TIME CARD.
GOING EAST

When it rains it adds up to 1:31 P. M. usually melts it and (stop) 10:00 A. M. streams to water the plants. Mn takes it into pipes and lets it out on the ground wherever he wants it. In the Valley's there is no snow, grass and trees are green and flowers everywhere of all kinds. It is as God made it and it suits us admirably.

Bear Valley reservoir (when the new dam is completed) will hold 461,451 acre feet of water; height of dam, 120 feet; length of dam about 450 feet; length of reservoir 12 miles; watershed 77 square miles, or 49,280 acres. This area of watershed can be more than doubled by means of canals to bring water from adjoining watersheds.—Orange Belt.

More trains pass over the Pennsylvania road between Pittsburg and Altoona on the Southwest division than any single road in the U. S. When the coke ovens are running at their average capacity, and during the prosperous season, 356 trains, freight and passenger, pass over the division between the points named daily.

Our Cornfields.

For many years Southern California has been famous as the great corn section of the State. But until very recently the notion has prevailed that corn could be produced only on damp land, or where irrigation was possible. All the corn of the old days was produced at El Monte, or Downey City, or on some other moist lands, or where water for irrigation was obtainable. This was a very natural view of people recently from the East to take. It is a well known thing that in all the Mississippi valley States, and others farther east, summer rains are indispensable to the corn crop. At several stages of the development of the plant, rain must be had. The most critical period is when the blossoms form. At that time a failure to get rain means without exception a failure to get corn. So when the farmers from the western prairies came here and found a region without summer rains, the conclusion was natural that it was not a corn country. At length some one tried irrigation on the crop and succeeded. Then lands, where the rains lay until into May, were tried, and by corn grew well in spite of the lack of rain. Then no one tried irrigation until a few years ago, when the tempt was made to grow corn on the mesas, where water never made the first attempt. It succeeded, and then with a trial, until it was established a fact that the mesas are a good school where the virtues are emulated and the vices abhorred—the nobler part of the being is cultivated and the baser rooted out, in honor to the State and a benefit of the human family.

A New Enterprise.

We are glad to note that J. F. & Co., of our town have secured the right to manufacture and sell the famous American fire and proof paint. They have just introduced a new portable tank and apparatus and are prepared to apply the paint to the roofs of buildings anywhere in this valley on short notice. They recently has their paint been introduced into California and where ever used it has received the highest praise as being the only fire proof paint that suits this climate. It is put on boiling hot, cools instantly and forms a durable coat equal in consistency to stone cement. Never cracks or scales off and will last a life time. Old, leaky roofs made good as new and for new buildings it is just the thing. The company will have their headquarters at Lordsburg. We speak for them a rushing business. A sample may be seen at this office.

There is no small stir over the disarrangement of H. Jay Hanchette, secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. He assisted at the Chicago Orange Carnival, and has been seen since May 7th when he left in Chicago. There are fears of a play.

How To Cure Scolds.

When Mr. Wesley started his reformatory movement, he met, like all reformers, strong opposition from "the regulars." Some one gathered up a mob of Methodists and carried them before a magistrate on a pretext. One of the accusers said, "They pretend to be better than other people; and besides they pray from morning till night." The magistrate asked if they had done anything else. "Yes sir," said the old man, "and please your worship, they converted my wife. Till she went among them she had such a tongue! and now she is as quiet as a lamb." "Carry them back, carry them

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

MOTTO.—As a fountain of pure water is to a thirsty traveler, so is good news to the mind.

Q.—Do producers dry their fruit or do they generally sell to canneries?

A.—Some dry their own fruit, but most of it is sold to capitalists who dry it and make considerable profit that ought to go to the grower. Those who dry their fruit usually do well.

Q.—How long will it be until all the good land in this valley will be occupied?

A.—At the present rate of improvement it will not be many years until all choice fruit-bearing land will be in cultivation, and then prices will likely be high.

Q.—Why is it that small branches on fruit trees in California grow the length of a man's arm in two months while in the East it would require six months to grow that long?

O.T.O.

A.—Climatic conditions are more favorable here. The trees are not chilled by frosts and blizzards. Then too, the soil is especially adapted to the growth of trees in this country. Plant life develops rapidly here because of the favorable conditions.

Q.—What is used for hay in California?

T.

A.—Alfalfa and barley. Large quantities of barley are sown every year and this with the alfalfa supplies horses and cattle with grain feed. An acre of alfalfa will go a great ways as it can be mown six or eight times during the Summer and pastured in Winter.

Q.—I cannot understand how there is no snow in Winter.

CANE.

A.—You must remember that the Almighty made the mountains and up there He piles the snow during Winter, and in Summer the Sun gradually melts it and down it comes in streams to water the plants, and trees. Man takes it into pipes and lets it out on the ground wherever he wants it. In the Valley's there is no snow, grass and trees are green and flowers everywhere of all kinds. It is as God made it and it suits us admirably.

that locality are attracting many set-

The gaping mouth of avarice never gets enough. You might fill it with all the gold in the universe; you might pile up, for its use, all the silver, all the diamonds and the jew-

How different the man who makes gold serve him instead of bowing down to it! Instead of looking up to it, he makes it look up to him. It is most precious and serviceable to him who stands over it, stamps it to pre-eminent over all its influences.

Godliness with contentment is gain.
Gain is not godliness.

S. Washbam of Pasadena, called on us this week while spending some time with his friend, Mr. Woodwar d of this place.

Twenty-five years ago no women were permitted to attend college in the United States; now over 40,000 are students in the various institutions of learning.

We recently saw a Chinaman reading an English Bible while on the train between Los Angeles and this place. The circumstance was an unusual one; but the example was no less worthy of imitation.

Speaking of the growth of the Substantial Philosophy in England, Prof.
J. I. Swander says: The manufacturers, handlers and operators of musical instruments have also caught the substantial itch to some extent, and are now scratching themselves into a felicitous sensation never previously enjoyed under the undulatory order of things.

On the 18th inst. as our train from Los Angeles went flying over the track where orange branches on either side almost reach up to the cars, we espied Gov. H. H. Markham on the train chatting pleasantly with some friends. Arriving at South Pasadena he alighted, took hack and was driven to his home. For a Governor of a great State to travel as do his subjects and mingle with them is a matter for commendation by all the people. Governor Markham is of the people, therefore is willing to associate with the people.

Off for the East.
Dr. T. J Nair our esteemed partner in the SOUTHERN CALIFORNIAN, and his estimable wife, are going to the Annual Conference of the German Baptist Brethren or Dunkard church which meets at Hagerstown, Md, the 2nd. They will also go to the Shenandoah Valley, Va, their native home and spend a short time 'mid the scenes of their childhood, and drink of the waters of youthful inspiration.
Dr. Nair goes as a delegate from the church at this place, and will also look after the Santa Fe's interest on the Conference grounds. We wish them a safe journey and all the pleasures of grace that may be necessary for their comfort and enjoyment.

ABRAHAM Lincoln stands out in history as a man of great fertility in aptness. Once a personal friend said to him: "Mr. President, do you really expect to end this war during your administration?" "Can't say, can't say, sir." "But, Mr. Lincoln, what do you mean to do?" "Peg away, sir, peg away; keep pegging away." And "pegging away" did it.

VICTORY may not always end in enjoyment to the victor. Two fine looking chanticleers had a cruel and bloody battle. The contest finally ended in one of them running into a hole where the other could not follow. The conquerer flew up on the fence, clapped his sides with his wings, and crowed proudly over his victory; but just then a hawk, hovering in the air heard his gleeful chuckle, and, pouncing down upon him carried him off and made a meal of him.

THE Chicago Inter-ocean commenting on the death of Dr. Cronin by the "Inner Circle" of the Clan-na-gael says that there should be "an increasing strength of hatred of the slavishness of secret orders whose members will do murder at the bidding of despots" There is no doubt that the inner circles of some combination, would not stop short of murder in order to carry their points. We never could see the utility of men banding themselves together in secret to do any good work, and we are sure it is wrong to do so for base purposes. We believe all good work should be done openly. The plea of secrecy on the part of good people in order to do good, we fear, is resulting in the growth of secrecy to such an extent that it is likely to return as a vexer to those who should have seen the evil tendency of that way. Better that Christians do as the Master, all things openly.

A Mechanical Wonder.

The Decoration Day issue of the Albany, N. Y. Telegram will be the most original, unique and popular paper ever presented to the American public. Nothing like it ever attempted by a newspaper in the nineteenth century. As a mechanical wonder and a military literary library there will be nothing to even compare with it issued in this country. It will be printed on red, white and blue paper and consist of 16 pages. If there is no agent in your town you can have the paper mailed to you at 5 cents a copy.

What They Say About The College.

The Lordsburg hotel property has been purchased by the German Baptist church and will be converted into a college. We are heartily in sympathy with this grand good scheme and wish it every imaginable success.—Citrograph.

The last issue of the SOUTHERN CALIFORNIAN, published at Lordsburg, announces that the purchase of the Lordsburg hotel for school purposes has been completed, and that school will be opened therein this coming fall. That most excellent building will make a fine school house, and will serve a better purpose than it ever would as a hotel.—Riverside Enterprise.

Pomona promises to become the Athens of Southern California at no very remote future date. Pomona College, at Claremont, under the auspices of the Congregationalists, is in a flourishing condition and is rapidly growing in favor and prestige. And now comes the news that the magnificent Lordsburg hotel building, which cost somebody over $100,000 is to be converted into a college. It is said it has been purchased by a syndicate which will use it for college purposes. The school is to be non-sectarian, but the German Baptist Brethren are to have a majority on the Board of Trustees.—Phoenix.

ARE you a regular subscriber to the SOUTHERN CALIFORNIAN?

A good school where the virtues are esteemed and the vices abhorred—where the nobler part of the being is cultivated and the baser rooted out, is an honor to the State and a benefactor of the human family.

There is no small stir over the disappearance of H. Jay Hanchette, Secretary of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. He assisted at the Chicago Orange Carnival, and has not been seen since May 7th when he was in Chicago. There are fears of foul play.

How To Cure Scolds.

When Mr. Wesley started his reformatory movement, he met, like all reformers, strong opposition from "the regulars." Some one gathered up a load of Methodists and carried them before a magistrate on a pretext. One of the accusers said, "They pretend to be better than other people; and besides they pray from morning till night."

The magistrate asked if they had done anything else.

"Yes sir," said the old man, "an't please your worship, they converted my wife. Till she went among them she had such a tongue! and now she is as quiet as a lamb."

"Carry them back, carry them back!" said the justice, "and let them convert all the scolds in the town."

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

How We Made a Fig Orchard.

For the Southern Californian.

Being asked to write up our place, I will try to do so, although it is pretty well up already I don't know as I shall succeed very well. Our place is set mostly to fig trees and I will try to tell what little I know about them. Six years ago Dec., 13th rather and I landed in California. Our place was then densely covered with cactus and brush. I well remember the first days work surveying the boundary of our forty acre ranch, I did not take much pains in making a path through the cactus and at night I felt as if I had tumbled on a big pin cushion with the pins wrong end up.

Really I did not think the land worth clearing up. Well the next thing to do was to build a little house. Up it went by the labor of our own hands; so far so good. Now for the clearing of some land; out we went with grub-hoe and ax, up came cactus and brush. We cleared off about seven acres the first year, sowing five acres to barley for old dobbie, and planting one acre of potatoes for us and the squirrels. As near as I can remember there was quite a boom that summer. (I mean in rabbits and squirrels.) We also set out a variety of trees for home use; apricots, pears, prunes, peaches, apples, quince, figs lemons and oranges; the second year we set out five acres to figs, and they did so well on our waterless land that we continued to set out as the years rolled by until our place is nearly covered with them; we think that the White Adriatic is the best kind of fig, although the lateness of the crop is somewhat an objection in drying, although we succeeded very well last year. We have tried several ways of drying them; in order to dry the fig successfully whole, we found that we had to sulphur pretty highly if the weather was cool, as it was apt to be that time of year, and as Josiah Allen would say, "I myself" don't like them that way. I think the best way to dry them is to sulphur them only about ten minutes then take them out and cut them partly open, leaving them so they will hang together in good shape; they should be turned on the trays about once a day; in this way they dry much faster, and you will not lose any by souring. As soon as dried put them in the sweat box for ten or fifteen days, then put them through an oven of steam heat (steam heat is preferable,) to kill all the germs; then pack tightly in boxes, put them in a cupboard in a dark room, and I think that one will not be troubled with live stock on them.

Figs like other fruit can be used in quite a number of ways; we find by soaking the dried ones over night and then cooking them they make a very palatable dish. They are nice pickled or made into marmalade.

I believe the time is coming when the fig will be used very extensively, even as much as the orange, it being more of a food. We have orange and lemon trees to sell as well as fig.

Well if you want to behold a pretty sight come up and see us, (I mean the orchard.)

Let's see—I have to sign my name to this don't I? But one good thing I don't have to tell how old I am.

Chauncy S Sheldon.

Concerning Olives.

Rev. C. F. Loop, of Pomona, says riding for hundreds of miles through continuous olive orchards in France and Spain, interrupted only by towns and villages, he noticed that the trees were invariably growing on a reddish upland.

A number of the best posted Frenchmen told him that if Californians knew what was to their best interest, they would cultivate the olive, and that the demand for oil and pickles can never be filled.

A pure oil is odorless, and on this account it is now coming into extensive use for the extracting of perfumery from flowers. Another use for it is the covering of the brine in pickling barrels with five or six inches of oil to keep out air, thus preserving the brine and preventing it from clouding.

That one great mistake made in this country is, when we import trees from France or Spain and plant them out here, we do so often with a total disregard to the constitution of the particular variety.

It has been demonstrated time and again that a tree which in its native country flourishes by the coast cannot be planted inland and come up to the point of excellence demanded by the grower, or vice versa.—Farmer and Dealer.

The Boy Who Minds His Mother.

Boys, just listen for a moment
To a word I have to say;
Manhood's gates are just before you,
Drawing nearer every day;
Bear in mind while you are passing
O'er the intervening span,
That the boy who minds his mother
Seldom makes a wicked man.

There are many slips and failures
In this world we're living in;
Those who start with prospects fairest,
Oft are overcome by sin;
But I'm certain that you'll notice,
If the facts you'll closely scan,
That the boy who minds his mother
Seldom makes a wicked man.

Then be guided by her counsel,
It will never lead astray,
Rest assured she has your welfare
In her thoughts by night and day;
Don't forget that she has loved you,
Since the day your life began;
Ah, the boy who minds his mother
Seldom makes a wicked man.
