Besides the sale of $25 and $1 tickets, a gift of $100 and a $500 life ticket contributed to this amount.

The ticket selling contest which was held among the classes of the college was won by the senior class, who scored 561 points. As first prize, they were awarded $20. The freshman class, scoring 536, won second prize, $10, offered by G. H. Herr of La Verne. The losing classes were given a large cake to be divided among the members.

J. M. Paige, secretary of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, and a trustee of the University of Redlands, was toastmaster of the occasion.

Among prominent business men and college men of the various colleges and universities who offered toasts to LaVerne College were: C. E. Houston, president of Pomona Chamber of Commerce; William T. Randall, principal of Bonita High School; John Price, president of LaVerne alumni, and Bob Williams, also toasted LaVerne.

The college orchestra played several numbers during the dinner. Other musical numbers were a group of songs by the Clarion Four, and a solo by Namoi Metzger.

Dr. Kurtz of Long Beach gave the address of the evening. His theme was "Ideals of Education." A brief outline of his lecture follows. He said:

No one can get an education, but he can become educated, as he appropriates values and lives on a higher plane than he did. He becomes educated as he learns, loves and lives, the things that are eternal, the true, (Continued on Page Two.)

Yell Leaders Hold Convention

The Pacific Coast Inter-Collegiate Yell Leaders' Association held its 1927 convention at the University of California at Los Angeles on Friday, November 5, 1927. The leading colleges and universities of the coast were represented.

Burdette Henney, past Yell King of the University of Southern California, and the originator of the famous Trojan War Horse, is also the originator of the Associated Yell Leaders. Last year Henney invited the yell leaders to a convention at U. S. C. This proved to be a success and was repeated this year at the invitation of Howard McCollister, head Yell King at U. C. L. A.

After meeting on the Bruin Campus, the representatives went to the University Club for luncheon. Following luncheon, a business session was held, at which some of the problems of yell leaders were discussed. Some of the problems discussed were courtesy to opponents, when to yell, card stunts, and the organization of rooting sections.

Much benefit was derived from the discussion by all who attended, and it was decided to make the convention an annual event. The next convention is to be held in April to get in trim for next football season. It is to be held at Occidental at the invitation of the Head Yell King, Mr. Bob Donaldson.

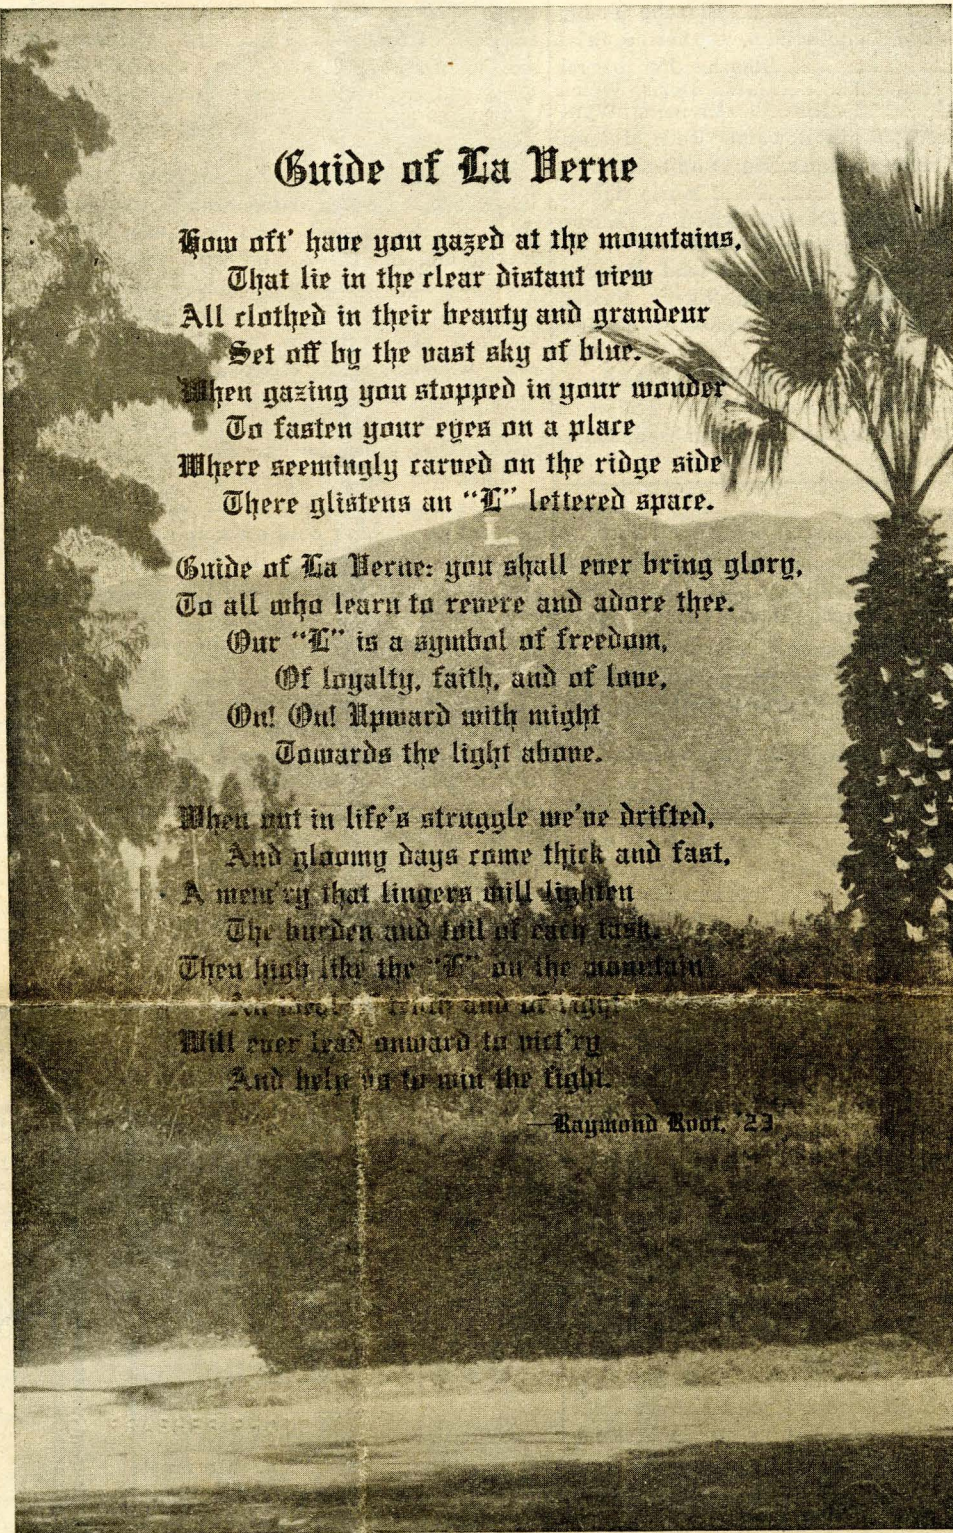

Student Body Celebrates Rites of "L" Day

Our "L" on the mountain has a history. The story of how it got there is an old one to most of the students, but as "L" day approaches, it is well worth recounting for the benefit of new students and freshmen, that they may have a clearer conception of its significance.

Prof. George Hollenberg, of the class of '21, one of the pioneers of the "L" movement, gives the history in detail:

In 1919 the members of the sophomore class talked among themselves about making an "L" on the mountain-side and began looking for a site. Dr. Rexroad and Dr. I. V. Funderburgh, the professors of history and sociology at the time, were both interested in the idea. At first the class picked out a place west of the present location on the first range, but became more ambitious and determined that the position where the "L" is now was the ideal spot.

To go on in Prof. Hollenberg's words: "So four of us, Professor Rexroad, Professor Funderburgh, David Bomberger and I, took lunches and three bed sheets one morning and hit the "Z" trail at the head of Live Oak Canyon. We followed the fire-break some distance up the ridge, from which the prospective location was plainly in view. Then we looked for a better way and determined to cross at the head of Wolfskill Canyon and climb up the other side to the ridge projecting southeast of the

Guide of La Verne

How oft' have you gazed at the mountains,
That lie in the clear distant view
All clothed in their beauty and grandeur
Set off by the vast sky of blue.
When gazing you stopped in your wonder
To fasten your eyes on a place
Where seemingly carved on the ridge side
There glistens an "L" lettered space.

Guide of La Verne: you shall ever bring glory,
To all who learn to revere and adore thee.
Our "L" is a symbol of freedom,
Of loyalty, faith, and of love.
On! On! Upward with might Towards the light above.

When out in life's struggle we've drifted,
And gloomy days come thick and fast,
A memory that lingers will lighten
The burden and toil of each task.
Then high like the "L" on the mountain
Will ever lead onward to victory
And help us to win the fight.

—Raymond Root, '23

present site. Here we had a discussion as to which was the best course to follow. For two years our path was the only known way to the "L."

On this route a year or two later a half-dozen girls got lost and tied strings on the bushes and conserved (Continued on Page Two.)

Frosh vs. Caltech Babes

Our LaVerne Kittens went down to glorious and unearned defeat before the Caltech Babes, Saturday, on Arnett Field. The LaVerne Frosh outplayed their opponents in practically every phase of the game, having made more yardage through the line, by passes, and around the ends; and only lost the game on two bad "breaks," a fumble and a blocked punt.

Lathrop, Hubble, Bessey, and Thomason all played good ball in the backfield, all cooperating in each play, while honors in the line were also divided very evenly, although one or two good plays were made.

"Pewee" Lathrop, probably the biggest find on the Frosh squad, played a brainy game at quarter and also proved himself a lusty ball-packer.

Hubble completed some beautiful passes and also made some good gains by his shiftiness. Bessey made some almost perfect tackles which didn't do the Caltech men any good, while "Tommy" Thomason played an all-around good game both on interference work and toting the pigskin. (Continued on Page Four)

ZOOLOGY CLASS TO BEACH

The Zoology and Physiology Classes are planning to spend Wednesday at Laguna Beach, studying small sea animals. The tide will be lower than ordinary, thus making it easier to study.

Prof. H. H. Nininger and his traveling college from McPherson, Kansas, are planning on being there and the two classes will work together.

Tells Class About Athens

Friday morning the Greek history class enjoyed a special treat. An informal session was held and Alexander Melleles, who recently arrived at LaVerne College from Athens, Greece, told of some of the things that most people have always wanted to know first hand about Athens and its story. He showed the class some very interesting statues and bas-reliefs, among them Myron's Discobolus (Discus Thrower), Winged Victory, Wrestler, Achilles, and the Theuseum. He also showed an interesting old coin that had been found by his father. After he told about the statues he brought with him, and of the Acropolis in Athens, the students had an opportunity to ask any particular questions they wished to, and the rest of the period passed only too quickly. Mr. Melleles told something of his experiences in Smyrna when the Turks drove out the Greeks, and of his school life at Salonica.

The hearty thanks of Professor Muir and the class go to Mr. Melleles for the interesting facts here brought to them.

LaVerne Welcomes 'Home-Coming Day'

Friday, November 11, Armistice Day, will be the occasion of a thrilling celebration for LaVerne College. It is also the celebration of "Home-Coming Day" for LaVerne city. A large crowd is expected to gather and watch the exhibitions, races, parades, etc.

There will be speeches and other forms of entertainment of a most inspirational and uplifting character.

At 11 a. m. the jolly crowds will gather for a basket dinner in the college gymnasium, which is very beautifully decorated for the event, after which, at 12:15, Dr. Kurtz will deliver an address in the gymnasium.

In the afternoon the football game, which is an annual event for the afternoon's program, will be played on Arnett Field. This year the Leopards will match strength with the U. S. C. Dental College squad.

In the evening as a fitting climax of the day a lecture by Dr. Kurtz will be given in the Brethren church.

College Song Composer Marries in Los Angeles

Truman Funderburgh of the Class of '21, and Irene Kelly were married in the First Methodist Church, Los Angeles, Saturday afternoon, October 29. Harry Vaughn, cousin of the groom, was best man, and Maysie Davies maid of honor. Miss Lois Martha Miller sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly," just before the ceremony. Miss Lucile Ratekin, cousin of the groom, presided at the pipe organ. This wedding was most beautiful for its simplicity. A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister for the wedding party, after which the bride and groom departed to San Diego for a brief honeymoon.

Mr. Funderburgh was the one who wrote the music to "Guide of LaVerne, LaVerne's Alma Mater song, and "Fight for the Orange and the Green."

Prof. I. V. Funderburgh, brother of the groom, wife and two sons came down from Kingsburg for the wedding.

Extempore Contest to Meet at Redlands

The famous 'gift of gab' will hold full sway at the annual Extempore Speaking Contest to be held at Redlands November 22, at 8 p. m.

This contest will be held as a part of the program of the Men's Intercollegiate Forensic League of Southern California. The general subjects of the contest will be "The Relation of the Press to American Life," from which specific topics will be drawn by the contestants one hour before the contest.

Speeches must be at least eight minutes and not more than twelve minutes in length. Contestants must not use more than one hundred words of written notes, nor more than two hundred words of memorized quotations.

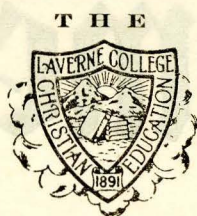

LaVerne is a member of the league and has as good a chance as anyone of winning first place. Lorell Weiss, LaVerne's manager of forensics, has worked hard to arouse interest in this line of work and several LaVerne students are expected to try out for this contest.

"THE MYSTERY—LIFE"

For centuries men have attempted to explain what life is, but have failed. Yet, they have not all failed completely. They have merely not been able to tell what life really means to all mankind, and perhaps no one will ever be able to do so, for to every individual life is a different thing.

Life is to men as men make it. To some it is a joke; a time in which to celebrate an existence. To others it is a lapse of time; "a gleam between two eternities." To nearly everyone it is a time in which to show an ability to gain wealth and power; a time in which to gain prestige over the other inhabitants of the earth. These believe that life is a struggle.

Then to others life is something very serious. They look on everything with a long face and see nothing but the sorrows and the pains of life. Some of them go so far as to hide themselves away from society and hope that some day the lives of men will become less painful. Many of these serious-minded fellows are walking to and fro among men and casting a shadow of gloom along their pathway. These we call pessimists. Their opposites are also numerous and are termed optimists. In their vision life is the best sort of thing. It is a paradise in which nothing ever goes wrong.

A man's attitude toward life is the basis upon which he builds his character. For this reason it is important that men should form a correct opinion of life. Life is as men make it. Therefore, what is the correct attitude toward life?

In answer we might say that life is a serious thing, for in it every man finds duties to fulfil which must be carried out. Life is a struggle, for men must forever fight evil and control nature. Life is a sorrow, for every day pain is experienced. Life is an experiment, for new problems are to be solved each day; problems which never before have been faced.

And this is the test between success and failure; between the real man and the fool: Can the man strive on in the face of the obstacles of life, never ceasing, never groaning, striving on, forever—with a smile? If a man faces life with this attitude—struggling seriously, not for self but for his fellows, but yet so minded that he sees life an existence to enjoy for the very enjoyment of it, for the very struggle of it—he is bound to succeed and be happy.

"Life is real! Life is earnest!
And the grave is not its goal;
'Dust thou art, to dust returnest,'
Was not spoken of the soul.

"Not enjoyment and not sorrow
Is our destined end or way;
But to act, that each tomorrow
Finds us farther than today.

"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate,
Still" a-smiling, "still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

"L" Day Celebrated

their food until they were found by some boys.

"It took us one hour in getting 200 yards at the right of the location to look over the brush and trees. There were no trails up there at all. We looked an "L" on the site and tied a sheet on a bush, measured the proper distance with a tape line, tied another sheet up, and finished the sheets by leaving the third on a bush for the base of the letter. Then we went home by the ridge, after taking turns in cutting a trail with the only axe on the expedition. The sheets were plainly visible from LaVerne and the three points of the "L" could be distinguished.

"In a few weeks the students went in a body by the ridge route to clear off the ground. The land was staked and measured, and with real axes and implements we removed the brush and made a plain "L." It was not until the next year that the "L" was widened and blocked. There were about thirty or forty folks involved in the brush cutting, with five rattlesnakes killed for the cause.

"Lack of water prevented our blocking and final work on the letter, because we couldn't obtain water anywhere on the mountain. In the third year some boys blazed a trail through San Dimas canyon to Brown's Flats and then up to the "L" via the present route.

"Because the sophomores instituted the day it has become the custom for the succeeding sophomore classes to take charge of the affair. In the senior year the class planned a permanent memorial to commemorate the event. It was erected with the following inscription: "Initiated by the class of '21. Erected by the student body of LaVerne College, 1919." In front of the memorial were the initials of the surveyors, the original four. This stake was set up in the spring near the end of the season, but the date set aside by custom is generally set for fall."

The "L" has a vertical measurement of 340 feet. The base is 180 feet long and 45 feet wide. It is situated on the topmost peak of the mountains next to "Old Baldy," and is reported from authentic sources to be the highest letter in the world.

New Era Banquet

the good and the beautiful. He must live more nobly, appreciate the things that abide, harmonizing his life with the eternal.

The immediate goals of education may be grouped as (1) Skill in the tools of learning: reading, writing and arithmetic; (2) an organized body of knowledge. We must know the facts to make any kind of progress. Knowledge is power. (3) Ability to think, to study, to do research work, and thus by standing on one's own feet to add to the total sum of human values; (4) inspiration, aspiration and purpose as the assurance of growth and success in the venture of life.

The emphasis of the lecture was, however, placed on the ultimate goals of education.

The race should be physically viable. Education must conserve health and life of race and individual, and it must conserve the natural resources upon which life depends.

The race must be intellectually rational. This may be accomplished by reducing illiteracy, raising cultural standards, and acquiring, as a race, a broad knowledge about its social, industrial and international problems.

The race must be socially moral. There must be complete democracy in every phase of life, even international and interracial.

Finally the race must be spiritually harmonious with the Infinite, the true, the good and the beautiful, to know, to love, and to do the things that are eternal.

Following the address given by Dr. Kurtz, the candles on the table were lighted. Each guest then lighted his own small candle and stood holding it as the "L" song, "Guide of LaVerne," was sung by the students.

The Sophomore girls will meet this week to elect their captain for a prize basketball team.

It has been at least three years since the girls of this institution have found it advantageous to organize and support an athletic team of any sort.

They feel that a little athletic competition will help exceedingly to raise the pep and enthusiasm of all the girls. It is a sure cure for homesickness and shyness. The girls are rallying because they have felt the lack of the good old sports of previous years, and the old spirit has revived within them to such a degree that they care not to withhold it on account of slight difficulties.

Girls as well as boys like to show their abilities along the lines of strength, alertness, and loyalty, and girls also enjoy heartily the break in the daily routine of affairs. So they are reviving the old sport of basketball. The old rules of the three-court system, with two players in each court, will probably be used.

Gives Series of Bible Lessons in Chapel

Dr. D. W. Kurtz, pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Long Beach, formerly president of McPherson College, McPherson, Kansas, began a series of revival meetings at the LaVerne Church of the Brethren Monday, November 7. The series will continue until November 10, and be resumed on November 13 to continue through November 20.

Dr. Kurtz will also give a series of six Bible lessons during chapel periods of this week and next. These studies will be based on the doctrines of fundamental faith. Dr. Kurtz is an eminent scholar and he has given these subjects careful study. The studies will not only be very interesting, but they will solve many questions common to the minds of students.

The general public is invited to attend the chapel studies as well as the revival meetings at the church.

IS IT FACULTY MEMBER OR STUDENT?

Monday evening, Oct. 31, Miss Muir went in to her room in the dorm and much to her surprise found grips suitcases partially unpacked. Shirts, trousers, neckties and pajamas were carelessly left around the room, but what man doesn't leave them? Miss Muir then found an endearing little note on her bureau, from a very dear friend she had met at the Acropolis during the past summer. He had become very fond of her and followed her, losing trace of her from time to time, but eventually he arrived safely to take up residence in La Verne.

Miss Muir quietly and serenely put the clothes away, and sat down to wait for the return of the owner of them. As no one arrived before ten o'clock, Miss Muir deemed it best to go to bed. She went out on the sleeping porch, where everything was quiet, to get into bed. She uttered a little exclamation of fright and the matron immediately ordered the lights switched on. There in the bed lay the form of a man—Miss Muir's man—but after close examination it proved to be only a dummy, and a good-natured laugh ended it all.

Several mornings later a couple of earnest inquirers appeared at the door of Miss Muir's room asking if she had any gentleman's laundry. With this the last traces of the poor man forever disappeared.

Sam Babcock, sales manager of the Weber-MacCrea Company in Los Angeles, spoke to the students Tuesday morning during the chapel period. He gave a talk on salesmanship. Some of the requisites of salesmanship, as given by Mr. Babcock, are a good personality, honesty—it doesn't pay to be dishonest—and the ability to meet a competitor.

Dear Anxious:

I am glad you brought the "Feast of Nations" to my mind. I had forgotten all about it, and that is one thing that I do not want to miss. A whole gang of us are going that night and anticipate having lots of fun and oodles of swell things to eat. I'll find out all about it and let you know next week.

SENIORS CELEBRATE HALLOWE'EN

The seniors celebrated Hallowe'en with a business meeting which developed into a social gathering at Ethel Dresher's home. Ethel and Edith Bowman were hostesses.

As an introduction to the social part of the evening the hostesses appeared carrying between them a large pan containing little paper bags. These were distributed and when they were opened were found to contain that snowy-white, crisp, buttered and edible substance for which Mr. Dresher is the famous chef—popcorn.

That wasn't all; the lights were turned out and the candles lighted, including one in a Jack-o'-lantern. Then two orange and white cakes appeared, having one candle on each of them.

Mark Lehmer and Olive Shirk were the surprised people, when they found that it was their birthdays that were being celebrated. Ice cream was served with the cake, which was very much enjoyed.

Another interesting event of the evening happened—it was discovered that Ethel had an interesting snapshot album and memory book of the old academy days—when the seniors were in high school. The snapshot album caused not a little excitement, especially among some of the girls, when the discovery was made. Enough said.

It was a very pleasant evening, enjoyed by everyone there—at least that is what the guests said when they left.

Owing to the tragic delay in Asilomar slides the Y. W. C. A. was deprived of its special program Monday morning, but by dint of originality and inspiration the meeting was brought to a climax in a cyclone of song and wit. At this time they dedicated the following song to the hike to the "L."

Tune—"There's a Long, Long Trail." There's a long, long nail a-grinding Up through the sole of my shoe, And it's ground its way up through my foot

A mile or two; There's a long, long hike before me, That's what I am dreaming about, The time when I can sit me down And pull the darn thing out.

Freshman translation of Latin sentence: "Haec in Gallia est importantus;" "Hike into Gaul, it's important."

Before reading, give one kindly look at the percentages of LaVerne, Redlands and San Diego in the Conference standing.

By looking above you probably noticed that Redlands has played more Conference games than has LaVerne, and the same applies to San Diego. By looking at the schedule for the remainder of the season, you will see that neither Redlands nor San Diego have much chance of winning another game, that is, with one exception, which is the LaVerne-San Diego game. You have probably guessed the situation already, but LaVerne has one chance to end sixth Conference with a percentage of .250, instead of ending in the cellar position with all games lost. That chance is that we get a little fight in us and surprise that bunch of San Diego Aztecs out of a year's growth and into a tie with Redlands for the cellar position, by beating them on their home field on Thanksgiving Day.

It isn't impossible or improbable, either. The Leopards can do it if they will get down and train during the two weeks of practice they have left. Stir up your memory a little and what happened in the first quarter of the Pomona game will come back to you. The Leopards outclassed the Sagehens very decidedly, and it was only for the reason that our men hadn't trained and were minus reserve power that Pomona ran wild the rest of the game.

Players and students, don't take this lightly. PLAYERS, GET DOWN TO BUSINESS AND TRAIN; and students, do all you can to make it easier for them to do so. The girls can do a lot by urging the football men to go home and to bed by 10 bells, and the rest of the students can do more by not proposing to go some place every night or even one or two nights a week. Let's launch a big campaign to win the San Diego game and not stop until we do it.

Varsity Defeats Citrus J. C. by Starlight

Playing a pretty good brand of football most of the time, the LaVerne Leopards won from the Citrus J. C. team last Tuesday by a 12-0 score on the local field.

LaVerne scored in the first quarter as a result of some good ball packing by Brooks and Shirk. After making first downs on the 6-yard line, they carried the ball across in two plays, making the score 6-0. In the third quarter Citrus carried the ball down to the LaVerne 10-yard line but were held for downs. LaVerne took the ball and on a knocked down lateral pass it was LaVerne's ball on their own two-yard line, and punted out of danger. This was the only time the Jaysees threatened to score.

The fourth quarter was played in the moonlight and both teams uncorked an aerial attack. The Leopards scored in the twilight period as a result of several passes from Shirk to Brooks. The Jaysees' attack was broken up pretty well.

The Leopards showed a little improve over their last game and the team is now working on the game with the Trojan Dentists scheduled for next Friday.

Frosh vs. Caltech

The line-up played a hard and praiseworthy game, holding like a stone wall when Caltech was near their goal. Besides displaying traits peculiar to a brick wall, the line charged good on offense and opened up holes for the pill-carriers.

The Kittens pushed the first touchdown over in the first quarter on straight football, Lathrop pushing it over. The first bad break took place in the third quarter when the referee failed to move himself out of the way in time to allow Bessey to see or tackle a Caltech player who scooped up a fumble and raced for a touchdown. In the last part of the third quarter, the Caltech Babes made their only deserved and winning score, a place kick from the twenty-yard line. A few minutes later and just after the kick-off, a Caltech pigskinner scooped up a blocked punt on the ten-yard line and scored their final tally. The kittens then took the ball on their twenty-yard line and by passes, line bucks and end-runs, put the elusive pigskin over for the last score of the game, which ended 15-12 in favor of Caltech, none of the touchdowns having been converted.

general, and the Frosh in particular, that you can fight and win a football game. Fight hard in football practice and make the other men like it.

This comes from a football player, and I, for one, know that Coaches Arnett and Van Cleave will be behind us in this.

Let's win the San Diego game on Thanksgiving Day and then eat our turkey with a real hearty and satisfied appetite, because we have really accomplished something.

Sports Snorts

"Buck" Ferrel, a regular fortress in the Frosh forward wall, was hurt in the game Saturday with Caltech and may be out the rest of the football season. "Buck" played a wonderful game and showed what real fighting spirit really is.

San Diego, our only remaining conference opponents, went down to defeat harder than did LaVerne at the hands of the Whittier Poets. The score was 25-7, while the Leopards were defeated only 19-8. It looks good for the Leopards' Thanksgiving Day game in San Diego, but Whittier has undoubtedly improved much since that time, while not much along that line can be said for the Leopards. It's going to be a tough game.

Although the papers say that the Pomona Sagehens "held" U. C. L. A. to a 7-7 tie, the Bruins were really the lucky ones, for they were outplayed and the game was really won by Pomona. The championship will go to Pomona anyway provided the Sagehens win their remaining two conference games, one with Redlands and one with Occidental.

The Redlands Frosh outfit which defeated our Kittens 13-7 only on breaks and not on good football, triumphed over the Oxy Frosh in a closely contested game 20-18, scoring the winning touchdown in the last few minutes of play. It begins to look like the Bull Pups would capture the Frosh Championship, but they have yet to defeat the tough Pomona "Chicks."

One of the main features of the homecoming celebration next Friday will be the football game between the LaVerne Varsity and U. S. C. Dental College. Little is known about the Dentists but they will no doubt give the Leopards a tough battle.

LaVerne will enter the game with their full strength, as the injured players have recovered.

No game has been scheduled for the Frosh on account of the injuries received in last Saturday's game.
