SENIOR PLAY FINE SUCCESS

The presentation of the Senior play on May 28 and 30, "The Lost Paradise" was one of the greatest events of this school year. The work was doubly appreciated because of the fact that this was the first play ever staged by the College Department in the history of La Verne College. Through the superior direction of Mrs. Haugh, the characters were developed wonderfully.

The setting of the play was in the midst of a great factory section in Massachusetts. The heroine's idolizing father owned the enormous steel works and refused to give his employees just and adequate wages. The superintendent of the factory, whose heart was with the workmen, was a splendid young man, deeply in love with the owner's daughter, who had become engaged to a wealthy but worthless young man.

Later the superintendent discovered that he, himself, rather than the owner of "the works" was the inventor of the mysterious dynamo. His great battle came when he decided to lose his good name to shield the owner and his daughter. Finally, however, the truth was made known, and the heroine discovered her true love for the inventor, who was doing all in his power to raise the employees wages and so better their condition. Together they planned to aid the poverty stricken people and found their real paradise in their perfect love.

Mr. George Hollenberg, Mr. Elliott Thomas and Miss Marie Woody had especially strong parts and played them to a high degree of perfection. Mr. Lefever, in the part of Mr. Knowton, also deserves especial mention for the manner in which he played. The other parts, although not so important, were all well played. The scenery and lighting added no small part to the effect of the play.

Every one is extremely well pleased with this last piece of labor and feel it a fitting close to the year, one which will never be forgotten.

STUDENT CONTROL

La Verne College students are showing a marked step in advance by the zeal and interest they are manifesting in the "Student Control" system. They appointed a committee with Mr. Fox as chairman which was to draw up the necessary constitution, and this committee have been busily at work. If Student Control should be adopted for next year, it would mean that each and every student do his part to further and successfully carry out the plans.

NEW COMMISSION INSTALLED

Thursday, May 26, a very dignified ceremony was held in the College Auditorium when the new Commission of the school year 1921-1922 was installed. Pres. Miller conducted the ceremony and after stating the duties of each commissioner, they were duly installed into office. J. W. Fox as Commissioner of Publications and secretary of the Commission; Ralph Netzley, Commissioner of Debating and chairman of the Commission; Raymond Root, Commissioner of Athletics; John Rhodes, Commissioner of Finance, and Herman Moomaw, Commissioner of Public Welfare. The Commissioners have already made definite plans for the future and have appointed the respective managers for next year. The Student Body is expecting great things from them, and they are likewise expecting great things from the students. Let us get behind them and give them our most loyal support!

GRANTING OF PINS

At a recent Student Body meeting, it was decided that the Commissioners ought to receive some token of appreciation from the Student Body, for the work they accomplished during the year of service. Since the athletic men receive letters and debaters pennants, the Student Body decided to present pins to the Commissioners, as they leave their office. These pins were presented Thursday, May 26 to the last year's Commissioners by the chairman of the present Commission, Mr. Herman Landis. Then after the installation of the new officers, Mr. Fox, secretary of the next year's Commission, presented the outgoing Commissioners with pins. The precedent has been set, and hereafter the same design of pins will be used, only the date being changed. These pins stand for a great deal of thought and labor and mean much to those who have received them.

ROOT AND BRUBAKER WINNERS OF ORATORICAL CONTEST

Tuesday evening, May 24, the auditorium was filled with students and townspeople who were there to hear the five orators, Leland Brubaker, Marie Woody, Ernest Root, Walter Gilbert, and Orrin Gregory, compete in the Keiser Oratorical Contest, which is made possible by E. T. Keiser of Pomona.

Each orator had a live subject and presented his oration in a masterful way. Only two of them were lucky enough to receive the prizes, a ten and a five dollar gold piece, but the rest had valuable experience. The judges' decision for the winners were Ernest Root, first; and Leland Brubaker, second.

While waiting for the judges' decision, Miss Fay Loofbourrow read "Jim Fenton's Wedding Day."

PATHOLOGY CLASS TAKE INTERESTING TRIPS

The Social Pathology class enjoyed several interesting trips May 16, 17, and 18. On Monday the class visited Los Angeles, going through the county jail and the city post office, and visiting the Industrial and Art buildings at Exposition Park.

Tuesday afternoon a very interesting time was had at the County Farm, and on Wednesday afternoon the class visited Patton. Many interesting things could be told of these trips were it not for lack of space.

PRIZES AWARDED IN "L" CONTEST

Some months ago the Faculty offered a $5 prize for the best essay written on "The L." The decision fell upon Mr. Fox and Miss Martha Brubaker, and the Faculty being unable to decide which was the best of the two essays, a prize of $5 was awarded to each of the successful writers. Our "L" is a symbol dear to the heart of each La Vernite and these essays are an expression of the sentiment that surrounds the "L."

THE "L"

By Martha Brubaker

Perhaps the first thing a new student sees when he arrives at the small town of La Verne, is a clear-cut outline of a letter "L" carved on the side of a lofty mountain peak. What does this "L" represent? Is it merely a plot of ground from which the brush has been removed, to represent the first letter of La Verne College? This may be its only significance to the young men or young women who look upon the "L" for the first time, but the older students are able to see far beyond the mere letter, which stands for La Verne College in terms of buildings, books, and students, to a fuller, a deeper, and a nobler conception.

The highest and best ideals of all the students of La Verne College are embodied in this one letter "L." It stands for a Christian Educational Institution, where the moral teachings and principles of Christ are forever held as an example to all young men and young women. The "L" represents their noblest ideal—the attainment of a Christian education. It represents their supreme aim and their greatest ambition,—a life in the service of others. It represents the goal of honest efforts, hard labor, and patient endurance. It is their emblem of loyalty—loyalty to their parents who are sacrificing much for them, loyalty to their instructors, and loyalty to themselves, by faithfully performing each day the task that is set before them; the emblem of love—a love which springs from the soul and is showered not only upon their friends but upon those less fortunate who are dying for a "bit of love."

Just as the Great Stone Face standing majestically on the mountain side symbolized to Ernest the noblest qualities of humanity and inspired him to conform his life unto those ideals, so the "L" symbolizes to the students of La Verne College the noblest ideals of La Verne and guides them ever on to nobler and loftier heights, inspiring them to mold their lives after its pattern.

Oftimes their way is difficult. The path is constantly beset with disappointments and discouragements which seem almost overpowering. At times, they cannot see the road because it is hidden in the mists. But before these trials become failures the mists roll away and the "L" stands supreme on the hill side beckoning them ever onward and upward to the goal for which they are striving.

THE "L" ON THE MOUNTAIN TOP

By John W. Fox

There comes a time in the lives of all when scenes dear to our hearts must be left behind, perhaps never to be visited again. Though we are loth to leave them, we must obey the inexorable laws of progress and change, for we cannot stay the hands of time and circumstance. We must move on. There will come a time when we shall have to leave our dear Alma Mater and take our places in the affairs of the world. Yet as we go, we need not leave all behind for we may take with us and make our own the best that our college days can give. Loftiness of ideals, fidelity to the good and true, love of work, and strength of purpose and character may be ours for all time. These lasting treasures our "L" on the mountain symbolizes, and toward them she ever leads the way.

Her message goes forth to all, yet some there are who hear and heed it not. Its beauty is unappreciated, and its challenge is unheard. Like the gentle, unobtrusive Galilean, she forces herself and her message upon no one, but ministers daily to all who desire inspiration, encouragement, and strength. From the heights she beckons them to a life of service, self-sacrifice, and whole-hearted devotion to all that is highest and purest. In moments of discouragement she rallies our discouraged forces; in hours of trial she points to things worth fighting for; and at the parting of the ways she stands ever directing upward and onward.

To those who love the ideal and the noble of life more than the materialistic and perishable, this emblem is a perpetual incentive to double their efforts, to play a fair game, and to live for the good that they can do. It also remains as a durable testimony of the unfathomable good and incalculable value of our college. It has been placed high above the common walks of men, up among the clouds, above the dust of the highway and almost beyond the noises of industry. Silent, still, and alone, it keeps watch over the college in the valley below. It tells of the self-sacrifice of the big-hearted men and women who have given, and are giving, so much in order that this institution might live and be encouraged in its work. And it also proclaims the fact that many young men and women have come from far and near to learn the lessons, and to acquire that strength of character which will make them useful, efficient, and indispensable in the world's greatest activities. Founders and patrons, instructors and students, all love our college and her "L," and are determined that her glory shall not fade, and that her light shall not grow dim. As the sign of the star and crescent is to the Mohammedan, the cross to the Christian, the flag of stars and stripes to the American, so is the "L" on the mountain to the students of La Verne College.

Would you hear the message of the "L"? From the lofty mountain top

PRES. MILLER ENTERTAINS SENIORS

Both the College and Academy Seniors were enjoyably entertained by President and Mrs. Miller Monday evening, May 16, at their home. Evidently the Miller's thought some of the Seniors were not classified properly, for a set of questions on various weighty matters was asked each Senior as he or she arrived, and according to the answers, each student was classified. Upon completing the examination, each one was given a paper badge signifying his classification. There were five groups; the Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, Seniors and Faculty. It was surprising to see who the Freshmen were, not to mention the Faculty.

When all were classified, they were informed that each class would be given ten minutes in which to originate a stunt. These stunts afforded much amusement. The scene of the Freshman's first day at school was very interesting and true to life. The Faculty members held a special meeting in which they discussed the weighty matter of disciplining Mr. D. Welty Lefever for committing the unheard-of crime of "stepping out" and returning at the uncalled-for hour of 11:30. The different members of the Faculty were well characterized.

After having concentrated so deeply upon the matter and after having given it such deep consideration, the Seniors were in great need of some reviving spirit, which was supplied in the form of punch and wafers.

DEBATE PENNANTS GRANTED

Another very interesting ceremony was conducted by the Commissioner of Debating, Mr. Ralph Netzley, the granting of pennants to both the College and the Academy debating teams. These teams have accomplished a great deal this year and have had a very prominent part in placing La Verne on the map. Mr. Netzley, in behalf of the Student Body, thanked the other loyal students who had spent time and energy in helping students who had spent time and energy in helping the debaters. Those in the Academy receiving pennants were Jeanette King, Herman Moomaw, and Ora Weddle, and those in the College, D. Welty Lefever, Leland Brubaker, and George Hollenberg.

In the song, "Guide of La Verne" something worth while has been created. It is a song of which we can afford to be proud because it has been the work of home talent. Many schools are satisfied with ill-arranged parodies on popular songs, but La Verne certainly should always uphold the standard of original words and music.

In order to live, a song must prove itself worthy of living. The test of time is the only true test of the worth of a work of art. Let us give "Guide of La Verne" a chance to prove itself.

We are printing the music of this song for you to use on your piano. The words appeared in an earlier issue.

DEAN GIVES SENIOR DINNER

"It's great to be a Senior!" was the sentiment of all the College Seniors who dined at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. I. T. Hoover Friday evening May 27th. Upon arrival a different kind of flower was pinned on each guest and when they were called to the dining room, each one found his place by matching the flower he wore with those on the table, which were arranged at the plates in tiny paper flower pots. Needless to say, every one enjoyed what followed—a delicious four-course dinner with chicken and all the other good things that go with it.

During the dinner all were curious about a big ball of yarn hanging from the chandelier, and finally the end of the yarn was given to Dr. Hoover to start unwinding. After some yards were unwound, a toy balloon was found tied to the yarn, and as each one took his turn in unwinding it, he found a surprise of a similar nature. Prof. Frantz was also the recipient of a toy balloon, and he and Dr. Hoover furnished the music for the evening by blowing them up and letting the air out in unison. Welty Lefever's tiny potato doubtless furnished him fried potatoes for breakfast the next morning. The Seniors left for home, happy and well-filled.

THE SENIORS DITCH!

The College Seniors seemed to be the cause of much excitement Friday, May 27th, for the news had spread the night before that the Seniors were taking their "ditch" day. But the next morning when all the said Seniors appeared about the building as usual, the distracted Juniors hardly knew where their duty lay. But to show their deep sorrow at the Senior's possible absence, they faithfully wore black crepe paper arm bands. However, the Seniors did disappear about 11 o'clock and where they went is still a mystery to some. But it is sufficient to say that they had a real picnic and oh, the eats! The banana pies especially were beyond description. As for amusement, there was plenty for all.

CUPID STILL BUSY

Tuesday evening, May 10, an interesting party was given at the home of Miss Marie Woody. The invited guests were all told it was a surprise for Miss Hazel Minnich, as she is soon leaving for the east. Each one was taxed five cents to purchase some little remembrance for her from her California friends. After the guests had all assembled, Hazel was worked (?) into coming and of course was greatly surprised. When the gift was presented to her, she opened it and then the real surprise came, for the package contained a number of small envelopes, one of which was given to each girl present. On the little card inside was written, "Marie Woody and Leland Brubaker, June 4." Each girl also found her nickle inside, which she had donated for the gift for Hazel.

The remainder of the evening was spent in viewing the contents of Miss Woody's hope chest and in embroidering designs in the corners of dish towels for the bride-to-be.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The invited guests were Mrs. Mabel Brubaker, Mrs. Alberta Frantz, Irene Frothingham, Hazel Minnich, Naomi Harshbarger, Pauline Miller, Beulah Noll, Estella Landis, Elva Gillette, Mary Gockley, Marguerita Ives, Hazel Brubaker, Florence Julius, Olive Stouffer, Verona Hurt and Rhoda Price.

MR. AND MRS. C. DeWITT ENTERTAIN

On the evening of May 9, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton DeWitt opened their home to a group of college students and an informal good time was enjoyed in music and games. Miss Ruth Boose entertained the company with her steel guitar, and Miss Thompson sang several much appreciated vocal solos. Then Mr. Donald DeWitt, who is an accomplished musician, having studied with Theo Becker of Los Angeles, played several piano selections, which were rendered in a very artistic and finished manner.

Last, but not least, were the delicious refreshments, consisting of ice cream, cake, and coffee, which were served by the hostess. To show their appreciation for the good time given them, a hearty cheer was given just outside the door for the DeWitts.

Those invited were the Misses Ruth Boose, Alida Larimer, Ethel, Ada, and Helen Winslow, Mr. Fike, Mary Gockley, Marguerita Ives, Maybelle Thompson, Pauline Miller, Eva Brownsberger, Mr. O. B. Gregory, and the Messrs. Byrl Harper, Simeon Davis, John Rhodes, Howard Bosler, Guy Jordan and O. B. Gregory.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE

Sunday, May 22, a group of girls gathered at the J. S. Brower home to celebrate the eighteenth birthday of Carol Randall. The affair was a great surprise to Carol, for she was not expecting any of the girls excepting Annabel Huberty. One of the greatest events was the chicken dinner with all the good things that go with it. After a happy afternoon spent in playing games, most delicious ice cream and angel food cake were served.

Those present were the Misses Annabel Huberty, Rae Brubaker, Beulah Smith, Mary Blickenstaff, Ramah Maust, Ruth Price, Eva Marshburn, Velma Noll, Marguerite Dickey, Bes-sie Hixson, and the Messrs. Alvin Marshburn and Alva Brower, and Mr. and Mrs. Huberty.

MARIE WOODY "SHOWERED"

While the Seniors were busily practicing the Senior play Thursday evening, May 19, something else was in progress at the home of Miss Pauline Miller, where she and Miss Hazel Minnich were plotting against the bride-to-be, Marie Woody. About 7:30, when play practice was over, Marie was easily seduced up to the Miller home under pretense of Mrs. Haugh wishing to see Pres. Miller. But instead, when she was ushered in, about forty guests had arrived before her, and in the center of the circle was a table heaped with packages of all sizes and shapes. After Marie had regained her composure slightly, she was set to the task of discovering the contents of all these packages. The "shower" included some beautiful pieces of cut glass, silverware, and linen, as well as many useful and practical kitchen articles.

By a little coaxing, some of the details of the romance were discovered, but to the great disappointment of a few, all could not be coaxed out.

Before the guests departed refreshments of fruit salad and cake were served. From the many beautiful and useful gifts received, it is easy to see that the many friends of Miss Woody and Mr. Brubaker, wish them well.

Out of town guests were the Misses Veda Brubaker, Mabel and Esther Funk, and Maude Brubaker, all of U. S. C. in Los Angeles.

KOLLEGE KNEWS

On last Friday morning the College Seniors passed away. Just where they passed to, we did not learn on that dark and dreary morn. However, they are back with us again, though judging by commencement preparations they are soon to leave us finally. The Juniors appeared wearing mourning arm bands, and several artistically draped notices appeared in the halls on said Friday morning bearing the inscription: "The Seniors aren't gone"

But let them have their rest, We're glad they quit of their own accord

And not by general request."

Mr. John Brooks is very ill. It seems incredible that anyone as athletic and full of vitality as Johnny could be still long enough to be sick. However the entire student body joins in wishing Johnny a speedy recovery.

The dorms celebrated one day last week. Strawberry short-cake! Yum! Can it was? Who says dorm life doesn't have its thrills even in the dining room.

Mr. John Rhodes celebrated his birthday last week with a special table in the dining room, at which he entertained seven of his close friends. He had no candles on his cake, so we are not sure just how old our worthy little financier is, but we suppose he must be at least eighteen years.

Mr. John Price arrived home from the east on last Friday and appeared suddenly on the campus. He nearly created a riot in the halls when he was first sighted. The new students of this year stood around wondering just who and what this new personage was and why all the fuss and confusion.

Mr. John W. Fox left for Montana Thursday, where he will be employed on the Great Northern railroad.

If you haven't written your name in an annual exactly one hundred and seventy nine times, you had better immediately hunt up the ones you missed and write your John Henry therein.

When the price of football suits was announced in chapel the student body gulped bravely but voted unanimously to shoulder the debt. The water isn't so cold after you've jumped in, and debts aren't so bad after they're once yours. That's Philosophy.

PROF. B. S. HAUGH GIVES SENIOR RECITAL

Prof. B. S. Haugh, who has studied vocal music at the University of Southern California during the whole of this past year, gave his Senior Recital in the University Chapel on the evening of May 23d.

Prof. Haugh rendered eighteen vocal selections entirely from memory, which was a severe test in so wide a range of selections. He was assisted by Beatrice Loucks, violinist, and Lois Waltz, pianist, and by Mrs. B. S. Haugh in a vocal duet.

Prof. Haugh is receiving the degree Bachelor of Music, which is the highest conferred by the University. His major subject is voice, and minor composition; the composition requirement is the writing of a cantata. He is now composing a dramatic cantata to be known as David and Goliath. This he hopes to present to the public at some future date.

LET "FRASHER'S PUT THE SNAP IN YOUR VACATION SNAP SHOTS!"

It's so easy to wrap part of an envelope around your roll of films, put your "return" plainly in one corner, and address it to "Frasher's," Pomona, Cal. When "Frasher's" receive your roll, they'll understand! No letter is necessary—"One each will be finished"—they pay the return postage, and mail them to you the same day your order is received. Try it and you'll always do it. Frasher's have a large mail order trade. Many of your friends all over the state, also in Kansas and other states have found how satisfactorily "Frasher's" handle mail orders, and are sending orders continually.

COLLEGE PENNANT CHOSEN
L. V. C. students have long felt the need of a College Pennant which should be distinct and represent La Verne College. Just last week were their hopes fully realized when the Pennant Committee presented to the Student Body for their approval a beautiful orange and green pennant with the college seal in the same colors. They decided to accept the report of the committee and authorized them to take charge of the ordering of Pennants.

COLLEGE LETTER TO BE ORANGE ON GREEN
La Verne College is coming to the place where the College and Academy are going to be separate. There is now only one set of letters, green on orange background for both the College and Academy athletic teams. But as the students increase and the College takes a prominent place in Athletics, it is necessary to have a distinction between the College and Academy, especially as to letters for the athletic men. A committee was appointed to investigate the matter and the students accepted their suggestion that the College letters hereafter be orange letters on a green background, in distinction from the Academy green letters on an orange background.

Friday morning, May 20th, the Bethany Girls gave the Hustlers a royal time at Ganesha park, in the early hours of the morning. A delicious breakfast of hamburger and eggs, doughnuts and coffee was served. Yea bo, let's go again.

Nothing is better than a good lesson. A poor lesson is better than nothing. Therefore, a poor lesson is better than a good lesson.

Ticket Seller:—Do you want a box seat, sir?

Student:—Haven't you any chairs?

Father:—My boy, what do you expect to be when you get out of college.

Dutiful son:—An old man, father.

Mrs. Ellis, in English VI, at the beginning of the last recitation:—Well, I don't see any tears in your eyes.

Lloyd Funk:—No, my thoughts lie too deep for tears.

Nellie was very nervous in the presence of the inspector the other day. She managed to get rather mixed in her translation of a French sentence. She read, "I was a very cold day in August."

FOOTBALL

All ye candidates for football heed this call! Present yourselves next year, a wholly acceptable human, ready to serve La Verne as a pigskin chaser. Keep your bodies fit this summer and thus do away with too strenuous training next fall.

Our outlook next year is fine. We have the Brooks boys, Bohn, Gillette, King, Root, all men who are fast and willing workers. The squad will be green, of course, but with a competent coach, we hope to have a winning team.

The college will have a fair squad of players a little more experienced than the Academy. Of course we cannot expect to compete with other colleges, but it will be a foundation.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

The college baseball team finished with a clean slate this year, so to speak, with no victories. However, it must be remembered that this is the first year, and too much could not be expected. Whittier State School defeated us by a score of 8 to 4; Pomona Frosh, 9 to 8; and later on a game was played with Pomona Varsity. Some second string men were used by Pomona, but their four leading batters were first team men. La Verne used three Academy men, two of whom graduate this year. Welch pitched a great game and even succeeded in turning back Doughty, one of Pomona's hardest hitters, without a hit. The final count was Pomona 7, La Verne 6. Next year watch us go.

VOLUNTEER MISSION BAND CLOSSES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The program given at Glendora on Sunday evening, May 22, closed the deputation work of the Volunteer Mission Band for the year. Through the organization of two teams, the Band was able to do the deputation work in a shorter time. Thirteen programs were given in all. The theme of the spring programs was "The Living Christ," in which the ideals of Jesus were presented and He was held up as the Living One, the perfect pattern for the molding of our lives.

The new constitution, which was drawn up by the constitutional committee and recommended to the Band, was discussed during the several meetings called for that purpose last week and finally adopted with a few slight changes. The new constitution provides for the election of officers during the second week of the last month of school, so a meeting for the election was called on Friday, May 20th. The following officers for the year 1921-1922 were elected and were installed on Sunday morning.

President, L. S. Brubaker.
Secretary, Susan Stoner.
Treasurer, Herman Moomaw.
Chorister, Beulah Noll.
Chairman of Practical Service Committee, Herman Landis.

The past year has been a successful one for the Mission Band. Much definite Christian service was rendered through its direction, and many hard problems met and solved. Plans are being laid by which the Band may be of still greater service next year and it is hoped that the year will bring the Band greater opportunities for growth.

The Foreign Language Program

Friday night, May 20th, the students of the Spanish, Latin and French departments gave a program, which was the first program of this kind given in the history of L. V. C. To say that it was good is expressing it very mildly—it was a grand success.

The first number was a little play given by the Spanish students. The scene was laid near an old Spanish pueblo. The plot was an interesting love affair in which the girl's mother refuses to let her marry her sweetheart. When it becomes known that he is the heir of a large fortune, the mother consents to the marriage. The scene ended, of course, as all such scenes do. Otis Brooks made a very good fruit vender, and Velma Noll was a real chaperone. After this play a quartette sang several Spanish songs and Wanda Carl and Dorothy Arnold sang two duets.

The Latin department then performed. Guy Gordan read a paper describing the gods of Rome and representations of them were shown on the stage. The boys proved that they at least can read Latin, because they sang a very intelligible (?) song. In a little Latin play Mr. Fox acted the part of a school boy enjoying (?) the pleasures (?) of studying Latin. He went to sleep and Caesar's ghost, represented by the Latin teacher, Miss Flanders, appeared. The ghost told him of the real worth of studying Latin, but it had little effect upon the school boy. After he awoke he gave his book a toss and went to bed.

The last number was a French play "La Surprise D'Isidore." Truman Funderburgh was a real Frenchman, in actions and looks. He took the part of Isidore, a school friend of Adolph, the doctor. Isidore decided to make Adolph a visit, but did not know that he had an asylum near his home. He went to Adolph's without notifying him and the maid took him for a patient they were expecting. He soon learned of the asylum and took the maid, the wife and her mother for some of the inmates. After a short time the doctor appeared and cleared up the matter.

All of the students that took part in the program did very well and deserve a great deal of praise.
