LEOPARDS-GAUCHOS TANGLE

Saturday nite at 8:00 p.m. The La Verne Leopards will play the Gauchos from Santa Barbara State College in the La Verne gym.

This promises to be a close game. The Gauchos have the best basket ball team that they have had in recent years. They are planning on upsetting the Leopards. But they don't count the Leopards out. They have been up against some good teams this year and have handled themselves nicely

EDITORIALS

"L Day", "Snow Day" "Clean-up Day", "Beach Day", are all traditions of La Verne College. The school administration has kindly consented to grant the associated students these four holidays this year. Every college has its particular local holidays. However, La Verne is especially favored with so many vacation days. As recipients of these annual-holidays, we, as Associated Students should appreciate them, and the only way in which we can show our appreciation and our desire to retain these annual holidays is to unanimously participate in the planned activities for these days. A goodly representation carried L.V.C.'s spirit to the "L" last semester and we hope to have twice or three times as many up at Big Pines Snow Day. However, some excusers, both good and bad, are missing out on these events. Let's all have a happy time at the rest of our holidays.

There are three kinds of criticism. One type is destructive and does not attempt to offer positive suggestions. Another type tears down, but offers ideas which will remedy the situation. While there is a third type, which sees nothing wrong with the status quo and has only rosey suggestions to offer. We all have acquaintances of these various types.

As an editorial staff, we wish to have certain principles which we think will not be Criticism of the first type. We believe that it is right and proper for criticism against ideas and the things a person says, but that it is not ethical to . . . continued on p. 3

"sling mud" at the person himself.

Then in the second place we feel that everyone should have the freedom to answer or defend anything which is published about him. But remember, such comment should be on ideas or statements and not against the persons themselves.

Thirdly, editorial material should be something new and interesting. No one appreciates old ideas as much as new ones. This is not saying that old idas are not good ideas, but everyone likes to have new ideas on old subjects.

And then in the last place, we shall ever strive to further the interests of La V rne. This is the greatest service which we can do. We appreciate the interest which the Assoc. Students have taken in their paper. If any of you have any ideas which you believe that the other students should know, or be interested in, feel free to use the "Caustic Comment" column. Perhaps you have a notion on how to improve your paper, or a suggestion for some department of the paper. Let us know about it. We wish to serve the highest interests of the school.

the state, some of whom were very enthusiastic about the sunniness of "Sunny California".

The climax of the Conference, was the New Era Banquet, which was a great success. It was held Monday night, Feb. 10. A liberal amount of the necessary money for the deficit of the college was raised. There were more than 635 people who ate at the banquet, besides some who came to hear the Governor speak.

To start the program of the evening the Cecelian quartette sang two numbers, and then Rube Collison sang, "On the Road to Mandelay", after which dinner was served.

Governor Merriam delivered the speech of the evening which was sprinkled with lively anecdotes. He said, "when I go to the barber shop I get the barber to buy a hunting license." The large portion of his address concerned the raising of tax money and various leakages in the finances of the state government.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Do you remember your very first valentine? Ah, Yes! now you remember, it was from the boy next door. You didn't mind whether it had sticky dancy marks on it, because you were so thrilled at getting your first valentine from a boy. Do you remember the girl in your sixty grade class who always got valentines from all the boys, and how you congratulated her, but under neath your smile were evil thoughts of how you'd like to tear her blond curls out?

Do you remember when the hugest, laciest, and most beautiful valentine came to your desk and how everyone stared, waiting for you to open it, and when you did, it was addressed to someone else?

Do you remember when the boy you adored in the grammar grades sent you a beautiful valentine, and when you examined it, as women will, how you found he had addressed it to some other girl, and had changed his mind at the last moment, and had erased the name and sent it to you?

Do you remember how you vowed then and there to . . . .

grow up and be a man-hater? Do you remember the first "I love you", and how you got it on a valentine, and how flustered you were until you remembered that such valentines are printed by the thousand each year?

Do you remember the first heart box of chocolates you got on Valentine's Day, and how you kept the box and now use it to put special letters in?

Do you remember you woke up this morning and woke up this morning and wondered "will he" or won't he", remember me?

GUESS WHO

Freshman Girl:

She smiles a good deal, that is when you can catch a glimpse of one as she flits down the hall, for she is always flitting hither and yon. But then, that shows purpose in life. Her hair is dark and is combed off her face in the modern mode. Her eyes are blue, and they're always open wide to catch all of life that they can. She talks very fast, butthen, she can say twice as much as anyone else. She is rather small and slight. She's a clever business woman too, for we happen to know she can hold her own over a counter in a Saturday business rush. We all like her for she can make herself agreeable to anyone. The fellows around here haven't much chance for we've seen her at the Artist Course with a stranger. We guess she doesn't like home-grown variety.

JUNIOR BOY:

Ah, he's an answer to a maiden's prayer. He's tall and dark and handsome. All he lacks is a mustachio and sideburns. Brown eyes that can twinkle or can look angry complete the ensemble. He's rather sure of himself, but where would the world be if some one weren't sure of themselves? Sometimes we wonder if he's sincere, but we have found out that he is underneath a certain debonair exterior. He can sing very well, for we sat next to him in chapel one time, and he sand a humn as if he were at a revival meeting. He can be serious whom he chooses, and can lead one....cont. pp. 6

SUPER SNOOPER

Well, lads and lassies, how does it feel to be back at the old grind again? How do you like the way the profs are loading it on? And only the second week of the new semester too. . . . By the way---I hear Frank Elder lost four pounds the last week of the first semester; if the poor kid had studied all semester just think how small he would be now! And again, I have heard our "champion heart breaker" has broken another one over toward Pomona way---Beware Pat Packard!. . .Who was the handsome bashful Romeo that called on Kay Sunday evening? How's about an introduction next time, Kay?--Don't be proud, 'cause we're not!..And too; Miss Nondus Stump we would like to know your boy-friend from U.C.L.A Do you always go out into the park on a bench under a tree?...We took a vote the other day and decided that Stutz and Banny take Jack and Marg's place...And the guy that writes notes to pretty little girls in the library and just signs his initial. He should be specific, shouldn't he? Lucille Leonard

Roy Smith has turned bashful on us--Say, Roy, when you call on a girl at the dorm you should go in and polish the apple with Mrs. Holsinger. That's what I do. ...Poor little Wilma. What would happen to her if Andy did come back to school. Do you think I could help? Andy please stay away from the Park View Hotel..... Robin Swihart has kind of gone gaa-gaa about Jessie Iles--How you do change your mind, Swi. The other day it was Marforie Miller. And Johnson, yes, you Elwood, can't you get a college girl, or do you gave to go to the high school for your "muggin"? Well, that's all, gang; just remember those who throw mud should not wear white clothing! So what?
