Student Body Party Plans Complete

Plans are completed for the student body party and everyone is anticipating a real celebration of Hallowe'en Thursday evening in the "gym." The scheduled time is eight o'clock and everyone is expected to come masked and in costumes fitting an occasion like the "Penny a Fir."

Numerous booths are being planned as varied and ingeniously conceived as the many people who are at work can make them. No one can afford to come with less than two pockets full of pennies for the appeal of the concessions will be hard to withstand. "Attractions for every eye" won't half express the outlay of booths.

After this source of amusement is exhausted or at least has been participated in for some time, a grand march is to be staged with prizes for exceptional costumes. A prize is being offered for the "craziest" as well as for the best costume and a very, very special prize is to be offered for the best masked faculty member.

It is hoped that the faculty as well as the students will be one hundred per cent represented. There should be some keen competition for the faculty prize.

"Red" Weybright is going to take charge of the games, which are the next big feature of the program.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie and cider are to be dispensed from one of the booths, of which Martha Baer and Edith Murray will have charge.

More details can not be given in advance. It has to be experienced to be appreciated.

Student Volunteers

The Student Volunteers broke records Wednesday night with sixty present at their meeting, which was held at the I. D. Yoder home. A more enthusiastic speaker than Mrs. Leland Brubaker could not be desired. Her subject was, "The Consecrated Life" and from the vim and enthusiasm which was shown in her task, it could easily be seen that her own life was fully

Y. W. C. A. Candle Lighting Service

An impressive recognition meeting for Y. W. C. A. members took place Monday morning in the form of a candle lighting service. Soft music, "Follow the Gleam," was played by Edna Brubaker during the meeting. The prayer was read by Myrtice Butterbaugh, after which the group sang one verse of "Holy, Holy, Holy." After the reading of the "Purpose of the Y. W. C. A." members pledged themselves to stand by the pledge and all that it means.

Cabinet officers, followed by the other members, participated in the candle lighting, encircling the room. All, with lighted candles, sang "Follow the Gleam" as a closing number on the morning's program.

Each year a public candle lighting service is given in order that people of LaVerne may attend. It will be held this year in connection with the Y. W. C. A. Christmas Vesper.

Dr. Edmunds Talks to Thursday's Chapel

Dr. Edmunds, president of Pomona College, was the speaker of Thursday's chapel services, bringing a message from the other side of the world.

A devotional song by the Aeolian Quartette was followed by prayer. After a few preliminary announcements, the quartet returned to render "The Mulligan Musketeers" and "Eight Bells."

Dr. Edmunds introduced his remarks with a brief survey of the relative position of the United States in regard to the other countries of the world. He pointed out that should the world be divided into parts territorially equal to the United States, there would be sixteen parts, of which only six are regarded as Christian nations, and two-thirds are politically and economically dependent upon the remaining.

The speaker threw a new light on the question of missionary efforts by pointing out that our efforts in the missionary line are not one-sided, for they bring mutual benefit to the giver as well as to him who receives.

"What we need in our world relations," declares Dr. Edmunds, "is knowledge on which to base understanding, that this understanding may in turn bring about confidence in one another." Perhaps Confucius didn't know his geography, but his ethics was not far wrong when he declared that "all men between the four seas are brethren."

One of the most important elements of the world problem, according to Dr. Edmunds, is the world education of the individual. As an index to the progress of the world, he would point us to the position of the women of the world. It is an astounding fact that two-thirds of the women of the world are in bondage to ignorance. We shall not have a world safe for democracy until we have the proper value put upon the individual.

There was a ringing challenge in the speaker's closing words, "Shall we not all co-operate to bring in the new day?"

Freely ye have received freely give.

Celebrate Birthday Surprise Party

Miss LaVonne Putnam was pleasantly surprised when, on going to the home of Miss Frances Bishop in Pomona, she found a group of her friends there to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary. She received many lovely presents. The group played several games and wished Miss Putnam "many happy birthdays."

Those present were the honor guest Miss Putnam, Misses Edna Amberson, Wilmar Long, Esther Thomason, Messrs. Isaac Funk, Vernon Weybright, John Kindy, Charles Manning, Whitcomb Overholtzer and the hostesses, Misses Mildred Smith and Frances Bishop.

A Canadian reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Rensberger Sunday at which the following guests were present: Mrs. Frank Pobst and sons, Wilbur, Harry and David, Howard Salter, Wilbur, Clarence and Grace Brubaker, Leonora Balderson and Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Rensberger.

Cosmopolitan Feast Scheduled for Nov. 2

The big event of the season is approaching November 2—the Feast of Nations! This is a cafeteria supper given each year by the Y. W. C. A., which has, through its success in previous years, become a well-known and appreciated social occasion in which townspeople and students co-operate in a noteworthy manner.

Originality is the keynote of this year's Feast of Nations, as shown by the arrangement for booths, most of which are entirely different from the international motif carried out in other years. The Southern booth with its delicious chicken and biscuit, the Chinese booth of fish and tea, Norwegian booth and its variety of appetizing salads, French modernistic booth, serving pie, cake and ice cream; American Farmerette booth, specializing in vegetables, and the LaVerne College booth, having hot breads, are among the novel attractions to be seen at this year's Feast of Nations.

Toward the close of this week, the gymnasium will be transformed into a mass of greenery, color and beautifully decorated booths.

Each year the girls in charge of the booths spend much time and thought on their part in making the event more successful than ever before. Donations and help from the people of LaVerne make the feast possible. Their co-operation is greatly appreciated, for without their interest, this supper serving hundreds of people from LaVerne and near-by towns would not be the financial success that it has always proved to be.

Mabel Eisenbise and Kay Crist, who have general supervision of this year's Feast of Nations, have

Mother - Daughter Party Novel Affair

A mothers' and daughters' get-acquainted party was given by the three women's classes of the Church of the Brethren in the gymnasium Monday evening for all college girls and those of college age. A good jolly time was had all during the evening.

Mrs. Vaniman, as "master of ceremonies" had arranged an excellent program and stunts which were participated in by the whole group. The readings given by Wilma Long, "The Christian Soldier" and "I Dot Sumapun" in My Pocket," and the negro dialect readings by Mrs. Van Cleave; also the trio, "Little Orphan Annie," by Geneva Suttle Evelyn Deardorff and Anita Bowman, got everyone in good spirits for the fun which was to follow.

Four groups were formed and

Alumnus Entertains Tuesday's Chapel

Mr. Harvey Brubaker, a graduate of LaVerne College, entertained the students Tuesday morning during the chapel hour with a program of songs. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Brubaker.

For the devotional thought of the morning, Mr. Brubaker gave a spiritual song, while the members of the student body sat with bowed heads. The first selection was "That Old Irish Mother of Mine." The second, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," was also an Irish song. This was followed by "The Sunshine of Your Smile," and "Susie McClain" was thrown in for variety. After the second verse of the latter, the assembly hummed the chorus and then sang it in unison. The concluding number was an old Irish air, "Danny Boy."

Mr. Brubaker presented the Orange Blossom singers for the final number. He first warned the audience that they were very poor singers, but judging from the applause following "Old Uncle Moon," the assembly considered the singers very fine indeed. For an encore the Orange Blossom Singers gave "Ezekiel Saw a Wheel."

Dean Hoover made a few announcements at the conclusion of the program.

Mr. Brubaker has been well known for his enjoyable songs ever since the early days of the "Clarion Four," predecessor of the present Aeolian Quartette. At the time he was a LaVerne Student, he filled an important place in the music circles of the campus.

Since the disbanding of the "Clarion Four" quartet, "Happy" has gone on with his public singing, assisting with the musical program of the church, broadcasting to radio audiences, and furnishing numbers on various programs on request.

One of the results of "Happy's" activities is very evident in the showing being made by the "Orange Blossom Singers," who have been under the direction of Mr. Brubaker since the organization.

Their numbers, as well as the program presented by "Happy," were greatly appreciated by the students.

American Schools Attract Greek Student; Likes LaVerne

By A. T. Mallides
From the earliest times some ports of the Mediterranean Sea have been the connecting points of the Near East with Europe. Constantinople, Smyrna and Alexandria are the busiest ports, exporting enormous quantities of goods to the East.

I know Smyrna as my home town for it happened that my father was handling a part of the Smyrna figs that were exported to London, Canada and New York. The population of the city reached one-half million in 1922, the bulk of the population being Greeks, French and a few Americans and Englishmen. These people control practically all of the business of the city.

Turks compose one-fourth of the population. They are a very strong people and used to carrying heavy weights of goods on their backs,

Extensive Tryouts Pick Deputation Teams

For the past three weeks there has been a series of try-outs for the deputation team quartets before a selecting committee.

Miss Mary Platt, who holds the office of deputation manager in the Student Volunteer organization, is at the head of the selecting committee, which also includes Frances Berg, Y. W. C. A. representative; George Berg, Y. M. C. A. representative, and Professor B. S. Haugh, faculty representative and advisor.

In the preliminary tryouts, there was a very large and representative number of participants with the exception of bass singers, who were finally roped in for the finals. There was great difficulty in selecting from among such a number of voices and personalities, and in considering the following selecting problems one will not wonder if Miss Platt begins to get gray soon.

The points considered in choosing each individual are:

Mainly, does his voice blend with the others?

Does it stand out in proportion to the others?

Will this person's personality take with the older people? The younger people?

How about his character? Physically, can he stand the trip?

Is his heart with the project?

Will he work with the rest of the team?

Upper classmen are given first opportunity because lower classmen have some years yet ahead.

Ingenuity is a very big factor, as one can easily see, for the members must be able to meet varied occasions and circumstances.

They must be able to study their audiences and create atmosphere

Lindsay Reunion

Last Wednesday, October 23rd, all students who were once a part of the population of Lindsay, California, met in a reunion at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Hollenberg, from six to eight p. m. Since Mrs. Hollenberg came from Lindsay, she was anxious to have this reunion.

SELF ENCOURAGEMENT

By Mary Merrill

The encouragement of others is one of the most useful and noble occupations a man could take up. The columns of life are filled with want advertisements clamoring for the commodity. Ninety-nine out of a hundred want encouragement all the time, and the hundredth wants encouragement for only twenty-three hours and fifty-nine minutes a day.

Something must be done as the supply of encouragement is limited. Everyone wants it and needs it, yet no one gives enough encouragement to go around.

What is to be done? Nothing more or less than your making up your mind to encourage yourself. Take yourself aside and reason with yourself earnestly. Laugh away fears, pick yourself up, shake off the dust, slap yourself on the back, give another turn to the crank and away you will go with new vim and energy.

Do you know what is the source of nine-tenths of the world's supply of discouragement? Have you gone into the heart of the subject? Nine-tenths of the discouragements are due to pride and, moreover, the most cowardly species of pride—human respect. Forget the other man's sneer or laugh. Geologists revel in the mysteries of erosion, and they will tell you how a little pebble may be spun around a large rock by the current of a stream until it has worn a cavity. Pride keeps the stream of consciousness playing on one failure until it has worn a cavity of discouragement in the soul. Cut off the stream; forget the failure.

Self-encouragement is the serum for everyone. Use it often.—Albany High.

Sweaters Will Warm LaVerne Yell Kings

According to the yearly custom, white sweaters, decorated with a large "L," and a megaphone, were presented to the two yell leaders, Mallides and Manning, in student body meeting Friday morning. While these two withdrew to put on their new gifts, President Orville Thomason made the following announcements:

The frosh will have charge of the assembly period next Friday.

The Leopard Kittens play the Sherman Indians at Riverside on Friday afternoon, October 25.

The hour for the masquerade party to be held Thursday night has been changed to eight o'clock, so that the regular cantata practice may take place.

The LaVerne Varsity football team will play Redlands on Saturday, October 26.

This final announcement called for a peppy rally which was conducted by the smartly attired yell leaders.

Ballots were passed bearing the following amendment to the constitution:

"The name of this organization shall be changed from the Student Body of LaVerne College, to The Associated Students of LaVerne College."

After the ballots were checked they were collected at the door as the students passed out to the front of the building where a group picture was taken of the student body.

Journalists Elect "Times" Officers

A better Campus Times and a more efficient staff are certain to be the outcome of the live meeting of the staff held last Friday evening. May Chronister presided, while the following staff officers were elected: Lucille Hylton, president; Hazel Rothrock, secretary and treasurer. It was decided to hold regular meetings each month on the second and fourth Tuesdays at 7 o'clock. All staff members not present will please note this. Another item of interest to all members is the party to be given sometime in the near future.

Miss Chronister made numerous suggestions for improving the efficiency of the paper and encouraged everyone "to use his nose for news."

Professor Brubaker, chairman of the faculty publicity committee, was present and made a short speech explaining the purpose of the committee as being purely advisory. He also complimented the staff for their work thus far this year and encouraged the maintenance of still higher standards in English construction, make-up and proof-reading.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Landis helped supervise and put over the Hallowe'en party in which the LaVerne C. E. entertained the Pasadena C. E. on Friday evening. Herman supervises this group.

MY EXPERIENCE WITH THE AMERICANS IN GREECE

city and the life of the people does not differ essentially from our own here in America, except that the Turks never changed their customs.

Tourists came every year to see the Venetian castles and to visit the Library and the Museum of the Evangelical school where there were many worthy manuscripts and many statues of the Temple of Diana of Ephesus.

The city is built by the foot of the first hill from the sea. On the second hill, named Paradise, there is the International College, an American institution, of which most of the faculty is composed of Pomona College graduates.

I did not know much about American life and American institutions until 1919, when I became acquainted with the Y. M. C. A. One afternoon a friend and I were welcomed in a social time in the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Fisher, now in the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., talked to us in English, but his words seemed to me Greek—or rather, English. We talked to him in Greek and French, but both of them were Greek to him. After a while the smiles and kindness were enough to make us acquainted with the people. We felt that they were good people and it was not long until we took English lessons so that we could be able to enjoy more about the Y. M. C. A. That first night I learned to pronounce "Y. M. C. A." It was the first English words that I learned.

In 1922 I was through the Greek gymnasium, or Junior college, and I was planning to enter the International College, but Smyrna was burned and we had to go back to Athens again.

In that catastrophe the American people through American institutions such as the Y. M. C. A., American Red Cross, Near East Relief, and the American Women's Hospital showed remarkable altruism and heroism in rescuing people from every kind of danger.

Many of us Greek students found hospitality under the roof of the Y. M. C. A.

I worked in Athens for two years. I could speak but a few sentences of broken English. Much of my time I was spending in trying to learn English and taking advantage of every opportunity to meet Americans so as to have practice.

Then after two years in the Y. M. C. A. I became a student of the American College of Salonica. I liked the kind of education that I received there. The people were good and of a very fine type.

At the beginning of the school year of 1926 I became acquainted with a very good young man. He was my English teacher. In his room he had a green pennant on which was the word LAVERNE and the head of a leopard. In his desk was a copy of the "Orange Blossom." It was then that I made my first acquaintance with our dear L. V. C.

The time passed by and a sincere friendship was formed between me and the alumnus of LaVerne College who carried with him the spirit of Christian education through two continents and one ocean. He did a very nice piece of work among the Greek students and stood as a wonderful example for that aim for which LaVerne stands.

He came back to LaVerne and a year later I was getting ready to leave for the United States of America.

An evening of autumn, 1927, found me aboard the trans-Atlantic liner. The big propeller was pushing with rhythmic force the blue waters of the Aegean Sea. In every mile we passed the scenes of historic events.

First we passed over the gulf of Salamis from where one sees the hill from which Xerxes sat watching his fleet. Then we could see the Temple of Poseidon and the Acropolis with the old columns of the Parthenon standing so that they seemed to be hanging from the blue skies of Attica, while the golden beams of the setting sun passed through them, giving passing warmth to the soft breeze of the Aegean.

All the trip over the Mediterranean Sea brought forth a perpetually changing setting of pictures of history, extending from ancient to modern times.

Anyone seeing the Greek and Roman ruins feels that it is he himself who is living with that age of civilization.

On landing in Barcelona I felt myself quite at home. It is here one sees the Spanish bull fights at their best, or should I say their worst.

Two weeks later I had the greatest privilege of my life in enjoying the happiness and hospitality of the New World.

When I arrived in LaVerne I was more than happy, for I was in a place that it seemed I had known for many years.

Leopard's Whiskers

"Dee" Dellenbach

Our college is gaining in popularity. I have seen a paper which was sent to one of the faculty, said paper being addressed "Mayor." Some people are denied such honor—others acquire it, while still others have it thrust on them.

Some people never grow up. Take for example some few who, when "D" notices were put in the letter rack, looked in other students' letters. Such a thing should not cause condemnation, as it was no crime; rather it should cause a feeling of pity that any one in college should be so childish.

Such curiosity might be labeled the height of asininity.

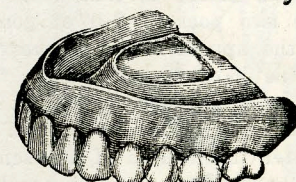

It was unfortunate that we lost the game aSturday, but now we will look forward to the San Diego game. Whether we win or lose, we have the reputation for fighting and in the meantime the team is getting experience. We lose but three men from the year's team and with our Frosh team coming on we should have a splendid team next year. By the way, the game that the Frosh played against Sherman Institute was one to be proud of.

Some people refuse to believe in signs—for instance, the people who drive through the street in front of the college in spite of the signs telling them not to.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Emmert of Santa Barbara spent the week-end in LaVerne.

Ernest Carl reports that he is enjoying his graduate work in Pomona College and his work as athletic coach in the San Dimas grammar school.

Prof. George Hollenberg, a member of the publicity committee of the LaVerne church building council, gave an address at the close of Sunday School Sunday morning telling of a special price on cement and urging all to pay their pledges.

Dr. Iva Walters of Oakland and Velta Platt Baker of the same city spent last week in Southern California.

Mrs. Marie Woody Brubaker gave a most earnest address before the Student Volunteers Wednesday evening on the "Consecrated Life."

Miss Dorothy Temple and Norval Caywood of Santa Barbara spent the week-end in LaVerne.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bohn of El Monte spent Sunday in LaVerne.

Ernest Landis's indoor baseball boys are in line for the championship of the league, as they have won every game so far this season. He teaches at Puente.

Dr. Russell Lichtenwalter and wife, Ruth Blickenstaff Lichtenwalter, of Long Beach visited LaVerne friends Sunday.

Miss Esther Funk of Charter Oak attended church services in LaVerne Sunday morning. She knew Pastor Walker while he was on duty as pastor of Juniata College people at Huntington, Pa.

Miss Gladys Larimer presided at the organ in the church Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Everhardt of Azusa spent Sunday in the Mrs. Susie Larimer home. Mrs. Everhardt is remembered as Mary Mes-simer.

As soon as everyone arrived, the good time began. First several games were played, but finally reminiscences got the upper hand, and the good times of the past were discussed. The conversation consisted greatly in "Don't you remember—?" Everyone became so deeply engrossed they could scarcely stop to eat, until they found out how delicious was the food.

The company was served a lap dinner which consisted of creamed chicken on toast, buttered peas, pineapple and carrot salad, sandwiches and ice cream and cake.

Miss Eleanor Maryott spent Saturday in Los Angeles.

Dorm News

The A. W. S. held a short devotional meeting Thursday, Oct. 24, at 7:15 o'clock. The program also included songs by the group, a solo by Frances Sandblom and a reading by Ruth Gibbel. After this, Mrs. Miller served refreshments in honor of the birthdays of the month of October. These were Esther Stattler's, Edith Coffman's and Marian Souter's. The candles were blown out and cake and chocolate served.

Louise Huff spent Friday and Saturday in Covina with her grandmother.

Iva Livingston and Louise Huff went to Los Angeles, Sunday afternoon.

Sunday morning Bernice Conley's name appeared on the board in the dorm with "church" written after it, but there was also a question mark. You see, she went with Alfred Nicolas and evidently did not know whether she would get to church or not—anyway they got back all right.

Commandments of the Dorm

1. Thou shalt not take a male upstairs unless he is a relative.
2. If thou shouldst take a relative up, then thou shalt scream at the top of thy voice, "Man in the hall."
3. Thou shalt not speak above a whisper from 7:30 to 10 p. m.
4. Thou shalt not be out after 10:30.
5. Thou shalt not go out on school nights. Four days thou shalt have boy friends in the parlor if thou desirest.
6. Two late dates a month thou shalt have, but no other late dates or thou shalt receive demerits.
7. Thou shalt not leave without putting thy name on the board.
8. Thou shalt not dance, smoke, or play cards other than rook.
9. Thou shalt be in bed by 10:30.
10. Thou shalt keep thy room clean and neat.
11. Thou shalt make thy bed every morning before going to school.

WILD PARTY!!

Thursday evening, the 24th, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Daugherty and boarders entertained in true rough-house style three of their friends, Mr. Harry Thomas and the Misses Sylvia and Verna DeHart. Soon after the guests arrived, water guns were produced and a "free-for-all" ensued. More fun, and more people killed! The guns were soon abandoned for cups, pans and kettles of water, and at the close even the garden hose claimed its share in the battle. The valorous exploits of the host, Mr. Daugherty, seemed to be the most outstanding and far-reaching features of the evening. With a pan of water in hand, he pursued his opponents into the back yard, almost administering a ducking to an entirely innocent party. Shortly afterwards, Mr. Thomas, in a desperate effort to escape the belligerent host, turned over a kattle of beans on the kitchen floor and sped out the door in great haste.

Peace was once again restored, only to be broken by a rouge fight, ammunition being furnished by the lady contestants. Red-faced and spattered with water, the guests left, agreeing that a good time was had by all!

Mr. and Mrs. Byrl Harper of Huntington Beach visited LaVerne friends over the week-end.

Esther Thomason and Charles Manning attended a skating party at Pickering Rink Saturday evening.

Miss Katherine Hanawalt spent Friday night with Marian Souter in Los Angeles and on Saturday went shopping.

Steward Allen spent an enjoyable week end at his winter home in Claremont.

Anna Emmert is again on the campus after several weeks of absence on account of illness..

Kathryn Hanawalt and Marian Souter had dinner at "The Chicken Roost" Friday evening, after which Miss Hanawalt was an over-night guest at Miller Hall.

Misses Dorothy Soper and Louise Griset attended the Hallowe'en party held by the Epworth League Saturday evening. The affair was in the form of a hay-ride and the guests report a very enjoyable time, especially mentioning the campfire and delicious eats which went with it.

Glenna Betz spent Sunday in San Bernardino visiting Mrs. Ralph Patterson, nee Mitylene Augustus, and family. Mrs. Patterson was formerly a resident of LaVerne.

Each was told to plan a stunt illustrating the subject, "Why Mothers Turn Gray." Children's quarrels, fights, and teasings were enacted, but the one winning the prize was that in which twelve of the group acted as hours on a clock, one in the middle made the hands go round, and the early hours of the morning were struck off before the daughters came home, and mothers sat up waiting all that time.

These "gray" mothers then vied with one another in pinning the tail on a cat, all missing the mark.

Novel refreshments were served at the close of the evening's entertainment, getting the mothers and daughters acquainted.

Leopards Lose to Redlands 26 to 0

Worn out after a first half battle in which they had held Redlands to a 7 to 0 score on the Redlands turf, LaVerne Leopards wilted before a superior attack in the second half and lost a conference encounter to the Bulldogs, 26 to 0.

Redlands scored their first touchdown in the first quarter, when Hank Beiden went off right tackle for 25 yards, just after Captain Loper had carried the ball for a first down. Hilton Bell kicked off to Hubbell who returned the pigskin to his LaVerne's 39 yard line. Failing to make a first down, LaVerne was forced to punt out of danger. Calvert's poor boot gave Redlands the ball on their own 35-yard line. Keele went off tackle for a few yards and then Bell just missed a first down by a foot as the horn indicated the end of the first quarter.

The Bulldogs made eight first downs the next quarter, but failed to put the ball over the goal line as the scrappy Leopard crew held on their opponents' eight-yard line. Throughout the third quarter the fight of the LaVerne aggregation held Redlands once more scoreless. It was a beautiful exhibition of stamina on the part of Coach I. H. Van Cleave's boys; for nine of the men played the entire game. LaVerne also showed up offensively better in the third period, a punt from Calvert to Hubbell netting the Leopards their first downs of the contest.

LaVerne's lack of reserve material to put in the place of the worn out first string allowed Redlands to romp all over the field in the fourth quarter, when the Bulldogs turned in three touchdowns. The first was scored when Martin Fox went thru center after Captain Loper had succeeded in carrying the ball to the one-foot line. Beiden's failure to convert left the score 13 to 0.

Shortly after this Beiden broke loose and galloped 65 yards for the third score. His kick was blocked, making the count 10 to 0. The last touchdown came just before the close of the game. Calvert punted to Bell, who with beautiful interference ahead of him, returned the ball to LaVerne's 13-yard line. Loper went off tackle for three yards, added six more on a hard line drive and Fox went thru the line for a first down, but fumbled on the next play, LaVerne recovering, but losing the ball when the head linesmen called them offside. Fox went thru on the next play for a final touchdown. A pass, Beide to Bell, added the extra point to make the score 26 to 0. The line-ups:

Redlands	LaVerne
Keele	LE
Heisner	LT
Hull	LG
Agner	C
Tombs	RG

DEP TEAM QUARTETS HAVE BEEN CHOSEN

(Continued from Page One) accordingly. The same sense must be used in their contacts with individuals and families. The committee has conformed to these ideals as far as possible and the following are chosen:

Northern Team

Tenor—Marvin Bolinger of Ohio. Soprano—Lois Rupert of Reedley. Alto—May Chronister of Exeter, Bass—Russell Frantz of LaVerne.

Arizona Team

Tenor—Albert Gnagy, Glendora. Soprano—Pearl Niswander, Selma. Alto—Martha Baer, Lindsay.

Bass—Everett Calvert, McFarland. A fifth member, a speaker, will be added to each team. As yet only two have tried for this and the committee is still waiting to entertain others. Also, the theme of the programs to be given is uncertain, due to the fact that difficulty has arisen over the suggestion that a short play be given during part of the hour. A suitable short play is very hard to locate.

There are several purposes in the organizing and sending of these deputation teams, but which can be covered in the all inclusive title of 'putting L. V. C. on the map.' The team project is one way of giving to the people just a little in return for their support of the college. Too, LaVerne is a living institution, unable to sit back and be selfish, but eager to extend its activities, ideas and ideals to the rest of the country. This can be done only by keeping its walls ringing with voices and steps of students from all over the country. Thus the groups are covering ground to create and nourish interest in the college.

Frosh Battle Indians For No Score Game

Woefully weak on reserve strength and doped to lose by a considerable margin, the Leopard Kittens did themselves and their college honor by holding the Indians of Sherman Institute to a scoreless tie last Friday in one of the hardest fought battles seen around here for some time.

It was truly a tit for tat game. Neither side could get through the line of their opponents. Plays were stopped by both elevens with a deadly precision. So closely were they matched that neither team made a first down until during the last two minutes of play. It was then that the Indians, after wearing two of their own teams to a frazzle, injected a third team and made their one big scoring threat which fizzled out with all the other threats.

On a fake forward pass that turned out to be a line plunge, a Sherman backfield man made a 10-yard run for the first first-down of the day. Then a pass and the tired Leopards found the ball on their one yard line. The Indians tried four times but lost ground on each try. The final whistle blew just as their last attempt failed.

The stars of defense for the Frosh were Rothrock, Shirk, Forney and Stover, with the whole squad assisting. The offense failed to produce either thrills or stars, but neither was missed much due to the great defensive play exhibited by both teams; rather one freshman team against three Sherman teams.

Lambda Staff Chosen

Work on the annual has been started and is well along. The book has been fully planned and the staff hopes to make it the best annual LaVerne has ever produced. A number of new ideas are being worked out, but the annual will be the same in size as last year's. The cover will be green and gold, and the same in design. We hope the college will make this design standard, changing only the color from year to year.

The staff is as follows:

Editor, "Dee" Dellenbach.

Assistant Editor, Don Snider.

Art Editor, Katherine Hanawalt.

Feature Editor, Verna Sheets.

Write-up Editor, Hazel Rothrock.

Photographer, Charles Manning.

Jokes Editor, John Kindy.

Sports Editor, John Heiser.

Snap Editor, Daniel Stover.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

(Continued from Page One) consecrated. Mrs. Brubaker is a graduate of LaVerne College and has been on the mission field in China, therefore she was able to give some concrete needs of absolute consecration, in order to get the best results. She brought out the fact that it was a real joy to give service and to take advantage of every chance to serve.

The devotions were led by Glenn Harmon. Virginia Stern read a poem, "How the Revival Came," by Margaret J. Bidwell.

The two plays which the Volunteers are giving this year are "Robert and Mary" and "The Heroine of Ava." Sylvia DeHart and Harry Thomas were chosen as leaders of the Mexican prayer meeting groups.
