A Prison Incident.

Five years for the thoughtless acceptance of a glass of liquor is surely illustrating the Scriptural truth that "the way of transgressors is hard!"

I was holding the cold, trembling hand that had crept into mine. He earnestly tightened his grasp as imploring. he said: "Oh, M. S. Molloy, I ask a favor of you."

At once I expected he was going to ask me to obtain a pardon, and in an instant I measured the weight of public reproach that rests upon the victims of this legalized drink traffic.

It is all right to legalize a man to craze the brains of our boys, but not by any means to ask that the State pardon its victims.

Interpreting my thought, he said: "I am not going to ask you to get me a pardon, but I want you to write to my mother, and get a letter from her and send it to me. Don't for the world tell her where I am. Better not tell her anything about me. Just get a line from her, so I can look upon it! Oh! I am so homesick for my mother!"

The head of the boy dropped down into my lap, with a wailing sob: I laid my hand upon his head. I thought upon my own boy, and for a few moments was silent, and let the outburst of sorrows have vent.

Presently I said: "Murray, if I were your mother, and the odor of a thousand prisons was upon you, still you would be my boy. I should like to know where you were.

Is it right to keep that mother in suspense? Do you suppose that there ever has been a day or night that she has not prayed for her wandering boy? No, Murray, I will only consent to write to your mother on consideration that you will permit me to write the whole truth, just as one mother can write to another."

After some argument, his consent was finally obtained, and a letter was hastily penned and sent on his way. A week or so elapsed, when the following letter was received from Texas:

"DEAR SISTER IN CHRIST: Your letter was this day received, and I hasten to thank you for your words of tender sympathy and for tidings of my boy—the first we have had in two years. When Murray left home we thought it would not be long. As the months rolled on, the family had given him up for dead, but I felt sure God would give me back my boy.

As I write from a couch of an invalid, my husband, W. —, is nursing another son, who is lying at the gates of death with typhoid fever. I could not wait his return to write to Murray. I wrote and told him, if I could, how quickly I would go and pillow his head upon my breast, just as I did when he was a little child.

My poor, dear boy—so generous, kind and loving. What could he have done to deserve this punishment? You did not mention his crime, but say it was committed while under the influence of drink.

"I did not know he had ever tasted liquor. We raised six boys, and never knew one of them to be under the influence of drink. Oh! is there any place in this nation that is safe when our boys have left the home-fold?"

"Oh, God! my sorrow is greater than I can bear. I can not go to him, but, sister, I pray you to talk to him, and comfort him as you would have some mother talk to your boy, were he in his place.

Tell him that when he is released, his place in the old home-nest and his mother's heart is awaiting him."

Then followed the loving mother's words for Murray, in addition to those written. As I wept bitter tears over the words so full of heart-break, I asked myself the question: "How long will the nation continue to sanction the liquor traffic, covenant with death, and league with hell to rob us of our boys?"

Lovers of God and humanity, will you not work for the passage of laws that will save the boys and the agony of mothers like this. Similar cases are among us all the time.

THE Lordsburg College Association are putting in a large pool and fountain in front of the College Building, along with some other improvements.

Is not physical education just as important as moral and intellectual education? Bodily health is the under texture of our being, and to possess the under texture in all of its perfection is to give free expansion to the moral and intellectual facilities.

THE prospect for a large emigration this fall is very flattering. From the present out-look, there will be a number of families who will locate in Lordsburg very soon. The only thing that we regret is that we are very scarce of houses to rent.

EDUCATION may be good or bad. Youth may be trained in the good or they may be drilled in the baneful. By it characters are made and unmade. Education meets germs and develops them. There is power in it, and in the hands of wise and skillful men it can be turned to good.

A swing around Pomona last week convinced us that the Mills Fruit Company have one of the largest forces at work in the valley and are doing first-class work in every particular. They have over one hundred hands employed and handle from fifteen to thirty tons of fruit per day.

THOSE who expect to take lessons in the Art Department, of the Lordsburg College, should not fail to visit the secretary's office and take a look at some of the fine pictures now gracing the wall, that have been sent there by the young lady who expects to teach in this school.

THE editor of the Argus has been up to the headwaters of the San Gabriel River, angling for trout, and reports that the funny tribe took hold nobly in his interests. We know how to sympathize with brother Taylor in his task of eating thirty-six trout at a meal, for a few years ago we had a similar experience along the trout streams up in Estes Park, Colorado. If you are not afraid of your reputation as a trout angler, brother editor, you will take us along when you go again

WE have some very flattering newspaper gossip this week, in reference to Gen. Manager Wade, of the Southern California Railway. We wish that all that has been said may be realized, as we are always ready to speak for our friends.

THE Ontario Record of the 29th ult. contains a detailed statement of citrus and deciduous trees and vines planted this year in San Bernardino county. 9,316 acres have been planted to oranges and lemons; 3,094 acres to deciduous fruit trees; and 2,614 to vines, making a total of 15,024 acres, or over twenty-three sections. 895 acres were planted at Ontario, and 366 acres at Cucamonga. These thousands of acres of fruit trees and vines speak in unmistakable terms of the development now going on in this valley. It is but the beginning of a great stride in the direction of putting the whole valley under cultivation in trees and vines.

The fig industry is just receiving the attention of shrewd business men, and the propagation of olives is destined to become one of the leading productions. Taken altogether, the outlook for the future is full of hope and promise.

Deadly Fruit Pests.

A month ago a vessel arrived at San Pedro with 325,000 orange trees from Tahiti. Every one of the trees was covered with eight varieties of deadly pests, some of them the most injurious known to the orchardist. The trees were immediately placed in quarantine, but every endeavor to eradicate the pests has been of no avail. They cling to life with a tenacity unknown among other parasites. Of the eight varieties just imported five are new to the State. It is stated that should they escape into the orchards they would destroy every tree in Southern California in a year.

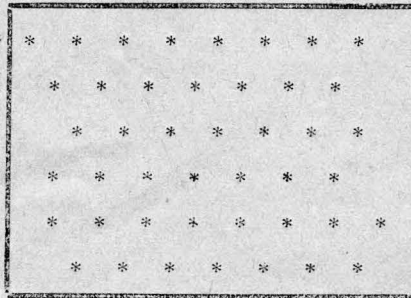

Alexander Crow, quarantine officer of the Board of Horticulture, declares he will not release the trees until there is not a trace of the deadly invaders. He has power to destroy the trees should it be found necessary. The importers, Meserve & Son, are making every effort to have the trees released from quarantine. — S. F. Chronicle.

We have learned from other sources that the trees imported by Meserve & Son are infected with dangerous pests. If true, the flames should render the entire cargo harmless. No risks should be taken. To introduce such injurious pests is to bring untold loss upon the leading industry in this country. We hope the Board of Horticulture will see that not a pest escapes.

A bride in Montreal appeared at the altar with her pet canary fastened to her shoulder by a golden chain. During the marriage ceremony the bird broke into song.

The Forty-Fourth Star.

On the Fourth of July the forty-fourth star will be added to the flag. That will be for Wyoming. It did not get quite ready last year. The order of the war department prescribes that after that date the forty-four stars on the flag shall be disposed in six rows, the upper and lower rows to contain eight stars, and the four intervening rows to contain seven stars each. Here are the terms of the President's latest order as announced to the army: The field or union of the national flag in use in the army will, on and after July 4, 1891, consist of forty-four stars in six rows, the upper and lower rows to have eight stars and the second, third and fourth and fifth rows seven stars each, in a blue field arranged as follows:

A year ago to-day the American ensign had only thirty-eight stars, but as North and South Dakota, Montana and Washington and Idaho had been admitted into the union, flags were made and hoisted on July 4, containing five rows of seven stars, and one row, the top one, of eight stars. Idaho had been admitted into the union on July 3, by the approval of the act by the President, and the additional star was at once put on. The symmetry of the flag will not be changed by adding another star for Wyoming, admitted on July 10, since it will be put on the lower row, so that there will be four rows of seven stars each, and two rows, the upper and lower, of eight stars each.

Should any more states be admitted the stars will be added to the intervening rows. For instance, should New Mexico and Arizona be admitted, one star will be added to the second row, another to the fifth row.

A Nefarious Business.

In his address before the National Editorial Association, Mr. A. Frank Richardson of New York, who probably knows as much about the advertising business as any one else in the United States, created a sensation by his exposure of a remarkable and very extensive system of petty swindling which has grown up in recent years among retail dealers, and more especially among druggists. The owners of the popular patent medicines and standard preparations whose virtues have stood the test of time and experience expend many millions of dollars every year in advertising them. Through the agency of their advertisements in all the leading newspapers of the land, the names and virtues of these preparations have become as familiar as household words with the entire newspaper reading public of the United States and Canada.

Taking advantage of the wide-spread popularity which these articles have thus acquired, the druggist palms off upon the customer who calls for them some cheap and fraudulent substitute labeled in a similar manner, which he falsely represents as having been made or compounded by himself, and as being as good or better than the preparation asked for, when in fact these fraudulent substitutes are not made by himself, though so labeled, but by houses devoted to the manufacture of these worthless counterfeits, and when he knows nothing whatever of the ingredients of which they are composed. Take for example Hood's Sarsaparilla. This is a standard medicine which its proprietor put upon the market only after its merits had been fully demonstrated. By the expenditure of nearly a million dollars a year in advertising, it has become known to nearly every newspaper reading household in America. When the customer asks for it, the druggist tells him that he has not got it, or if he has got it, that he has also got as good or a better Sarsaparilla which he made himself!—the fact being that, though its label resembles that of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and bears the name of the druggist as its manufacturer, it was really made in Detroit by one of these manufacturers of cheap and worthless substitutes, which the druggist can buy for a fraction of the sum which Hood's Sarsaparilla would cost him and of the ingredients of which he knows nothing. And so it is through nearly the whole round of patent medicines and preparations.

At Detroit and elsewhere there are houses whose sole business it is to manufacture worthless mixtures or compounds, which they sell to retail druggists under labels which bear some resemblance to those of such standard preparations as Carter's Little Liver Pills, Scott's Emulsion, Morgan's Sapolio, Wolff's Acme Blacking, St. Jacob's Oil, Dr. Pierce's Discovery, Syrup of Figs, etc, and which the druggist buys for a third of the price he has to pay for the latter. It is these spurious imitations falsely labeled with his own name which the dishonest druggist endeavors to pass off on his unsuspecting customer as quite as good or perhaps a better article than the advertised one called for. He makes a much larger profit upon the cheap and worthless substitutes than upon the genuine article, and hence his interest in trying to palm off this spurious trash upon his customers. But in so doing he descends to the level of a common cheat and swindler. It is a mean and contemptible fraud which druggists and others will no longer be permitted to practice with impunity. For, if we are not mistaken, the entire press of the country will be aroused by Mr. Richardson's timely exposure of these swindling operations to put the public upon their guard against the dishonest dealers who resort to them.

It is not only a fraud on the customers of the merchants, but it is an outrage upon the manufacturers whose liberal advertising has created the demand for the article which the druggist seeks to meet by selling the worthless imitation instead. When they find that instead of realizing the benefits of their own advertising, it is thus dishonestly perverted to the advantage of men who have practically bribed the druggists to swindle the public and rob the honest manufacturers of the legitimate fruits of their investments in printers' ink they will cease to advertise, or greatly curtail the amount of their advertising. Some of them have already done so, and others are likely to follow their example, unless a stop shall be put to this nefarious business. The publishers have thus a direct and important interest in aiding, by every means in their power to put a stop to it, and they can make an end of it very speedily if, by a general concert of action, all the newspapers throughout the country shall unite in exposing these fraudulent practices and holding them and their perpetrators up to the indignation of the honest people.

As we swung down the corridor, Sunday, we spied something on the table of the Secretary, and in spite of our wits, we had to tip our hat and say: "Good afternoon, Miss Pearl;" but, alas, no response. Well, Pearl, you look well anywhere, on paper or on the stage.

Amos Wrightsman has sold his property to Henry Kuns, and will return to Ill. about the 17th inst., where he will take charge of his farm. However, we predict that it will not be long before Am. W. will be back to the land of "Oil and Wine." We shall welcome him back at any time.

THE W C T U of Lordsburg gave an entertainment on last Tuesday evening, at the Gates Hall. They realized about $17.00 from the sale of ice-cream, cakes and lemonade. The occasion was a very enjoyable affair in every way.

The World Enriched. The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Hope for Him. "I don't know that will be able to do much with him," said a father to a principal of a school, to whom he had brought his son as a pupil, "he is so full of mischief."

"Does he tell the truth?" asked the principal. "Can I always depend upon his word?"

"Oh, yes," said the father, "he is honest; he will tell the truth, even when it is against himself; you may depend upon that."

"Then we can manage him," said the principal. "He will make a reliable, manly man."—Christian Leader

The Needs of the College.

Every well-meant and wisely-built educational institution has needs, and to win, those needs must be supplied.

Lordsburg college is no exception to this general rule.

One of the needs is good books magazines and journals. These are indispensable. The thoughts and labors of those who have gone before or are now leading, are necessary.

This school not only feels the need of the best thought in the literary world, but must have them.

Books, therefore, must be procured by cash and by donations. Here the friends of the enterprise have an opportunity to make manifest a great deal of that element—good will or deep-seated affection—the quality which so greatly distinguishes the good from that which is not good.

J. F. Neher has been chosen librarian with full powers to plan and to execute until his work is a crowning success. You can turn in to him all the good and useful books that your great heart may wish, and there will be no danger of disturbing his feelings for the worse. Money, also, will be gratefully accepted for this department of educational work.

We wonder who will be the first to come forward with an unabridged dictionary?

Who will furnish a good plain Bible for chapel use?

Who will lead the way with a first-class encyclopedia?

Write J. F. Neher, Lordsburg, Cal., and say what you are willing to do.

EDUCATIONAL.

NOTE.—To illuminate the mind, is to lay the foundation for sound government and human happiness.

Very High Education.

Senator Stanford has selected David Starr Jordan as President of Stanford University. In a recent lecture on higher education, Professor Jordan gave evidence of his fitness for the position in the numerous sensible utterances on education, a few of which here follows, and shows that he has very high education:

"The world turns aside to let any man pass who knows whither he is going.

"I know a poor man who drives a cow to pasture every day and gets half a dollar a day. One enriches the world about as much as the other. If it were not for that cow the world would not need that man.

"A good many ask me if a college education will pay as a financial investment. I say yes, but you cannot weigh a man by the amount of taxes you place upon him.

"While not one-half of our population have been in college, yet one-half of the great positions of honor are held by college men.

"This is a practical age and we ask what is the value of education. It is the value of education. It is the aim to teach the student that life is worth living; to teach him the love of nature, the love of God. You have but one chance; you should not waste that in inferior education.

"Go to that school in whatever place or State that will serve your purpose best. But greater importance than the place where you are taught is who teaches you. Let the school do for you what it can and let your life afterward be the greatest plea that can be urged for higher education."

LORDSBURG COLLEGE.

PRELIMINARY ANNOUNCEMENT.

Lordsburg College

(FOR THE SEXES.)

Lordsburg, Cal.

DR. S. S. GARST, PRINCIPAL.

INCORPORATION.

The Lordsburg College Association was incorporated under the laws of the State of California March 9, 1891, with a capital stock of $100,000

The financial condition of the institution is excellent, the building and grounds being unencumbered, thus enabling the trustees to secure and maintain an efficient corps of instructors.

The outlook is most propitious. The enquiries by young ladies and gentlemen for information relative to the advantages of the college, are numerous. From the Atlantic to the Pacific there is a deep interest manifested for the success of the enterprise and already an efficient corps of workers are in the field.

COURSE OF INSTRUCTION

The College will sustain the following departments of instruction: Commercial, Normal, Collegiate, Preparatory, Art, Musical, and Biblical, &c.

A good business education is indispensable to the practical business man.

Any student desiring to attend only a few terms is allowed to choose a special course of studies, approved by the Principal or the faculty.

COLLEGIATE DEPARTMENT.

This department offers three courses of study: Classical, Philosophical, and Scientific.

No effort will be spared to make this department equal to that of any other well regulated educational institution.

PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

This will cover a three year's course giving a thorough training to those who expect to take the higher courses.

NORMAL.

This course will be similar to that of the California State Normal. We invite especial attention of teachers to this feature of the institution.

Three year's work are included, besides a Post Graduate course of one year.

Credit will be given to students for work done in other reliable institutions.

COMMERCIAL.

This offers a thorough business training. It requires from six to nine months to complete this course, including Penmanship, Orthography, Grammar, Book-keeping, Commercial Law, Commercial Arithmetic, Business Correspondence, and actual business.

After the theory of Book keeping is well understood, the pupil is admitted to the Business Department where practical practice in banking, retail, commercial, and business correspondence is taught.

BIBLICAL.

A Bible Course, for the systematic study of the Old and the New Testaments, will be open to all classes of students.

ART DEPARTMENT.

In this is offered superior advantages for painting in the various branches.

The instructor of this department is prepared to give lessons in charcoal, crayon, pastel, India ink, drawing and water color.

MODEL TRAINING COURSE.

The Model Training Department admits primary students of all grades

Those preparing to teach, are expected to take training lessons in the model school.

MUSIC.

This department offers special inducements in instrumental music, voice culture, and harmony.

MORAL AND RELIGIOUS.

The college will be under the auspices of the German Baptist Brethren Church, and all students, irrespective of creed, will be admitted, and the best moral and religious influence will be maintained in the interest of all who are identified with the institution.

Location.

The College is located at Lordsburg California, on the Santa Fe Railway, thirty-three miles east of Los Angeles, and distant from the Pacific Ocean about thirty-five miles. It is peculiarly favored for healthfulness, having an altitude above the sea of 1,000 feet, and less than 100 feet from the base of the San Juan mountains. The country is the most fertile in the West, and the climate is the most healthful. The country is the most fertile in the West, and the climate is the most healthful. The country is the most fertile in the West, and the climate is the most healthful.

BUILDING.

The college structure is 178x179 feet three stories in height, and a basement of five rooms under the east wing. There are 131 rooms, and the students' chambers and recitation apartments are spacious. An elevator, twelve bathrooms, lavatories, electric bells, fitted for gas, wide halls, excellent ventilation, an abundance of light, and beautifully arranged grounds with semi-tropic shrubs and flowers, will combine for the comfort and convenience of students.

CALENDAR.

Fall Term (fourteen weeks) begins Wednesday, Sept. 16, 1891; ends Wednesday, Dec. 23, 1891.
