The Snow Plant-- Sarcodes Sanguinea.

This marvelous bit of vegetation is one of the most anomalous plants. By anomalous I mean odd, different from ordinary things, without suitable name, exceptional. When we say "plants" we instinctively think of green vegetation, but sarcodes is never green, being always wholly bright pink. Even in the subterranean root-stalks, which in ordinary plants lack color, are here pink, or rosy white.

This plant is especially Californian being found only on the slopes of the Sierra Nevadas in this state, and so far as I am aware, nowhere else. Locally, it is found in moderate abundance on our own mountains near the lumber mills, at an elevation of 4,000 to 6,000 feet. It is yet more abundant further north in the larger ranges of mountains, and amid the fir and redwood forests of the central part of the State. Like many another California production it has been bragged about, misrepresented, and lied about until, as the phrase goes, its own mother would not know it, and this over-phrase has caused it to be regarded with a mixture of wonder and incredulity, with the unbelief in the ascendant.

Scientific men are rather given to ridiculing the common names given by ordinary people to plants and other objects in Natural History, but in this case the book men have the wrong end of the handle. Torrey, the botanist, first got hold of this plant and was therefore entitled to give it a name—a boon name. "Ah! quoth he, now have I a new plant indeed. Yea, verily, will I give it a name, and now let all men stand agape with awe!" And he tackled his Greek lexicon, and ran his eye along its pages till he saw the word 'Sarcodes—flesh.' "That will do," said he, "but yet 'tis too mild—not terrific enough—let's see what Latin affords." So he pulled down his dictionary and hunted for a gory lock to shake at posterity, and at length he saw "Sanguinea—bloody."

"I have it!" Shouted he; by the great Lucifer, chief of liars. I was bound to get a name that would make mankind to quake, and I have done it!" It is a growsome name indeed, and not applicable to this pretty plant. The plant is pink, certainly, but of a lovely tint that would cause a person upon seeing it to cry out, "Oh, you lovely thing! come to me at once!" "Sarcodes sanguinea—bloody flesh!" Bah! Torrey, you make me very weary.

But so it is; Torrey misnamed it, and so it is that the leading sheep of the flock having jumped over the wall of falsehood all the rest of the flock follow after, pell mell, each apparently trying to tell a less truthful story than the other, till the snow plant has a half-famous, from semi-entirely from being a fake,

"Snow plant," that's another false name, not true in any sense, or at any time or place. The plant grows in May and June, long after the snow has gone, and not until the dry and sunny banks have become warm and fitted for plants to grow upon in comfort. Yet only three years ago an English gentleman who thinks himself scientific and very learned, came here after the snow plant: went up on the mountain purposely for it, brought it with great care to town and to Wesner's gallery to have it photographed. Then he got white cotton batting and placed it all about the red plant, to represent snow, and to make people believe that the plant grows amid real snow! That was all a willful misrepresentation—a scientific lie done on purpose, by one who knew better, but he had the pictures so taken, and doubtless shows them to his brother Englishmen as one of California's rare wonders.

There are, in humanity, men, and men. Most men are able to stand upon their own footing, are able to earn their own bread and butter. Others are parasites, bloodsuckers, leeches; they live upon or off of other men, eating bread they have not earned, and bread which is not theirs. We all know them and know their names. So in plants there are sturdy strong rooted and strong limbed growths, able to feed themselves, and to stand amid the storms and rains, erect and alone. And there are also those which cannot and do not thus live alone, but must fasten upon some one else, to live upon and grow from the juices of other plants. So, also, we know them, and their names. I regret to say that the snow plant (for I must use this lying name, as it has no other) is one of these latter. It is a parasite. It grows upon, or from, the root of another plant, namely, the fir tree, a foot or two underground. I wish I could go on and tell how it first starts from the root to grow, and how long it takes to develop and gather size and strength to push up above the surface of the ground in May. But I will not try to do so, for the truth is that no one knows. It is yet one of Nature's secrets. The snow plant has an abundance of flowers round, red, like blushing sleigh-bells, and later, an infinite number of smallest seeds, like dust, but no gardener has yet been able to cause one of these tiny seeds to germinate. Nor yet has the growth of one of these underground seedlings been observed. It is difficult to watch the growth of a plant while it is yet hidden beneath the soil. So we can only surmise and judge from analogy.

And, as all men do not see alike or in the same light, there is as yet a wide difference of opinion as to how the young snow plant begins its start in the world. Some think that the seeds germinate near the ground and send down roots to find the desired root of fir upon which to fasten, and which is essential to further growth, or, failing to find the desired root, dies unknown and without any visible growth above ground. Others think that the seeds possess great vitality, remaining possibly many years in the ground, till by the action of frost, or of water, the seed is carried down into the soil, and so at length happens to meet the required root, is fertilized and germinates, growing one or two years subterraneously, till at length it attains size and strength sufficient to appear above ground. This latter view the writer holds. But all is conjecture in any case.

The fact remains that the snow plant has a connection with the deep-laid fir root. Notwithstanding which it has a great mass of fibrous roots of its very own, and among these matted fibres are a great number of amorphous corms of shapeless bulbs, cold, juicy, ice-like, which are evidently stores of nutriment laid up for and given to the juicy body of the plant during its visible existence; just as a century plant during many years stores up in its thick body and heavy leaves the nutriment that shall force its tall flower stalk to make its wonderful growth when the year of its flowering comes; and having them given all its juices to the work of flowering, it dies, whole. So, when the snow plant has made its growth above ground, and has perfected its flowers and seeds, it dies from top to bottom, utterly.

Among men, it is not creditable to be a parasite. But among plants there is no particular disgrace attached to such an existence. There are many of them. Generally they are lovelier in flower or more attractive than their hosts, or the plants upon which they live. Mistletoe is a parasite. Many orchids are parasites. The "love vine," over which adolescent maidens of both sexes wax enthusiastic, is a wicked parasite, wicked because it kills the plant it lives upon.

It is not generally well-known, but there are several plants growing in the mountains, having the same habits and almost the same shape, as the snow plant. One is of brown color, with flowers of brown, but otherwise might readily be mistaken for a snow plant; it is Boschnactia. On the plains, under the brush, and even in the sands of the desert, is often found another class of parasites, similar in shape, but brown with rosy flowers; it is Aphyllon. Yet another parasite more or less familiar to most of us, is Indian pipe—wholly of a pallid white. Another is pinedrops; another a wintergreen. Indeed, the list of parasitic plants having generally the same habits is a long one, so I may better not go any farther into it now—C. N. G.

Dirt, Debt and the Devil.

A San Francisco minister was given an opportunity to resign by his flock, because he preached too much gospel and had a bad habit of telling the truth. A brother of the cloth remarked when he heard of this incident, that ministers when dealing with their congregation had too much "dirt, debt and the devil" to oppose them. We do not know of but one course to pursue under such circumstances, and that is to declare the whole truth whether a hypocritical congregation will receive it or not. There is no such thing as improving the future without disturbing the present, we have heard. A faithful messenger of God dare not withhold his sword from blood. To be honest with a lot of old dry useless pharisees, is a mercy to them. Wealthy congregations are usually willing to pay men well to prophesy smooth things for them, and will give pastors a chance to resign who have a habit of saying disagreeable things from the pulpit. Such ecclesiastical dead houses need cleaning out, and the corpses either resurrected by having the Spirit of the living Christ infused into them, or else carted away to some cemetery and buried. A Sacramento physician said (and claimed to know what he was talking about) that the majority of the ministers in that city would not dare to preach the doctrine of hell fire, as it would cost them their positions if they did. This is awful, if true. We hope the time will never come when ministers will tone down the truth and cease to talk of hell because unsaved professors of religion do not like it. If they do they are in danger of being sent to hell with them.

"I Will Send Thee Far Hence Unto The Gentiles."

St. Paul's commission, given him by the Lord, Himself, in Acts xxii 21 R. V. and previously in Acts ix 15, and xii 46 47, R. V. was to "the nations;" those who were not reckoned to be God's people, and in common parlance were esteemed by the Jews to be "Gentiles."

In the preface to the Revised Version, the translators and revisers make the following observation:—"The Hebrew word, Goyim, "nations," which is applied to the nations of Canaan dispossessed by the Hebrews and then also to the surrounding nations among whom the people of Israel were afterwards dispersed, acquired in latter times, a moral significance, which is represented in the Authorized Version by the rendering "heathen" or "Gentiles."

While recognizing this moral sense of the word, the revisers have employed it much more sparingly than their predecessors had done. Unfortunately the revisers in the three passages noted above, adopted the moral sense and used the word Gentiles, instead of leaving the Hebrew and Greek words to their ordinary translations, the "nations."

In Acts ix 15 R. V., the rendering is "The Lord said unto Ananias, go thy way, for he (Paul) is a chosen vessel unto Me, to bear My name before the Gentiles (instead of nations) and kings and children of Israel."

In Acts xiii 46, 47, they translate thus "... Lo we turn to the Gentiles (not to the nations) for so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee for a light to the Gentiles (instead of to the nations-) that thou shouldst be for salvation unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

In Acts xvii, 21 the revisers render "Depart, for I will send thee forth, far hence, unto the Gentiles," instead of unto the nations.

In Acts xxxviii 28, R. V., we have St. Paul's statement to the Jews at Rome translated thus: "Be it known therefore unto you that this salvation of God is sent unto the Gentiles, really according to the Greek 'unto the nations;' they will also hear." Had the revisers and translators of the Authorized Version left the Greek and Hebrew to speak for themselves we should have benefitted. For it is manifest from God's Word, that the Gospel which the Jews rejected, was to be accepted, not by the Gentiles as such, or by the nations as such, but by a nation mingled and wanderers among the nations, and that nation was Israel of the House of Joseph or Ephraim. Our Lord Himself said as much to the Jews in Matt. xxi 43 R. V., "Therefore, say I unto you, the kingdom of God shall be taken away from you and shall be given to a nation not to the nations, bringing forth the fruits thereof." In Isa. lvi 1, R. V., we have the Lord's own statement "I am inquired of by them that asked not [for Me], I am found of them that sought Me not; I said, Behold Me, unto a nation that was not called by My name."

In Isa. lv 5, R. V., we have a similar declaration regarding this one nation. "Behold thou shalt call a nation that knowest not, and a nation that knew not thee shall run unto thee because of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy one of Israel, for he hath glorified thee." The nations among whom Israel was sifted and scattered as wanderers according to Hosea ix 17, R. V. and Amos ix 9, R. V., heard the gospel according to Acts xxxviii 28, but as nations they never received it. The nation of Israel buried among them when gathered into the Isles of the West, first among the nations received and embraced Christ, and have been his nation ever since, bringing forth the fruits of the kingdom of God.

St. Paul was sent "far hence" from Jerusalem to the nations, but he went and found Israel God's Lo Anmi and he planted Christ's gospel among them. They heard and received that gospel, and carried it with them to the British Isles, where their brethren had been previously planted, and 61, had received Christ Jesus as the head of their national church—Banner of Israel.

ANY person having a full file of SOUTHERN CALIFORNIANS should correspond with us. We need a file for a public reading room in Los Angeles.

THE Hartley (Tex.) Headlight has on its war paint this week, and from what we know of some of her citizens it will have to keep it on a while yet before they will spend a nickle to help a good enterprise.

J. M. Snyder did business in Kan., City on Tuesday forenoon leaving there at 10:45 over the Santa Fe Route he reached home at 6:20 in time for supper and to attend services in the chapel. The distance is two hundred and twenty miles.—Educator and Companion.

That is about the way it goes, brother Snyder, when one rides on the "Santa Fe."

A New Paper.

THE initial number of The San Gabriel Valley Argus a six column folio published at Covina, Cal., has reached our desk. It is a bright, clean and newsy sheet and well patronized by advertisers. It is non-partisan and from its tone has come to stay. We have canvassed all of its pages to find the name of its editor but none appears. However we, with all its good friends, patrons and projectors, wish it a pleasant and profitable sail through the journalistic era of its life.

A Boom Indeed.

WE recently read a letter written by a friend in Oregon in which he spoke of a "boom in Southern California." In this view he, as well as others who labor under the impression that a boom in which people are dealing in real estate having fictitious values, is mistaken. There is no boom in Southern California in the sense in which our friend regards a boom.

If a steady activity in real estate, for industrial purposes, is a boom then we have one. If the drying, canning and preserving of hundreds of carloads of fruit, is a boom then it is here indeed. If the raising of corn and barley and alfalfa at remunerative prices is a boom, then there is one in the land. If the picking, packing and shipment of thousands of carloads of fine oranges is a boom, then there is a big one in Southern California. If the employment of thousands of boys, girls, women and men during the fruit season, is a boom, then the past summer witnessed one. If throughout the year laborers receive from $1.50 to $1.75 per day, and girls for domestic work from $20 to $25 per month, means a boom, then a good sized one is abroad in this land. It all depends on what a man calls a boom here, it is a singular country; a poor man, if industrious, can get a home.

J. W. Keefer and family and Miss Clara Eshelman were visitors here last Saturday and Sunday.

A force of workmen is engaged in laying 3200 feet of six-inch pipe this week up into the Wells' canyon. E. G. Zug has the work in hand.

Eld. P. S. Myers, of Ontario, preached in the residence of M. M. Eshelman last Sunday. His labors were very much appreciated.

N. G. Hershey and others from Dickinson county, Kansas, are expected to arrive here December 19. His residence is rapidly nearing completion under the management of Frank Bolinger.

G. W. Mathias, D. Bolinger and H. H. Eshelman have been hauling up two car loads of vitrified clay pipe for the water system. The pipe is very lasting and when once in the ground scarcely ever needs repairing.

R. B. Wilson has offered an acre of ground for a church house. We hope efforts will be made to accept this very generous offer, and that a house in which people may worship God may be built at no distant day.

show him this article and say you want a ticket or tickets by this line and that you want to leave home so as to make connection with this party and then be sure to write M. M. LOS ANGELES, CAL., NOV., 28 1890.

DR. T. J. NAIR,

LORDSBURG, CAL.

DEAR SIR:

It is desired that the water consumers of the town of Lordsburg meet together and select two commissioners to act jointly with two commissioners selected by the owners of the water supply of Lordsburg, for the purpose of establishing a uniform water rate to be held by the said consumers.

The meeting of these commissioners is set for Monday, Dec., 8th. Their duties will be to look into the water rates established at other places similar to Lordsburg, and then adopt rates proportionate. These rates will then be posted in the town and thereafter the companies will expect to collect the rates thus established.

Will you please give notice of this in your paper and ask that the citizens select their commissioners on Saturday Dec., 6th, and also that the meeting of the said commissioners, after the same are selected will be at eleven o'clock a. m. December 8th, 1890. Said commissioners to meet in the office of the Pacific Land Improvement Company at Lordsburg. Trusting you will give this wide circulation, I am,

Very respectfully yours,

M. C. WESTBROOK.

Local News.

Mrs. Finch and Mrs. I. Overholzer of Covina spent yesterday in Lordsburg.

Mrs. T. J. Nair and little folks spent to-day in Covina, the guests of Mrs. A. Platt.

E. L. M. Dough came up Thursday morning to spend thanksgiving with his parents, and with him we also enjoyed a sumptuous repast. Thanks.

Mr. G. L. Alexander, representing the firm of Palmer and Rey of San Francisco was a pleasant caller at our office last Tuesday.

W. K. Whitesell who has been in Ventura county for a month or more, returned yesterday much better satisfied with Lordsburg than when he left.

Eld. John Metzger has moved into his new house this week where they seem to feel at home. Our people should congratulate themselves on having such good neighbors to locate amongst us.

M. C. Westbrook, of Los Angeles spent last Tuesday in town looking up the interest of the Company.

Messrs. Rhorer and Fleming of Pomona, sold, lately 140 acres of land near Ontario to actual settlers. This is quite a good thing, for it puts people to work on a fine tract and in a good section of the country.

We are sorry to note the illness of Mrs. A. Platt, of Covina, one of our earnest solicitors for the CALIFORNIAN. However at this writing she is improving slowly; we trust she may soon be restored to a full enjoyment of good health.

L. M. Hoff who shipped a car load of cows here from Burr Oak, Kansas, received 2000 pounds of very fine butter this week. Mr. Hoff expects to establish a creamery plant at this place in the near future. Just the thing we need.

James Logsdon who resided four miles south of Warrensburg, Mo., last June when the Dunkard meeting was held there, visited the exhibit of California products that was taken there, and in October sold his property and started for California Nov. 1st. He is visiting our fellow townsmen, Ewing and Price, and tells us he has bought a home at San Jacinto and is going to send for his family.

James Essam of Beatrice, Nebr., left for his home yesterday in company with M. M. Eshelman and G. W. Bishop. Mr. Essam made a purchase of fifty acres of land through the agency of T. J. Nair & Co., before leaving which will insure his return on the other hand, discomposing his wife, Noah and Miss Dolie. They returned yesterday for their home in Cerro Gerdo, Ills. We were loth to see such good folks leave us. However we have a partial promise that they will return to enjoy this sunny clime with its fruit and flowers.

N. G. Hershey of Belle Springs, Kan., informs us that he with 16 or 20 others will leave Navarre, Kan., on the 16th ult. for California. They all expect to locate at Esvena as they have already purchased land at that place and have made considerable improvements already in the way of building and laying water pipes.

Mrs. Smith gave a Thanksgiving dinner to her boarders and a few invited guests last Thursday. She knows just how to prepare such a dinner and surely those partaking of the same enjoyed the puddings, pies, cakes, and last but not least, the turkey, all of which could not be excelled, the only regret being that Thanksgiving does not come but once a year.

Covina Clinkets.

Maj. D. W. Hamlin is on the sick list.

Mesdames B. F. Eastman and J. S. Eckles spent Monday in Pomona.

Daniel Houser made a flying trip to San Jacinto and Biverside last week.

J. T. Hartshorn, formerly of this place but now of Riverside, is here attending to business.

Miss Callic Slutman, of La Canyada attended services at the Brethren church on last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shepard, of Compton, visited at Martin Bashor's last week.

The first number of the new paper the Argus, showed its smiling face yesterday and was warmly greeted by its readers who had waited so anxiously for its appearance.

Mr. E. W. Stiem, of San Pedro, was visiting his numerous friends at this place this week. He expects to move here shortly and take his old stand in the blacksmith shop.

The New England supper given by the ladies of the M. E. church Friday night last was a grand success both socially and financially. The receipts amounted to more than $75.00. The amount raised goes toward the completion of the parsonage.

Mrs. A. Platt is confined to her room from the effects of a very bad fall which she received last Thursday. At present she is suffering a great deal but we hope to soon see her about again.

Rev. J. S. Clark, editor of the California Voice, delivered a lecture on Prohibition at Covina Hall Thursday night. The meeting adjourned until called by the president.

Subject at the meeting of the Epworth League next Sabbath evening "They overcame by the blood of the Lamb and by their testimonies." Leader, Miss Delia Bashor.

Mr. Carl Warner, of Knoxville, Ia., is again among us after an absence of more than two years. He had been very low with typhoid fever and his many friends hope that his health may be restored again.

Sunday evening last Presiding Elder VanCleave delivered an able discourse to a full and attentive house, after which the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered.

On the 27th inst., an election will be held at the M. E. church at this place on the important question of admitting women as lay members to the general conference of the M. E. church. All members in full connection and 21 years of age can vote. U. No.

Seeking the land whence thou didst come,

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

The products of the new "Condensed Milk Factory" at Buena Park is gaining ground rapidly in San Francisco. The leading physicians there are prescribing their milk in preference to all others. And their "Condensed Coffee" is taking the people by storm; they want it in all the Eastern cities; every loyal Californian should buy the products of this Home Factory, especially when the goods are so highly endorsed.

RED RICE'S.

RED RICE'S, LOS ANGELES, Wednesday, Nov., 26. Attractive as other places may be, you and I must positively assert and believe, that there is no place like Red Rice's for real genuine bargains. There, everything is kept in such nice order. Again, no one is urged to buy; furthermore, nothing is misrepresented at Red Rice's. It is often remarked by those who would sell or buy, that it is a pleasure to deal at Red Rice's because everything is on the square. There are bargains on every square foot, from Main St. to Mott alley, 50x160 feet. Bargains are not the exception but the rule at Red Rice's; all are bargains. Nice furniture, new from the factory, at less than factory cost; other furniture, bought from boom-busted hotels, never used, sold as second hand furniture; other furniture, again, gathered from departing migrants; in fact, furniture from every available source together with carpets, stoves, pianos, buggies, carts (by the way, that's a fine English dog-cart we have to sell; it cost $250; we will sell for $65; it's worth $125 easy) then there are sewing machines, superb oil paintings brought by people of wealth from Europe; the wealth went booming, Red Rice got the paintings and will sell to you at about the price of pot-boilers. But why multiply? Behold at Red Rice's Bazaar you will find such things as cheap, cheap for cash. Red Rice's Bazaar is at 143 and 145 South Main street; yea.

The Profits of Orange Culture.

From the Orange Belt the following have been clipped showing the profits realized by a few orange growers last year. The addresses are given so that the doubting and disbelieving may ascertain the correctness of these figures by correspondence or personal inquiry:

THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE AGENCY.

In order that we may get our lands on the market we have concluded to list them up or at least a portion of them, which will enable our Eastern friends to make a selection by number. Thus taking the advantage of the low prices, as we predict that in less than twelve months that the same land will be one third higher. We are not expecting a boom but the intrinsic value of land will advance the price.

Persons having land for sale would do well to list up their lands with this AGENCY, as we expect to make a specialty of selling land in this section of country.

NOT TO—illuminate the mind, is to lay the foundation for sound government and human progress.

Consul-General Cardwell, at Cairo, reports that the artificial hatching of eggs was known to the ancient Egyptians, and that by their process, handed down from father to son, 15,000,000 marketable chickens are now produced each season.

The greatest ascertained depth of the ocean is midway between the island of Tristand Acunha and the mouth of the Rio de la Plats. The bottom there was found to be 8 3/4 miles below the surface. South of the Bermuda Islands a depth of 6 1/2 miles has been found.

It is reported that between Jan., 1 and Sept., 1, 1890, not less than 62 children—46 boys and 16 girls—committed suicide in Berlin. Of these 24 were 15 years old, 14 were 14, 9 were 13, 7 were 12, and 1 was less than 7. The principal cause is supposed to have been exceptional severity on the part of the guardians or teachers.

Experiments to determine the effects of acids and alkalis upon the stomach have been made by Jaworski, an eminent Polish physician. It is found that acids precipitate mucus, cause bile to flow into the stomach, increase the amount of pepsin in the gastric juice, and, in excess, produce disturbances of digestion. Alkalis, on the other hand, dissolve mucus and decompose pepsin. These results explain the harmfulness of a continuous use of vinegar, salcratus, soda and baking powders.

A writer on "minute marvels" states that the nature of bacteria was for a long time doubtful, but it has recently been determined that they are vegetable rather than animal, occurring in four forms—spheroidal, ovoidal, rod shaped and spiral. So minute are they that 1500 of them, placed end to end, would only cover a space equivalent to one-quarter the head of a pin. They are composed of a granular watery mass surrounded by thickened walls. A drop of water is the ocean in which they live.

A Receipt For a Day.

Take a little dash of water cold,
And a little leaven of prayer;
And a little bit of morning gold
Dissolved in the morning air.
Add to your meal some merriment,
And a thought for kith and kin;
And then, as your prime ingredient,
A plenty of work thrown in.
But spice it all with the essence of love,
And a little whiff of play;
Let a wise old Book and a glance above
Complete the well made day.

For the Young Men.

Save a part of your weekly earnings even if it be no more than a quarter of a dollar, and put your savings monthly in a savings bank.

Buy nothing till you can pay for it, and buy nothing that you do not need.

A young man who has grit enough to follow these rules will have taken the first step upward to succeed in business. He may be compelled to wear a coat a year longer, even if it be unfashionable; he may have to live in a smaller house than some of his young acquaintances; his wife may not shine with diamonds nor be resplendent in silk or satin, just yet; his children may not be dressed as dolls or popinjays; his table may be plain but wholesome, and the whiz of the beer or champagne cork may never be heard in his dwelling; he may have to get along without the earliest fruits or vegetables; he may have to abjure the club-room, the theatre and the gambling hell, and to reverence the Sabbath day and read and follow the precepts of the Bible instead; but he will be better off in every way for this self discipline. Yes, he may do all these without detriment to his manhood, or health or character. True, empty-headed folk may sneer at him and effect to pity him; but he will find that he has grown strong-hearted and brave enough to stand the laugh of the foolish. He has become an independent man. He never owes anybody, and so he is no man's slave. He has become master of himself and a master of himself will become a leader among men, and prosperity will crown his every enterprise.

Young man! life's disciple and life's success come from hard work and early self-denial; and hard earned success is all the sweeter at the time when old years climb upon your shoulders and you need propping up.
—Advertiser.

Spare time for reading, or for study or for the doing of a special work, does not ordinarily come to one in a full half day or an entire evening, but it is to be found in odd moments here and there, caught from the rush or presence of daily duties. Hence it is that it is the busiest man who can do one thing more, and that it is the man who has but little to do who is over crowded with a sense of his absorbing labors. Napoleon, speaking of the Austrians, after he had repeatedly beaten them in battle, with the advantage of numbers and position all on their side, said: "The Austrians are brave soldiers, but they have never learned the value of minutes." And in that saying Napoleon indicated a source of his own exceptional power. It was by the wise use of minutes that he did his greatest work in the world. The Napoleonic man in every sphere of research or of effort, is the man who has learned the value of minutes, and who uses his minutes accordingly.

A Boy's Composition on the Horse.

The horse is a noble animal. He has four legs, one at each corner. The horse has a head at one end and a tail on the other, which is different from the elephant, for he has a tail on both ends. There is the black horse, the white horse, the gray horse, the brown horse, the chestnut horse and the horse chestnut, the reddish horse and the horse-reddish. I don't like horse-reddish 'cause it gets in my eyes and makes them cry. There's the saw-horse, the close horse the horse voice, the horse-pital, and the horse-pistol. Besides there's the Colt's revolver, the pony of brandy, the night-mare and Mary had a little lamb. The horse is the only animal that wears shoes, but he does not take them off when he goes to bed like boys and girls. Horses have to work, if I was a horse I'd wish I was a cow. I like the horse and if I had one I would not let Jim Bunker ride on him, 'cause he makes mouths at my sister. You always can find a horse in the street, and you can tell him because he has big eyes and a head. The horse has a flowing coal scuttle—no—the horse has a flowing coal-black mane; some boys like goats, but as for me give me a horse or give me death.

Dissipated Ducks.

During the past week the men on Burpee's Forkhook seed farm a short distance west of Doyleston, Pa., have been gathering tomatoes and extracting the seed. The vegetable is first ground and then placed where the mass is allowed to ferment. It is then put through a washer, allowing the pulp to float away, while the seed settles at the bottom of the machine. The work is done on the margin of a small brook which empties into a pond frequented by a handsome flock of white Pekin ducks. The ducks have contracted the habit of coming up to the mouth of the stream and drinking the fermented juice of the tomatoes which contains the most salient characteristic of "Jersey lightning." They soon become drunk and stagger about in a most ludicrous manner. They have become so found of stuff that a genuine old spree is of daily occurrence.
