Women's Debate Team Ends Season

NEGATIVE WINS WHILE AFFIRMATIVE LOSES

The affirmatives of the women's debating team greeted Loyola's negative here with much pleasure, on Thursday evening, in the College Auditorium.

The question debated was, "Resolved that the influence of modern advertising is detrimental to public welfare." The first speaker was Wilma Long, who welcomed the guests, after which she very strongly and efficiently pointed out her points on the affirmative side. The first speaker of the negative made the question still more open to the minds of the honorable judges and friends. The second affirmative was Catherine Crist, who also put forth some very good arguments. No one should have missed this interesting debate. The last speaker was Ruth Bolinger, and much good may be said about her. Although the decision of the judges resulted two in favor of Loyola and one for LaVerne, the splendid work of the team is to be commended.

This was the second debate with Loyola. The first one was held Tuesday evening at Loyola, where the team was very cordially received, and following the debate a two-course luncheon was served.

At the home of Catherine Crist, the team from Loyola, with a number of others, was entertained at a waffle feed.

Weiss Reports to Student Volunteers

Wednesday evening the Student Volunteers enjoyed one of the most interesting meetings of the year.

An unusually large number attended. Lorell Weiss gave a report of the convention which he attended at Detroit during Christmas vacation. A particular point of interest to him was the many different personalities represented, for it was an international convention. Especially the Hindus and Indians impressed him; they were among those who were dressed in their native costumes.

A peace and war discussion was another item of the convention, followed by plans for the coming years.

After Mr. Weiss' report, Miss Vera Hoover's music students gave a piano duet which was highly appreciated.

In Mexico, first you run for president, then you run for your life.

Workmen in ancient Britain were paid in salt.

Lowell Patton Company Entertains

The Lowell Patton Company presented a charmingly varied program in the College Auditorium on Tuesday evening. The company consisted of three men—Lowell Patton, composer and pianist; Ludovic Huot, lyric tenor and dramatic reader, and Gault Patton, baritone. A unique feature of the entertainment was the numbers given in costume. The fine characterizations of Mr. Huot were especially appreciated by the audience. It was a type of program that appeals to everyone because of the variety of readings and the vocal and instrumental music.

This was the third number of the Lyceum Course for this season. The next is to be on March 6th, at which time Miss Helen Simpson, entertainer and impersonator, will present interpretations of characters in well known plays.

"Seven Chances" Given Here

"Seven Chances" will be shown in the College Auditorium, Friday night, January 20th. Buster Keaton is the featured leading man.

The picture is an unusually good one and all former "exam"-harrassed students are urged to attend. Laugh off your cares under the influence of the charming Buster Keaton. Two reels of Lindy's flight will be shown. This is very interesting and no student can afford to miss the educational value involved.

It is possible that Lloyd Emmert will bring his glee club from Hawthorne. This will be an additional treat as Lloyd is a graduate of La Verne College.

Be sure to turn out in a body—the best program yet.

Glee Club Gives Program at San Dimas

The Women's Glee Club gave its first program of the year at the Christian Church in San Dimas. The program, with the exception of one number, was sacred. It was varied with quartet, trio, solo and reading numbers.

The club appreciated very much the use of the pipe organ, played by Miss Mary Blickenstaff.

This is only the first program given and there probably will be many more towards spring. They are prepared to give either sacred or secular programs.

LaVerne Grad Honored by Position

BOMBERGER GETS POST OF "Y" DIRECTOR

David Bomberger, graduate of La Verne College with class of 1921, has recently been promoted from assistant physical education director to the head of the department in the San Diego Y. M. C. A.

Bomberger is well liked among the Y. M. C. A. frequenters and his promotion has been accepted in a fine manner. Bomberger has been very instrumental in building up an interest in basketball in that city, to such an extent that it is one of the most important of that city's sports.

Bomberger was quite prominent in athletics while at LaVerne. He was a guard on the basketball team that was notorious in the days of '20 and '21. He also was one of the members of LaVerne's first football team.

His friends extend to him congratulations in attaining his worthy position and hope that he may continue to succeed.

Dr. D. W. Kurtz to Speak Tonight

Through the efforts of Mrs. C. P. Shaffer, president of the P. T. A. of Bonita High School, a LaVerne audience will again have the pleasure of listening to the interesting and much respected teacher and lecturer, Dr. D. W. Kurtz.

He will speak on the subject of "Winning the World Through Childhood." There is no need of his being introduced to L. V. C. students, as they are very enthusiastic about him and will need no second invitation to come and hear him at Bonita High School on Thursday night, January 19th, at 8 o'clock.

There are to be some trimmings on the program for that evening, too, but what they are may be found by attending the lecture.

Detroit Convention Reviewed

An aftermath of the Detroit convention was given Tuesday in chapel by Lorell Weiss. He also told of his trip there and back.

He reported on the various speeches and his reaction to some of them. One interesting program consisted of speeches from all the different nationalities represented. He said that one of the most interesting things about their speeches was that no two of the speakers agreed on the question of missions.

Leopard Varsity Loses to Poets

WHITTIER TAKES FAST BASKETBALL GAME 41-21 AND LEADS CONFERENCE WITH OXY

That quickened Quaker quintette of Whittier College basketballers can shoot baskets faster and at greater distance than their paternal forefathers could shoot fowls. They exemplified this adeptness last Saturday night, in their own basketorium, in defeating the LaVerne Leopards by a 41-21 score.

The Poets got off to a fast start by registering four field goals before the Leopards got going, which looked just too bad for the LaVerne team. Only once in the game did the Leopards overtake that lead and that was in the middle of the second half, when the difference in scores stood for a few minutes at only six points. But the victors immediately took another spurt of their previously displayed goal-shooting mania and increased the lead till the final whistle blew. The score at half time had been 22-12.

Whittier's offensive combination of Barmore and Capt. Sucksdorf at forward, and Weaver at center, was dangerous every moment that the ball was within the offensive half of the ninety-foot court. The facts of the case are that a large percent of the Poets' scoring was done by shooting over the Leopards' five-man defense. There was not a large number of set-up shots taken by either side, although, because of the height of the Whittier men, they had a lot the better of the struggle under the basket, both offensively and defensively.

Lehmer was the Leopards' big claw. His work at playing the floor made him the outstanding individual player of the game. Capt. Chet Shirk played his usual consistent game at guard, and he showed up equally well at center when Lehmer was shifted to forward in Boots' position. Kreps is striking his old form again, and as the Leopard passing game improves, he will continue to account for more points. Vaniman and Betts at the guard positions played a good game and held the Whittier forwards down to an unusually small number of close-in shots.

It was very apparent that the Leopards were a bit lost on the strange court. The Poet floor is considerably larger and livelier than the one to which the team is accustomed. But at any rate, all things being equal, the final score could not have been much different. The team which won will be worthy of any victory in the present basketball season.

THE GOAL OF LIFE

There are two kinds of people—those who have a purpose in life and those who have not. People of the latter group are like leaves, blown to and fro by a wind of chance. They regret the past, live for the present, think little of the future. They have no goal in life. They work to live, to live to work.

This sort of people is very numerous. They walk in all the ways of life. They start one occupation and if it fails they choose another, etc., until an occupation is found which proves successful.

This is one great reason why there are so many failures in life. There is no goal to strive for, nothing to achieve, merely a life of experimentation to live.

To be a success a man must have a goal. The goal of life should be service to others. A man who lives for himself will grow stagnant with selfishness. A selfish man is narrow. He lives to succeed, it matters not how. He forgets that others have rights. He is wound up in personal success, and generally this leads to impositions upon others. He tries to win by taking from others what rightfully belongs to them. His success is another's failure.

A man who wins power, wealth, etc., in this manner wins no success, for success is not present where happiness is not present. No man can be happy, no matter how hard-hearted he is, at seeing his fellows starve because he becomes wealthy. To be successful is to win, and what winner is not happy over his winnings?

True success comes not from selfish deception of others, but from producing that others may gain while he too is gaining. A man's success is a world's triumph.

Then a wise man will choose an occupation by which he can produce. Occupations are numerous. Each man must choose the one in which he can be most successful. He must choose the one by which he can give the most to the world. But how is a man going to choose?

Every man has certain inborn traits. He likes to do certain things better than any other things. But a man who has known only the dark hole of a coal mine knows nothing of the rest of the world. He may hate coal mining, but he must continue at it because he knows of nothing else. He has no choice. Then a man must become acquainted with the various occupations of life in order to be able to choose that one for which he is naturally best fitted. He must awaken his inborn tendencies. It is for this purpose that education is used. Through education men may find their life work, for education puts men in touch with the world and its broad expanse of occupations; its needs.

A man learns to read that he may be able later to see the whole world through the eyes of the writers. It is upon this basis that he is able to choose his occupation. He reads his books, and listens to his instructors, with an open mind and learns of the needs of the world. His inborn traits, or talents, are awakened from their sleep and they urge him to produce, to win, in music, or art, or literature, or mining, or invention, or in politics, or in farming, or in manufacture, or in any field of activity.

It is the business of every man to know his talents and thereby direct the work of his life. If everyone in the world knew and used his talents to the good of mankind as a whole, all sadness would vanish before the sunshine of happiness. This is true because to know his talents a man must know God, and to use them he must love God, and loving God he must see his true relation to his fellows, and seeing his relation to mankind he will strive with his talents for them.

Any man who does not do the life work for which his natural endowments fit him will ever be unhappy. He will, throughout his whole life, feel an urge to do something different. If he knows not his life work he will be blown about by a wind of ill chance. If he knows his life work but drowns it because he can use his talents as a way to gain wealth and power for himself, he commits a gross sin against himself and those for whom his talents were to serve.

A child's parents should try to awaken within him his talents and their use to mankind. Everyone connected with his education should do this. A child may be fed with riches and pleasures and fine words and pleasant manners, but if he does not know his talents and his relation to men he will either fail or worse—steal from others.

All men cannot be preachers, or lawyers, or teachers, or bankers, or farmers, or merchants, or what not? We must have them all. Each man must choose which occupation he will take. In choosing he must, by the will of God, choose by the guidance of his talents. He must do this to be a success in life, for success implies more than honor, wealth or power. Success is achieved only by giving of the best possible service to mankind. To do this does not mean to pick up any job and then do the best with it. To give the best of life man must know his talents and by knowing them choose that field in which God has best fitted him to work.

The goal of life is success. The success of life is achievement. The achievement of life is service to others. Service to others brings the reward of happiness. Know thyself that ye too may be able to win success.

DON C. MILLER.

REVERIES OF THE SEASON

I.

At the end of the semester,
Filled with work and filled with study,
Come our ex's hard and plenty,
Come upon us and afflict us.
We are tired of too much working,
Digging hard in mathematics,
Studying hard until the midnight,
Using up both night and daylight.

Profs are working day and night shifts

To get questions to confound us,
Scanning through the arid textbooks,
Swearing that they will not pass us.
But at last they will decide that
They have questions that will flunk
us;

They will gather in the office,
Pass around the grewsome news that
Our exams will surely down us.
And they'll have a small, select group
That they'll teach the next semester
With a minimum of effort.

II.

Men and women, we will fool them!
We have knowledge that they know not

That we'll use in case we're called on
To put forth our greatest effort.

III.

Ah, 'tis done! We are the victors.
We have passed one more semester;
We will now rest from our efforts
While our profs are grading papers—
Papers long and papers many.

Good are some, and some not any.
But we're happy and contented
While our faculty is frantic,
Trying to translate the meaning
Of a million kinds of answers,
Grabbing tousled hair in effort,
Placing many convolutions
On their brains that were, before this,
Smooth and much resembling door-
knobs

In a desperate but useless
Waste of time and noble effort
To construe in our long papers
Something for which they can flunk
us.

IV.

Well, they cannot. They've decided
To give up the awful struggle.
We are safe; we are the victors.
We will be here next semester;
Yes, unless we should get married
We will be here, sad and weary,
To go through the same old process
When the school ends in the springtime.

LOST—BUT NOT FOUND

"Lost—Two golden hours, some-each set with sixty diamond minutes.

No reward offered because they are

Time wasted is time lost, and it

us would only remember that time is

STUDENT SOCIAL LIFE

WEDDING OF FORMER STUDENT ANNOUNCED

Some of the upper division students of LaVerne College received quite a pleasant surprise recently when wedding invitations came from Oakland, Calif. They were sent by the parents of Sarah Yoon, who was a student at LaVerne during the school year of 1925-26. She was well known by all the students in school and was quite popular in social circles. She acted as one of the cheer leaders throughout the year and was active in Y. W. C. A. and Campus Times work. Besides this she was a member of the Southern California Deputation team, acting as reader and soloist.

The wedding is to take place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Tenth Avenue Baptist Church of Oakland, Calif.

The fortunate young man is Dr. Young Dai Hahn, a young Korean recently returned from a year of internment work in China.

As a former student of LaVerne College, The Campus Times wishes Miss Yoon many long years and much happiness as Mrs. Y. D. Hahn.

Y. W. ADOPTS CONSTITUTION

Directly following the creed song which took the place of devotions, a business session was held in the "Y" room. It has been discovered that the old constitution is not in line with the national Y. W. C. A. constitution. It did not contain some articles that it should, and did contain some that would no longer apply to the Y. W. of LaVerne College. A new constitution was read and discussed. The old constitution was amended that the new one be adopted.

A reminder was given that it will soon be St. Valentine's Day. It is time to plan our notes of appreciation. To the new girls who do not know of our custom, we say that on Saint Valentine's Day each girl brings little notes expressing her appreciation of her friends or of things that they have done. Thus the childish practice of valentine giving is merely a memory, yet each note given strikes a melodious chord on the heart of each girl who gives one, and each that receives one.

LEAP YEAR BRINGS ITS WOE—BACHELORS FEAR PROPOSAL

Nineteen twenty-eight is leap year. To the average citizen that means little else than that February will have 29 days and that incidentally a president will be elected. But to spinsters leap year for 640 years—ever since 1288, has brought the right to propose to the wily male.

They won't all be leaping this year, even if they do have the ethical right, bachelors may tell themselves consolingly.

Unmarried men have reason to be thankful they are bachelors in 1928 rather than in 1288, which was 160 leap years ago. In that year the practical and thrifty Scotch enacted a law providing that any maiden lady might in leap year propose marriage to a man of her choice, and if he should refuse to marry her, he should pay a fine. The original law was quaintly worded:

"It is statut and orgaint that during the rein of hir maist blissit Mageste, for ilk yeare knowne as lepe yeare, ilk mayden ladye of bothe highe and low estait shall hae liberte to bespeake ye man she likes, albeit he refuses to talk hir to be his lawful wife, he shall be mulcted in ye sum ane pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awis gif he can make it appeare that he is betrothit ane ither women he then shall be free."

No satisfactory explanation for the making of the law has ever been found, says the Encyclopedia Britannica. A few years after the measure was passed, a like law was made in France, and in the fifteenth century the custom was legalized in Genoa and Florence. —Pomona Progress.

Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Fike from Long Beach called on the Flickengers Sunday.

Marion Lewis was pleasantly surprised Sunday by a visit from her father, who is a banker in Los Angeles.

Miss Frances Dunger from Lindsay was a guest in LaVerne, Sunday.

George Berg enjoyed a visit from his two sisters, brother and sister-in-law from Los Angeles, Sunday. In the evening a merry group entertained them in the Rensberger home. Among those who were present were Mary Messmer, Gladys Larimer, Stanley Weddle, Clarence Brubaker, and Joe Berger. They all spent a pleasant evening popping popcorn and other pastimes.

The College Choir gave a program in San Dimas, Sunday evening.

Most all students acted according to their best judgment when they spent most of the week-end studying for examinations.

Ellen Edmister and Ivan Edmister were in Santa Ana on Sunday, visiting relatives.

Ruth Wilkinson and Mark Lehmer spent Sunday in Santa Ana.

Louise Huff and Mary Platt went to Hemet on Sunday and returned to LaVerne for church.

Mary Platt, Louise Huff, Ellen Edmister, and Whitcomb Overholtzer went to Long Beach on Saturday afternoon.

Exchanges

Juniata College has just organized a band. It made its first appearance recently at the Juniata-Tyrone game.

The faculty of Pomona College has adopted a new honor system. The students classified as honor students will enroll in only fifteen hours' work, only twelve hours of which will be in regular curricular courses. Then they will be expected to do more intensive work than the ordinary student.

A group of students from the Zoology and Geology Departments of Pomona College went to Lower California during Christmas vacation. Several valuable specimens of birds, insects and plants were found.

Fresno State College is to have a new science building. It will probably be started about February 1st, and they expect it to be completed by next October.

There is a new and very interesting organization on the Whittier College campus, known as the Consolidated Date Bureau. The bureau seems to be doing very efficient work. It was the means of arranging seventeen dates for the recent football banquet. It all works very simply. The students have only to pay 25c to the bureau for the privilege of having their date made for them. All they have to do is to turn in a list of names in order of their preference, and then await the result. The bureau has been used mostly by the men, but the fair coeds are beginning to patronize it, also.

WHY WORRY OVER EXAMS?

You have two alternatives: Your prof is either easy or hard. If he is easy, you have nothing to worry about. If he is hard, you have two alternatives: Either you study hard or you bluff. If you study hard, you don't need to worry. If you bluff, you have two alternatives: Either your bluff works or it doesn't. If it works, you don't need to worry. If it doesn't, you have two alternatives: Either you are conditioned or you flunk. If you flunk, you won't have to worry any longer. Therefore, why worry?

BRIDE RECIPIENT OF MANY GIFTS

Friday evening at 8:45 a group of the college girls met and went quietly to the home of Mrs. Dan Hayes (Eoline Johnson) and surprised her with a shower of many useful and beautiful gifts. The bride was little expecting it and the look on her face showed that she was truly taken unawares. After the gifts were unwrapped and examined, tea and wafers were served. Those present were Mrs. Dan Hayes, Leona Stanley, Hazel Studebaker, Alberta Maust, Doris Welch, Katharine Hanawalt, Ruth Blocher, Aileen Rothrock, Kathryn Rothrock, Hilda Brubaker, Ruth Wilkinson, Lois Ruth Miller, Olive Shirk, Verna Shirk, Miriam Shirk, Cecelia Shaffer, Ruth Dickey, Pearl Klinsman, Margaret Price, Viola Smith, Isabel McClain, Olive Throne, Ruth Bolinger, Harriet Woody, and Nellie Frantz.

THINGS TO FORGET

Forget the slander you have heard, Forget the hasty, unkind word; Forget the quarrel and the cause, Forget the whole affair, because Forgetting is the only way. Forget the storms of yesterday; Forget the chap whose sour face Forgot to smile in any place. Forget the trials you have had, Forget the weather, if it's bad; Forget the knocker—he's a freak— Forget him seven days a week. Forget even to get the blues.

City Slicker: "My! that tree is bending over something terrible."

Farmer: "Wal, you'd bend over too if you was as full o' green apples as that there tree."

LEOPARDS FACE OXY TIGERS SATURDAY*FROSH TO PLAY FIRST CONFER-ENCE GAME*LaVerne Determined to Keep Hold on Second Place

Oxy is in a tie with Whittier for first place in the Conference standing. LaVerne is in a tie with Pomona for second place. LaVerne is determined that Oxy should come down to her proper level, for the Leopards feel that the Quakers are in a class by themselves and should not be contaminated by any other school in the conference. The only way to reach this condition is for the Leopards to devour the Tigers bodily next Saturday night, January 21st.

This may not be so easily done, for Oxy showed that she has wonderful comeback, as was demonstrated in the Redlands game last Saturday. Redlands led by a 19-2 margin at the half but was forced to take a 25-24 beating at the end of the game. This shows that Coach Eddie Kienholz has instilled the comeback spirit into his team.

The Leopards are going to take off the rough edges this week so that the Tigers will have to use something more than a comeback to keep a hold on their first place position. It is not known exactly, but it is probably that Coach Van Cleve will have some new material to demonstrate next Saturday night.

The Frosh will tackle the Oxy Kittens in a 7 o'clock preliminary to the visiting game. The Leopard Kittens were denied their first taste of blood when the Whittier Frosh game was postponed on account of illness. Coach Arnett hopes to have his "fiery frosh" intact by Saturday night so that the preliminary will probably usurp some of the thrills of the varsity game.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE—1928

The football schedule for the 1928 season was decided upon at a meeting held on December 15th. LaVerne meets all the Conference teams except Pomona.

The following games were scheduled by LaVerne:

October 6—LaVerne at Occidental.
October 13—LaVerne at Whittier.
October 20—Redlands at LaVerne.
November 3—LaVerne at Cal Tech.
November 10—LaVerne at San Diego.

Leopards' Spots

By Harold S. Hoff

I thought a couple of times during the program given last Tuesday night as a Lyceum Course number that something ought to be said and done about discourtesy which a few of the students too often bestow. It was a rather likable program, after all, even though some of the numbers were a bit boresome. But what's the difference? We came, and we might just as well have acted as though we enjoyed it. There was a chance to show self-discipline and at the same time not hinder the performers from at least doing their best.

It's rather amusing (but oh, how sad!) to witness the percentage of students in LaVerne who are majoring in education and intend to teach school when they get their discharge from college. It's all the vogue. It is certainly evidence that there is not enough instruction given toward vocational choosing, for all of these students aren't cut out upon the professorship pattern. Not only might this result in a lot of misfits in life, but the teaching profession will not be benefited by it in the long run. It may even lower LaVerne's reputation as a teachers' training institution.

I don't happen to be one of these potential teachers, so I can comment and only be considered a carper. Otherwise I might be accused of making personal comparisons.

It is a pretty safe guess to prophesy that if the Whittier Poets continue finding the basket as they did in walloping the Leopards, they will end the Conference season way out ahead. Such accuracy at shooting from all angles, particularly in distance shots, has not been seen by most of us for many, many days. The whole team does it, and that makes it a lot better—for the Poets.

Two momentary spurts in the Leopard-Poet clash were what made the scores so far between. At those moments the Whittier team was just about unbeatable. Most of the scoring was done over the Leopards' five-man defense. It isn't exactly a disgrace to lose to a team like that.

The Occidental Tigers, twenty-six strong, invade the Leopard's lair next Saturday night. The western institution had a hard time beating the University of Redlands last week by a 25-24 count. This doesn't mean a thing except that both teams are strong. We've known all along that Oxy has a powerful squad. This new revelation of the Bulldogs' strength doesn't make LaVerne's schedule any too soft—if you know what I mean.

With Galen Root enrolling in school this week, the chances are that there may be a replacement on the Leopard first five. At any rate, the rather limited number of capable substitutes will be strengthened, which will mean a lot when the Leopards have to face a whole regiment like the Occidental institution transports from place to place.

Roy Montz: "Is it? Got Bermuda last night and the onions made my eyes run."

Euphemistically Speaking

By Harold S. Hoff

By Harold Hoff

An ideal is an ideal, regardless of the fact that you or I may fall far below it in actual living. It is a common fault that people suppose a writer, in offering criticism, always excludes himself. One doesn't always have to practice what one preaches. If the ideals I hold were not far above what I have attained, they would not be ideals. But I shouldn't cease upholding them because of that.

We should understand each other's motives. We should realize that we all offer criticism which is directed at self, perhaps primarily. And though we fall before our own assaults, others should know that our failings are results of conditions that seem at times almost insurmountable. But we fight on and on, believing that we'll grow by our experiences, for we know that our motives are high.

THE BOBBED HUNDRED

Bobbed hair to the right of us,
Bobbed hair to the left of us,
Bobbed hair behind us,
Tresses asunder.

Some with a heavy mop,
Some with a lighter crop,
Into a barber shop
Walked the bobbed hundred.

Women of high degree,
Women past fifty-three,
Determined each to be
One of the numbered.

Some of them look right swell,
Some of them look like—well,
Just as well not to tell
On the bobbed hundred.

—Exchange.

It does not matter a feather what a man has, if he himself lacks steadfastness and courage.

"The person who attains success is the person who sets his ideal and then achieves it."—Mrs. Merritt.

If you never do anything worth remembering you will have a dull time when you get old.

Every man can be a success at something. Perhaps he needs an expert to tell him what.

A man's mind needs feeding as much as his body.

You can't get experience in this world on the easy payment plan.

Nothing ruins an old car like your neighbor's getting a new one.

Candor will lose you some friends, but not as many as deceit.
