NEW COMMISSION DEVELOPS PLANS FOR NEXT YEAR

RECENTLY ELECTED OFFICERS BEGIN WORK EARNESTLY

Larger Enrollment Justifies Changes Favoring Loftier Methods

The new commission is busily engaged in the spirit-lifting task of preparing for next year's student body activities. Much has already been done.

At a recent meeting, editors for student body publications were chosen. Don Miller is to continue as editor-in-chief of the Campus Times. The type of organization and the personnel of the staff is not as yet completely arranged. Ernest Carl is to edit the "Orange Blossom."

A hand book will be printed which will take the place of the Frosh Primers. It is to be more complete and of a more stable nature. Hilda Brubaker, Commissioner of Welfare, has charge of this.

A new form of windshield stickers is in process of development. The design may be the same as that of this year but the difference will be in the type of sticker used.

The budget for finances is being made. It is understood that the Commissioner of Finances will be more closely connected with the financial part of the various student organizations than in the past.

An extra amount of interest which exemplifies a feeling of unusual responsibility is being shown toward plans for the coming year of an enlarged student body.

Y. W. BUFFET SUPPER IS SWELL AFFAIR

Buffet Supper—On Monday evening, May 9, the Y. W. C. A. entertained at a two-course buffet supper, high school Senior and Junior College girls. Each college woman brought a guest with her. Everyone met in the "Y" room first and then went to the Social Hall where get-acquainted games were played. Verda Brubaker gave a welcome speech and Lois Ruth Miller a reading before the supper was served. The menu was as follows:

Rolls and Butter
Meat Pie Tomato Salad
Punch
Lemon Sherbet and Cake

During the meal the girls laughed, chatted and sang songs. A Japanese love song was sung in costume by Erma Saladen, and Lois Ruth Miller gave a pionologue. The Lyric Quartet sang two humorous numbers and the dormitory girls gave a stunt which afforded a lot of fun. Eoline Johnson played a violin solo and was followed by the main feature of the evening—an interesting talk by Mrs. Ray Cullen. She told of the benefits of college life.

Every girl present seemed to have a good time. Different schools which were represented were: Chino, Pomona, Covina, Upland, Pasadena, Hermosa, Burbank, Inglewood, Glendora and Bonita.

It is reported that Lloyd Studebaker made the following statement in one of his practice teaching classes recently: You boys haven't anything to do. The devil always finds work for idle hands. Come up here and I shall assign you some work.

The grave of Howard Hoff is soon to be marked with a monument which will speak of the respect and love that a community of friends held for one who always reciprocated friendliness to the utmost degree. The monument will be placed Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in the Evergreen Cemetery.

The entire Pacific coast contains a multitude of people who became acquainted with him through his trips as a member of the Clarion Four. His death in Rogue River, Oregon, last July, brought into expression the sympathy of young and old which is demonstrated in this tribute to "Howdy."

A like monument will be erected in honor of Stephen Maxey at Grant's Pass, Oregon, who heroically gave his life in an effort to save Howard.

The memorial committee composed of G. H. Herr, Rev. Edgar Rothrock, E. R. Blickenstaff, Dr. C. E. Arnett, and Mrs. J. L. Miller, have ordered the monument.

STITT WILSON IS GREATLY ENJOYED

J. Stitt Wilson "of the world" spoke in chapel Wednesday, May 11.

The main theme running through both addresses was "The need of depth in education and in character." The subject in the morning was "The Failure of Modern Education," in which he said that the combination of information, learnings, knowledges, and skills, was called by most people "education"; but a person is not really educated unless he seeks for the ends, purposes, meanings, and values of life. These last words appear in the great literature that has lately been published, Mr. Wilson stated. These things will give depth to the life of an individual.

In the evening his subject was "The Technique of Creative Personality." In the first place he said technique means a thing to be done. "The early apostles could do great work because they really practiced the religious technique," Mr. Wilson said.

Following this he gave as four of the seven great elements in the spiritual technique of the world: (1) Physico-chemical preparation; taking care of our bodies. "Only one out of a thousand people really knows how to eat," was one of his remarks. (2) Divine election; the power of choice that every human being has. (3) Aspiration, meditation and prayer. "Jesus was a master of spiritual technique when he told people to go alone to their closets to meditate and pray," Stitt Wilson said. (4) A denial of self is necessary for depth of character.

In the Eisteddfod finals held at the Artland Club in Los Angeles, Zaphon Hartman took second place in the interpretive readings department. He read "Hearts to Mend," by Harry A. Overstreet.

There were six contestants in the adult department, besides eight high school readings and the oratorical contest finals.

All winners and judges in the finals are to be entertained at a banquet in Los Angeles on May 27. Zaphon is already anticipating this event. LaVerne appreciates the efforts of students who enter contests and win honors.

NEW Y. M. C. A. CABINET INSTALLED

DR. FRANTZ HAS CHARGE OF INSTALLATION SERVICES

Chester Shirk, new President, to Head New Cabinet for Coming Year

On Monday morning, May 9, the Y. M. C. A. cabinet for the school year of 1927-28 was duly installed into office. Dr. Harper Frantz had charge of the meeting. After eulogizing the work of the old cabinet for the past year, Dr. Frantz told of the opportunities of service by which the Y. M. C. A. might benefit.

Dr. Frantz told of the improvement of the Y. M. C. A. work and activities during the past few years. He commented upon the closer association that the "Y" brought out between the men of the student body and the faculty.

After due ceremonies of installation the new president, Chester Shirk, took charge of the meeting. The rest of the newly elected cabinet are Glen Vaniman, 1st vice-president; Ernie Carl, 2nd vice-president; Wayne Bohn, secretary, and Milton Brownberger, treasurer.

The retiring cabinet consists of Dale Glick, Pres., Marion Boots, 1st vice-president; Merle Butterbaugh, 2nd vice-president; Ivan Betts, secretary, and Chester Shirk, treasurer.

CHapel Lecture IS ON ARGENTINE

The chapel address Thursday, May 12, was full of interest and information for students. Mr. Clarence Sickle, who has been a missionary in Argentina six and a half years, gave a survey of the work being done and the obstacles to be met.

"In general, the North Americans are ignorant concerning their South American neighbors," Mr. Sickle said, and during the course of his talk he endeavored to acquaint the students with South American life.

"There is a cosmopolitan class of people in Argentina. They are from every country of the world," Mr. Sickle continued.

Argentina was granted her independence in the year 1810. America's independence came just a little earlier—in 1776. Why is it, then, that the United States is so much farther advanced than the Argentine? Mr. Sickle gives as the reason: "The United States has always had the Open Book and the Argentine has not." She has been ruled by Catholicism. The duty of missionaries in Argentina, then, is to teach the Latin peoples the Gospel and try to help them gain stability of character.

Students are urged to prepare for the pre-registration Wednesday, May 18th. For efficiency's sake everyone should decide what subjects he wishes to take next year. Courses should be as fully planned as possible so the schedule can be prepared without unnecessary confusion.

Lloyd Emmert, editor and his staff of weary, weakened, but warbling workers modestly promise a great year book. In fact, it is to be "even better than last year's," which won honors in the national "annual contest."

Pictures of student life are to be unusually plenteous. The innate tendency of mankind to respect above others his own likeness is not entirely lacking at LaVerne. The books ought to go as fast as each individual therein photographed would like a glance at the camera's deed.

They are selling at $2.75, retail value. Those who have reserved one and have previously expressed their determination to have one by a 50c installment, may secure same by a final payment of $2.00, saving two-bits.

They're hot off the press! Come and get them!

JUNIORS ROYALLY ENTERTAIN SENIORS

The new Ontario Hotel was the exquisite setting for a banquet last Tuesday evening, May 10, at 7 p. m. in a private dining room, decorated in gold and white—the senior class colors.

The theme of the evening was a unique one. The idea of the senior ship being launched by the juniors from the shore of training into the Sea of Life was carried throughout.

A delicious five-course dinner was served, after which the tables were removed and the room arranged as an auditorium, to offer a place in which to give the program.

Mrs. C. E. Arnett acted as toast-mistress, disguised as the captain of the ship, and many were the jokes and witticisms which she directed at the fortunate or unfortunate speakers.

The program was as follows:

Godspeed—Spokesman—Nellie Frantz.

Banquet.

First Shove—Wharf Foreman—Marion Boots.

Response—First Mate of Senior Ship—Lloyd Studebaker.

Music from Shore—Crew's yodeler—Wayne Bohn.

Diving for Pennies—Crew's jester—Lois R. Miller.

Instruction for Journey—Pilot of Senior Ship—Ellis M. Studebaker.

Chimes—Longshore Men—Mildred Seymour, Russell Frantz and Ralph Schrock.

The affair was carried out to perfection in every detail. The Seniors join in saying that the Juniors are the "perfect entertainers."

Students, attention! A prize of $150 is offered by Albert and Charles Boni, New York publishers, for an essay on "Springboard," a novel of modern college life in America. The essay can be either a confirmation or denial of the statement made by the New York Times that "Springboard is the best college novel yet written by an American."

The essay must not exceed 3000 words and must be submitted to the publishers before July 1, 1927.

For further details read the announcement on the bulletin board.

APPLICATIONS FOR ENROLLMENT TO EXCEED LIMIT

CLASS OF STUDENTS TO BE OF HIGHER ACADEMIC STANDING

Increased Applications for Enrollment Necessitates Selection by Merits

There leaks out from the doors of the administrative offices bits of information which hints in very perceivable tones that the prospects for a bigger, higher standard enrollment next year are very good.

It is the firm intent of the administration that the college shall never admit more students than can be taken care of in an adequate manner. This limit is now set at the two hundred mark. It looks very much as though the applications for enrollment next fall will have to be separated into those who may and those who may not.

The standard for entrance will be rigidly enforced. The required fifteen units of academic work, twelve of which must be of recommended grade, will be demanded unless an applicant has other outstanding qualities and can be recommended by the principal. In such a case, extra work will be inflicted or an examination given. This will afford a method of meeting the constant exceptions to the rule that grades make the student.

S. C. educational department, as was done this semester, LaVerne will hereafter be qualified to offer elementary teaching credentials to her graduates. This is one of the biggest steps toward standardizing the college that has been taken. It creates added attractions toward LaVerne, all of which elevates the general opinion of the college.

MAY MASQUE IS LOVELY PROGRAM

The most unique and attractive May Masque ever given at LaVerne College, was presented May 14, at 7:30 p. m., by the Y. W. C. A.

The woodsy setting was especially pretty and appropriate for the portrayal of a springtime story. The broad steps of Miller Hall, decorated with greenery and flowers, and graced with a rose-covered throne, formed a lovely stage for the dainty queen and her fairy attendants. The lighting effects were splendid and together with the music and colorful costumes, lent an air of enchantment to the whole scene.

The program consisted of a spring story, worked out in drills, and presented in two acts. The first had to do with the coming of Spring to the Woodland. The awakening of the Earth Sprites was accomplished by Zephyr, the Queen's messenger, played by Erma Saladen. When all was made ready, the lovely Queen of the May, acted by Lola Hartman, came to the throne and was crowned amid singing and gay revelry, after which she commanded Zephyr to go forth and bid the whole wide world recognize Spring as queen.

In the second act, the two little city children, who alone of all the world, knew nothing of the beauty of Spring, wandered into the woods and discovered that they were lost. Finally they were lulled to sleep by the song of the grey-clad, soft-voiced Sandman and his drifting sand. The children were impersonated by Verda Brubaker and Naomi Metzger, and

A Something Not Forgotten

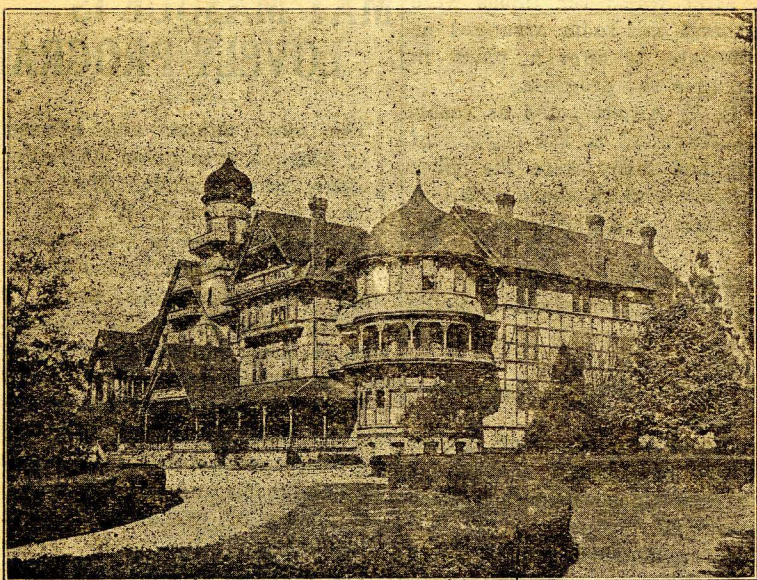

As the school year is closing we look back to see what has been accomplished during the year. Out of many important events there is one great occurrence predominating in the hearts of all. This is the going of the Old Building and the coming of Founders Hall.

Of course, we rejoice at this change for we see that it is a desirable step forward but yet many of us cannot help a deep feeling of sadness at the going of that old building. No doubt, many people do not understand the reason for this condition in our hearts.

For years LaVerne College has been associated with this old, creaky, dirty building. Many traditions sprang up concerning it. Numerous tales of both woe and laughter have been inherited from it. LaVerne's very spirit was born in it. And as long as that noble spirit remains with us we will hark back to days when we could see it standing, mighty, majestic, grand. Dirty it was on the outside—but its spirit, its soul, was clean.

—DON C. MILLER.

"There Was Strength In Thee"

Broad and mighty, grand and picturesque, your old domes and spires, rising above the town nearly to the twinkling stars, awoke many a dream of fancy in the hearts of young collegians. Also many times cruel words were hurled at you because you were not an ideal college building. You were not serving your purpose—oh mighty one.

Men made you for a hotel, unsurpassed. And such a one you would have been but men built you on dreams, false as the winds, coming now from the east and now from the west and now from where one can wist not. Dreams built you for one thing and dreams used you for another.

Old building, though you served not your purpose, you did your best. You helped a seemingly impossible dream come true by serving for a college.

No, you were not a college, but you were a stepping-stone towards one. You were the birthplace to greater things. You were building history.

God knows that unlike many men who get in the wrong place in life, you did your best. You did not kick nor balk. You kept on sheltering a school of learning though you creaked and groaned in your agony.

And now, those whom you have preserved have killed you. Now you have gone to a loved reward. No longer are you standing majestically. Your spires and steeples pierce the sky no more. Your halls no longer echo with laughter—for they are gone. You are gone.

Oh loved one of LaVerne, we appreciate your sacrifice. We love you for it; love you because, though you are gone, your spirit of sacrifice still lingers with us, reminding us of tasks which are waiting, needs which are calling, and lives which must be given.

Clarion Four "At Large" Again

Urbain Hartman, Russell Frantz, Harvey Brubaker, Wayne Bohn

Since their reorganization last fall the Clarion Four have been content to confine themselves to intense practice and to limit their engagements considerably. The last month, they have reached out just a bit and their programs have included some quite noticeable affairs. They have met with such success that they feel confident to continue their work as it was when so untimely stopped by the death of one of their number, Howard Hoff, last July.

They will tour the Pacific coast states again this summer. Immediately after school is out, they will go to the Seabeck Conference in Washington and repeat their engagements of last year.

For the purpose of their travels, they are having new posters made and new pictures taken, one of which is that above.

Mile of Pennies—The mile of pennies contest is still progressing. At the present time Group II is in the lead with seventeen feet of pennies which amounts to $2.72. The total amount is forty-six feet and three inches, or $7.39. The purpose of this contest is to raise money to help send a delegate to Asilomar Conference this summer.

Sunday evening the Women's Glee Club gave a program at the LaVerne Church of the Brethren. Professor Haugh was unable to be present, but Mary Messamer proved to be a very adequate director.

Professor Sarafian, head of the modern languages department of LaVerne College, has been attending the U. S. C. in the evenings. He is taking a Seminar course in Philosophy and History of Education under Dean Rogers.

The class is composed of nineteen students, all taking post-graduate work. Four of them are professors at the University of Southern California, one is the head of the educational department at Occidental College, and the others are principals or teachers in high schools. Professor Sarafian finds this course very interesting and instructive.

STUDENT LIFE

SENIORS DITCH TO JENKS LAKE

Saturday morning, May 7, to the surprise and consternation of all the poor (left-behind) Juniors, Sophs and Frosh, the Seniors left the call of work far behind them and betook themselves plus eats, far away to that haven from care and work—Jenk's Lake.

Great was the delight of the Seniors when the threatening rain clouds sent down clouds of snow-white flakes and covered the mountains ready for the sledding and snow fights which any Californian loves to participate in.

In spite of the fact that some one forgot the meat, there were plenty of eats to keep soul and body together till Monday evening when a tired but happy group returned to civilization.

One of the main features of the stay was a movie taken by President Studebaker of a snow fight staged near the camp on Sunday morning. To end it all he was the victim of a good face-washing from the women of the party.

The weather varied from snow to sunshiny spring days so a great many pleasures could be enjoyed. Among them were fishing, hiking, horse-shoeing and coasting.

Those in the party were Florence Landis, Velma Noll, Ramah Maust, Elva Shirk, Mary Messamer, Nellie Hylton, Mrs. Lola Hartman, Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Throne, Mr. and Mrs. Studebaker, Dale Glick, Harvey Emley, Otis Brooks, Claude Bowman, Lloyd Studebaker, Gerald Miller, Lloyd Emmert, Wilbur Hoke, Harvey Brubaker and Paul Blocher. The party returned Monday afternoon enthusiastic over the eats, good time and a dandy bunch.

DORM NEWS

Grace Eisenbise, Dot Temple, Lloyd Emmert and Norval Caywood had a wonderful time at Jenk's Lake on Sunday.

Louise Huff and Harriet Hoke celebrated the hot weather at Norwalk Beach on Sunday. Much sunburn was brought home for a memory.

Gladys Reppert, as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daws spent Sunday at Glendale, Calif.

Happy birthday surprise! The party was for two of the dorm girls. After ten-thirty when all were supposed to have been in bed, the girls with the matron and cook rushed into room six, armed with hair brushes. Grace Eisenbise and Mary Platt seemed to have chosen May 14 as their birthday.

Miss Muir spent the week-end in Hollywood visiting friends.

Mrs. Flickinger had as a guest Mrs. Fike of Los Angeles.

LaVerne will be well represented at Asilomar this summer. Lois Ruth Miller is going as a stuck-up and will stay all summer. Miriam Shirk is going to take her car and drive up. Olive Shirk, Lois Martha Miller, Hilda Brubaker, Erma Saladen and Marguerite Dickey are planning to accompany her. They will attend the Conference which lasts two weeks.

ALUMNI NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Galen Root visited the home of Mrs. Root in LaVerne last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Byrl Harper entertained at dinner Sunday at their home in Chino, Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar, and Mrs. Harper and Chase.

PERSONALS

Gladys Larimer entertained Sunday evening at an informal party the following college and alumni students: Stanley Weddle, Lorell Weiss, Mary Messamer, Ruth Emley, Vera Hoover and Reatha Rensberger.

Nellie Hylton and Leta Ramsey spent Saturday and Sunday visiting friends in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Velma Noll spent the week-end visiting around Lindsay and Strathmore.

Wednesday evening, May 18, at 7:30 o'clock Miss Lois Martha Miller will present four students in a piano recital, namely, Ruth Miller, Kathryn Blickenstaff, Gladys Ikenberry and Verda Brubaker. Added attractions on the program are readings by Lois Ruth Miller, a song by Vera Lira, sung in Spanish costume, and several numbers by the boys' Harmonica Band from LaVerne Heights.

BASE-BALL SEASON CLOSES

Taps sounded for the 1927 conference baseball season when LaVerne won from San Diego as the Oxy-LaVerne game which was scheduled for last week was called off.

During the past season LaVerne has not had much success in breaking into the win column. The first three games played with U. C. L. A., Caltech, and Whittier, were dropped by large scores. The next game staged with Redlands was dropped by a 15-3 score. The Pomona game was dropped by a 9-2 score. This game looked as though the score was going to be close, as up to the sixth inning the score was 4-2 with the Sagehens on top. The Leopard team blew up in the sixth and the Pomona pastimers made five runs in the remainder of the game. Then came the big game of the season with San Diego Aztecs. This time the Leopards broke into the win column by slugging their way to an 8-6 victory.

The prospects for next year look excellent as all but one of the letter men are returning. The trouble during the past season has been the lack of an experienced pitcher. The several mound aspirants have had some valuable experience this year and this should bolster the baseball squad considerably for the 1928 season.

LEOPARDS PLAY FAIR BALL BUT OUTCLASSED BY RIVALS

Lack of Pitchers Breaks Team's Morale in Early Season

Ending their baseball season with a flashy comeback over San Diego the LaVerne Leopards completed the season much better than they began it.

The Leopards faced a big obstacle in early season games—the lack of a dependable pitcher. In every conference contest this weakness was often felt. Coach Arnett never had an experienced hurler on the squad. All that remained was for him to train a new pitcher to take the place of the mighty men of the mound who have held LaVerne at a high position on the diamond for the last half dozen years.

With Coach Glick's timely assistance Arnett was able to develop three quite dependable moundsmen. Of course, they weren't comparable to Kreps, or "Hop" Welch or "Howdy" Hoff, but Boots, Frantz, and Otis Brooks made a good showing at the end of the season, considering their inexperience at the first workout of the year.

In the Pomona and San Diego games Boots pitched good ball and when they faced the Aztecs the Leopards were truly a re-vamped ball squad. After the first game or two LaVerne's fast infield had cracked. Their morale was broken by weak pitching against hard-hitting batters.

However, the Aztec game saw a new team on the field. Boots' commendable pitching against the Sagehen Varsity seemed to awaken the hopes of the Leopard nine. With driving power at the bat and sureness on the field, the Leopards closed their ball season with a splendid comeback which pulled them out of what seemed to be a leased cellar position.

MAY MASQUE

the Sandman by Lois Martha Miller. The children were pursued in their dreams by the thought of the factory where they had toiled all day, in the form of Night Terrors. When the night had passed, Dawn came in all the grace and beauty of the spring. Two little white rabbits hopped spryly about the sleeping children and presently the flowers awakened and day had come. The children roused from their slumbers and were welcomed by the May Queen and introduced to the joys of spring. They joined in the frolic about the Maypole and the final farewell chorus.

The whole program was indeed pleasing and artistic. It has been declared the most successful one ever put on at LaVerne College.

Rose Landis was general chairman of the May Day committee and Mrs. Dorothy Merritt, head of the English department, directed the entire program with the assistance of several girls who helped coach the various drills. The pianists were, June Hershey and Lois Martha Miller. Olive Throne had charge of the decorations. Others who deserve credit for willing services are Blanche Maust, Doris Welch, Miriam Shirk, Florence Long, Ruth Stoner and Verna Shirk. The college men also co-operated in a fine way make the program a success.
